

FAHL WILL GIVE TESTS ON FRIDAY

Fourteen Men to Take Life Saving Examinations

GRADE OF 80 REQUIRED

Positions as Guards Open at Camps and Beaches

At 4 o'clock Friday afternoon the first half of the American Red Cross life-saving tests will be given in the tank at the men's gymnasium by Rudolph Fahl, local examiner. The second half of the test will be given Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Fourteen students have signed up to take the test and several others have been practicing, so Mr. Fahl expects to have a large number entered for the test. A grade of 80 must be made to pass and if a grade of 95 is made, the student becomes an examiner.

Mr. Fahl says requests are coming in for students to take charge of boys' camps and also for work on the beaches and good swimmers are wanted. The students who take the test also receive valuable training in life-saving, declared the examiner.

Test Events Listed

The life-saving test consists of the following events:

In deep water, disrobe from shoes, pants, coat, then swim 100 yards; surface dive, recovering objects, three times, and 10-pound weight once; approaches, front, back, and under-water, each with the proper turn and carry; 60-foot carries, each preceded by swim of 60 feet, head carry, cross-chest carry, arm-lock or hair carry, and tired swimmers; releasing from holds, which include front strangle, back strangle, double grip on one grip, and two people locked in front strangle; demonstrate prone-pressure resuscitation for one and one-half minutes; essay prone pressure resuscitation; float motionless one minute; tread water 30 seconds; one minute carry, subject fully dressed; fireman's or saddle-back carry from shallow water; lift from tank unassisted, and oral quiz on life-saving, five questions.

Old Clothes Required

Those who have signed up to take the test are: R. Bartlett, C. Kenyon, A. Sinclair, C. Jost, B. Alderman, J. Gastrock, L. Palmer, C. Kilgore, R. Gilbert, L. Stone, E. Calif, L. Maulding, H. Samuels, and R. Jagger.

The students, who are going to take the test, are expected to bring old clothes, to be used in one event. Lloyd Webster will assist Mr. Fahl in conducting the examination.

NEXT THURSDAY IS DAY OF CLASS PICNICS

Sophomores and Freshmen to Play May 29

With two class picnics definitely scheduled for the afternoon and evening of Thursday, May 29, the day will see a general exodus of sophomores and freshmen from the campus during the afternoon.

Plans for the sophomore picnic are almost complete with the chartering of a special train to carry the merry-makers to Coburg bridge, where there will be all the games, swimming, chatter and dancing that go with a successful picnic. The train will leave the Southern Pacific station at 3:30, returning late in the evening.

Five large trucks will be utilized to transport the yearlings to their picnic at Seavey's ferry. The trucks will leave the campus at about 4 p. m. The return will be made around 11, after the freshmen have had their fill of entertainment and food.

Committees have been announced for the freshman picnic by James Forestel, general chairman. Earle Chiles is to have charge of the grounds; Russell Lawrence, transportation; Carenela Hadley, entertainment; Peggy Spencer, patrons and patronesses; Esther Setters, Frances Morgan, and Tom Mahoney, refreshments.

GEOLOGISTS WILL AID SOCIOLOGISTS IN WORK

Departments to Get Data for Mapping Out Phases of Community Growth

The geology and sociology departments have combined their efforts to map the different phases of community development and provide a geographical and sociological history of the state. This comes as a result of the individual efforts of Dean F. G. Young and Dr. Warren D. Smith to map the communities from the two distinct angles.

The data which has been collected by the two departments up to date is to be published in serial form in the Commonwealth Review and will continue in that magazine over a period of two years, or until all the papers have been in print. Dr. Smith and Dean Young were considering a proposition to have the information put out in book form, but the undertaking required too much capital and the idea was abandoned for the present method of publicity. In the Commonwealth Review the papers will be printed chapter by chapter, receiving criticism from other authorities and changes can be made in the data accordingly.

Dean F. G. Young began work on the community responses to the questionnaires sent out to teachers in all sections of the state. The answers to the questionnaires explain in detail just what progress the communities have made and along what particular lines they tend to grow in regard to educational institutions and public organizations. This will be placed on file in a department to be created which will be called a civic laboratory, and when the project has advanced far enough, individual filing systems will be installed in each community, where they can see themselves whether or not they are making progress.

The idea of Dr. Warren D. Smith is to collect all the data relating to the geologic structure of the districts, the climatic conditions, and kinds of soil, and to point out, as a supplement to the scheme, why people were attracted to the particular areas. This information project will cover the entire state, and will present complete knowledge to serve as a basis for all future undertakings which have any relation to geology whatever.

In connection with this plan, Dr. Smith has spent over 10 years in research and during that time has visited every corner of the state to obtain as direct and accurate data as possible. He has, also, all the information of the geology department at his control, and others of the department are to contribute papers upon the subject.

Multnomah county has become interested in work of the same kind and recently $300,000 was appropriated for community development throughout the state, which will ultimately be of benefit to Portland itself through the stimulation of the surrounding communities. This will in no way conflict with the University project, however, and is an undertaking sponsored entirely by the people of Multnomah county.

"Europe is far ahead of this country in the community mapping project," Dr. Smith said. "Several other states in the union have also compiled information such as we are endeavoring to do, and this will place us on a plane with them."

SENIOR BREAKFAST IS MORNING OF MAY 24

Junior Women to Call for Guests Saturday

Dates are rapidly being made for the senior breakfast at the Woman's building, Saturday morning, May 24, at 8:30 o'clock. The junior women are supposed to call up the senior women allotted to them, and make all arrangements to escort them to the affair.

The lists of names have been distributed to each of the houses, the library and the Co-op. There is a girl in each house to take care of the tickets and the reports.

Any senior whose name is omitted should be reported at the bungalow of the Y. W. C. A. Any junior woman who is not able to take the girl allotted to her should also report there.

Neva Service, who is chairman of the affair, promises a new and interesting feature, and urges the girls to turn out in full force.

WORK ALMOST FINISHED ON NEW BOOK ELEVATOR

The new elevator or book lift is rapidly being installed in the library, and carpenters, electricians, and mechanics are all engaged in putting it in place. It is planned that the new book lift will be in running order by the last of the week. This addition which has been planned for several years is to be a time-saver and a great convenience in carrying books from floor to floor. The book lift is large enough to hold one truck load of books and has a capacity of 375 pounds.

MUSIC SCHOOL OFFERS VIOLIN SCHOLARSHIP

All Grade School Pupils Eligible to Try

The pupil in the public schools of Eugene making the best showing in the finals of a competition on the violin will be given a free scholarship in the school of music of the University and a $5 prize donated by Rex Underwood, of the University of Oregon school of music faculty. The final round of this competition will be held Saturday, May 31, when pupils from all of the grade schools of the city will meet for the final examination. Each school will have one representative.

At the beginning of the present year the school of music started a new plan of giving violin instruction to the children of the grade schools in Eugene. About 100 are now enrolled for this instruction and are taking lessons from the advanced music students in the University.

All pupils who are taking this instruction are eligible to compete for the prize and scholarship. A series of elimination trials will be held in the schools to determine the pupils who will enter the final competition Saturday. In the test, same exercises and the teachers will act as judges in selecting the winner of the award.

MILITARY EXHIBITION AT O. A. C. MAY 24

Complimentary Tickets for Oregon Students

The eleventh annual military tournament to be staged by the O. A. C. corps of cadets will be held this year May 24, at Bell field stadium, Corvallis. This event has increased in importance each year. Originally only one infantry unit took part in this event, but now five combat and major arms of the military service appear in the show.

The big tournament is divided into four main parts, and those in charge predict that there will be something doing every second. At 2:30 p. m. it is to be started off by a polo game, and at 7:00 p. m. will come the Military Circus, consisting of military drills, competitions, exhibitions, rough riding, cavalry races, wall scaling, and artillery firing. Following this, the night operations and sham battle will take place, after which there is to be a pyrotechnics and fireworks exhibition.

Considering that O. A. C.'s military department has equipment equal to that of any R. O. T. C. department, the magnitude of the tournament can be estimated. Those Oregon students interested in attending the tournament may secure complimentary tickets a few days prior to the occasion.

TEACHING POSITIONS OPEN IN PSYCHOLOGY

Dr. Edmund S. Conklin, head of the psychology department, recently completed a survey of opportunities open for teaching fellowships and positions as part time instructors in colleges and universities throughout the country.

"I find that there are a number of opportunities," Dr. Conklin said, "in the field of psychology for teaching fellowships and part-time instructor positions, but the students seem to know so little about them." He told of the various letters that he had received from different colleges, among which were John Hopkins, Ohio, California, Kansas, and Iowa universities asking for some one to fill the vacancies. The salaries range from $500 a year for part time work to $1,200 a year for research work. These available positions enable a student to do graduate work in psychology and at the same time earn his way.
