"Messe Solennelle"

THE TREMENDOUSLY emotional Saint Cecilia mass by Charles Gounod will be presented on Sunday for the fifth consecutive Christmas season by the University Vesper choir. The sacred composition, a musical panegyric for St. Cecilia, the patron saint of church music, though sung and resung since its first presentation at the church of St. Eustache, in Paris in 1855, never loses its appeal to the true lover of music.

Saint Cecilia has long been regarded as the muse of sacred music. Praises have been sung to her for centuries. Chaucer, Dryden and Pope laid their poetic offerings at the festival shrines of the blessed lady, and Raphael transferred his conception of her to canvas. It was the mysticism of Gounod, which, responding to the inspiration of the blessed lady, gave him the conception of the musical lyric.

Listening to the simple and at the same time lofty melodies of the mass, one cannot help but feel the quiet grace of the solemn chords—and leave the church with a deeper consciousness of the spirit of the Great Teacher whose earthly existence has been recalled.

"30"

WITH this issue the Emerald ceases publication until the beginning of the winter term. Staff members have worked long and faithfully in order to keep the campus informed of the news until the last possible moment. Tomorrow, with the responsibility over with and a knowledge of work faithfully done, they will give their entire attention to finishing up odds and ends of class work and preparing for examinations.

The editor wishes to thank both the business and news staffs for their untiring effort in helping to make the Emerald a faithful record of campus happenings.

For A "Greater Oregon"

IN A DAY or two each Oregon student will be at home for the holidays, and in most cases, there will be but three or four of you to represent the student body in interesting high school people in coming to college.

True, there has been a "greater Oregon" representative appointed in each town, but the responsibility should not fall entirely upon his shoulders. You should make the high school student feel that a college education is the thing he wants and Oregon can give him the best in liberal arts training.

FOUR ARE INITIATED INTO ALPHA KAPPA PSI

Four men, majoring in the school of business administration were initiated into Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce fraternity, last Tuesday. The new members are Philip Bergh, Gerald Cray, Alvin Grimm, Frank Reinhart.

The active members are F. A. Nagley, Alfred Lomax and E. E. Davison of the faculty, Ed Tapfer and Jack Rogers. Inactive members on the campus are Bill Reinhart, Jack Benefiel, Lamar Toozie, John MacGregor, Paul Patterson and "Shy" Huntington.

Oregon, Washington, Montana, California universities have chapters as have O. A. C. and U. S. C. The purpose of its members is to promote study of business science, to carry on business research and to raise the standards of business ethics.

HAROLD LLOYD SHOOTSCENES FOR NEW PLAY

Don't be surprised that if in Harold Lloyd's next big production you see some smiling face of some of the Oregon students. All Oregon students who witnessed the Stanford-California game will probably be in his next picture.

Before the big game, Harold Lloyd and several other fellows dressed in gridiron togs were on the field enacting a few scenes. Lloyd played several positions and in one position made a big run with a fellow after him. During the few scenes he repeatedly fell over the ten yard line chain. Shots were taken of the rooting stands and of the thousands of spectators. These scenes with the gridiron atmosphere will be in his next big production.

BLIND ARE ENTERTAINED AT UNIVERSITY CONCERT

University of Washington.—More than 50 blind people, all residents of Seattle, will be the guests of the A. S. U. W. at the mid-winter concert in Meany hall at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday.

"The chorus, which has been in training for the past two months, is well qualified to present this difficult program," said Dean Irving M. Glenn. "These selections from Aida are the most difficult ever attempted at the University of Washington."

At the Theatres

THE REX—Last day: "The Fast Set," a sparkling drama of love, laughter and excitement and an author who thought he knew his wife like a book, featuring Betty Compson, Adolph Menjou, Elliott Dexter and ZaSu Pitts; Imperial comedy, "Up on the Farm;" Rosner, in "Fast Set" musical setting on the mighty Wurlitzer.

Coming: Gloria Swanson in "Wages of Virtue," with Ben Lyon.

THE CASTLE—Last day: Charles Jones in "Western Luck," a rapid-fire romance of Wall street and mountain trails and a go-getter in love and adventure; "Felix in Hollywood" the king of kats in his "latest" cartoon classic; Andy Gump responds with "A Day of Rest;" Castle musical score.

HELLIG—Harold Lloyd in "Hot Water," Saturday last day. Lloyd's funniest yet. Saturday, December 20, "Blossom Time." Direct from New York. One of the best musical productions on American stage.

UNIVERSITY HIGH GIRLS PLAN CAFETERIA LUNCH

A special cafeteria lunch will be held in the auditorium of the University high school Friday noon, December 19. The affair is sponsored by the Girls' League, which was organized during the week.

Kathryn Fry, who is chairman of the league, announced that every one, including University students, is asked to attend. The menu will consist of scalloped potatoes, Boston brown bread, pickles, sandwiches, plum pudding, pie, cake and chocolate. Each article will be sold for five cents.

OREGON GIRL WINS PRIZE FOR STATUE BASE DESIGN

Margaret Goodin, an ex-student of the University of Oregon, won the first prize for design of a simple stone base for the statue of Joan of Arc. This base is to be used with the statue that is offered to the city of Portland by Dr. Henry Waldo Coe. Miss Goodin was awarded the prize by the city art commission by a unanimous verdict of the judges. She is an employee of Houghtaling and Dougan, being a draftsman for the company. While on the campus Miss Goodin was a major in the department of architecture, and is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.
