rection of Beulah Clark; the orchestra program, under direction of Rex Underwood; and the grand opera program under direction of Madame Rose McGrew; and a program of organ music under direction of John Stark Evans.

The presentation Sunday includes an ensemble of orchestra instruments; an instrumental trio of piano, flute and violin; a mixed quartet; several vocal solos, both soprano and baritone; and a children's chorus of well known Christmas songs, directed by Mrs. Anne L. Beck. The program promises to be an interesting one as well as an excellent presentation of old Christmas songs.

Five Hundred Leaders In High School Activities Will Come to Conference

meeting will follow this subject. At the same time, the editors and managers of high school papers will convene in Villard hall, and will be addressed by Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, Ralph D. Casey, of the school of journalism and Hal E. Hoss, president of the Oregon State Editorial association, and managing editor of the Oregon City Enterprise.

The officers of the girls leagues will meet in the Woman's building, at which Maude Schroeder, president of the University of Oregon Women's Athletic association, will preside. The general subject for the morning at this session will be, "What Part Should Sports Play in High School Activities?"

Delegates to Tour Campus

Friday afternoon the student body officers will be addressed by R. E. Cannon, principal of Gresham Union high school. After the discussion, the delegates will be taken on a tour of the campus conducted by the Oregon Knights, and there will be a Women's League tea for the women delegates in the Woman's building.

The principal address of the afternoon at the meeting of the editors and managers will be given by Fred Lockley, special writer for the Oregon Journal in Portland, on "Feature Writing." Theta Sigma Phi will entertain with a tea in the Woman's building for the women editors and managers.

The officers of the girl's leagues who will meet in Condon hall, will be addressed by Mrs. Virginia Judy Esterly, dean of women on "Vocational Opportunities." There will also be a discussion of the organization of girls leagues and an election of officers.

Banquet is Planned

Friday evening there will be the annual banquet of delegates at 5:45 in the Woman's building, Dean Eric W. Allen will be toastmaster, and music will be furnished by the Pi-Id Pipers. Ten numbers will be presented on the bill for college night, beginning at 8:30. Among them will be a xylophone solo, by Elmer Clark, a skit under the direction of Fergus Reddie, of the department of drama and the speech arts, a violin solo by Delbert Moore and a solo by Frank Jue, Chinese tenor.

Saturday forenoon, the student body officers will be addressed by Dean H. Walker, student advisor, and Dean Colin V. Dymont, college of literature, science and the arts. Ed Tapper, chairman of the conference committee will lead a round table discussion on miscellaneous activities, and the session will close with an election of officers.

Editors to be Addressed

The meeting of editors and managers at 9:00 o'clock in Villard hall will be addressed by Edward Millar, managing editor of the Emerald, on "Organizing the Editorial Staff," and by George S. Turnbull, professor of journalism, on, "Writing the News." This will be followed by round table discussion and election of officers.

The correct clothes show under the direction of Kathryn Nicholson, will take place in the auditorium of the University High School at 9:45. This will be followed by demonstration of the Woman's Athletic association under the direction of Miss Florence Alden, instructor in physical education.

Saturday afternoon, the final joint meeting will be held in the music auditorium, at which the new officers of the association will be presented. Colonel William S. Gilbert, regent of the University, will address the conference on, "Broadening Horizons." At 2:15, a photograph of all the delegates will be taken in front of the auditorium and the conference will adjourn.

Spectacular Record Of Varsity Outstanding; Lose But Two Games

opening of the season, that he gave his men some plays to work on.

Then on September 27, the varsity made its initial appearance for 1924 against Willamette. The team was well versed in the basic grid points, but only using four different plays against the Bears, Oregon was unable to score and the contest ended in a scoreless tie. This was not a very impressive start, and many football dopsters believed that the Oregon squad had a very gloomy outlook for the season.

Pacific Downed in Early Game

Two weeks later, when the Lemon-Yellow team met Pacific, the eleven had little trouble in running up a three touchdown margin, the score ending 20-0 in favor of the varsity.

The next week, Oregon met the present coast champions, Stanford, at Palo Alto. Many sport writers conceded a 40 point margin to the Cardinals. But to the surprise of Pop Warner, the Oregon gridsters, twice crossed the Red Shirts' goal line, the score ended with Stanford on the heavy end of a 28-13 score. Regardless of the final outcome, the varsity made a very good showing against the Cardinals, and for the rest of the season, the Oregon eleven was regarded as a team quite capable to block the victorious march of any conference team.

Whitman proved to be no match to the Oregon squad, which ran up a 40-6 score with comparative ease. On the Saturday of Homecoming, the Washington warriors trotted out on Hayward field, confident that Oregon would not prove to be a stumbling block in the way of their championship aspirations. The final score was 7-3 in favor of Oregon. The spectacular defensive work of the Oregon line, the grim fighting determination of every man on the team made it possible for eleven men, without a single substitution, to beat the mighty Huskies, is too fresh in the minds of every Oregonian that saw the brilliant battle to need any explanation.

By playing football in regular "basketball fashion," passing the ball constantly, Idaho defeated Oregon 13-0. However, the varsity continually threatened the Vandals with a driving offense, but the aerial attack proved to be the downfall of the Lemon-Yellow team.

Battling for sixty minutes, neither Oregon or Washington State were able to change a 7-7 tie. The game was not marked by any spectacular work of either team, as the two elevens fought a steady battle, which netted each side a touchdown.

Aggies Trounced, 7 to 3

The big game of the year, the tilt between two ancient rivals, was one of the most thrilling and exciting contests of the year, the game between Oregon and O. A. C. The game ended with Oregon leading 7-3. Again in this game, the stonewall defense of Oregon saved the team from being scored upon. The clever work of the Oregon team accounted for the touchdown. This game completed the conference schedule of the varsity.

After the completion of the conference season, Oregon journeyed to Portland, where they were defeated at the hands of the Multnomah clubmen, 6-0.

Smooth, well-kept hair is now so easy to have!

UNKEMPT hair was once as nearly universal as smooth, neatly-combed hair is today.

Of course, well-dressed men realized then as well as now that nothing spoils the whole appearance so quickly as hair that is out of place.

But what could they do?

Old-fashioned pomades only matted the hair and made it greasy. Water evaporated within an hour and left the hair drier and more unruly than ever. There wasn't a thing that could keep the hair smoothly in place from morning till night—natural, soft, lustrous.

That's why Stacomb was introduced.

At last—a way to keep the hair in place

At first known only in California colleges, the story of Stacomb quickly spread. Today, well-dressed men everywhere have found in Stacomb what they have always needed—an easy, natural way to keep the hair looking just as they want it to look at all times.

Perhaps you part your hair in the middle. Perhaps on the right side. Perhaps on the left. Perhaps you comb it straight back. It makes no difference; Stacomb will keep it just the way you like it best. A touch of it in the morning, and your hair will stay just the way you want it all day long.

No matter how uncontrollable your hair may be after being washed—no matter how dry and straggly by nature—Stacomb will keep it in perfect order, always smooth, trim, lustrous.

Women use Stacomb, too. They find it excellent to control stray hairs, to make the curl stay in, and to keep the hair severely close to the head in the prevailing fashion.

Use Stacomb tomorrow morning, and look your best all day! A delicate, invisible cream—non-staining and non-greasy. In jars and tubes at your college drug store.
