

LAW DEAN GIVES RADIO ADDRESS

World Must Co-operate for Peace, Declares Hale

THE HAGUE PLAN CITED

Present Permanent Court Lauded By Speaker

That law and order must prevail among nations as well as among men was the message of Dean William G. Hale of the school of law to the radio world last night. "The Permanent Court of International Justice" was the title of Dean Hale's radio lecture which was broadcasted from station KGW of the Morning Oregonian under the auspices of the University extension division.

"The enthronement of law must precede disarmament and disarmament must precede peace. The necessity for war must be removed, the machinery of war eliminated, and the right to war denied," the head of the law school told the listeners. "The outlawing of war means that there shall be no reservations except the right of self defense—that the law relative to the right of individuals to fight shall become the law of nations."

U. S. Entry to Court Urged
"Let me urge finally," said Dean Hale, "that the United States lose no more time in seeking membership in the world court under the conditions of the Harding-Hughes proposals. These proposals eliminate the issue of the League of Nations and do not require that we even accept the compulsory jurisdiction of the court. This is the least that America can do."

In urging America's participation in a world court the Dean said he realized he was talking in terms of machinery. "Machinery is essential, but it is not all. Underlying world peace must be the will to peace and the reign of law, the exaltation of international integrity and mutual trust."

Brief History Given

A brief history of the international peace situation was given by Dean Hale. He traced the Alaska boundary dispute and pointed out how a joint commission between the two countries settled the situation. He discussed the Hague peace conference in 1899 and the one in 1907. The big defect with The Hague plan, points out Dean Hale, is that the court doesn't have power to enforce its decisions.

The present world court was formed under article 14 of the League of Nations covenant. By giving this tribunal the power to enforce its decisions, believes the head of the school of law, an aid to the outlawing of war will be established.

The Oregon affirmative team, consisting of Benoit McCrosky and Ralph Bailey will meet the Idaho negative group here on the campus. Sol Abramson and Lincoln Erwin, composing the negative team will travel to Seattle to uphold their case against the Washington affirmative.

Each debate will be allowed a 17 minute constructive case speech and 7 minutes for rebuttal.

"This question is the same one used in the O. A. C. meet," said Mr. Brown, "but the cases have been entirely worked over and strengthened."

Changes have been made in the personnel of both teams, due to the return of Ralph Bailey, former varsity debater, to school. All men on the teams have had varsity experience, having participated in one or more events.

The men have been meeting every night, states Mr. Brown, developing their discussions and rebuttals. Attention is also being directed on delivery technique.

In the latter book mention is made of Mr. Thacher, of the journalism department, in the honor roll of the year and of his story "Boy's Grief," which was printed in the Atlantic.

Astronomy Adds Feature to Photographic Art

Moon's Shadow on Earth Taken by Means of Airplanes

By photographing the moon's shadow on the earth, American astronomers have advanced a step further in the study of solar eclipse, according to Prof. E. H. McAlister, of the mechanics and astronomy department.

Dirigibles and airplanes, stationed in a line from Lake Erie to New York city, flew above the clouds during the sun's eclipse January 24 last, thus making possible for the first time the photographing of the huge shadow which is thrown on the globe when the moon gets between the sun and the earth.

"The shadow the moon casts during a solar eclipse, measures about one hundred miles across when it falls on the earth," said Professor McAlister. "Naturally, this could not be photographed from the ground, or even from an elevation of a few thousand feet. During the eclipse last month, the planes rose to about one mile in order to take a complete picture."

"Zero weather was reported by the fliers while the planes were in the shadow," Professor McAlister stated. "However, but slight change was noted on earth. The eclipse was so short that a study of this phenomenon could not be made. An eclipse lasts only from one to three minutes, so that few observations can be made at one time."

"It is a curious fact," said Professor McAlister, "that since an instrument for the studying of eclipses was made in about 1860, astronomers have had only an hour and a half in which to study them. This is because of the very few minutes which each eclipse lasts."

OBAK'S ADVERTISER HAS EXPERIENCE

It was Wednesday, the day for the raisin bread. He was worried for he knew that since one thousand men voted on what millions wanted most in a shaving cream there was no longer an excuse for a dingy film on the teeth. Although he knew that it was much better than the average ten-cent smoke he wondered which one of the fifty-seven varieties to buy. As he walked across McCall street he distinctively jumped out of the way of the world's finest automobile before he realized that no metal could touch him. The worried look increased and he told himself that he could use the extra fifty dollars a month and wondered if after all good oil wasn't cheaper. As he entered the office he caught a glimpse of himself in the hall mirror and was convinced after all that clothes do make the man. But alas, the insidious part of it was that not even his closest friends would tell him; yet he was certain that if he wore his garters around his neck he would change them oftener. So he crossed over to OBAK'S and had some of their famous coffee and pie. "I'd walk a mile for an OBAK lunch," he remarked as he left the famous OBAK hall.

MEN BADLY IN NEED OF BREAD

It is reported that one of the fastidious newly married ladies of the town kneads bread with her gloves on. This incident may be somewhat peculiar but there are others. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on; our OBAK'S counter man needs bread with his shirt on; we both need bread with our pants on and if it wasn't for the loyal support of the OBAK college student body we need bread with very little on at all—and it's pretty wet weather for that now.
