

CLASSES IN INDIVIDUAL GYMNASIUM SMALLER

Advanced Course Offered in Corrective Work

This year's University of Oregon co-ed is a much better specimen of physical health than her 1923 sister. The statement is based on a comparison of the 210 girls taking individual gymnasium last year at this time, with the 141 now taking corrective work. Miss Thomson, head of this department, attributes this very satisfactory decrease to the freshman class which is unusually healthy.

Whereas in the past the larger percentage taking individual gymnasium work has been freshmen, this year's classes are composed of upperclassmen and freshmen in equal proportion.

The individual gymnasium department is offering a new elective course of advanced work to major students this year. The work is a preparation for Industrial Accident Commission work, for specialized work under the U. S. Veterans Bureau or with a physician in his private work.

Two graduates of this University who had individual work similar to that included in the course, now have a successful Physiotherapeutic practice in Portland. There is also a demand for this sort of trained workers from health clinics.

Eleven students at present are enrolled in the course. Practice work is done in the Pacific Christian hospital.

E. J. STACK TO SPEAK ON LABOR PROBLEMS

E. J. Stack, secretary of the State Federation of Labor has consented to speak to members of the Technical society of the University at the meeting Wednesday evening, December 3.

Mr. Stack, one of the outstanding representatives of labor in this state, and a man of wide experience, will lecture on leadership in production. He will endeavor to give the audience an idea of how men on construction jobs should be treated and handled in order to get the best results, and to promote a mutual good feeling between employer and employees.

Any persons who are not members of the Technical society, who wish to attend this address, it is announced that the meetings, which are held every Wednesday night in Tedy hall, are always open and everyone interested in the address being given, is invited to attend.

PLEDGE DAY PICTURES WILL APPEAR SOON

The panoramic picture of the student body which was taken following last Thursday's assembly will be ready next week, in all probability. The photographers, Thompson and Watson, of Los Angeles, California, are the same ones who took a similar picture here last year. Last year, a student representative took orders for the pictures and a large percentage of the students secured them.

The pictures sold for $1.00 each. Special pictures for living organizations and private collections will be available, according to Professor Ralph D. Casey. The picture taken last year appeared in the Portland newspapers.

Thompson and Watson make a special business of taking pictures of college student body groups. Among the Oregon schools for whom they took student body pictures last year are Willamette, Reed, Pacific, and O. A. C.

DR. COGGESHALL USES SLIDES WITH LECTURE

The lecture given by Arthur S. Coggeshall in Villard hall yesterday, before geology majors, was accompanied by the showing of slides that illustrated the prehistoric animals of which he spoke.

The slides shown were taken of animals formed by a plastic rubber compound. The background used was in miniature, so as to bring out the relatively vast size of the animals themselves. The process by which one large three-horned animal was attacked and devoured by another was shown in detail.

Other pictures were of the great fossil quarry, in which valuable remains of prehistoric animals are being found. Scenes were shown of the Dinosaur valley in Utah, where an enormous number of specimens have been found embedded in the rock.

FINAL FROSH TENNIS MATCHES THIS WEEK

"All freshman tennis matches must be played off this week," says Rudolph Fahl, tennis coach. The tournament started the first of next week, he said.

The following matches are yet to be played to determine entrants for the semi-final round: Diffenderffer and Brundage, the winner playing G. Potts; Taft and Gregory; Allen and Bethlefsen, the winner playing W. Powell.

Cleaver, by defeating M. Cone, has already won his way to the semi-finals.

DIME CRAWL RECEIPTS BREAK FORMER RECORD

One hundred dollars and fifteen cents was the total amount derived from the dime crawl Wednesday night. This indicates a record at tendance for the crawl, despite the fact that it was the week before the game at Corvallis for which everyone is saving their money.

This money is to go towards the foreign scholarship fund of the Women's League, and, since the affair proved so popular, there will be similar informal dances given during the year. All proceeds which have not been turned in to Jeanne-Elizabeth Gay, chairman of the affair, should be taken to her at once.
