

DISTANCE TEAM WORKING HARD

Men Train With Regularity To Get Into Condition

IDAHO CREW IS STRONG

Gaps in O.A.C. Squad Filled From Rook Runners

Bill Hayward's cross country team has been running the course for the last few days. Most any afternoon one can see the whole troupe of hill and dale men trailing around the base of Judkin's Point out south of Hayward field like a pack of hounds. Then they tear it up around Hayward field for the finish. The quarter mile track is becoming almost as populous as the gridiron. Not that many more men are out but the same old crew is doing its stuff more regularly and harder. It takes a lot of intensive training to get into condition to run three and a half miles—so the men have to train ceaselessly.

Idaho Team Strong
It looks like the Idaho team will again take home the bacon according to all reports from Moscow. They have six veterans out and several good men from the fresh team. These six men are the same ones who loped away with the conference meet last year before the big Oregon-O. A. C. game.

Williams, the little red headed individual winner of the race last year, didn't look like he would place very high when the run started but along near the finish when they came in to circle Hayward field he was at the lead and running as smoothly and as freshly as if he had only run a mile. He will be the backbone of the Idaho team. Since he won the Pacific Coast conference two miles on Hayward field last June he has not lost his form. Others on the Idaho team will be Hillman, Penwell, Crowe, Zowder and Bjork.

O. A. C. Has Veterans
O. A. C. loses three of her distance men but they were not the worst three by any means. The gaps left by them in the team will be filled from the Rook squad for distance running is a thing the Aggies have to be proud of. Mason and possibly Butts will be back this year to bolster up the hopes of the Aggies. They lost Graves, Walker and Bartholomew. In the conference meet last year O. A. C. placed second behind the strong Idaho team. However, they were able to bunch their scores so that they came mighty close to winning.

No definite date for the conference meet has been set. It will probably come about the middle of November.
Tetz, Keating, Barnes, Conley, Jeffries, Swank, Gurnea and Carlson are the ones whom Hayward depends on to bear the biggest part of the running this fall. The team will be selected from among these men. Not much competition is present, but with a letter for each man on the team if they win a conference race there will be lots of fighting to get on the team and to win the race. No more men have signed up in spite of Hayward's repeated calls for more men. The squad isn't any bigger and as Bill says, "I hope it don't get any smaller."

OREGON SHAPING FOR GAME WITH CARDINALS

will be strengthened probably by several additional players. Among the men making up the squad will be: Jones, Anderson, Terjesen, Vitus, and Mimaugh as backs. The linemen will be: Reed, Mautz, Bailey, Shields, Wilson, Gooding, Johnson, Kerns, Kjelland, Stockwell, and Bliss.
A somewhat new line-up will be used against Stanford. Reed will be shifted to end with Mautz at the other extremity. Gooding and Kerns will hold down the positions at tackle. Bailey and Shields will be at guard with either Wilson or Johnson at center. The Jones, Anderson, Vitus and Terjesen combination will hold forth in the backfield. This line-up is merely tentative and may be shifted around considerably before the big game.

Reserves Will be Used
In playing against such a heavy team as Stanford, it will probably be necessary to shoot in quite a string of reserves to stem the onrush of the Cardinal eleven.
This game will be very interesting to the majority of college coaches along the coast as not only the strength of Oregon but also the power of the Stanford eleven will be brought out. Whether Stanford will be able to lay claim to the coast title will depend largely on their showing against Oregon.

MRS. ERNST REVIEWS TOUR THROUGH EUROPE

Theatres and Music of France, Rome and Italy Chief Objects of Study

Medieval Italian towns where women seated in doorways knit beautiful laces and where men beat out brass work, hardly stopping to look at the tourist, are a few of the remembrances Mrs. Rudolf H. Ernst, of the English faculty, brings with her from a recent trip to Europe.

While Mrs. Ernst found much to interest her in the countries visited, it was the study of the theatre that was the chief reason for her making the visit. In New York City before sailing upon the America, Mrs. Ernst saw many of the best plays. From Cherbourg, Mrs. Ernst went to Paris arriving there about Easter time. Here she again saw plays as she did later in Munich, Rome and other cities.
A fundamental difference between the attitude of the French people and that of Americans was observed by Mrs. Ernst.
"Drama is more a part of the life of the people," she said. An illustration of this fact was given in regard to the people who compose the audiences. Enjoyment of the theatre seems to be an expression of a common need, believes Mrs. Ernst, just as the excellent music heard about commonplace little cafes is a response to something the people demand. "They do not look upon these things as mere adornments," states Mrs. Ernst. She said that it was possible to see productions much more cheaply than here, and mentioned the fact that in many theatres the best plays can be seen for little more than a dollar.

According to Mrs. Ernst, the war has not influenced the French theatre to the extent that other forms of art have been affected. Sculpture and painting, have felt its influence. The people apparently strive to keep as far as possible from that phase in the plays.
"There is much more emotional reaction in the European audience," said Mrs. Ernst. While this emotion is often expressed in applause, it occasionally takes the form of a hiss.

The medieval aspect of the towns of Assisi, and Perugia in Italy which she visited in May, interested Mrs. Ernst. There, she says, old methods of handwork are employed and the country is practically disinterested in the outside world. Women still wash clothing in the streams. Historically interesting also is Avignon, quaint town of the middle ages.

"The fine white lace caps look almost like frosted birthday cakes," said Mrs. Ernst, speaking of a part of the costume worn by peasant women in the Loire district of France. The head dress of the women of Strashire in Alsace-Lorraine is quite different.

A visit to relatives in England completed Mrs. Ernst's visit, which took five and a half months.

Y.W.C.A. ELECTION WILL BE OCTOBER 16

Secretary and Treasurer Are Offices Vacant

Nominations to fill the vacancies in the offices of secretary and treasurer of the Y. W. C. A. will be made and voted upon at the first regular meeting of the association on Thursday afternoon, October 16, at 5 o'clock in the Y. W. bungalow, according to an announcement made at a committee meeting held yesterday afternoon.

In addition to the election, it was decided that another musicale, the second of a series planned for this term, will be given Sunday afternoon, October 12, from 4:30 until 5:30 o'clock in the bungalow. All women students, particularly those who have enrolled at Oregon, for the first time this year, are invited to come. The musicale, which was given last Sunday, was well attended, so it was decided to continue the musicales for a time at least. Tea will be served at next Sunday's musicale.

BROADCASTING BEGUN BY EXTENSION DIVISION

With a talk on "The Rising Tide of Education," by Earl R. Douglass, professor of education, the extension division will open its regular Friday evening broadcasting for the winter season of 1924-25. Professor Douglass' lecture will be broadcast next Friday evening, October 17, at 8 o'clock from station KGW of the Morning Oregonian. On the following Friday, October 24, Dr. Warren D. Smith will broadcast a lecture from KGW entitled, "Strategy of Minerals in the Far East."
"Professor Douglass has some valuable information to give to the radio world," said Alfred Powers, in charge of radio on the campus. "Last year he did research work in education at Leland Stanford university."
"Dr. Smith is going to bring out a new point of view on the far East in his lecture," said Powers. "He has spent several years of his life in that part of the world, and this knowledge added to his experience in geology will mean that he has some valuable opinions to express."
"These talks are designed to be of current interest," he said. "They will be twenty minutes in length."

KAPPA DELTA OFFICIAL IS GUEST OF TAU NU

Miss Gladys Pugh of Union Springs, Alabama, national chaptarian of Kappa Delta, fraternity, was a recent guest of Tau Nu, local women's fraternity. She spent three days of last week looking over the campus and inspecting the house, which is petitioning Kappa Delta.

Miss Pugh was entertained by the girls of Tau Nu with a tea and formal dinner. Other guests at the dinner were Mrs. F. X. Schaefer, Mrs. J. H. Koke, and Miss Alma Agee of the University of California.
Tau Nu was organized in May, 1922, as a Catholic group. It was reorganized, however, in December, 1922, on a purely non-sectarian basis. A petition to Kappa Delta was submitted at that time.

FORTY-THREE STUDENTS PASS PANTATHLON TESTS

Forty-three students in the men's physical education department who passed all events in physical ability pentathlon with the exception of the five lap swim, will be allowed to take the swim within the next three weeks up to November 1. Scores ranging from 16 to 4 were made by the students that failed in the swim, but when the aquatic event is taken again the time must be made in 2:25 instead of 2:30 minutes.

STORY ON PROOFREADING IS PRINTED IN MAGAZINE

In the September issue of the National Printer-Journalist appeared a story on proofreading, the result of several years' study by Dr. H. R. Crosland, professor of psychology at the University of Oregon. This story deals with the problems met in reading proof, and was written by Leonard Lerwill, a member of Prof. Ralph D. Casey's specialized press class last year.

COLORADO FOOTBALL MEN LIVE AT TRAINING HOUSE

University of Colorado.—Operation of the C house has been resumed for the varsity football men. Twenty-four likely candidates are staying at the house, which is under the management of the president of A. S. U. O. The C house is to be entirely self-supporting this year, and all the work done about the house, with the exception of cooking, is being done by football men.

Table Supply Delivery

SCHEDULE

8:15 A. M.	2:15 P. M.
10:15 A. M.	4:15 P. M.

The Schedule of Deliveries has been changed to meet the wishes and demands of our customers. The post-prominent of the first delivery will accommodate our customers better. Every delivery wagon will leave exactly on schedule—the last order on each delivery should be delivered 25 minutes before the time of departure of the next wagon. This change was made in the interests of our customers only. We want them to be satisfied and to meet their demands as nearly as possible. Deliveries made too early or too late would be of inconvenience to our patrons—thus the change.

Table Supply Customers
If you want your meat order or any other order early—don't fail to get it in to us in time for the 8:15 delivery. If you fail you will of necessity wait for the 10:15 wagon.
Co-operate—We'll Meet You Half Way
