

TENNIS TROPHY TAKEN BY HEBER

University Championship
Is Won, Best Two Out of Three, in Speedy Match

WINNER TO HEAD TEAM

Although Squad is Picked
For Year, Others Have
Chance to Win Place

Reginald Heber is the champion tennis player of the University. He won this distinction, along with the trophy of one dozen tennis balls, yesterday afternoon by taking the best two out of three sets from George Mead, runner up in the tournament, by the score of 4-0, 3-6, 7-5.

Playing in championship form these two athletes gave the spectators all the thrills possible in a tennis match. After the first set it looked like a sure win for Heber but in the next two, George Mead showed his ability as a fighter even though he lost. In coming from behind after the first set he took the second and almost won the third and final.

Officials Chosen

At a meeting of the lettermen in tennis Friday afternoon, Harry Meyer was elected captain and George Hayden, manager.

The possibility of making tennis a major sport at the University will be the inspiration of the team this year. "Budy" Fahl says, "If we show the fighting spirit and put in good hard work there is no reason why the student body shouldn't be interested."

With the final sets of the tournament played, the hand picked squad for the coming year will be: Captain Harry Meyer, Manager George Hayden, Reginald Heber, George Mead, Boy Okerberg, William McBride, Terva Hubbard, Gerald Cray, William Adams and Kaut Westergren. With this squad of men Oregon has a better outlook for a winning tennis team than ever before according to "Budy" Fahl, head tennis coach.

"There are other men that have a chance to make the squad," Fahl says. "Challenges will be issued all through the year. This will give everybody an equal chance, and make the varsity men work to hold their positions."

Practice Continues

Practice will be continued on the outside courts for the remainder of the fall term, with the prospects of another tournament being played.

From now on the team will receive individual instructions in the fundamentals of tennis. Fahl says, "I believe in knowing what you are to do and then practicing to develop speed and accuracy."

MAGIC, VAUDEVILLE, PEP, MARK ALL-UNIVERSITY MIX IN ARMORY

The hundreds of people who turned out for the Whitman-Oregon rally last night in the Armory, and who stayed for the annual Y. M. C. A.-Y. W. C. A. mix were not disappointed in the quality of the entertainment which was offered.

Virgil Mulkey, with his thirty minutes of magic and mystery, so often had his college audience completely mystified that they would break out in spontaneous applause. His act was well calculated to please the over-critical students who are always in abundance at any campus entertainment, and he left them with the distinct impression of having been amused as well as mystified.

Paul Krause, assisted by Jack Seabrook at the piano, gave a burlesque of what was called the "Opera Rigoletto." His half English, half R. O. T. C. hunting costume together with the multiplicity of armorial equipment which he carried about his person, furnished much of the amusement in the act. And, to be sure, the piano played no small part in its success.

Lungs and Hats In Demand For Today's Rumpus

"Bring your root hat and a pair of good lungs, if you have only one lung, that will do too," declares the Yell King, concerning today's game. The hats, he says, are to be worn so that the Oregon rooters will have a somewhat uniform appearance, and the lungs are to be worn out, if necessary. The three yell leaders will be in action tomorrow and they hope to get the rooters all set to "do their stuff" for the big Homecoming game.

CROSS COUNTRY RACE TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Four Teams to Take Part In Annual Run

The cross country meet to be held here next Saturday as a part of the Homecoming celebration will be from all indications one of the closest ever held in the history of the University. The teams this year seem to be very evenly matched and one of the tightest races can be looked for.

Idaho ran away with the bacon last year and has a good team this year. Oregon Agricultural College has a number of old men back and will give the other contestants a stiff race. More teams will compete in the cross country this year, including Idaho, Oregon Agricultural college, University of Washington and the University of Oregon. There is also some probability that Washington State college will send a team.

The course this year will be the same as last, with a run around the track once and out over the course and back and once around the track again at the finish. This will cover a distance of three and a half miles.

Oregon's prospects for a winning team are not as bright as they could be. Only two men of last year's varsity squad are turning out; these are Keating and Tetz. The fresh distance men from last year are: Barnes and Conley. Carlson, a senior, is again turning out for the distance running. Tryouts for the varsity cross-country team will be held the middle of next week when the team will be picked to run in the cross-country meet next Saturday.

MAJOR H. L. JORDAN VISITS CAMPUS R. O. T. C. CORPS

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS FAVORED AS TEACHERS

Proof that the so-called flippant co-ed has more executive ability than is usually accorded her, is offered by students of the University high school.

"A lot of personality, thoroughness, some one near our age—that's the way we regard supervised teachers," was the expression made by several students who are doing practice teaching in the campus high school.

"We have a tradition," said a senior boy, "which is to the effect that we should obey the practice teachers, and keep good order. The University students have a lot of personality, they know their subject, and they put spirit into their classes. I consider supervised teachers quite a success."

"A sense of honor exists here," was the remark made by a sophomore girl, "so we respect all of the supervised teachers."

According to some of the high school students, the University women have more order in their classes than the men, while the men conduct their classes in a way that is less formal.

From the standpoint of the education staff of the University, the majority of the teaching by students is excellently done. As the students have only one class to teach, they spend from two to three hours in the preparation of their lesson plans, while the regular teacher usually spends from 20 to 40 minutes in the preparation of her work, depending upon the number of lessons which she has to conduct.

In a large number of cases, the student teaches his major subject, although there are some fluctuations because of the difficulty of arranging schedules to comply with classes. In these instances, the supervised teacher is investigated, and it is seen that she has had a reasonable amount of college training in the subject which she is to teach.

HUGE RALLY SPELLS RUIN FOR WHITMAN GRID HOPES

RALLY INSPIRES TEAM FOR GAME

Rain Does not Prevent Big Crowd From Assembling
To Hear Coach Maddock

ROYAL ROOTERS SOUGHT

Oregon fighting spirit, of the sort which hasn't been seen on the campus for several years, was the predominating factor at last night's rally in preparation for the Whitman-Oregon game today. The spirit was strong enough to compel hundreds of loyal students to brave the drizzling rain to pay their respects to the team which is giving every evidence of bringing back the football prestige which Oregon has formerly possessed.

Coach is Pleased

Coach Joe Maddock, who was finally induced to speak to the crowd, declared that he was glad to see the sort of spirit which he was used to. He believes that because of this same spirit, Oregon will have the chance to be mighty proud of its team before the season is over.

Bill Hayward, trainer for the team, exclaimed that he was pleased by the huge demonstration, for it made the team feel good. And Bart Spellman, who is coaching what is soon to be a duplicate of the famous 1916 line, told the crowd that the team will not have an easy time with Whitman, but that it can be depended upon to give its best.

Martin Makes Plea

The Armory more than once reverberated with the piercing "oakies." Team yells came as spontaneously and whole heartedly to the pleadings of the perspiring cheer leaders, as ever in the hall which has formed the background for many an historical event.

An earnest plea was made by Freddie Martin, yell king, for a large turnout for the Royal Rooters, which he is organizing as a group of 400 trained men to lead the cheers from a special reserved section in the bleachers, at the Homecoming game with Washington next Saturday.

HOMECOMING TICKETS SELLING OUT RAPIDLY

Tickets for the Homecoming game between Oregon and the University of Washington are being sold out rapidly, and indications are that there will be a record-breaking attendance, according to Jack Benefiel, graduate manager, who is in charge of the seat sale.

The alumni section has been sold out, and 600 seats have been reserved by the University of Washington.

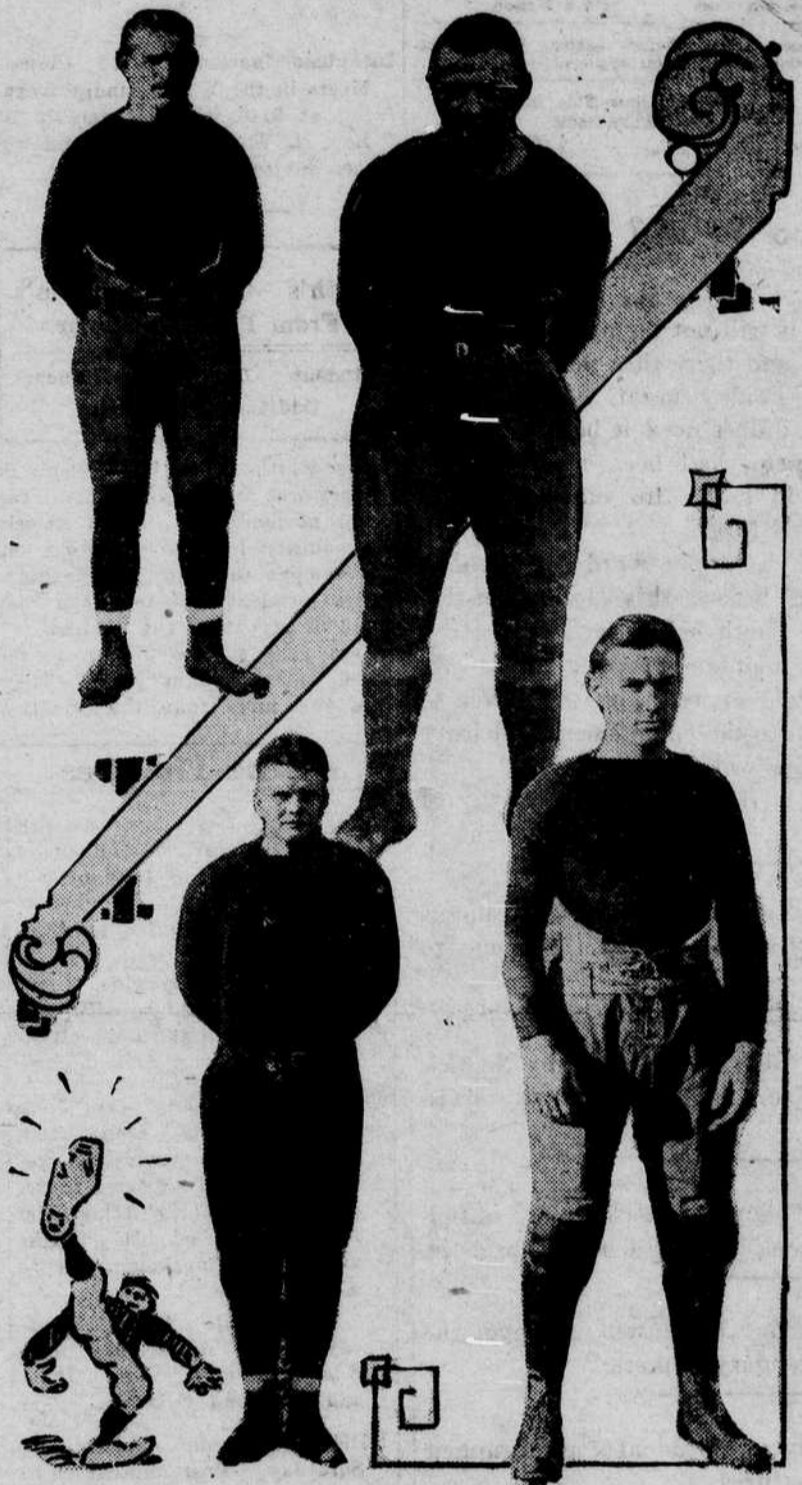

High School Debate Question is Chosen

"Resolved: That the Japanese should be admitted to the United States under the quota determined by the general immigration law," is the subject chosen by the Douglas debate club of the University high school for interclass debates, which will start November 24.

Joy Johnson has been chosen as debate coach, and Earl R. Douglass, of the education department of the University, is adviser. Mrs. Margaret Goodall, English instructor in the campus high, was elected honorary member to the debate organization.

Fighting Missionaries

WHITMAN'S TEAM PRIMED TO WIN

Missionaries Said to Have Light But Fast Machine
To Meet Maddock's Men

SPEEDY STYLE IS USED

With a string of eighteen men, Coach Borleske has come to Eugene with the prime purpose of avenging the innumerable defeats that have been administered to his teams by Oregon grid squads.

The weakness of the Oregon varsity evident in the Willamette and Pacific games has reached Walla Walla, and "Nig," who has developed a fast and speedy team, that is a dangerous combination when playing an inexperienced team, hopes to turn the tables on Maddock's men and nose the varsity out of a victory.

Missionaries Speedy

Although the Oregon eleven is far from a perfected machine, and even in some departments very weak, they still retain the old Oregon fight that aided them in making a very good showing against the Cardinals last week-end.

The Whitman team is somewhat lighter than the varsity, however, the Missionaries' style of game is speedy, and fast men are more of an asset to Borleske than slow and hefty line-men. In Dean and Tilton, the Whitman coach has a remarkable pair of wing men. Although only a freshman, Dean proved his value in several early seasonal contests and working with Tilton, a former half, the Whitman squad will have little worry as to the weakness of wing men.

Reed at Tackle

The Oregon line-up will be practically the same as that in the Stanford game. McMullen will be held in reserve as center, as Carl Johnson has not recovered from injuries suffered in the Cardinal contest. Reed will start his old position at left tackle while Bliss will start as end.

The game today will be of great importance to Joe Maddock in getting a final line on the strength of his eleven before the big Homecoming game with Washington.

The Oregon squad should be swinging into mid-season form in preparation for the Huskie contest and today's game will do much to prove the real calibre of the Lem-on-Yellow gridsters.

The probable line-up for tomorrow's contest will be as follows:

Oregon	Whitman
Mantz.....L.E.	Dean
Kerns.....L.T.	L. Reed
Bailey.....L.G.	Conley
Wilson.....C.	Smith
Shields.....R.G.	Ratchford
Reed.....R.T.	Reed
Bliss.....B.E.	Tilton
Anderson.....Q.	Corkrum
Vitus.....R.H.	Hall
Terjesen.....L.H.	Lacey

LATIN CLUB OFFICERS ELECTED AT MEETING

Lois Inman was elected president of the Latin club, Collegium Augustole, at the business meeting held Thursday evening in the Y. W. C. A. bungalow.

Following election of officers, J. E. Ainsworth Johnstone, new assistant in the Latin department and graduate of Oxford, gave a talk on the early manuscripts written on papyrus and vellum, particularly those of Livy's which were recently found. Kathryn McAyeal gave a vocal solo.

The officers elected at the meeting were: Lois Inman, Eugene, presses; Matilda Lieheldt, Portland, pro-presses; Mary Crombie, Portland, scriba; Evelyn Underwood, Portland, quaestor; and Helen Igoe, Eugene, nuntius.

Royal Rooters Club Is Formed To Be Feature At Homecoming

A select group of 400 men students are to be organized into a section to be known as the Royal Rooters, whose sole purpose is to form an adequate organization, drilled in several stunts, to lead the yelling which is always a feature at the annual Homecoming game.

A section of approximately 400 seats are to be reserved for the Royal Rooters in the bleachers along the 40-yard line and only those men who have practiced the stunts are to be admitted. The purpose of the organization is to provide something a little out of the ordinary for the scores of alumni and visitors who will be at the game.

"Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock will mark the initial work-out of the R.R.'s," says Martin. "Joe has promised to put the team through its paces for the spectators, and that alone will merit the trip over to Hayward field. The band will also be in its section to render a few selections and, all in all, it will be nothing less than a good old bleacher work-out—one of those work-outs which will drive the team up to championship caliber.

"Be there at 4:30 and if you have enough of the Old Oregon Fight, one of the choice 400 seats will be yours."

It is expected that each organization on the campus will make it a point to see that it is represented by as many of its members as can possibly take the short time off, Tuesday afternoon, in order to practice the stunts. Bleacher stunts are always very valuable both as a means to hold the interest of the crowd to the highest pitch and to push the team to do its very best. Martin expects every loyal Oregon man to be there Tuesday afternoon.

B. O. T. C. DELINQUENT LIST PUBLISHED EACH MONDAY

There is a delinquent list published at the B. O. T. C. headquarters every Monday morning. This list is published for the benefit of the students; so that if in some manner they have missed drill or have been accidentally marked absent the correct adjustments may be made. This list has the students' names listed under the officer to whom they are to report. All students taking drill are requested to look over the list once a week.

INTEREST LESS IN WORK ON HOMECOMING PENANTS

The response to the request sent to the freshman girls to assist with the making of the penants for Homecoming was not as favorable yesterday as the turn-out Thursday. It is the desire of those in charge that the work be finished as rapidly as possible and they wish that the freshmen women be reminded that they are expected to volunteer their services. The work is being done at the Y. W. C. A. bungalow and the freshmen are welcome to come any time.
