

FROSH NOT ABLE TO LAND GAMES

Mt. Angel Tilt is Latest to Become Uncertain

BIG BATTLE ON NOV. 8

O.A.C. Rooks to be Met; Baz Cuts Squad to 40

With the season rapidly progressing the freshman football squad is having a hard time finding opposition. Most of the smaller colleges and prep schools have refused to play the freshmen. The first year men were victorious in their first encounter and were to have played Marshfield high school last Saturday at Marshfield, but for some unknown reason the high school cancelled the game.

Now the game for Friday against the heavy Mt. Angel college team is a thing of certainty. This game was to have been played at Mt. Angel, but definite arrangements for this have not been made. If Mt. Angel college is not met tomorrow, a game will be arranged for a week from Friday.

Rook Game is Scheduled

The annual tussle between the Oregon freshmen and the Oregon Agricultural college Rooks is scheduled to be played here November 8. This ought to prove one of the best games of the year, as the first-year lads from Corvallis have a number of ex-prep stars in their lineup. On Saturday, November 15, the freshmen journey to the University of Washington to play the freshman team there.

Several men were hurt in the Columbia tussle who were the mainstays on the line. These men were Cress, center; Harden and Riggs, guards. The loss of these men in the next game will considerably weaken the central part of the line. Hedges will probably play center in case Cress is unable to gain. The backfield has been showing up well, and in several weeks Edwards, a heavy backfield man, will be able to play.

Squad is Out

The squad, which numbered around 90 at the first of the season, has fallen off considerably, and Coach "Baz" Williams has about 40 men from which to pick his team. Undoubtedly there will be a number of good men whom Coach Maddock can use in the varsity lineup next year.

HARVARD AND MCGILL PLAYED FIRST RUGBY

A match between Harvard and McGill (Montreal) played on May 13, 1874, was the first intercollegiate football game ever contested. Harvard won; but on the second day was held to a tie in a contest played according to Rugby rules.

The manner of playing was simple. A player could either "run, throw or pass" the ball when it came to him. "Many good struggles" are recorded in a contemporaneous account. Eleven players participated in the first game. For the first time in its history, the Harvard team cast aside their usual costume consisting of the oldest clothes available and wore dark trousers, white undershirts and magnets scarfs wound around their heads. Their opponents appeared neatly uniformed in the English fashion.

U. OF O. MAN TO ATTEND LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Louis Martin, '23, is enroute from England to Geneva, Switzerland, where he is going to attend the meeting of the League of Nations, as stated in a recent letter from him to one of his fraternity brothers.

From Geneva Mr. Martin will go to Samokov, Bulgaria, where he will be engaged in teaching in the American schools there.

While on the campus he majored in history and education. He is a member of Sigma Pi Tau fraternity.

SUSAN CAMPBELL WINS FINALS IN VOLLEY BALL

Doughnut volley ball ended last night, when Susan Campbell I won the "finals" from the Delta Omegas, 2 games to 1.

Class volley ball begins next week, and much good material is expected to turn out, according to Miss Shelley, coach of volley ball.

MODERN STOCKINGS TRACED TO STONE AGE

Ancient Women Responsible for all Finery of Co-Ed Says Professor

(Science Service)
Neolithic woman's crude efforts to construct a roof for her primitive hut gave rise to the manufacture of silk stockings for modern girls. Professor Harris Hawthorne Wilder of the department of zoology at Smith college at Northampton, Massachusetts, has traced the history of weaving back to the stone age shelter and even suggests that the apes started the practice which is responsible for twentieth century dress goods.

"The chimpanzees and orangutans of the present day," he says, "construct for themselves serviceable nests, and twine above them the smaller branches, interlacing them as well as their thick fingers and inferior brains will permit. But the primitive woman was far above this, and, in her twig-twining there soon grew beneath her supple fingers a definite system, by which, perhaps, one set of twigs interlocked in a fairly regular fashion with a set in the opposite direction. Next she made baskets, constructed like the hut, but made small and fastened to her back, they greatly facilitated her work of burden-bearing."

"She then developed the new found art still further and applied it to the construction of large mats, with which to cover the ground of the hut. In searching the forest for plant stems she discovered the characteristics of the fibers of flax.

In some way, too, she noticed the peculiar virtue of sheep's wool which was at first left upon the hide and employed like other furs. Twisting small tufts of wool between the thumb and finger draws them out readily into threads, and this perfectly natural motion was probably often indulged in in idle moments before the idea was seized upon and definitely applied. A fairly good yarn can be made by the fingers alone, but the twisting can be more rapidly and easily accomplished by the use of something that can be made to rotate after the principle of a top. Thus came the spindle and spindle whorl.

"The simple stitches learned in basket-making were undoubtedly used first in weaving with the more pliable materials. But soon the greater possibilities were taken advantage of, and the fabrics and colored patterns that were achieved in the valleys of the Danube and Rhine before the horse was tamed or the use of metals learned, rivaled in beauty the costumes of modern peasantry in countries where primitive methods are still used.

"The native inhabitants of the two Americas often use in their weaving exactly the same process that the women of the Neolithic age employed. Studies of the American Indians are of the profitable ways of tracing the development of textile industries."

SEVERAL BOOKS ADDED TO RENT COLLECTION

The library is continually adding to its collection of books for every department, but the supply in the rent collection is never low.

The most recent are: "The Nature of a Crime," Joseph Conrad and Madox Ford; "The Green Hat," Michael Arlen; "Blind Reality," Don Byrne; "Racial Realities in Europe," Lothrop Stoddard; "The Character of Races," Ellsworth Huntington; "Modern Greek Stories," which is a collection of stories from different authors, edited by Demetra Vaka; "Glimpses of Japan and Formosa," Harry A. Frouck. Another book added to the regular collection is "The Masters of Modern Art," Walter Pach.

Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN MEETS WITH SUCCESS

Final reports of the campus Y. M. C. A. financial campaign have not yet come in but so far the work has met with success, according to Oscar McKinney, head of the canvassing committee. Although pledges from the living organizations have not all been turned in, reports from the men in charge at the houses show that they have almost all gone over their quotas.

Ernest Henrikson's team is at present leading the canvassing groups for men outside of living organizations with a total of $66.50. The foreign students have pledged 100 per cent, Onofre Hipe having canvassed all of them personally.

HEADS OF OREGANA SECTIONS TO REPORT

"Section dummies for the 1925 Oregon must be in by Friday afternoon," is the statement given out by Augusta DeWitt, editor. Definite work upon the year book cannot commence until these copies have been received and accepted.

Elizabeth Cady, in charge of the women's organizations, and Jack Burleson, head of the men's section, are appointing representatives in each house to take charge of the pictures. The photographer has not been decided upon by the executive council and the finance committee, but as soon as this is done, each organization will be allotted a period in which to have their pictures taken.

CHILDREN WILL RECEIVE INSTRUCTION IN DANCING

Classes in educational interpretative dancing for children between the ages of 5 and 11 years, are given on Mondays and Thursdays at 4 o'clock, in the University women's gym. The course includes 10 lessons for a fee of $2.50, supervised by Miss Stupp.

GIRL RESERVES TO GIVE MASQUERADE, SATURDAY

A masquerade party for the Girl Reserves of the seventh and eighth grades of the University high school will be given at the Y. W. C. A. bungalow at 7 o'clock Saturday evening, October 25. Each girl will take one friend as a guest.

HONOR GROUP MEETS TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28

The fall meeting of the Oregon chapter of Phi Beta Kappa will be held in room 8, Commerce building, at 4 p. m., next Tuesday, October 28. At that time a president, vice-president and secretary for this school year will be elected. Seniors who merit election at this time will also be taken in, said Dr. R. C. Clark, president.

At the meeting Tuesday, October 14, the campus chapter endorsed the application of Reed college, and the University of Idaho for chapters in the national organization. The endorsements were telegraphed to the senate of the united chapters in session in New York. There will be a second election of seniors in the spring term.

WHITMAN TO PLAY VARSITY SATURDAY

initial game with Willamette. However, against the speedy and tricky Whitman eleven, both squads should be fairly well matched. Maddock will have his full squad from which to select the men starting the tilt. No injuries, outside of those sustained by Carl Johnson and Ward Johnson, have yet marred the original lineup.

COLLEGE SIDE INN UNDER DIFFERENT MANAGEMENT

The management of the College Side Inn has been turned over to Clifford and Mary Arthurs of Salem. C. M. McClure, former manager of the establishment, has sold his shares in the corporation and has gone to his home in Portland.

One of the new practices is that of serving club breakfasts to groups of college students. As in the past, a grille dance will be held on Friday evenings and the ordinary dance on Saturday evenings for the benefit of students.

The "College Tramps" will furnish the music for the dances.

ATHLETIC HEART SAID TO BE ANCIENT MYTH

Tests Made on Men Running In 25-Mile Marathon

(By Science Service)

Boston, Mass.—A severe jolt has been handed to the idea, long accepted as a commonplace in medical and athletic circles, that severe, athletic training and participation in competition, especially in long races, was "hard on the heart," and tended to cause permanent enlargement of that organ.

The staff of the Peter Brent Brigham hospital have just published the results of their X-ray studies, made on American and Canadian youths who took part in the 25-mile American Marathon.

The men had all been training for some months immediately preceding the race, and most of them had been doing long distance running for from five to fifteen or more years. It was found that the heart size of the men was normal, and the lung capacity likewise was apparently unaffected. Immediately after the race it seems that there was a temporary decrease in heart size, gradually returning to normal in about one day.

TEACHERS PREPARE DATA FOR USE IN MASTER'S TEST

A series of syllabi, dealing with the main features of education, are being prepared by 15 teachers who are preparing for their master's degree through the extension division of the University of Oregon at Portland.

This series will give them an opportunity for a systematic review for their master's examination, according to Dr. H. D. Sheldon, dean of the school of education. In addition, about 12 teachers are writing theses, some of which deal with mental tests, while others are along historical and social lines.

THACHER SELLS STORY TO POPULAR MAGAZINE

W. F. G. Thacher, professor of short story writing at the University, has a story entitled "Eligibility" in the November issue of Blue Book magazine.

The editor's comment on "Eligibility" is as follows: "The football coach has his triumphs as well as troubles—as witness this splendid story by a writer who not only knows his subject at first hand but who also strikingly demonstrates his eligibility as a writer."

This is the second story Professor Thacher has had printed recently, the other being "Boy's Grief," published in the Atlantic Monthly.

NINTH AREA HEAD COMES TO INSPECT EUGENE R.O.T.C.

Major H. L. Jourdan, in charge of the ninth area R. O. T. C. corps will be a visitor in Eugene Friday. He is coming on his annual inspection trip to visit all of the R. O. T. C. units. After visiting Eugene he plans to attend the assembly of the R. O. T. C. in Corvallis. Following the inspection Friday morning, Colonel Sinclair plans to show him a good time at hunting in the wilds around Eugene.

HOUSE CLUBS FORMED AT SOUTHERN BRANCH

University of California.—(By P. I. N. S.)—Women students of the Southern branch living or boarding in approved boarding houses have been organizing into house clubs. Any house where there are at least six girls living, is eligible for membership.

The dean has organized these house clubs for two reasons. In case anything arises in regard to enforcing University regulations, it will afford a better way in which to call the women students together. Secondly, it will be the quickest channel to get all women students into activities in which they are interested.

MRS. JOHN W. ANDERSON NOW ON COOS BAY TIMES
Mrs. John W. Anderson (Katherine J. Watson, ex-'25), is now a reporter on the Coos Bay Times at Marshfield, on which her husband has been a member of the news staff for more than a year. In a letter received at the school of journalism she writes that she enjoys her work immensely, and she illustrates with a pen drawing of a small bobbed-haired woman reporter at the railroad station interviewing an enormous business man of important mien—asking him where he was going, with whom, and why.
