

GIRL RESERVES REPORT SUMMER CONFERENCES

Local Groups Hold Joint Meeting at Y. W. C. A.

Conference reports from those Girl Reserves who attended the Seabeck and Gearhart conferences last summer were given at a joint meeting of the University and Eugene high school groups held at the Y. W. C. A. bungalow yesterday.

These conferences held at Seabeck, Washington, and Gearhart, Oregon, are much the same as the conferences which members of the Y. W. C. A. from the various universities and colleges attend each summer. Lois Covalt, leader of the freshman group at the Eugene high school, showed how a great amount of work is accomplished at these conferences by really presenting the aims of the Girl Reserve movement. Ideas which individual organizations have produced are presented and exchanged so that each group is benefited by the experiences of the others.

At the meeting yesterday, the girls enjoyed a social hour along with their suppers which were in paper bags.

Genevieve Chase, a junior in the University, is leader of the University high school group, and Miss Emma Chase, a teacher in the Eugene high school, is leader of the upper class group at that school.

This evening the University high school is entertaining with a Halloween party at the bungalow. The freshman Girl Reserves at the Eugene high school are also entertaining at the high school gymnasium.

JOURNALISTS TO USE MAGAZINE COLLECTION

Magazines of all descriptions, numbering around 1,000, were sent to Portland yesterday by Alfred Powers, professor of journalism in the extension division, to be used in his Monday night feature writing and trade journalism class. They have been classified in forty groups for the purpose of study. Mr. Powers will distribute them to his class next Monday evening.

The collection and sorting of these magazines represents work covering a long period of time. They are the cream of the field.

This gives the students the very best material that can be selected for their study. The magazines were not classified so as to have a certain number in each group, but according to the class or trade in which they belong. Some groups have only three or four in them while others run up to several dozen.

Mr. Powers is a feature writer of experience himself. He has recently sold several feature stories, to national publications.

BUSINESS MEN TOURING STATE VISIT UNIVERSITY CAMPUS

Portland Chamber of Commerce Members Impressed By Improvements

"I am overpowered by the improvement and artistic arrangement of the campus since last year," said R. S. Howard, vice-president of Ladd and Tilton's bank, Portland, and chairman of the Portland chamber of commerce. Mr. Howard, with other members of the chamber, has been making a tour of the state, during the past week, and was here yesterday.

"The Murray Warner museum interested me especially," he added, "and there were two swords there which I wished I had had today to use on the throats of some of my orators. The movements of their Adam's apples worried me exceedingly."

E. V. Creed, manager for the Oregon Sun Life Insurance company, also commented on the art collection. "There is surely a great deal of valuable material there," he said. "It is the finest collection I have ever seen of Chinese costumes and art."

Seventy-five members of the Portland chamber of commerce have been on a special trip to Southern Oregon and the Coos Bay country, and are now on their way home.

"The thing that impressed me with the tour," stated Mr. Howard,

"was the great change in the atmosphere of the whole state. Heretofore it has been one country or one town fighting against another country or town, for something that they wanted to put across. Now, the old feeling seems to have disappeared, and in its place is a sentiment of 'Oregonians for Oregon.' The great thing that has been realized in the state is sentiment in the word 'Oregon,' and it seems that this is now realized. Every place we visited, the expression, 'We are for Oregon,' was heard, and at North Bend, the principal of the high school has composed a song, entitled, 'I'm Satisfied with Oregon,' which I think every true Oregonian should learn."

O. W. Mielke, vice-president of Blake-McFall company, was chairman of the excursion executive committee. Others on the committee who made the trip were, C. C. Colt, vice-president of the First National bank, and Henry J. Frank, president of Blumaer-Frank Drug Co.

NEW ORGANIZATION FORMED ORDER OF THE OBAK'S INSIDE SAGGING SOX

The Disorder of the Sagging Sox, a strictly modern intercollegiate organization, has lately issued a charter to the University of Oregon. The local supporters include some of the sloppiest of the prominent students of the campus. The purpose of the society is to promote the health of its members by a vigorous disregard of all forms of garters and supporters.

"Let 'em Sag," is the motto of the Disorder, who says that garters are the most detrimental of any contrivances developed in the present age. "I believe," states Jim Scriptures, a staunch supporter of the supporterless movement. "That the garter is a thing of the past and in the near future we will see it take the same path as the corset, the bustle and all the rest of the circulation stoppers." When asked his opinion on the belt and suspenders, Mr. Scriptures refused to make any statement.

The men belonging to the Disorder are easily recognized by their telescoped hosiery which piles up around the feet or trails behind the shoes. Balloon trousers are generally worn with this style of sox as they fall gracefully around the ankles and shut out the cold breeze. The present headquarters of the Disorder is at Obak's where those wishing to join the great movement may make application. Obak wishes to say, however, that, owing to the short skirts now in vogue, that women will not be able to join the organization.

Obak's star reporter comes in with the news that the Whitman "Miseries" will use deaf and dumb signals in today's game. According to "Big Burlesque," the Whitman coach, his men, being naturally dumb, have been deafened in past years by the Oregon rooters' section and for this reason the signals will look like a game of "Bean porage hot, bean porage cold." Anticipating this the Variety has held practice every evening at Obak's consisting of stiff pool scrimmage while the second team claps for the card.

Announcements

The fiery cross country team will hold tryouts this afternoon. Everybody out in uniform.

The subject of the debate for the next big Obak debate will be, "Resolved, That it is worse to go to a no date affair alone than to a military ball in a uniform."

K. K. K. society will hold its weekly luncheon at Obak's, Monday at 12 p. m. Bring your own sheets.

Remember the big smoker at Obak's tonight featuring the smoothest of pool and billiards. Eats, smokes and fun.
