

C. M. HILL TO SPEAK AT VESPERS SUNDAY

Special Music to Be Given
By University Choir

Clayborne Milton Hill, president of the Baptist Divinity School at Berkeley, California, will be the speaker, and the University Vesper choir will furnish special music, Sunday afternoon when the first vesper program of this term is held at four o'clock at the Methodist church.

The anthem, "Angel Voices Ever Singing," by Shelley, will be given by the choir with the leads taken by Aubrey Furrey, baritone; Roy Bryson, tenor; and Ruth Akers, soprano.

Mr. Hill, the speaker, is well known on the campus and in Eugene, having been graduated from Oregon with the class of 1881 and taking his master's degree here in 1884. He is a graduate of the Rochester Theological Seminary in Rochester, New York and then was pastor of the Baptist church in Eugene from 1884 to 1889. He was superintendent of Home Missions in Oregon from 1890 to 1893.

Recently, Mr. Hill has been in California but he returned to Eugene when Phi Beta Kappa was installed at the University and was initiated.

This will be the only vesper service until March as the programs will be given in the auditorium in February. In March it is planned for Col. W. S. Gilbert of Astoria to speak and the choir will present the "Seven Last Words of Christ."

WOMEN VOTE CHANGE IN SPRING ELECTIONS

Term's First Informal Tea
To Be Held Wednesday

At a mass meeting of the Women's League yesterday afternoon in Villard, a motion was made and carried unanimously to change the date of election from the first week in May to Tuesday of the second week in April. This will enable the new president to attend the national convention which is always held the third week in April.

Dean Walker, speaking in the absence of Dean Colin Dymment, stressed the fact that activities were for the benefit of the student, and while no student should carry more than she was able, no activities should be forced upon her by the living organization.

"I resent greatly the talk about the America of today being worse than ever before," said Mr. Walker. He insisted that the world was getting better instead of worse, and demonstrated his point by reading several selections written in the middle of the nineteenth century about the world then being such a bad place to live in. In speaking about the crowds the League meetings called out, he said, "I believe the reason for the interest taken in the Women's League meetings is that the League is doing something of benefit." Speaking of the freshmen girls, he thanked the organization for their establishment of a Freshman Women's Loan Fund, which he said had already done a great deal of good.

Miss Helen Caples, who recently returned from studying abroad, played two piano selections, which were heartily received. Winifred Graham, president of the Women's League, announced the Oregon Knight's dance, February 6, urging all possible to attend, and mentioned the fact that University women were expected to occupy the bleachers downstairs at the basketball games this season. Mary Clerin, head of the Women's League teas, announced the first informal tea of the winter term, which will be next Wednesday. This is primarily for the purpose of welcoming new freshmen women, she said, but all the old girls are invited too. It will not be a regular sponsor-ship affair.

Students in Astronomy Learn Astral Lore

Courses Given in Cultural and Practical Sciences

"The earth is not round;
It wobbles on its axis.
from the beginning of creation.

A meteor is a fragment of a broken-up comet.

A falling star is a meteor, sometimes as much as 150 miles away and as small as a pea."

Such notes as these are taken by the seven students in general astronomy under E. H. McAlister, professor of mechanics and astronomy, in a course given this term at the University for the first time since 1919.

The class studies the shape and size of the earth in relation to the sun, moon, and other planets of the solar system. Next term the course becomes more technical, taking up problems which confront the surveyor and engineer, and studying the means of determining correct time, latitude, longitude, and the direction of the meridian.

Classes in astronomy have been given only about half the time since the University was founded, claimed Professor McAlister. In the early days it was taught by the professor of mathematics.

Two classes, one winter term and one spring term, are all that the astronomy department offers. The first is purely cultural and informational, while the course to be given next term takes up the practical application of the subject. There are no majors in astronomy, since but two courses are given.

Chinese Politics Subject Of Address Given By Speaker At Assembly

tions with General Chang, and, in the speaker's opinion, will lead to a formal alliance between China, Japan and Russia. In this respect America is responsible for the present war in China.

The speaker deplored the use of the term "Far East." The ports of Oregon, Washington and California, he said, are the front doors of the world, and since they face Pacific Asia, must take the lead in discovering the other half of the future.

Mr. Close sketched briefly the trade of the Orient with the West from the time of the Roman Empire, when Japan was a barbarous country, to the present, in his speech on "The Orient in America's Life and Commerce," at 3:15, to the business administration students in the Y. M. C. A. hut.

ANNE DEAR:

Vacation time literally flew! Even though I did hate to tear myself away from home, it does seem mighty good to be in school again.

At Bob's Beauty Shop, Marian got a fine mareel. They have expert specialists in both marceling and haircutting. This shop is on Willamette street across from the Rainbow and upstairs. It is easy to find because of the sign in front of the entrance way.

"Midge's" birthday was last night, and she invited us in to her room for a spread. She had huge sandwich buns that certainly were tempting; and large, glossy ripe olives. When we all exclaimed how good things looked, she told us that she always gets good things at Underwood and Elliott's Grocery.

What could be desired more than fat, juicy weiners for a feed on one of these nights? As buns are incomplete without "hot dogs," Midge bought a generous supply of them at the Thirteenth Street Meat Market. Then, too, she got some excellent creamery butter there, so we all enjoyed a real treat.

I never was more thrilled than I was when Tom, the marvellously good looking senior I raved so much about when I was home, asked me to go to the senior ball. The corsage, which he ordered from Raup's Floral Shop, is made of my favorite flowers—violets and roses. It matches my new gown perfectly.

We have needed a study lamp in our room. I had admired one I saw on Alice's table. Imagine my surprise and delight when I found one like it at Bailey's for two dollars! It is called a buss lamp and is adjustable so that one may fasten it on a bed, the side of the dresser as well as using it on a table. The lamp may be had in ivory or bronze finish. This lamp comes with an attached shade, you know, so that the two dollars buys a complete lamp.

Midge's aunt, who teaches school, gave her the loveliest string of beads. The beads are blue, the color of the deep sea and set between the beads is a filagree work the color of old silver. It is a long shimmering string, and the blue of the beads brings out the blue of Midge's eyes. Her aunt bought this lovely gift at Skele's where they have a very fine selection of beautiful beads.

Elsie's mother and little sister, Betty Jean, are guests at the house. Betty had the sweetest curls ever, but Elsie decided that bobbed hair is as becoming and certainly more convenient; so she asked me to go with her and her sister to the Co-ed Barber Shop, which is exclusively for women. There one gets the latest in bobs, and the barbers are specialists for cutting women's hair.

Au revoir until next week,
CAROL
