

TEN FELLOWSHIPS OPEN TO WOMEN

Dean of Women Receives
List of Awards

DEGREES ARE REQUIRED

Information About Terms
Given in Bulletin

Mrs. Virginia Judy Esterly, dean of women, has received a list of fellowships for women to be awarded by the American Association of University Women. Any details regarding the terms upon which the awards will be made, as well as the procedure for application, may be learned by consulting the A. A. U. W. fellowship announcement for 1925, copies of which may be obtained at the office of the dean of women.

List is Given
The list of fellowship awards for 1925-26 is as follows:

The Alice Freeman Palmer memorial fellowship, which carries a sum of $1,000 for research, is open to American women holding a Ph. D. degree.

The Sarah Berliner research and lecture fellowship is also for $1,000. It is open to American women holding a Ph. D. degree and the research may be made in physics, chemistry or biology.

Mary Pemberton Nourse memorial fellowship is for graduate study in public health; and the one receiving this reward will be offered $1,500 biennially. Any American woman who has received a bachelor's degree, or its equivalent, may apply for it. The candidate must have a minimum of two years of graduate study toward public health work or two years of practical work in the field of public health.

British Women Eligible
Any American woman having a degree in art, science, or literature, and who intends to make teaching her profession, is eligible for the Anna C. Brackett memorial fellowship, $750, which is for either graduate study or research.

The Rose Slidgwick memorial fellowship is open to British women of graduate standing. The graduate study is to be done in the United States, and the sum awarded is $1,000.

American women who have a degree in arts, sciences, or literature, and who have met all of the requirements for a doctor of philosophy or doctor of science degree, with the possible exception of the completion of the dissertation, may apply for the A. A. U. W. European fellowship. The one who receives it will get $1,000, and will be permitted to do either graduate study or research in Europe.

Phi Mu Fellowship Offered
Another fellowship offered is open only to natives of the Latin-American republics for graduate or professional study in America. The sum is given as $1,000.

One known as the Phi Mu fellowship, $1,000, is granted for graduate work, and is open to American women having a degree from any university or college in which Phi Mu has a chapter.

Graduate women students of proven ability and initiative are eligible for the $500 Boston Alumnae fellowship which is offered for graduate study in Europe or America for one year of constructive work.

The remaining fellowship, the Scandinavian fellowship, is given for research in a country other than that in which the fellow has received her previous education or habitually resides. The sum offered is $1,000, and is open to members of associations or federations of American women forming branches of the International Federation.

R.O.T.C. DEPARTMENT TO HAVE RIFLE TEAMS

A meeting was held yesterday at the R. O. T. C. barracks for the purpose of interesting students in the rifle squad to be organized this term.

A large number of students signified their wish to try out for the squad which will consist of two teams of 15 men each. Practices will be held every afternoon between the hours of 3:00 and 5:30 and each aspirant must shoot at least three hours a week.

Sweaters will be awarded to the ten highest men on the team providing the team average is better than ninety per cent in their meets. The sweaters will be given out by the R. O. T. C. and if possible will have an insignia on it such as are on other sport awards.

Fifteen matches have been scheduled for the rifle team this year with colleges all over the country. The firing will be held in the barracks and the result will be wired to the school they are competing with.

The officers of the R. O. T. C. department will act as coaches and will try to give each entrant individual instructions in the art of rifle shooting. Captain Murray says that if the students of the military department will co-operate with the officers in charge, there is no doubt about the University having a winning team.

Interest in this sport is shown by the large number of students already signed. They are: Hughes, Van Atta, Remmen, Hadden, Patterson, Kidwell, Sherman, Strauss, Watrous, Walker, Getty, Campbell, Fenton, Lockwood, Hutchinson, Porep, Wood, Davis, Wilkinson, Majouski, Brown, Hillis, Vreeland, Folts, Elkins, Crumb, Mathews, Jones, Norton, Lee, French, and Powell.

Students are signing up daily for this sport and by the end of the week the turnout will probably be doubled.

CASWELL PUBLISHES SYLLABUS ON PHYSICS

Dr. A. E. Caswell, chairman of the pre-engineering department and professor of physics, has recently published a complete syllabus on general physics. The book is to be used in physics courses in connection with other textbooks on the subject, which are kept in the library.

Dr. Caswell's syllabus, which is about 220 pages in length, is lithographed from the original copy; that is, the typewritten pages have been photographed and placed in book form. The syllabus was edited by the Technical Manual company.

BRONCHITIS KEEPS STUDENT IN INFIRMARY FOR HOLIDAYS

Miss Cora Ten Eyck, of Sandy, Oregon, was in the infirmary during the Christmas holidays with a serious attack of bronchitis. She was a senior in the English department and finished her work toward graduation last term.

CAMPUS PUBLICATION RECENTLY OFF PRESS

Magazine is Edited Under
Dr. Young's Direction

The Commonwealth Review for December, published at the University of Oregon, is off the press. The magazine, edited by the faculty members of the schools of sociology and education, under the direction of Dean F. G. Young of the school of sociology, contains this month three chapters on the geographic and physiographic positions of Oregon.

"The Review is running as its main feature articles on physical and economic geography by Warren D. Smith," said Dean Young. "Dr. Smith's series of papers is the first synthesis of the materials that have been brought out by many scientific surveys. This Oregon geography brings out in a succinct way the play of natural forces in the making of Oregon and is calculated to give a background of natural surroundings."

The tenor of the articles is brought out by Dean Young in his introduction. "Every discerning Oregonian is fully alive to the fact that only through an expanding understanding of nature's process can there be that wider co-operation with and control of her forces to the end that man's larger plans can be carried out. Such understanding is necessary to prepare delectable home land for the Oregon people and their posterity."

The topic of "How Traffic Has Been Shown Sufficient to Support New and Necessary Features in Oregon Rail Transportation Facilities," is discussed by Peter Campbell Crockett of the economics department.

This article furnishes evidence of the existence of sufficient traffic to justify an order compelling railways to make expenditures that will be incurred in building specific mileage," said Dean Young. "It is apropos now as the heads of different railways have a meeting this week in San Francisco to arrange for a co-operative plan in the building of these facilities for Eastern Oregon."

"If this construction of rail lines is brought about and the transportation facilities maintained without involving any undue hardship on the railway systems concerned, a grand combination of forces for Oregon upbuilding will have been brought into play," he said in conclusion.

World Groups Organized By Y. W. C. A. In Interest Of Close Relationship

DeLore Pearson; Mexico, Oneita Wertz; Turkey, Edna Spenker; Italy, Maxine Koon; Norway, Frances Dodds; Argentine, Josephine Evans; Australia, Katherine Read.

The phases of each country which will be considered in the discussions are: geographical and natural resources; history and racial characteristics; social and industrial development; politics; religion; and culture, including art music and literature. There will be six meetings of each of the ten groups and one aspect will be covered each time. The groups will meet every two weeks and on the alternate weeks meetings will be held for the leaders in order to bring up and discuss problems and difficulties which arise in the course of the meetings.

The leaders have undergone a training in the psychology of leadership. They have been taught to bring questions before the groups which would develop into worth while discussions and not something superficial. They have been shown how to present the vital subjects campus who has first hand information on any of these nations be willing to contribute material to the committee, it would be gratefully accepted.

During this term a pageant is to be given by the World Fellowship committee. Jeannette Dentler, a senior in the University, is in charge. Next term a tea is to be given and the proceeds will go to the foreign student loan fund which is at the disposal of all foreign students who attend western universities and colleges.

Miss McClellan urges the women on the campus who desire to attend the discussion groups to make an effort to sign the book at the Bungalow. Each nation with the leader is listed and those who sign up may make their choice as to which group they wish to join.

At a dinner at the Anchorage, held last night for the committee, Miss McClellan spoke on "The World at the Cross Roads." The next meeting will be led by Marion Barnes who will speak on "The Youth Movement of Germany."
