

SALES CONTEST STARTS TONIGHT

Sixteen Students to Give Insurance Talks

FOUR PRIZES OFFERED

Winners Will Be Guests at Portland Luncheon

One hundred twenty dollars in prizes is offered to the four contestants doing the best work in the insurance selling contest held by the school of business administration in room 105, Commerce building, tonight and tomorrow night from 7:00 to 9:30. Sixteen students have signified their intentions of competing in this contest.

The plan of the contest is: each contestant is a member of the life insurance class; each represents a particular life insurance company; each presents a particular contract of that company to an actual prospect obtained by the contestant through a survey conducted in the field. This survey is also designated to indicate the needs for life insurance by the public in general.

Prizes are Given
"In order to make the contest extremely interesting," said Professor C. L. Kelly, director of the contest, "and worth while from every standpoint, sixteen state managers of life insurance companies contribute $7.50 each toward a fund which is to be used for prizes for the students excelling in the contest. This year the four prize winners in the contest in Eugene will appear before the Managers and Underwriters Associations in Portland at a luncheon given in honor of the contestants."

The companies contributing to the contest are: Etna, New England Mutual, Massachusetts Mutual, Missouri State, American Central, Provident Mutual, Penn Mutual, West Coast, Fidelity Mutual, Oregon, and Western States life insurance companies, and the National Life Insurance company of Vermont, Equitable Life Insurance company of Iowa, Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, Sun Life Assurance company of Canada, and Equitable Life Assurance company of the United States.

Name to be on Cup
In addition the Oregon Life Insurance company a few years ago gave a silver loving cup to the University, on which is to be annually engraved the name of the contestant winning first place in the contest.

The students entered in the contest are: I. D. Houston, H. E. Kidwell, A. E. Grimm, R. M. Austin, S. S. Selak, R. W. Frankson, Donald Husband, G. E. Wilson, D. W. Scarborough, Jeanette I. Dentler, and E. F. Peterson.

Shirley Edwards, who was graduated in the school of business administration last June, won the contest last year.

Blask and White Terror Spreads Destruction Over University Campus

way to conquer the menace was to fight it with its own weapons. Acting on this resolution, the entire campus was inoculated with "word study," and the result was so successful that the civilized world was astounded. In fact, this discovery has gone down into the annals of history as one of the most overwhelming victories of modern science.

The fear that had so long hung like a black pall over the campus was dispelled, and once more Old Oregon was blithe and happy in the golden sunlight of spring term. Fearlessly did the students expose themselves to the menace, and escaped, protected by the Great Course, unscathed, where other poor wretches fell victims to the scourge.

Oregon's Representatives Tell of Oratorical Convention at Berkeley

California was very pleasant. Everywhere they were treated with hospitality, both at Berkeley, where they spent a few days, and at Stanford, where the contest was held.

At Berkeley, Abramson was given the use of the big University auditorium and speeches were worked out on the various phases of the main topic of discussion at the contest. The subject finally allotted to Abramson was, "The power of the supreme court to overrule acts of congress." The public speaking faculty of the University of California entertained the Oregon representatives during their stay there.

"We were entertained at Palo Alto by the representatives of the associated students," said Mr. Brown. "The various dormitories gave luncheons and dinners in honor of the visitors and we were also entertained at the new Student Union building."

Dr. David Starr Jordan, former president of Stanford, spoke at a banquet given for the speakers and faculty representatives. His topic was the early forms of public speaking and in his speech he outlined the method by which the old coaches used to instruct their pupils in the mechanical methods of speaking.

Several changes were made in the public speaking organization this year, said Brown. The name was changed to the Pacific Coast Forensic League and a new method of judging contests was adopted. After this, five judges will decide on the winners of the meet and it was decided that none of these should be faculty members.

It was proposed at the meeting to hold an oratorical contest sometime in April or May, to decide the Pacific coast champion in oratory. A loving cup will be awarded to the school that wins this meet.

Officers elected at the conference are: President, Professor A. Nichols, Southern California; vice-president, Professor M. Dagg, Washington State college; secretary and treasurer, Professor Earl Wells, Oregon Agricultural college.

FOOTBALL ARTICLES APPEAR IN MAGAZINES

A number of the late magazines at the library contain stories, pictures and accounts of the football season this year. Among these is The Independent of November 29 which has a group of pictures under the heading, "The Lure of the Game." The pictures indicate why six million people crowded college stadiums last fall to follow the fortunes of their teams in this sport.

The group of pictures in this magazine include one of John MacWillie, Columbia University end, making a touchdown; eighty-five thousand persons watching a forward pass when Yale played the Army to a 7-7 tie this fall; University of Pennsylvania man kicking goal while an opposing player leaps into the air in an endeavor to stop it; another shows the end of a triple pass taken during the Lafayette-Pittsburgh game with the Lafayette halfback plunging through the line for a gain. A photograph is shown of the recent game at Berkeley between Leland Stanford University and the University of California in which Capt. Patrick of Stanford is seen being brought down by a University of California tackle.

"Football Lessons of 1924" by Herbert Reed appeared in the Outlook for November 26. In the article an explanation is given for the development of the game in America, and who the outstanding figures are in the current season, as well as a number of other interesting points. Pictures show Allen of Yale with the ball in the Yale-Princeton game in which the latter was defeating, 10-0; "Red" Grange of the University of Illinois; Quarterback Slagle of Princeton; Halfback Don Miller of Notre Dame; and a number of others.

KAPPA SIGMA QUINTET WINS SEMI-FINAL GAME

Victors Will Play Psi Kappa For Doughnut Title

Kappa Sigma's fast quintet of basketeers stopped the pennant rush of the Phi Kappa Psi's yesterday afternoon by a 20 to 13 win. This was one of the fastest and most exciting of any game yet played. Starting with a field goal by "Swede" Nelson of Phi Psi's in the first few minutes of play and ending with a long shot by Powers of the Kappa Sig's, the game was one of clever checking, passing and shooting throughout.

Thomas Powers, forward, was the outstanding man of the game with his clever dribbling and shooting ability. He also garnered a total of 10 points. Eberhardt, rangy center, and Turner, forward, aided considerably in the victory.

Don McCormack, forward, was easily the class of the Phi Psi's attack but was held to 7 points by the speedy Powers. Nelson, guard, and Hallin, fast center, played a good defensive game besides looping the ball for a few points.

With the victory the Kappa Sigma's have earned the right to tangle with the equally fast team from Psi Kappa in the final game of the doughnut league, to be played next Thursday afternoon. The class shown by these two teams in their last few games proves that they are the best in the league.

Oregon Debate Team Works for Coming Contests With Aggies

subject as will be used in the O. A. C. debate was discussed.

Erwin was on the debate squad last year and previously debated in the high schools of Seattle. He was chosen with the three other members of the squad at the beginning of the term from a large group that tried out.

McCroskey, a freshman in the University, was on the Salem high school team which won the state championship last year. He also represented the state of Oregon at the interstate extempore speaking contest at Los Angeles where he won second place in a close contest with the California representative who later won the national meet.

HISTORY CLUB TO HOLD MEETING WEDNESDAY

"The Philippines" is the title of a paper to be presented to the new University History club at its first meeting Wednesday night. Julian Bulaon, graduate student in history, will present the topic. The meeting will be held in the men's room of the Woman's building at 7:30.

The executive council of the new organization held its first meeting last night. "The council has some important matters to bring up at the meeting," said Henry Sheldon, president. The other members of the council are: Robert Raymer, vice-president; Mary Griffin, secretary; Mildred Hayden, chairman of the program committee; and Elsie Dennis, chairman of the membership committee. The club, made up of about 20 members, was formed on the campus about a month ago. It is made up of all those of the campus who have a definite interest in history, twenty-one hours of history being required for election to membership. Modern problems will be discussed in the meetings, while the principles learned in history will be applied to them. Alice Lindell is slated to present the paper at the January meeting of the organization.

National Honorary Phi Beta Kappa Plans Initiation Tomorrow

Morrissette and Florence Buck. Kerby Miller, who was elected two years ago and who returned two months ago from Oxford, where he was a Rhodes scholar to become a member of the Oregon faculty, also will be initiated at this time. This is the first fall initiation held by the Oregon chapter. A second election will be held in the spring, at which time a considerably larger number will be taken in.

Y. W. FRESHMEN MAKE PLANS FOR THIS YEAR

What the Freshman commission really is and what it has done in the past and what it can do was the essence of talks given to freshman members of the local Y. W. C. A. at a meeting in the Bungalow yesterday afternoon at 4:30. Plans for this year were also presented and a nominating committee for this year's officers was appointed. Maxine Edmunds, Dorothy Munsell, Elizabeth Latham, Dorothy Carter, Lyle Veazie, Guinivere Lamson and Evelyn Hartman were the girls appointed on the nominating committee by Mary Donaldson, vice-president of the Y. W. C. A. and chairman of the freshman commission.

Miss Florence Magowan, secretary of the Y. W. spoke on the "Relation of the Freshman Commission to the Association." Florence Buck, president of the organization presented a talk on, "What the Freshman Commission has done in the past and what it can do." Mary Donaldson, the third speaker, gave the plans for the year. This year, the commission, although not wholly organized, made the pennants which were worn during Homecoming week-end. This work has been done by the commission for the past few years.

same fighting spirit as they had while playing for their Alma Mater. Many of these grid heroes have expressed the opinion that they will have little difficulty in walloping the all-star Multnomah aggregation. With both elevens, Oregon and Multnomah alumni teams, endeavoring to put all the punch into the contest as in the old days, when they were sworn rivals, a real game will be on tap for the fans who are fortunate enough to attend this contest which will equal and no doubt better any of the past season grid games for thrill and real excitement.

EDUCATORS TO SOLICIT RELIEF WORK SUPPORT

President Charles F. Thwing of Western Reserve University at Cleveland is heading a committee of prominent educators throughout the country to enlist the immediate cooperation of colleges in the support of Near East Relief, the organization chartered by congress to provide relief for the refugee and orphaned population of the Near East.

Cooperation is expected from college people, it is said, inasmuch as it is young college people for the most part who are carrying on the work of Near East Relief overseas. In Armenia and Syria and Greece these younger alumni are undergoing privations to carry on this work.
