Again there is trouble in the Coast camp. A gale blew up from the south, and the effects of it are being felt all up and down the conference. Due to the protestation of a U. S. C. player, the Trojans pride was hurt; their behavior jiffied the Golden Gulf twins, and as a consequence, there's nothing doing between the far south and the Bears and Cards from now on.

The other members of the conference have so far shown no partiality either way, saying simply, that as far as they are concerned, things will go on as before. This is probably as it should be, but the North has never been greatly concerned. Oregon has played U. S. C. only once, and other U. S. C. clashes with Northern teams have been rather rare, never more than one a season.

But what about the University of Southern California? Cut off from Stanford and California, they will have a hard time trying for a Coast championship from now on, since it will not be practicable to schedule a full season with far north eleven. They are quite brave about it, however, and claim that they can get all the football they want with Eastern, Middle Western and Southern teams.

The universities of Texas and Oklahoma are about the same hours jaunt away as is Seattle, or Pullman, or far off Montana, while negotiations have been under way for some time for a "home and home" game with Illinois. Notre Dame comes out on New Year's day, and this can be repeated annually with some Eastern eleven.

But will this be incentive enough for "big-time" football at the southern school? Will they get the turnout for such games—a turnout that would equal conference game crowds.

It is the writer's opinion that unless peace is to come again in some way, U. S. C. will be in a hard way, athletically speaking. After all, a championship is a big incentive, and a necessary incentive. Without it sports are sure to pine away. Here's hoping that things get patched up.

The great victory over Washington has actually given rise to faint hopes of a top place for Oregon in the northwest, and possibly the Coast conferences. Here's how: Washington must beat California, Stanford must go down before the Bears—and Oregon must win every game from now on. It might come out that way, who knows?

The hole in the Stanford schedule created by the U. S. C. action has been filled by the University of Utah. The Cards should have little trouble with the Mormons at Palo Alto Saturday.

Polo is being played at Oregon Agricultural College again this year. They will play a game with the Seventh Infantry second team Saturday morning of Homecoming week end, November 22.

They expect to schedule with the Portland Hunt club and Stanford university later in the year. Last year the Cardinals came out on the long end of the score.

Five men of last year's squad have returned to school and are showing up well in practice. There are also plenty of new men out but few are real polo players. Nine new polo ponies have been purchased and will arrive soon for service.

The University of Washington equestrians are to hold a meeting and discuss plans for the formation of a polo team for 1925. The team if formed would compete with army teams in the state.

The Eastern football race settled down somewhat last Saturday when Lafayette and Syracuse were knocked out of the undefeated class, leaving Pennsylvania as the only big Eastern team which has not bitten the dust as yet.

Pennsylvania was directly responsible for the elimination of Lafayette by a 6 to 3 defeat inflicted on Franklin field, Philadelphia. This gives Penn a good chance to succeed to the mythical championship of the east which Yale and Cornell shared in 1923. Syracuse was just the same as eliminated by reason of the 7 to 7 tie with Pittsburg, who had all

The committee appointed by the faculty to consider the holding of extra rallies has authorized the students to hold one on Thursday afternoon to speed the team on its way to Moscow for the game with Idaho.

Laboratory sections should begin at 2:15 instead of 1:15, unless the instructors and students make other arrangements for taking care of the matter.

Prof. Howe Outlines Local Attitude on California-Stanford-U. S. C. Quarrel

When the Oregon eleven descends on the Vandal camp this Saturday, it may prove to be an important turning point in Lemon-Yellow football history.

Without a doubt, the Vandals have a dangerous outfit, and when "Skippy" Stivers opens up his aerial attack, the opposition has reason to worry.

IDAHO TEAM TO ENTER TRIANGULAR DEBATE

The Oregon debate team will be entered in a triangular debate with Washington and Idaho this year instead of in the Washington, Oregon, Stanford debate originally planned.

This debate with Idaho and Washington will take place on March 5. Where it will be held has not as yet been decided.

CROSS COUNTRY RACE WITH ROOKS SATURDAY

The Frosh and Rooks will stage their annual cross country run next Saturday just before the opening whistle of the football game is sounded.

The course is about two and one-half miles long, running from Hayward field out around the country and back onto the field for the finish.

The Rooks are coming over with a strong aggregation of long distance men and are prepared to give the frosh a real run for the honors.

Southern Hoop Schedule Expected to Suffer as Result of Controversy

By SAM WILDERMAN. When Stanford and California broke off athletic relations with Southern California last Saturday, because Southern California insisted on playing Cole, big tackle and one of its star linemen, in spite of California's protest that he was a professional, they did so without first consulting other members of the conference or inquiring into their opinion as to his eligibility.

OREGON SQUAD OUT FOR VANDAL SCALP

Varsity Eleven Leaving Today

Twenty-two Men Make Up Squad Departing to Play Idaho Eleven Saturday

"Skippy" Stivers' Aerial Attack Will be Feature of the Vandals' Offense

H. C. HOWE'S CLASSES STUDY OLD VOLUMES

Several valuable old books which were ordered by Prof. H. C. Howe for use in his advanced classes in English literature have just been received at the library from England.

"A General History of the Stage" contains memoirs of most of the principal performers that appeared on the English and Irish stage for the fifty years previous to the time the book was written, which was 1749.

RADIO LECTURE FRIDAY ON PLATOON SYSTEM

"The Platoon Plan of Public School Education" is the title of a radio lecture to be broadcast tomorrow night, November 7, at 8 o'clock from station KGW of the Morning Oregonian.

Professor Charles A. Rice, instructor in education at the Portland center of the University extension division, will give the radio lecture.

Mr. Rice has had considerable experience in directing the platoon system in Portland schools. While the new Washington high school was being constructed the system was used in the Lincoln high building.

Rooters Hats To Be At Rally Says Martin, Yell King

"BRING your rooter's hat," says the Yell King. "When the boys leave we want them to see a solid block of lemon-yellow and green. The only way this can be accomplished is for every man to flash his colors."

Y.W. FINANCE DRIVE TO START NEXT WEEK

Committee Will Solicit; Goal Put at $1800

Plans for the annual Y. W. C. A. finance drive among the students of the University are being formulated by Eloise Buck, chairman of the finance department, and Miss Florence Magowan, general secretary of the association.

The goal for which the committee is striving is $1800 and both Miss Buck and Miss Magowan feel confident that this can be raised.

WESLEY CLUB FORMS NEW STUDENT SOCIETY

A foreign student department with Sinfonosio Padilla in charge, has recently been inaugurated by the Wesley club, University student organization of the First Methodist church.

The Wesley club was organized in the spring term of 1923 and Lester Turnbaugh was elected first president. He held office during all of last year, the present officers being elected last spring.

TEAM SEND-OFF TO BEGIN AT 1:15

Every Student Expected to Turn out for Rally; Class Will be Dismissed

Big Serpentine will Form And March to S. P. Depot; Order of 'O' Men to Lead

Every student of the University is expected to turn out today at one o'clock for the pre-Vandal game rally. One o'clock classes will be dismissed so that all may be on hand to swell the pep fest.

The big serpentine will form at 1:15 at Thirteenth and Alder streets, and will be composed of the entire student body, all loyal faculty members, and all alumni who can get there.

"After going through the fight against the Huskies last Saturday, the team is somewhat bruised up," declared Freddie Martin, yell lord, "and it is imperative that all loyal students be on hand this afternoon to show the old fight, and urge them on to another victory. It can be done if all do their part."

All one o'clock classes will be dismissed, but students are expected to meet their two o'clocks, say the faculty, who have given assent to the rally.
