Interference of College Authorities Opposed

RADICALS ARE DEFENDED

Publicity will Follow All Cases Discovered

Interference by college authorities with the right of students to hear radical speakers has prompted the American Civil Liberties Union, a national free speech organization, with headquarters in New York City, to form a committee on Academic Freedom to act wherever the issue arises.

The union has been engaged for seven years in fighting for free speech throughout the country, regardless of whose rights were attacked, but has not before entered the college and school field activity. It has about 800 lawyers in leading centers, over 1,000 local correspondents, and a national committee of 68 persons distinguished in liberal, radical or labor circles. The acting chairman is the Rev. John Haynes Holmes of the Community church, New York City, and Roger N. Baldwin is the director.

Work is Outlined

The union's announcement covering the work of the new committee says:

"We are now prepared to tackle through a competent committee any case of interference with the activities of liberal or radical students and instructors in any college or school in the country. There have been many such cases of interference in the last few years, but each has been handled locally without the backing of a national organization. We purpose to go in to each situation promptly, to get the facts before the public, to organize effective protests and to bring to bear national publicity on every local invasion of what we regard as the rights of students and instructors.

"This committee will not duplicate work done by other organizations primarily concerned with restrictions on class-room teaching and the discharge of teachers for their views. It will deal with (1) laws restricting teaching, such as those attempting to prohibit the teaching of evolution, of pacifism and of certain concepts of history; (2) with college and school rules restricting student liberal and radical activities; and (3) with interference with freedom of opinion of individual students and teachers outside the class-room.

Liberty of Thought is Aim
"We are opposed to all those forces which seek to twist education into their propaganda, or to limit the discussion of public issues outside the class-room by students or teachers. In recent years our schools and colleges have suffered unprecedented attacks on freedom of opinion. We invite all those interested in promoting tolerance and the utmost liberty of thought to cooperate with us."

The second floor of the north and south wings contains a clinical lecture room and space for patients divided into wards of four beds each assigned to boys, and three private rooms. This floor has a solarium at the south end. The third floor of this wing contains the babies' ward and the wards for girls, with a solarium at the south end. The elevator gives access to the roof, where further open-air space is provided.

Quite a few of Anderson's kicks were off in less than two seconds, which is remarkable time and accounts for the fact that the Huskies failed to block any of his eighteen punts.

It is quite impossible to review any outstanding playing made by any man in the line, for the Oregon line played as a single unit and established a reputation as one of the hardest lines to hit, in the coast conference. Bob Mautz caused the Husky backfield more trouble and worry than an end is supposed to make. Mautz stopped many a back before he even got started. Reed, in nailing the Husky safety, saved many yards for Oregon, while "Fat" Wilson took the part of several men in plugging the line, making it virtually an eight-man line.

One of the surprising facts of the contest is that Oregon did not make a single substitution. In fact, there wasn't a man on the Washington bench that was capable of playing better than those in the original Oregon line-up.

The 7-3 victory over Washington is somewhat of a reversal of the 6-3 win of the Huskies over the Aggies in the previous week. However, in defeating the Beavers, Washington at no time showed the fight that was characteristic of the Oregon team in its victory over the northern squad. For Oregon really excelled in smearing attempted passes and in holding the Huskies from scoring.

Soon after his arrival, he said in a letter, he had just received some mail, and the initial edition of the Emerald. It made him feel rather bad, he said, to think that he was not a part of the life it described.

At the close of one of his letters to Colonel Leader, he said, "I was glad to receive your letter of the twenty-fourth of September. How I wish I could go to Homecoming with you. Say 'Hello' to all the boys for me."

A new yell was introduced by yell king Martin and a short pep talk was given by him on the game with Idaho next Saturday and the other games to come.

"We want especially to express our thanks to the Campus Tramps and the other volunteers that made the dance a success," said the yell king last night. "Without them the rally would have been much less successful."

NEW EXTENSION COURSE OFFERED IN EDUCATION

Professor F. L. Stetson, of the school of education, is conducting a course under the extension division. The subject, "School and Its Social Aspects," which is offered once each week, is open to teachers and others in Eugene and vicinity who are unable to enroll in regular University work.

This is the first course of this nature which has been given for the past four years. Extension courses of this kind, according to a statement made by Dr. D. E. Clark of the extension division, are offered only when there is sufficient demand and a number of persons desiring a course in a definite subject.

There are 15 enrolled in this class, but more are expected to enter it soon. The meetings are held every Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in room 109, Oregon building. The course is open to anyone who, because of work or other duties, can not take University work during the day.

SURVEY OF RECREATION PRESENTED TO EUGENE

The department of physical education has made a present to the city of Eugene of a bound survey of the city regarding possibilities of recreation. Many business men together with the American legion have been agitating the question of public playgrounds in Eugene. The survey is a thesis of last year written and prepared by Ellen M. Mylne of the school of physical education, and contains recommendations for recreation grounds as well as a thorough consideration of the city's possibilities.

Grid Review

By Wilbur Wester

Over the eligibility of William Cole, U. S. C. tackle, something of a squabble has arisen. Stanford and California have both severed future athletic connections with the Trojans. However, this is purely a triangle affair and does not affect any conference standing of U. S. C. Inasmuch as neither California nor Stanford has asked that the Trojans be dropped from the conference, U. S. C. is eligible to play any future game with Oregon or any other conference team.

The U. S. C. student body yesterday voted to cancel the scheduled game with Stanford for this coming Saturday. The only future games played by the Trojans will be with the teams in the Northwest conference and probably a game or two with smaller colleges in California and Nevada.

O. A. C. is advocating a plan to start the Oregon-O. A. C. ETAE start the Oregon-Aggie classic at 1:30. However, the opinion on the Oregon campus is that 2:00 would be a fair compromise, inasmuch as it would allow ample time for Oregon rooters to arrive at a convenient hour.

The Bell field stands at Corvallis have been completely covered. This news will be welcomed by Oregon football fans who intend to see the game November 22.

With the introduction of supervised play into the grammar and high schools of America, there has been a wave of remarkable athletes who are starring in the early years of their life. A surprising example of this fact is that there are ten men on the Oregon squad who are under the voting age. "Skippy" Stivers and Elmer Tesreau are both 20, while Lynn Jones is playing a remarkable game although only 19. "Red" Grange, the famous Illinois halfback, made all-American when but 19 and is gaining further honors this year, playing a bang-up game at the early age of 20.
