

FRIENDLY HALL WINS MAT TITLE

Doughnut Wrestlers End Final Tournament

OREGON CLUB IS SECOND

Widmer's Young Grapplers In Good Form

The doughnut wrestling title will rest in the hands of the members of Friendly hall for the present year. By virtue of their ability to gain the second and third places and one first position the boys from the hall annexed enough points to gain this honored distinction.

Second honors go to Oregon club because of their placing first in four of the events and second in two others. Friendly hall entered the largest team consisting of fourteen men with Oregon club still holding second with six.

Standings of the various teams as tabulated in the physical education office show Friendly hall first with 47; Oregon club second with 36; Bachelorlon third with 11; Sigma Pi Tau fourth with 8; Phi Sigma Pi fifth with one; and Alpha Beta Chi last with none.

The men placing in the different divisions were: 118—Greely, Oregon club, first; Scott, Friendly hall, second; Sommers, Friendly hall, third. 128—Jarrett, Sigma Pi Tau, first; Ruess, Friendly hall, second; Sether, Friendly hall, third. 138—Betzer, Oregon club, first; Forrest, Oregon club, second; Vazie, Friendly hall, third; and Nelson, Friendly hall, fourth. 148—Oxford, Oregon club, first; Maulding, Friendly hall, second; with Read, Friendly hall, third. 161—Carlson, Oregon club, first; Fimmerville, Friendly hall, second; and Loveridge, Friendly hall, third. 178—C. Williams, Friendly hall, first; Strauss, Oregon club, second; and Fitzsimmons, Bachelorlon, third. Unlimited—Grant, Bachelorlon, first; Dixon, Friendly hall, second; Proffitt, Friendly hall, third; with Stevens, Phi Sigma Pi, fourth.

Earl Widmer, varsity wrestling coach, officiated at the tournament and handed out all decisions. According to Widmer the matches were all very good and competition was close for the honors in the various divisions.

EX-STUDENT EMPLOYED BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

John W. Piper, 24, school of journalism, who has been employed by the North American Newspaper Alliance of New York, has accepted a position with the Associated Press of that city.

Mr. Piper described in a letter received on the campus, the method by which the N. A. N. A. planned to cover the recent eclipse of the sun. "Our stunt is to send up a large navy plane with a reporter, radio operator, photographer, and astronomer. These men will compile a running description of the phenomenon as it is seen from a 9,000 foot altitude. The dispatch will be radioed to a ground receiving station, relayed to telegraph offices and sent out to all our memberships. Others are planning the same means of observing the eclipse, but we are the only news association to arrange the transmission of a story."

Mr. Piper was associate editor of the Emerald and on the Emerald staff while in college. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, men's honorary journalism fraternity, and a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

SPORT GROUP TO HOLD LUNCHEON WEDNESDAY

Dick Smith, newly appointed football coach, and Virgil Earl, athletic director, will be the guests of the Sports Writers' association at a luncheon to be held Wednesday noon at the Anchorage. This will be the first of a series of luncheons sponsored by the association at which it is planned to have members of the coaching staff and faculty speak.

The regular Monday meeting of the association was held yesterday afternoon in the Journalism Library. A resolution, addressed to the Oregon management, was passed requesting that the rest of the basketball games on the Oregon schedule be played at 7:15 in order to insure the appearance of the result in morning papers on the coast.

ASILOMAR MEETING DISCUSSES BUSINESS PROBLEMS OF TODAY

Norman F. Coleman, President of Reed College, Tells of Three Methods of Handling Capital

(Editor's note: This is the third of a series of articles on the Asilomar conference of the Y. M. C. A. written by James Case from notes taken by Elam Amstutz.)

There are three methods of handling problems of capital and labor, in the opinion of Norman F. Coleman, president of Reed College, who addressed the conference on topics relating to the strife in the modern business world. "First, there is the Bolshevick method which represents strife and struggle and which, it is hoped, will be confined to annals of the past. The second method is that by which one of two equally powerful parties peacefully gains the ascendancy over the other. The third and most effective method is by the conference, where there is a conscientious effort shown by both parties to work for a common end."

Referring to the latter method of mutual understanding, Mr. Coleman expressed the belief that in time all controversies between labor and capital would be settled that way, leaving both parties satisfied with the result. Both parties have their grievances and in a conference each has an opportunity to present its side.

This is an age in which the chief motive stimulating mankind's greater activity is the love of profit, in the judgment of various journalists and social workers. In view of this fact, the question put before the delegates and discussed by students of the situation, was to what methods of money-making could a man resort and still fulfill all his obligations to society.

The ambition to seek money for its own sake seemed, to the convening students, a nefarious motive for the successful business man to harbor, since a man in such a position is necessarily dependent upon society and should give something in return for its patronage. G. Sherwood Eddy, one of the great leaders of thought in the world, says that man must be motivated by one of two ideals, which are service and profit.

If service is to be his ideal, he must sacrifice himself somewhat for the good of his fellow men, work with them in a brotherly manner and finally be credited with an admirable personality. If his ideal be profit, he will be continually striving to acquire property, scrupulously or otherwise, which, naturally, will lead him into difficulties.

That a man who conducts a business is entitled to profit was not denied, and some members considered excessive profits to be legitimate when expansion of business is contemplated or when a foreseen dull period approaches. The excess profits in this case should be used to retain employees over the time of business depression, it was thought, and would accordingly be justified.

Because some men have chosen illegitimate means of securing profits, the public is prone to criticize any form of excess profit regardless of the worthiness of the object. This, some members believe, is largely due both to a misinformed public and ignorant employees. In the cases of some larger corporations, extensive investigations have been carried on and arbitration boards formed to sift the facts and determine remedies. In particular instances the government has taken a hand in the affair and has straightened out the tangles.

There is a tendency at the present time for large corporations to introduce profit-sharing plans. The effect of this is two-fold,—it gives the employee dividend stock of his work which, some believe, is one of the easiest ways out of the capital and labor strife. Where one once found cramped quarters, suffering, fighting, and striking in large factories, one now finds reasonable working hours, clean working places and modern conveniences which go far in creating a more agreeable and peaceful atmosphere.

To attain the proper level in business where men will no longer conduct commerce through selfish motives but for the general good of society, we must continue to educate the modern youth to his obligations to society. This, in the opinion of the majority, consists in the encouragement of the present tendencies of business toward profit-sharing institutions and co-operative enterprises.

NEW SMALLPOX CASE APPEARS ON CAMPUS

A new case of smallpox has appeared on the campus. Alladen Scroggin was taken ill Sunday night and Dr. Ross diagnosed the case as smallpox. All students who are in any of her classes and who have not been vaccinated already must be vaccinated at once, is the word sent out from the dispensary. Miss Scroggin's case is the second one that has appeared in the school. There is one patient about whose illness the doctors are still doubtful. These are the only cases of smallpox known to the dispensary and vaccinating is being enforced as a means of preventing any further infection.

Art of Printing to Be Subject of Talks At the Newspaper Conference

"Mr. Nash has promised to bring to Eugene to show to the Oregon publishers some of the choicest pieces from his collection, examples of printing, some of them, that a printer does not ordinarily get a chance to see at less cost than a trip to the New York library or the British Museum in London. Mr. Nash is to be rated in much the same class as Bruce Rogers, D. G. Updyke, and the very small group who are showing how twentieth century printing can be raised in quality to a level of excellence that has not been touched since the end of the sixteenth century."

Typography to Be Studied
The commercial phase of the printing program will be opened by an analysis of competitive methods by B. W. Bates of Roseburg, followed by a stereopticon presentation of advertising typography by various editors and teachers of advertising who are co-operating, and whose names will be announced later.

The advertising, editorial, and circulation programs will be announced in about a week, together with the speakers for the various sectional meetings to be held in conjunction with the conference, which will include the State Editorial association, the Pacific Northwest Circulation Managers' association, the trade and class journal meeting, members of the Associated Press, clients of the United Press, and the Ben Franklin club of the Willamette Valley.

STUDY OF OIL SANDS IS SUBJECT FOR DEGREE

Investigation Will Require Two Years' Time

A research problem involving the correlation of oil sands is being undertaken by Edwin Cox, graduate student in the geology department. The work will entail two years' investigation and will contribute to part of Cox's work for a doctor's degree.

Microscopic methods of study of the sedimentary rock is the method employed by Cox. The grain of sand is studied under powerful lens. The characteristics of sand at one horizon are compared with the sand of a different horizon. The variations and differences are noted.

It is hoped that this research will give information by which oil-bearing horizons may be reckoned accurately.

The methods employed today in drilling for oil are expensive and sometimes large amounts of money are spent with unsatisfactory results. A simple and accurate test for discovering oil-bearing horizons must be found and it is this solution of sand at one horizon with sand at another horizon which is being worked upon. Samples of sand taken every six inches from oil wells have been furnished by the Southern Pacific Oil company of Texas, Standard Oil company of California, Union Oil company and the Shell Oil company. Cox is a graduate of the California Institute of Technology and secured his master's degree in chemistry there. This is his second year at the University as a graduate student in geology.

A GOOD SALAD
The salad is the dish that lends zest and flavor to your meal. You will find that the greater variety you use in your salads, the better the rest of the meal will be appreciated. We will be glad to help you in selecting and planning your salads as well as your other dishes.
It is prepared in the following manner: On the lettuce base place half a preserved pear as it is taken from the jar with its sugar syrup. Add a pitted Oregon prune for flavor and cover with dressing. Chopped nuts sprinkled over the dish add a delightful taste to the preparation.
A preparation that is both distinctive and delicious is a combination pear and prune salad made with lettuce and dressing, preferably mayonnaise, and sprinkling of chopped nuts.
A similar salad may be made with other fruit combinations and prunes alone, prepared in this way, make a delicious dish.

The Doors Have Closed
The old makes way for the new: another step in Eugene's growth. Eugene deserves, and soon will receive a more modern, larger and finer theatre—the New Lowell now nearing completion. Already the wrecking crew has started on the Castle and soon the theatre will be a thing of the past.
The Theatre wishes to thank its many friends for their splendid patronage and in closing to bid you, one and all, good by and the best of luck.
