Welcome—Women Delegates

THE University of Oregon is pleased to have on its campus the third biennial convention of the Associated Women Students. Such a gathering cannot but confer benefit upon those meeting here from the various institutions of the country and cannot but leave an impress for good upon the student body of the University in general.

A convention of women students of the universities and colleges for the purposes avowed, such as consideration of scholarship, honor systems and college activities, is significant. It shows the real interest women are taking in active life in problems affecting them and mankind in general, and portends well for the future, when they have left the relative seclusion of the campus.

The old cry that the wife, if enfranchised, would simply vote as the husband seems in a fair way to be thrown absolutely into the discard, along with other narrow doctrines and pinched policies, concerned with attempting to uphold the purported mental differences and capabilities between men and women.

More Subtly—Less Noise

THE Emerald heartily approves of the resumption of baseball as a dough-nut sport, that is, it did until yesterday morning at six o'clock. From six until seven o'clock, however, there was doubt in the editor's mind, blackness in his heart, and "blueness" on his sleeping porch. The porch is several blocks from the diamond at Kincaid field, but such was the noise, hurrah, clamor, and outcry shouted, bawled, cheered, whooped and bellowed by some ambitious house team, and apparently frenzied supporters, practising for the coming frays, that, although several blocks intervened as stated, the editor wished that number could be doubled, nay, even trebled.

Enthusiasm is a fine thing, doubtless, and no one in this free country of ours should be hampered from setting the alarm clock an hour or so ahead of the usual time of seven, if he desires to practise baseball and develop a good appetite for breakfast.

But is it necessary to include lung practice as well? If the desire is to take "those deep breaths" advocated by the "Become a He-Man" advertisements, surely a little care and patience will enable those taking such courses to follow directions without the aid of the vocal chords. Besides, just from the selfish standpoint of the house, it would seem much better strategy not to tell the whole campus just how much it is practising. Be more subtle and surprise your opponents!

The bridge-tea for the Mary Spiller scholarship fund is scheduled by the Alumni association this afternoon at the Osburn hotel. Many persons consider bridge parties foolish, tea parties weak, and bridge-teas "rum." And they have as much right to speculate about such things as the weather man has about the sun and the clouds. And perhaps in this case they are right, which the other often is not. But a bridge-tea to raise money for a scholarship fund redeems itself immediately. The purpose is noble, the cause worthy. The Emerald encourages support for the bridge, strength to the tea.

Who said a $50 Ford is a poor investment if one wishes a car with pep, power, and punch? Ask the student who cranked one the other day in front of the Co-op without first setting the hand brake. Ask the six fellow students necessary to pull the throbbing wreck off its owner, after it had jumped forward with a growl and a snort, pinning him against another machine. As he said, ruefully rubbing his belt line, "Daisy, for your age, you've got some punch!"

Many a student in former years has regretted his failure to purchase an Oregon when the chance was his. The spring drive for the annual is on today.

UNIVERSITY GRADUATE TO RETURN TO CAMPUS

A letter has been received by Dr. Edwin T. Hodge from Clare P. Holdredge, a graduate of the geology department in 1921. At present Mr. Holdredge is in charge of the development of diamond mines at Tshikapa, Belgian Congo, but he expects to leave for Belgium about June 1 on his way to the United States. He expects to arrive at his home near the last of August. According to his present plans he will be on the campus during the fall term working for his master's degree.

"The climate, the niggers, the many little animals that eat on one, and a myriad of other things will get on almost anyone's nerves if they stay here long enough," said Mr. Holdredge, speaking of his experiences in Central Africa. "I will be very glad when my two years are finished and I can get out for a vacation. I am looking forward with much pleasure to my homecoming. Such things as plenty of white folks, railway trains, automobiles, telephones, theatres, dances, confectionery, and paved roads, are some of the characteristics of civilization that will be highly appreciated when I return to them again. (I forgot swimming and walking in the sun without a ten pound hat. Also sleeping without a shroud.) I am very curious about this radio business which has spread over the country during my absence."

In speaking of a Christmas party he gave this year he said, "It was certainly a cosmopolitan gathering: five Americans, two Englishmen, one Frenchman, one Belgian, one Russian, and two South Africans. That is typical of almost every gathering in this country. Not long ago five of us sat down to luncheon and we were all of different nationalities."

SPORTSWRITERS WILL MEET AT ANCHORAGE TODAY NOON
The Oregon Sportswriters association will hold the first meeting of this term this noon at the Anchorage, when Dean John F. Bovard, of the school of physical education, will be the guest of honor. Dean Bovard will explain the policies and the work of the school of education to the scribes.

DOUGHNUT BASEBALL TEAMS CLASH TODAY

Kappa Sigma and Psi Kappa Will Meet in Opener

"Play Ball," the opening sound of every baseball season, will be heard on Cemetery Ridge this afternoon for the first time this year when the aggregation of sluggers from Psi Kappa tangle with the errorless organization from Kappa Sigma at 4 o'clock. This game, followed immediately by the Friendly hall vs. Beta Theta Pi contest, will officially open the doughnut tournament.

After two weeks of intensive vacant lot and back-yard training the members of the various teams have signified their readiness to take a swing at the horsehide. Gloves have been oiled, sore arms have disappeared and most of the men have been taking nightly hikes to develop endurance and wind. Thus, the season opens with the teams in mid-season form and rain' to go. The tournament will be played on the straight elimination basis with the victorious team being rescheduled following the termination of the preliminary round.

William Sorsby, freshman coach, has made out a list of the freshman aspirants who will be eligible for doughnut competition. This list includes the names of freshman team candidates who stand a slight chance of making the first string until they have had more actual competition. After the completion of the doughnut tournament, the men will again try for first team positions and if enough improvement is shown they will remain on the squad.

Sigma Pi Tau and Phi Delta Theta will tangle in the first game Thursday with Sigma Nu and Phi Kappa Psi following. The rest of the preliminary round will be played Saturday.

FIVE GRADUATES APPLY FOR MASTERS' DEGREES

The school of business administration is giving preliminary examinations for Masters' degrees this week to five graduate students, of whom three are from other institutions than the University of Oregon. These examinations are preliminary to the regular thesis examination to be given during the latter part of the term.

The five men are: Kenneth Hun-

At the Theatres

HELLIG—Two shows at seven and nine o'clock; Western Vaudeville, presenting five Orpheum and Keith acts of quality. Plan to attend the second augmented show at nine o'clock.

Coming: "That Devil Que-mado," "The Snob," "The Great Divide," leading moving pictures of the year. The Greenwich Village Follies, with Gallagher and Shean comes April 28. Dinner engagements for principals and 20 artists models can be arranged by calling Hellig publicity manager.

THE REX—Last day: The screen scream, "Reckless Romance," adapted from the riotously funny stage farce of love, laughter and thrills, with Harry Myers, Wanda Hawley, T. Roy Barnes, Tully Marshall, Sylvia Bremer and Jack Duffy; Felix, the kitty comedian, in "Felix Rests in Peace;" Kinogram News Events; LeRoy DeVaney, featured organist, in musical comedy accompaniment to the picture on the mighty Wurlitzer.

Coming: Constance Talmadge in "Learning to Love," with Antonio Moreno.

ter, graduate of the University of Idaho; Walter Hempy, University of Oregon, '24; Victor Storli, St. Olaf's college, Minnesota; Henry Rehn, Oregon Agricultural college, '24; Herbert G. Smith, New Mexico Agricultural college. Providing the candidates pass the preliminary and final examinations satisfactorily, they will be awarded Masters' degrees in business administration, by the University, in June.

Forty-eight hours of graduate work are necessary to entitle the candidate to a Masters' degree. A year or more is usually required in which to complete the work.

The staff of the school of business administration conducts the preliminary examinations, while instructors from other departments, and often some outside experts, are required to give the final examinations. The last of these five examinations will be given on April 15. The preliminary tests are rather general in order to satisfy the department that the candidate has a scholastic background broad enough to take the final which includes practically every phase of work taken by the student during the five or six years necessary to fulfill the requirements.

Hempy and Story are assistants in the accounting department of the school of business administration.

DOUGH-NUT BASEBALL WILL BEGIN THURSDAY

Letters to the EMERALD from students and faculty members are welcomed, but must be signed and worded concisely. If it is desired, the writer's name will be kept out of print. It must be understood that the editor reserves the right to reject communications.

K. A. P. WRITES AGAIN

To the Editor:
I would like to refer the members of the Traditions committee and all others interested in the Smoking Prohibition to page 14 of Judge for April 11, with the suggestion that they substitute the word "smoking" for "everything." I would also suggest to Mr. Lucky Tarryton that he learn the difference between the words humor and sarcasm and that he drop the last mentioned literary form.

JUNIOR WOMAN EXPRESSES VIEWS ON CAMPUS SMOKING

To the Editor:
As a junior woman in this University I would like to say that I think the smoking prohibition now enforced on the men is one of the silliest bits of adolescent bickering that I have heard of in some time. It is one of the thousand and one "thou shalt not's" that are enforced by office holders who must do something in order to hold their jobs. It is one of those petty sins that every one breaks when ever he thinks that he can get away with it. Why in the world we advertise our provincialism by adhering to it is beyond me.

I spent a year on one of the other campuses on the coast where smoking was not considered a sin and I must admit that I do not believe their campus any worse than ours even with the added liberty. The grounds were not buried under a heap of cigarette stubs as some would lead us to believe would be the case here. To me the campus was not a mite less attractive; in fact I feel that it was a much more humane place than is ours simply because the men were much more natural. They did not have to stand on the curb, like small town bums, and listen to hours of gossip when they smoked. Personally I think the crowded curb of smokers on Thirteenth street one of the most disgusting things I know. One hates to go between the library and the Business Ad building because one is always running the gauntlet of loafing men. And the impression to visiting tourists of all those men in the street is simply undesirable.

I don't see why the traditions committee doesn't abolish the rule. They seem to have no reason for holding on to it and are no doubt guided by prejudice and procrastination.
