

RESEARCH WORK OFFERED WOMEN

Three Fellowships to Give Ten Months Training

APPLICATIONS DUE MAY 1

Special Study of Economics And Sociology Needed

Three paid fellowships in social-economic research, carrying a stipend of $500, are being offered by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, according to a notice recently received by Dean Eaterly. Women who have a thorough preparation for such work, having a degree from a college of good standing and training in economics or sociology, may apply. Satisfactory references must be given in regard to health and character, and special fitness for social-economic research is required of all candidates for the fellowship.

Research Training Given
The research fellows are expected to devote their entire time for ten months to the training given by the department of research. Clerical assistance, equipment, and traveling expenses necessary for investigation are furnished by the department of research.

Training is given in the making and criticism of schedules, in field work, in the construction and interpretation of statistical tables, and in the literary presentation of the results of the investigation.

Investigations to Be Made
In addition to formal training in statistics and methods of research, two co-operative investigations will be made by the staff of the research department. Students who have received satisfactory undergraduate training in sociology and economics may offer the year's work in the research department in fulfillment of requirements for degree of Master of Sciences in Research at Simmons college. Other colleges such as Radcliffe college, Tufts college, and Massachusetts College of Technology, will accept the work in certain seminar courses. At Wellesley college, by special arrangement, the work may be counted as a part of the requirements for a master's degree.

Applications must be filed before May 1. Students must write for application blanks and direct answers to inquiries to the department of research, Women's Educational and Industrial Union, 264 Boyston street, Boston, Massachusetts.

FRATERNITY BANQUET HONORS FOUNDERS' DAY

Over ninety members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, both active and alumni, attended the Founders' Day banquet of the organization at the Hotel Osburn here Sunday afternoon. The Oregon Agricultural college chapter members were the guests of the Oregon Beta chapter at the affair here.

Professor Warren D. Smith and Professor E. H. Decker of the University of Oregon faculty, alumni members of the fraternity, spoke for the faculty. Reverend W. H. Davis of Eugene, also addressed the banquet.

The Corvallis chapter was represented on the speaker's list by Jimmy Goldringer, president of the Oregon Alpha chapter, and Kerney Markuson, of Tacoma, Washington. Edward Britts, head of the chapter here, and Bob Benjamin, both of Portland, spoke for the Oregon chapter. Charles Bluett, graduate instructor in the school of education and a member of the University of Arizona chapter, also gave an address.

Monday night Portland alumni of Sigma Alpha Epsilon held a banquet in Portland. Parker Branin, Portland, and Bob Love, Tacoma, Washington, represented the University of Oregon chapter at the Portland affair.

Trip to Moon Should Prove Of Interest to Any One

Highlights of Proposed Country Given Out by Astronomers

Any one who contemplates a trip to the moon at some time in his life should go to the astronomy class for a map of the country, or at least a look at one before starting out.

The class has progressed as far as the Sea of Clouds and the Sea of Showers, which really are not seas, but were so named by astronomers who thought they were. There are several large craters, and on the whole the region is very rough.

The craters Copernicus, Ptolemy, Clavius, and Kepler may be seen. Ptolemy is recognized as the one which is a large plain surrounded by a nearly circular wall, of moon material, about 150 miles in diameter. It is one of three rings in close connection which stand on the western shore of the Sea of Clouds. Clavius has an area of over 15,000 square miles, and the walls around it rise from 15,000 to 17,000 feet above the level of the floor. It has five smaller craters within the large one.

While on the moon, look in the direction of Orion and see Rigel, the second brightest star in that constellation. It is 20 times the sun's diameter, and has a temperature of 11,000 degrees centigrade.

If you have the observing eye of a Soph, you will see a type of star called "O." They are 50 times more massive than the sun and several hundred times as bright. They are at a distance of about 3,000 light years, and are thought to be the earliest stars developed.

That group to the south which looks like clouds of stars are really separate stars, as you will note if you observe them through the large telescope. They are called Magellanic clouds, and some of them are 50,000 times as bright as the sun and approximately a billion miles in diameter.

SORORITY WOMEN HAVE HIGHEST GRADE MARKS

Fraternity Men Lowest in Standing Fall Term

Sorority women lead all other undergraduate students in scholarship, according to the recent grade averages compiled by Carlton E. Spencer, registrar. While sorority women have a rate higher than non-sorority women, this does not apply to the fraternity men who are rated somewhat lower than the non-fraternity men.

The rating of students scholastically at the University of Oregon, is based upon two considerations: First, the quantity of work passed by the student; second, the quality of work completed. However, quality is worth five times as much as quantity. For example, one hour of the highest grade gives the student five points while one hour of the lowest grade gives him only one point. If the student fails in a subject he is given no credit, the same as if he had not attempted the course at all.

An average grade for a student would be between a three and a four with fifteen hours passed. A student doing this would receive a rating of 37.5.

In following this theory, the average rate for all undergraduate students during the fall term of the present school year was 37.54.

The following are the average rates for the fall term:
All students	37.54
Women	41.43
Men	34.06
Fraternity men	33.33
Non-fraternity men	34.24
Sorority women	43.01
Non-sorority women	39.25

SENIORS URGED TO FILE APPLICATIONS AT ONCE

Various Teaching Positions Open to Graduates

Seniors who expect to teach next fall are again urged to file applications with the dean of the school of education as soon as possible. There are at present more openings than applicants, and those who file now will have a greater opportunity to get the pick of positions offered. There are vacancies in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

According to an announcement sent out by the Yates-Fisher Teachers' Agency of Chicago, the agency has openings for many teachers in every line. The positions offered range from auto instructor, to a college professorship in English, with a salary of $3,000 yearly. There are several positions open for women only, one being the office of dean of women in a college.

Many hundreds of vacancies are available for beginners with salaries ranging from $1,350 to $2,000.

Posted on the bulletin board at the school of education is an announcement of an examination for junior civil service examiner, to be held April 8. Here is an opportunity for some senior or graduate who is ambitious to obtain a government position. The salary is in the neighborhood of $2,000 with prospects of retirement with pension after a few years' service. All candidates must have completed four years of college work, with at least 118 hours of credit.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC TO GIVE RADIO CONCERT

A program to be broadcasted from station KGW of the Morning Oregonian under the auspices of the extension division is to be made up of selections by members of the school of music of the University. This program is in addition to the regular Friday night broadcasting period and will take place on Tuesday evening, March 24.

Alfred Powers, assistant in the extension division and in charge of the radio department, has arranged the following program:
Rex Underwood, violin.
Mme. Rose McGrew, soloist.
Mrs. Jane Thacher, pianist.
Louis Artau, pianist.
The broadcasting from the station is in charge of Richard V. Haller and as yet he has made no announcement of the length of the program. The regular Friday night program

CARD INDEX IS USED IN ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

An innovation in the English department is a card index system for filing gems of literature, wit and humor which can be readily adapted to speaking purposes. Oscar A. Brown, extemporaneous speaking instructor, who introduced the idea here, believes the handy little file a great boon to the student as well as to the inveterate speaker.

"Every man is given a card index in which he will file Biblical quotations, excerpts from Shakespeare, apt adages, and other references, which he can retain throughout life for all occasions when a speech is needed. While they are yet in school, the students will find their indexes valuable for 'dressing up' their class and debate speeches," Mr. Brown said.

The University of Michigan uses this method very successfully in the school of law from which Mr. Brown graduated in June, '24.
