The vanity of man is disclosed in gigantic and gargantuan proportions when he essays the role of constitution maker.

There are some grounds for thinking that men may govern themselves, the more difficult task of governing their children, men modestly refer to the women but an attempt to project their power beyond the grave and prescribe rules for their progeny throughout eternity can be characterized as nothing but an egotistical debauch.

As an antidote to the cynical tone sometimes charged to this column, let us naively confess to an unbounding enthusiasm for the work of the Fifth Assembly of the League of Nations, which concluded its labors last month at Geneva.

Arthur Henderson of Britain declares adherence to the Protocol will result in the final outlawry of war. A leading feature of the Protocol is Article 2, which runs as follows:

The foregoing means that a nation adhering to the Protocol has abandoned the right to make war when it pleases but may use force, only as an individual may rightfully use force, to wit, when attacked or authorized so to do by public authority.

The process of unscrambling the Greeks and the Turks in the Balkans is nearing completion. The two governments agreed to the appointment of a Mixed Commission with a neutral chairman, whose duty it was, to move the Greeks out of the territorial limits of Turkey and remove the Turks from Greek soil.

The measure should be as effective as it has been drastic. When centuries of history have demonstrated that two peoples cannot live peaceably together it is high time they should try living apart.

As Franco-German relations become less tense, Herriot has time to tilt a lance at the Pope. He announces that the next budget will make no provision for maintaining a French Embassy at the Vatican.

PRINCESS BEBE BEGINS TONIGHT

Miss C. Banfield, Fergus Reddie, Mrs. J. Leader and Darrell Larsen Lead

PLAY IS BY J. BENEVENTE

Scenery and Costumes are Chosen with Care; Cast Consists of Twenty-six

Miss Charlotte Banfield, instructor in the department of drama, together with Fergus Reddie, Mrs. John Leader, and Darrell Larsen will assume the leads in the play, "Princess Bebe" which will be given tonight; and Wednesday and Thursday nights, at Guild theatre.

Mrs. Leader Takes Part Mrs. Leader, who is taking one of the inimitable character parts in which the play abounds, has remained in Eugene since Homecoming especially to take part in "Princess Bebe."

"Princess Bebe" is by the famous Jacinto Benevente and deals with the successive stages in the life of a Royal Prince and Princess who have been banished from the Empire of Suavia because they have had love affairs which are unfortunate from the Emperor's point of view.

First Scene in Palace The royal people, pursued by the Emperor's displeasure, pass rapidly from one level of life to another. The first act being laid in the imperial suite of the palace, the second in a casino on the Rivera, the

DR. MC AFFEE SPEAKS AT Y. M. HUT TODAY

The national church team visit will start today at 4:15 p. m. with a general meeting at the Y. M. C. A. hut, to which all students and faculty members are invited.

Five churches will be represented at this conference, the delegates being: Miss Ava B. Melam, home economics instructor at O. A. C., Methodist; Miss Harriette Thompson of New York City, Presbyterians; Miss Smith, deaconess of St. James Chapel in Portland, Episcopal; Mrs. Helen Street Ranney, executive-secretary of the Pacific Coast Congregational churches, Congregational; and Miss Frances Greenough of Chicago, Baptist.

Wednesday, the different denominations have arranged for group meetings, combining social and conference gatherings to which any girl belonging to the respective churches is welcome. Thursday the final meeting of the church team will be held at 4:15 at the Y. W. bungalow, and will be in charge of the different secretaries.

WOMEN'S DEBATE TONIGHT

The Women's doughnut debates will begin tonight at 7:00 in Commerce hall. The opposing teams will be drawn by lot and everyone is urged to be there on time, in order that the debates be finished early.

COUGAR ELEVEN TIES OREGON, 7-7

Koenig and Waldorf Are Big Cogs in Washington State Offensive Machine

JONES, TERJESON STAR

Before an enthusiastic crowd, the Oregon and Washington State elevens put on an interesting and somewhat exciting exhibition of football in the Multnomah field at Portland last Saturday, score, 7-7.

After each team had fought its way across its opponent's goal line, neither Oregon or Washington State was able to score again. Both elevens displayed a rather brilliant offensive, with Koenig and Waldorf the stellar performers for the Cougar team, while Jones ripped through the Washington State line for a total gain of 107 yards.

Koenig Heavy Hitter

With the very sound of the starter's gun, Koenig, a powerful Eskimo, began pounding, twisting and dodging his way through the Oregon line for consistent gains. Shortly after the opening of the second quarter, the Pullman aggregation worked the ball down to the Oregon one-yard line, where Duke Slater carried the ball over for the first score.

A fumble by Slater on the Washington State 40-yard line started the varsity on their march down the field. Several neat end runs by Anderson, together with several plunges by Vitus and line smashes by Jones, pushed the ball across the Cougar goal line. Reed converted, and the score then stood 7-7, remaining so to the end.

Oregon Offensive Better

On account of a dry field, Oregon showed the Lemon-Yellow followers a remarkably improved offensive. One of the outstanding features of the contest was the defensive as well as the offensive work of Jens Terjesen. Time after time Terjesen after blocking his man on the "punt formation" tore down the field and nailed the safety, who had received the kick. His running of interference was a big factor in the Oregon yardage gains.

Yardage not Made

Outside of some spectacular open field running by Waldorf and Koenig, the Pullman aggregation failed many times to make the needed yardage through the Oregon line.

As a measuring stick, of the Oregon and O. A. C. teams, Washington State brings out the fact that these two schools will match up fairly evenly against each other. By virtue of their very slim victory over the Cougars, the Aggies might have an extremely slight edge over Oregon. But Oregon's victory over the Beavers, who had beaten the Huskers, appears to even the count.

MEN TO VISIT HOUSES AT FIRST DIME CRAWL

All of the men of the campus are expected to visit a women's house, or several women's houses, as their fancy strikes them, tomorrow night from 6:15 to 7:30 and join in the first dime crawl of the season. A dime will be charged as admission to each house, and once in, a man can indulge in as many dances as he wants to.

These informal dances are sponsored by the Women's League, and the proceeds will go towards the foreign scholarship fund which this association maintains. Jeanne Elizabeth Gay, chairman of the scholarship fund and in charge of the dance plans, requests that all houses turn in the money collected as soon as the dances are over. Members of Alpha Omicron Pi will be at the Sigma Chi house, Alpha Delta Pi at the Campa Shoppe, Delta Delta Delta at the Sigma Nu house, Chi Omega at Phi Kappa Psi, and Kappa Alpha Theta at Phi Delta Theta.

Greater Oregon Committee

RED CROSS CAMPAIGN STARTS TOMORROW

A. S. U. O. Permits Campus Membership Drive

Tomorrow morning the signal will be given for the start of the Red Cross membership drive on the University campus, and the work will be wound up Thursday night. The leaders of the drive have been appointed and are ready for the start, and others to help in the work will be appointed today, according to an announcement made yesterday by Ivan Houston, who is chairman of the drive.

A representative will be named in each organization on the campus, who will do the active canvassing in his own group. Ivan Houston will be in charge of the representatives in the men's organizations and Pauline Bondurant of those in the women's organizations. Earl Smith and Bob Gardner will carry on the canvassing among the men outside the organizations. Helen Armstrong will handle the work among outside women.

During the two days of the drive there will be a booth in the Co-op and one in front of the library, where students may sign up. There will be a speaker at the assembly Thursday who will speak for the Red Cross, and there will be tables in the Woman's building during the assembly hour, where subscriptions will be taken.

The Red Cross drive is the first outside drive to be authorized by the A. S. U. O. heads this year and probably will be the only one to be considered worthy of authorization under the new plan restricting drives held on the campus. The campaign is under the auspices of the American Legion and is strongly backed by all ex-service men.

The Red Cross is an organization chartered by the United States and has been doing work for many years in times of both peace and war. Its work in peace time consists of helping tubercular children, victims of fires and floods, and other needy persons wherever they may be found. The committee urges the complete cooperation of the students during the two days of the drive and hopes to put it over 100 per cent before Thursday night.

Dr. C. E. Seashore Will Talk Tonight At Special Dinner

Dean C. E. Seashore, of the graduate school of the University of Iowa, is a campus visitor today. Dean Seashore, who is a well known psychologist, is visiting the University for the National Research council. He will talk tonight at a dinner to be given at the Anchorage at 6:30.

Dean Seashore's talk will be on the problem of the exceptional student, and what the universities and colleges are doing for him. The speech will be followed by a round table discussion. Dean Seashore will confer with various deans and department heads during his stay on the campus.

MRS. WARNER RAISES ESSAY PRIZE TO $200

Mrs. Murray Warner, donor of the University's priceless collection of oriental art objects, has doubled the prize she has offered annually for the last three years for the best essay on the general subject of the relations of the west with the countries of the Orient.

News to this effect was received by Mrs. P. L. Campbell, wife of the president of the University, in a letter containing a check for $200. When the prize was first offered the amount was $50. Last year it was raised to $100, and now Mrs. Warner makes the award still more attractive.

Revision of the rules for the contest will be undertaken by the University committee on awards within the next few days, when the announcement will be made whether the $200 will be left in one prize or divided between a first and second.

The prize was won last year by Ted Kurashige, a senior law student. Kurashige, an American born Japanese had won the $50 prize the year before, but this fact was not known by the committee in charge when the decision for last year was made. Kurashige is now practicing law in his native Pearl City, Hawaii, leaving the field to other essayists.

Mrs. Warner is the widow of Major Murray Warner, who was a United States engineer in China during the Boxer rebellion. Her interest in oriental art and in the people of the Orient goes back many years. Improvement of the relations between the peoples on

BASKETBALL MATERIAL IS GOOD, SAYS COACH

Barnstorming Trip Slated For Holidays

"Basketball is progressing very nicely," said Coach Reinhart yesterday. "Of course Latham, Shafer, Chapman and Rockey will be missed, but some exceptionally good varsity material is going to help a lot."

The three last year's varsity letter men, Hobson, Gowans and Gillenwaters, will be Reinhart's mainstays. Okerberg, Westergren, Kiminki, Westerman, Flynn, Reinhart, Chiles and Dallas of last year's frosh team, and last year's varsity substitutes, including Gunther, Stoddard and Jost, will give Reinhart a good field from which he can pick his team.

Reinhart is still giving fundamentals. Pivoting, passing, blocking and running compose the chief dish on the basketball menu. The mastery of the fundamentals is what every coach strives to have his men acquire, the coach said. A player must be exceptionally good in every department to get far in intercollegiate basketball the way it is played now.

A player's physical condition must be perfect. No other sport saps the player's strength as quickly as basketball, Reinhart explained. Months of training are necessary to put the player in a condition to stand the strain of a fast game. Mind and body must be perfectly coordinated. A man

SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY LAUDED BY MORTAR BOARD DELEGATE

"Yes, Southern hospitality is all it is reputed to be and more. There were no stones left unturned by the committees in charge of arranging for our comfort and pleasure during our stay in Lexington, and our chief regret was that we could be there only three days," was the way Frances Simpson, delegate to the biennial convention of Mortar Board, summed up the reception which the delegates received from the hostess chapter at the University of Kentucky, during the convention, which was held in Patterson hall at the University, November 6, 7, and 8.

"We three western girls were quite the curiosities of the convention because we had come from such a seemingly unheard-of part of the country. I had an Oregon seal on my traveling bag, and the minute it was set down in the hall there, I was besieged with inquiries about the far West. Everyone wanted to know how long it had taken me to get from Eugene to

GREATER OREGON GROUP SELECTED

First Work of Committee Is Oregon High School Conventions in December

TAPPER OUTLINES PLANS

Illustrated Booklet Giving Resume of Campus Life Planned for Next Term

The personnel of the Greater Oregon committee was announced last night by Ed Tapfer, chairman.

The committee will consist of the following men and women: Ardis Welch, secretary, Winifred Graham, Gertrude Houk, Lillian Luders, Willard Marshall, Floyd McKalson, Frank Reinhart, Thelma Ritley, Wistar Rosenberg, Truman Sether and Norine Weaver.

Conventions in December The first work of the committee will be cooperation with the Association of High School Student Body Officers, Girls' League officers and the Oregon High School Press association in the fifth annual High School conference to be held on the University of Oregon campus, Friday and Saturday, December 5 and 6.

Booklet is Planned The plans of the committee have not been fully mapped out for the rest of the year, but during the winter quarter an illustrated booklet will be published giving a resume of campus life from the student's point of view. The booklet will contain pictures and an explanation of the activities, and will be similar to the pamphlet, "Greater Oregon," put out by the committee last year.

In the spring general publicity will be conducted with letters sent to the high schools, much on the order of last year.

FROSH FOOTBALL TEAM PICTURE TO BE TODAY

A team picture and several individuals of the Freshman football squad will be taken this afternoon at four o'clock. Coach Baz Williams has requested that all freshmen on the squad be out in uniform on the freshman field at this time. All members of the first team must be on hand, and as many of the others as possible are urged to come out. This will be the only picture taken for the Oregonana of freshman grid men, and the entire squad should be present. "Be There," says Baz, "Four o'clock, on the frosh field."

NEW PARKING SPACE WILL BE COMPLETED BY WEDNESDAY

The new parking space on Thirteenth avenue, back of the Nicotina bush, will probably be completed by Wednesday, says H. M. Fisher.

SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY LAUDED BY MORTAR BOARD DELEGATE

Lexington, and when I told them we had been en route for five days they scarcely believed it," she continued. "The other two westerners, Gladys Evans of Washington State college and Mary McCallum of the University of Idaho shared the interest which my seal aroused, as they had come nearly as far. In fact, we were the only delegates from west of the central states, and to hear the Kentuckians talk you would think we had traversed at least two continents to get there.

"They asked so many questions about the West in general and Oregon in particular that when I extended to the convention an invitation to come out here for the next biennial conference, that was all they talked about for the rest of the time. I think there is little doubt of the invitation's being accepted.

"I was very much amused by the fact that there was considerable
