

EDUCATION PLAN TO BE STUDIED

Primary Purpose Intended To Encourage Students In Doing Research Work

ADOPTION IS DOUBTFUL

Wheeler Heads Committee To Investigate Outline Of Dean C. E. Seashore

The movement to investigate the plans outlined by Dean C. E. Seashore, of the National Research Council, is beginning to take form.

Started During War During the war, the National Research Council was originated and was found to be of such great value, that it was continued on a peace basis.

As the duties of the council expanded, the government realized that universities would have to supply the necessary scientists. It was then discovered that on investigation that a large number of college laboratories were poorly manned by students, and incapable of carrying out experimental work.

One of the primary purposes is to encourage students in doing research work, and aiding in promoting this interest.

Because of the present congested conditions in many colleges, education is handled on a wholesale basis. As a direct result many gifted students never have the opportunity of finding themselves or realizing their individual ability.

Students would be classified at the beginning of each term into sections, according to the degree of their mental aptitude.

Each section would be on a competitive basis, and the quality of the student's work would determine

SENIOR BALL PROGRAMS MADE OF IMPORTED PARCHMENT PAPER

Attention given to the artistic details of the Senior ball is evidenced, even in the programs. Parchment paper which harmonizes with the other decorations, is being imported from far places.

The cover, designed by Ed Bohlman, also carries out a similar tone of grandeur of the ball. Two whirling ballet dancers supply a further motif of Russian atmosphere that is also noticeable in the brilliant, contrasting colors of the pages.

The following houses have pledged 100 per cent up to 10 p. m. last night in the Tiny Shields benefit ticket sale.

UNIQUE BANQUET HELD BY CLASS IN ORATORY

Imaginary Future Reunion Feature of Event

A banquet for members of the public speaking class under Professor Oscar A. Brown, at which the students gave after dinner speeches as they would under actual conditions, was held at the College Side Inn, Thursday evening.

The banquet was supposed to take place twenty years hence at a reunion of the class. The speakers gave imaginary talks of an entertaining nature, telling of the lessons they had learned in life during the twenty years and also of the new Oregon spirit and campus they had seen on returning to the University after a long absence.

MAJOR CHANGES DUE BEFORE END OF TERM

All students who anticipate changing their majors next term should file the petitions at once, according to Carleton E. Spencer, registrar. Failure to do so will result in a delay of several days at the beginning of the winter term.

EDUCATION MAGAZINE WILL BE ISSUED SOON

"High School," a magazine published quarterly by the school of education and the University high school, will be off the press within a few days.

This magazine is published in the interest of secondary education in Oregon and the Northwest, with Mrs. Margaret Goodall, instructor in English at the University high school, as editor.

In addition to these main articles, there are reviews and announcements of new texts and books, general news of interest to teachers throughout the state.

MUSICAL FANTASY COMING TO GUILD

"Yellow Candle Light" Attracts Praise in Dramatic Circles

ORIGINALITY IS FEATURE

Play Written by Fergus Reddie With Musical Composition By Arant

The forthcoming production of "Yellow Candle Light," original musical fantasy by Fergus Reddie, head of the University department of drama, and Perry Arant, western concert pianist and composer, is attracting much attention in music and dramatic circles in the Pacific northwest.

"Yellow Candle Light" is scheduled to be produced on the campus at Guild theatre during the latter part of January and rehearsals have been going on for the past three weeks.

Music Lovers Interested

The head of the music department at Oregon Agricultural college as well as a number of Portland music lovers who are interested in the work of Mr. Arant, have expressed their desire to attend the premiere of the fantasy and are planning to make the trip to Eugene sometime during the five days on which it will be given.

There is also some indication that the fantasy may be taken to Portland, sometime after it is produced on the campus.

There is a unique feature to "Yellow Candle Light," other than its entire originality, in that while most musical productions are written to fit the music, the libretto for this play was written by Mr. Reddie some two years ago and the music composed by Mr. Arant, since last July, to harmonize with the libretto.

Mr. Reddie, in a recent interview, related that the idea for "Yellow Candle Light" was supplied by the small sister of one of his friends, who wrote a letter filled with thoughts of fairies and fairyland in which every child lives.

Mr. Reddie attempted to answer the letter, he found that his thoughts developed rapidly into a play, which he wrote and dedicated to her.

Mr. Reddie and Mr. Arant met last summer and Mr. Arant became so interested in the fantasy that he has remained in Eugene since that time for the express purpose of collaborating with Mr. Reddie over its production.

An unusually large cast is needed for "Yellow Candle Light" for, besides the characters of the play, there is a chorus of more than twenty picked voices which is being trained by Mr. Arant.

The appeal of "Yellow Candle Light," however, should not be confined to children, as it was written to appeal to all those who remember that they have been children during their lives.

NET MEN WILL RESUME PRACTICE NEXT TERM

The Varsity and Freshmen tennis squads have been taking things easy for the last few days and will not resume steady practice until next term.

The freshmen tennis tournament has not been completed because of the wet weather and probably will not be finished. According to Coach Fahl, all men going out for freshman tennis will start in practicing indoors next term and will probably not finish the tournament because they will be expected to start strenuous work at the beginning of next term.

Prospects for a winning varsity tennis season is very bright with a number of lettermen in school. In the early part of the fall, Harry Meyers was elected captain and George Hayden, manager of the varsity tennis squad.

Term's End Nears; Final Tests Loom; Christmas Vacation Begins Next Friday

With scheduled examinations ending Friday noon of next week it is probable that nearly all students will have finished by that time and will either be home or started home for the holidays.

The three women's dormitories, Hendricks hall, Susan Campbell hall and Thacher cottage, will be closed December 20 and will reopen January 4, which is the Sunday before registration day.

STATUE OF LATE DEAN UNVEILED IN PORTLAND

Ceremony Held Friday At Medical School

A bronze relief statue of the late Dr. A. J. MacKenzie, first president of the North Pacific Surgical association and dean of the University of Oregon medical school for a period of eight years, ending in 1920, was unveiled at 11 o'clock yesterday at the medical school.

The relief, which is a profile bust, is a dedication to the memory of Dr. MacKenzie. The sculptor is A. Phimister Proctor, also sculptor of several other statues in Portland, including that of Theodore Roosevelt.

Dr. Ernest F. Tucker, chairman of the association, presented the bronze to the medical school on behalf of the friends of Dr. MacKenzie, and it was accepted by C. C. Colt, chairman of the medical committee of the board of regents.

CHOIR WILL SING ST. CECILIA MASS

University Vesper Singers To Render Production Fifth Time Tomorrow

SEVEN PARTS IN MASS

Leads Same As Last Year, By Aubrey Furry, Ruth Akers, and Roy Bryson

The fifth annual presentation of the St. Cecilia mass to be given tomorrow in the Methodist church, promises to be the best presentation yet given.

The mass is to be given by the University choir composed of 52 voices, which is several more than were used last year as each glee club has a larger personal than formerly.

The program, beginning at 4 o'clock, is to be at the Methodist church. It was always well attended with scarcely standing room at former presentations.

This is the first entirely musical vesper program given this year but will be followed by a number of others next term, some of which will probably be given in the new music auditorium.

EXTENSION DIVISION ADDS NEW COURSES

A new correspondence study course in advance writing, is the feature of the new catalogue of correspondence courses now being printed for the extension division, according to Mary E. Kent.

Several new courses have been added in the catalogue. Some of the old ones have been revised and modernized and in a few cases new texts have been adopted.

The new catalogue was sent to press the middle of the week. It is hoped to have the galley off by the latter part of next week, and probably have the final catalogue ready to mail before the new year.

According to the faculty ruling, all students matriculating for a bachelor of arts degree must have at least one year's work in the department of written English.

There are several new courses included in the new catalogue. These include an additional course in American history. Since this is only an elementary course only entrance credit will be given for it.

GOVERNMENT FILM GIVEN EXTENSION DEPARTMENT

The University extension division has received twenty-five reels of moving picture film from the government bureau of commercial economics at Washington, D. C.

Sale of Tickets For Benefit Game Is Progressing

The sale of tickets for the Shields benefit game on Christmas day continues to grow, according to the report of those in charge.

LAST RADIO LECTURE TO BE FRIDAY EVENING

Dr. Sweetser Will Discuss 'Christmas Flowers'

With the radio-casting of the lecture by Dr. A. R. Sweetser on "Christmas Flowers" next Friday evening, December 19, the University extension division will finish its radio work for this year.

The extension division does its radio-casting through broadcasting station KGW of the Morning Oregonian. The transmissions have been given regularly all fall on Friday evenings at 8 o'clock.

"The lectures have proven very popular this fall," said Mr. Powers. "Comments from radio fans all over the country are received weekly, expressing the public's appreciation of the service."

DELEGATES TO ATTEND Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE

The University of Oregon delegation to the conference of western colleges to be held at Asilomar, California, December 27 to January 3, is getting ready to leave soon after the examinations.

Those from the University to attend the conference are: Willard Marshall, James Stewart, Del Tedrow, Lester Smith, Dorian Patterson, Robert Giffen, Clifford Constance, Sam Lockwood, and two foreign students.

H. W. Davis, director of the United Christian work on the campus, has not definitely decided if he will attend the Asilomar conference. If he does not he will go to Chicago where he will attend a conference of religious workers from all the universities in America.

CHANGES IN ART AND SCULPTURE ARE SEEN BY AVARD FAIRBANKS

Changes in the world of art and the future of sculpture in the west are noted by Avard Fairbanks, the University of Oregon's professor of sculpture, now on a year's leave of absence in the East.

"I have had some delightful visits with many of the sculptors," writes Professor Fairbanks to Ellis F. Lawrence, dean of the school of architecture and allied arts.

GRID CONTESTS ARE SCHEDULED

List of Oregon Football Games for 1925 Given At Conference Meeting

U. S. C. WILL PLAY IOWA

Varsity Meets Washington In Portland; Five Games Listed for Lemon-Yellow

The Pacific Coast conference football schedule is complete, with as little friction as the conference has ever had.

Oregon schedule is the most favorable in years, while other coaches are all well satisfied. The conference this year takes on a new note, with inter-sectional games being scheduled during the regular season.

The three California schools each scheduled four conference games each, while the rest took five. Oregon also has agreed to play Washington alternately in Seattle and Portland, with the game going to Portland this year.

Other business of the conference, such as eligibility rules and various problems, will be taken up today. No word has yet been given out on the proposed withdrawal of the Big Five of the northwest from the Northwest Conference.
