Y. M. C. A. WORK BEGINS AT ONCE

Employment Bureau Fills Numerous Positions
CHURCH NIGHT IS FRIDAY
Bible Class to be Started For Men and Women

The University Y. M. C. A. has been one of the busiest places on the campus since September 1 when the work of filing rooms and jobs began. Since then over 100 rooms which were to be placed on the waiting lists have been personally visited by Mrs. C. R. Donnelly, who has charge of the employment and housing department of the Y. Many applications for positions were also received and filed, and as many as possible were given jobs.
Davis Leads Social Work
This employment and housing service will continue throughout the year and will be of assistance to students, especially the freshmen.

Another side of the Y which will be of interest is the social and educational work which is carried on by the Y. M. C. A. cabinet under the leadership of Rev. H. W. Davis, head of the United Christian Work, and secretary of the Y. The Eugene churches will cooperate in this work as they have done in the past. The first event on the Y. M. C. A. social calendar was the freshmen get-together party given at the hut last Tuesday by the young people's societies of the Eugene churches. This party was well attended, over 300 taking part. The next social event will be the annual Church night given by the many Eugene churches at their respective buildings. Church night will be held next Friday, October 3, and a large turnout is expected.

Lectures Will be Given
Another feature which proved very popular last year was the series of lectures given by well-known speakers at various times during the year. The Y. M. C. A. cabinet, which met several times last week with Rev. Davis, has decided to continue this work.

this year. Plans for these lectures will be more fully worked out when Willard Marshall, president of the Y, returns from New York where he has attended the National Student Council as representative from the northwest.

A Bible class for men and women who have no special church preference will be started by Rev. Davis at the hut as soon as the University classes in the downtown churches have begun. This class will be non-sectarian and will be open to all.

STUDENTS OF RADIO CLASS GET NEW LAB EQUIPMENT
Dr. W. P. Boynton's electrical course for graduate students intending to make radio their life work, will soon begin testing the characteristic curves of the waves in eight radio tubes that the department

Don't Dampen the Fire

Through cooperation and coordination are results attained. "In union there is strength."
When a student attempts to buy the prescribed textbooks there becomes apparent a lack of this "working together" idea between some members of the faculty and the cooperative store.
In several courses apparently, there has been no provision made to have any of the required books in stock, while in a number of others there is an inadequate supply.
This inability to procure required texts is disheartening to earnest members of the student body. It is discouraging to dawdle along for a week or so with the knowledge that assignments are piling up which must be cleared. Library copies are on reference, it is true, but with classes of twenty-five or more members, too much of a student's all too scant time is consumed in waiting until a copy is available.
This is not the fault of the University Co-op. Oregon is geographically so situated that it is impossible to obtain books on short notice. At best it takes more than a week to receive an order from the publishing center, New York.
The remedy would seem to be more care by the faculty in estimating in advance the book demand for the various courses.
To have a text on the first day, when the flame of determination is burning bright would do much toward fanning interest still higher and would help the student step off "with the right foot."

The editor has a sum of money which he will give to the person who can identify it satisfactorily. This money was found on the campus near Villard hall and was brought to the office for return to the owner. And yet pessimists lament human nature is individualistic and selfish.

Over in the University print shop is a column heading with the name "Communications" which was set aside last spring at the close of school. It has gathered upon its once clean, yet smudgy, face a layer of summer dust. That dust should be brushed off.

An entering freshman class generally is a great deal wiser than anyone gives them credit for. Which inspires the remark that sophomore ingenuity will necessarily be at its highest today.

"Aviation courses advocated," says a headline. Flying for credit may be a new experience for some people but some of these N. S. F. writers are pursuing credit most of the time, and that is discreditable.

Each frosh might wisely make himself personally responsible for his presence at the library steps today at 3:30 o'clock.

How about writing that Homecoming slogan? The contest is still open.

Say, "Hello."

DELTA OMEGA LEADS IN HOUSE RATINGS

Beacons of the sky

Between Cleveland and Rock Springs, Wyo., along the night route of the air mail service, tall beacons have been placed every twenty-five miles.

Revolving on great steel towers, General Electric searchlights, totaling 1,992,000,000 candle-power, blaze a path of light for the airplane pilot.

What the lighthouse is to the ocean navigator, these beacons are to the conquerors of the air.

This achievement has been made possible by engineers of the Illuminating Engineering Laboratories of the General Electric Company, working with officials of the Post Office Department. A startling achievement now will be a commonplace of life in the new America which you will inherit.
