

Student Union Drive
SIDELIGHTS OF THE BIG DRIVE AS GLEANED FROM DRIVE OFFICE

Drive activity yesterday centered about the diminutive white shack near the administration building. This small structure claims the imposing title of Official Student Union Drive Campaign Headquarters. It houses, besides great quantities of freshmen, all the data and records of the drive.

Yesterday at any moment could be seen oceans of first-year men and women dashing in and out. An occasional sophomore or upperclassman found his way into the center of things, but if the word of the frosh is to be taken literally, they did little more than to get in the way.

The noisiest person around the place was Jane Sanborn, chief bell ringer of the ceremonies. Every time a new pledge made its appearance, or an installment was paid, Jane sounded off on the big electric gong. She is officially known as assistant secretary of the drive. Says she likes to watch all the people from her perch in the window.

Elizabeth Latham, frosh sister of "Hunk" Latham, famous Oregon athlete, who graduated last year, wanted to ring the bell, but Jane wouldn't let her.

The Union Shack is fixed up with all the modern conveniences including telephone, electric lights and chairs for the weary. The phone number is 2081.

If hearsay may be taken as truth, Robert Mautz is working the hardest to avoid labor. "Look at him," said one of his secretaries, "All he does is sit there and talk!"

Mautz replied that he had to conserve his strength so he could supply the head work for some of the less intelligent. He admitted that he was needed to direct the rest of them.

Several persons were heard complimenting Virginia Lee Richardson for her assembly talk in the morning.

"Red" Wright also came in for his share of applause.

Frances Morgan, leader of the sophomore women, held down one of the windows in the shack a good part of the afternoon. Helen Wolcott relieved her when the afternoon hours grew long.

Myrtle Baker, secretary of the drive, by nature of her position does much of the work and gets little of the fun. Her job is to keep the records of the drive straight.

What's the most popular alibi? Among the women the song they sing is, "I don't want to burden my husband for all those years." And they say co-eds aren't serious.

The flying squadron did their flying in a Ford. They flew down to the Heilig and came back with a hundred dollar pledge and a theatre party, next Wednesday, for all the Student Union committee.

LUNCHEON ASSISTANTS WILL MEET AT 11:30

'BATTER UP' CRY TO BEGIN TODAY

Varsity Nine to Meet Pacific Squad on Kincaid Field In Season's First Clash

TEAMS EVENLY MATCHED

Heavy Stick Work Expected To Be Evident on Part Of Lemon-Yellow Men

Today marks the official opening of the 1925 baseball season for the Oregon varsity. Pacific University nine will meet the Lemon Yellow team at 4 o'clock on Kincaid field. Considering the short time the Oregon team has had to practice, neither nine will be given an outstanding advantage in today's battle. The last two days of this week have been the only days on which the varsity has had any real work-out since the April showers have flooded the diamond. Yesterday, the squad worked well past 6, putting in a few hard licks before today's tilt. The freshman team gave Coach Reinhart's men plenty of actual contact experience.

Weak Points Shown
 The varsity-freshman games on Wednesday and Thursday brought out many of the strong and weak points in the Oregon lineup. Besides having a fairly strong infield, the team should be quite dangerous considering the hitting power of the heavy stick wielders on the nine.

Either Ray Williams or Skipper Brooks will be sent to the mound for Oregon today, with George Minnaugh or Jack Bliss receiving. The lineup and batting order of the team will be as follows: Fred West, short; Frank Reinhart, center field; Howard Hobson, second; Lynn Jones, left field; Rex Adolph, first; Sam Cook, third; Bliss or Minnaugh, catcher; Minnaugh or Wright, right field; Williams or Brooks, pitcher.

West Lead-off Man
 West, who is slated for lead-off man, has been hitting quite consistently so far this season. Lynn Jones is holding down the clean-up position. Jones' heavy stick has been knocking them far and wide in batting practice, and he should drive home a few runs in today's tilt.

The new and revised official baseball schedule for 1925 is as follows:
 April 24—Pacific at Eugene.
 April 29—Whitman at Eugene.
 May 2—Willamette at Eugene.
 May 4—Idaho at Eugene.
 May 6—W. S. C. at Eugene.
 May 9—Washington at Eugene.
 May 12—Willamette at Salem.
 May 16—O. A. C. at Corvallis.
 May 20—Washington at Seattle.
 May 21—W. S. C. at Pullman.
 May 22—Idaho at Moscow.
 May 23—Whitman at Walla Walla.
 May 30—O. A. C. at Eugene.

EASTERN STAR WOMEN TO MEET IN CORVALLIS

Members of the Temenids, University organization of Eastern Star women, will go to Corvallis Saturday to meet with the O. A. C. Temenids there.

Questions regarding the constitution and ritual, as well as the feasibility of national organization, will be discussed at the conference, and it is expected that some changes will be made. The delegation will leave Eugene on the 9:00 o'clock stage Saturday morning, and upon their arrival at Corvallis, will be met by the O. A. C. girls.

Dorothea Drake was elected president of the Temenids to succeed Ruth MacGregor at a luncheon last Wednesday, held at the Anchorage.

BOOK PUBLISHER VISITS CHEMISTRY DEPARTMENT

William Ogden Wiley, treasurer of John Wiley & Son, Inc., of New York, scientific publishers, was on the campus Monday visiting the chemistry department. "Each year the publishers send a representative to cover the various scientific departments of the country, and advise those in charge of new books that are coming off the press, and to obtain information regarding the general sentiment," said H. G. Tanner, professor of chemistry.

PRESIDENT PRINCE L. CAMPBELL

The University's President who made his last public appearance a year ago at the Student Union Drive

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Every modern University is more and more being taken over by its students as their own particular possession. These students are answering more and more to the call of their own fine natures and are lifting the standards to heights of excellence which were undreamed of in the old days. This springs from the steadily growing expansion of the belief in the goodness of human nature. Students have taught the great lesson to the old masters that they can be trusted and followed. As a result, curricula have been broadened, buildings have been expanded and faculties have been enlarged. The movement to secure additional equipment at the University of Oregon was undertaken by the students and alumni a number of years ago. It swelled into a great movement when the campaign for ten million dollars was joyfully entered upon by the students on the campus in cooperation with the alumni. The students on the campus struck the first note, rising above the predictions of doubtful hearts, raising within the very few days assigned to them more than their part of the allotment, which was marvelous. It set the pace for alumni, and citizens of the state to measure up to. Every new student of the University will be eager for a part in this movement. The great student body building which will soon occupy the site at the western end of the campus will hold the affection of every man and woman who enters the University. It will be a splendid tribute to the beginning of a new epoch in education in which students are a part of every great movement not only in the University but in the state, because they must be the leaders towards not only a greater University but a greater Oregon. But here it must be remembered that the wisdom and the achievement of the past must also be treasured. The challenge of the students of 1924 to those of 1925 is to maintain the magnificent standards already placed before them. It is a great opportunity and without question will be as nobly met by you.

SCRIBES TO VIE WITH LAWYERS

It's all settled, folks, and it's going to be the greatest thing that's happened here in its line in a long time! The sports writers are going to play the law school a real major league game of baseball Saturday, May 2, on Kincaid field, at 1:30. Final arrangements were completed yesterday noon when Jimmy King, manager of the lawyer's nine, and Jean DuPaul, president of the law school, met with the sports writers at luncheon.

A small charge will be made to witness the game, it was decided, and the proceeds will be donated to the Student Union. The game will be the regulation nine innings in length. Jimmy Cameron, of the economics department, a former college diamond star, has been selected to umpire the contest; with Harry Scott, of the department of physical education, and another official to be selected as assistants. The sports writers were highly elated when the lawyers agreed to unconditionally waive all rights to Sam Wilderman, crack infielder. (Continued on page four)

Unusual Motor Car Parked on Campus Causes Commotion

One of the freshman girls was sitting in a very distinctive car. The car, a monogrammed model with an impressive flashlight, was refreshing to gaze upon, parked as it was in unwonted dignity on the well-tended campus grass. The unusual car shared the popularity of the co-ed who occupied it. Men crowded about, passers-by who had stopped in sheer admiration, friends of the girl, members of the dramatic department, and even some staid and earnest geologists who had wandered over from Quartz hall. A camera was produced and some of the men, the car, and its charming occupant were exhaustively photographed.

A gay joy-ride on the sacred lawn of the University! How could it happen! Well, it really couldn't. The facts of the case were thus. Some of those who attended the entertainment for the seniors of the Guild hall company and graduate members of the dramatic department Saturday night, decided they wanted some pictures in their memory books to commemorate the event. So they set their wits to work. (Continued on page four)

DICK SMITH ADDS PLEDGE; HEILIG TO GIVE BIG PARTY

The Student Union drive is going ahead, and it is drawing into its spirit others besides the students. Yesterday the special gifts committee announced two pledges of real importance to the campaign. Dick Smith, football coach, pledged $200 to the Union, and this in addition to an unusually large pledge to the gift campaign as a whole. W. B. McDonald, manager of the Heilig theatre, stepped in as a regular student, and signed a pledge for $100 in the name of the Heilig chain of theatres. In addition, Mr. McDonald announced that if the campaign is a success, as he firmly believes it will be, the Heilig theatre will hold a theatre party with all committee workers as guests. Plans for the theatre party, which will be next Wednesday night, have already been made. Admission will be by the ribbon with "Committee" printed upon it, and all students coming to the show must have these with them. The entire balcony of the theatre will be reserved. Students are not to arrive before 9:15, as the theatre must be emptied from the first show, and the second show crowd be gotten out of the way before the student rush. "The Heilig is more than glad to co-operate with the students in any move they may make for the betterment of the University," declared Mr. McDonald. Several times before this year the theatre has been host to University parties, but this occasion is expected to eclipse them all, as fully 250 guests are to be provided for.

OREGON TO HAVE ENTRY FOR PRIZE

Oregon will have a candidate for one of the $1,000 foreign scholarships offered by the American Council on Education, believes Mrs. Clara Fitch, secretary to the president. There are already three eligible applicants for these scholarships. The candidate from Oregon will be decided upon Saturday, as all applications must be in the office of the council on education before May 1.

Students, who receive these scholarships, must have finished two years of academic work here, and must plan to return to take their undergraduate degree from the institution he is now attending. This limits applicants to junior and sophomore standing. Although there are eight scholarships offered, two are limited to the universities of New York. This means that there will only be six successful candidates from the other universities of the United States.

The work done abroad must be of such a nature that it will apply to a degree in the United States. There is no limitation in regard to the country or university in which the student may study. However, when abroad, he will be under the supervision of the council on education.

NEWSBOY MAGAZINE ISSUED IN PORTLAND

"The Hustler," an annual magazine issued to create scholarships for Portland newsboys in the higher institutions of learning, has just been issued. Sam Wilderman, a law student at Oregon, is editor of the magazine. Several stories and pictures of Oregon people appear.

Margaret Morrison, '25, is the author of an article entitled "Meet John Straub, the Dean of Deans." A picture of the dean appears and the article deals with the early life of the University. Another Oregon story is about the law school and is illustrated with pictures of Dean W. G. Hale and Professor Sam Bass Warner of the school of law. A page spread of prominent ex-newsboys, "Making Good at State Schools," includes snapshots of Paul Patterson, Bob Mautz and George Godfrey, all Oregon students.

PEP ASSEMBLY IS BIG SUCCESS

President Campbell Sends Inspiring Message to All Committee Workers

NEED OF PROJECT TOLD

Heads of Freshmen Forces Instill Spirit of Rivalry Into Opening Campaign

By G. H. G.
 Students of the University, eager to see the Student Union drive in full swing towards a successful $64,000 goal, gathered yesterday at the kick-off assembly in the Woman's building. The enthusiastic crowd, led by the band, rallied with the committee heads in the lead. Fireworks and the clanging of bells brought the campus population to the headquarters hut in a hurry—and the great drive was on. In the assembly hall the proceedings took on a dignified, sober air. The glee club sang the Oregon Pledge song feelingly, and Karl Onthank, secretary to President Campbell, read a message dictated by the President of the University just a few minutes before. The full realization of what the Student Union campaign means—how it will affect the entire University for years to come—was breathed into that message. It was the utmost in inspiration, coming from a man who has made a great sacrifice, a sacrifice of health and almost life itself, for the institution he loves. History of Project Told The students listened in silence. Gone was the noise of a few minutes before, but the determination to carry on for Oregon was stronger than ever. Every student, as he listened to the words of his president, resolved that the campaign was going to be a success, a success to cheer the heart of the man who is heart and soul for the University. John McGregor, student body president two years ago, one of the men who first caught the vision of the great Union, told the history of the project, and described the need that exists for it even now. "The Union will be a rallying place for friendship, for Oregon spirit and Oregon traditions," he said. "It will be a place to meet when we return years hence. It will be the center of Oregon life." The women of the University will be benefitted by the new building, declared Georgia Benson, former president of the Women's League. Already the Woman's building is proving inadequate as to space for women's activities, and rooms for committee meetings and other functions are badly needed, she declared. Committee Heads Speak Virginia Lee Richardson, head of the freshman women's committee, and "Red" Langworthy, head of freshmen men, injected the spirit of friendly rivalry into the campaign, each declaring that their part of the class would raise the most in the drive. Both made excellent speeches. Robert Mautz again briefly outlined the drive procedure, and urged the workers to go and go hard and fast. "Mighty Oregon," meaning more to the first year students, and others as well, ended the kick-off assembly.

J. B. V. BUTLER VISITS NORMAL SCHOOL CLUB

J. B. V. Butler, head of the history department at Oregon Normal school, at Monmouth, was guest of honor at a dinner meeting of the campus Oregon Normal school club, held Wednesday evening, at the Anchorage. Theodora E. Elwell, and Dr. Homer P. Rainey, both of the education department of the University, were present. Dr. Rainey gave the address. The musical selections were a piano solo, and a vocal duet. Mable Johnson was the pianist, and Grace Drago, and Mary Hatt gave the duet. The club will hold its next meeting, May 20.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TOTAL $27,050

Meeting Today Will Show Complete Results for the First Half of Campaign

LUNCHEON IS IMPORTANT

Leader Sets $50,000 Goal For Tonight; Frosh Show Enthusiasm in Pledging

PROGRAM FOR TODAY'S DRIVE
 1. Every committee should attend the luncheon at the Woman's building at noon.
 2. Every captain should have a complete report ready.
 3. Ample seats will be provided, with teams grouped together.
 4. Badges should be worn by committee members.
 5. The luncheon will begin promptly at 12:00 and will end at 1:10 sharp.
 6. Total for tonight, $50,000.

A total of $27,050 was the amount that had been pledged to the Student Union drive at ten o'clock last night.

The first day of the drive witnessed a great deal of enthusiasm especially among the freshmen who are working hard to put their quota over the top. $50,000 has been set as the goal to reach by tomorrow night, by Bob Mautz, chairman of the committee. "We must have this amount by tomorrow night," he said, "or we cannot go over the top by Saturday."

Tomorrow noon there will be a luncheon for all workers at the Woman's building. "It is imperative that all team workers turn in the full report of what has been pledged to their captains by noon," said Emberson Wright, freshman man on the committee. A report of the money pledged to date will be made at this time. Eldon Lambert's orchestra will play during the hour and short talks will be given by various committee members. Any problems confronting the workers will be straightened out at this time.

The gongs which were heard rather frequently yesterday afternoon signified that one more pledge had been signed, while the thermometer in front of the library steadily swung around.

Two days remain in which to raise $36,950, said Kenneth Stephenson, assistant chairman of the drive, "and we have got to get it so that we can all celebrate at the banquet on Saturday night."

WALTER EVANS KIDD SELLS MORE POEMS

Walter Evans Kidd, editor of the poetry section, "Lyric Rainbow," has during the last month placed some more of his verse. Two poems, "Buttercup Dawn," and "Now We Shall Live," were sold to "The Harp," a magazine of poetry published in Kansas City. "Sea Death" has been accepted by "The Lyric," a magazine of poetry published in New York, and "April Death," and "Sea Imagery" have been placed with "Lyric West," a poetry magazine published in Los Angeles. The first two publications are of national circulation, while "Lyric West" has the distinction of being the only western magazine exclusively devoted to poetry. Mr. Kidd has also placed many other poems recently in addition to having sold several short stories.

Last year Mr. Kidd won first prize in two national poetry contests, the National Warner and the Skylark poetry contests. An addition he won the first award in the Parsons' short story contest in 1921.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA TO HOLD VODVIL PRACTICE TODAY

Rehearsal of the act which will be put on at Junior Vodvil by the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity will be held at the College Side Inn at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Paul Krausse, chairman for Vodvil, will direct the rehearsal.
