VARIED PROGRAM GIVEN

Music Organizations Get
Enthusiastic Greeting
In Portland and Salem

Enthusiastic audiences greeted the University men's and women's glee clubs and orchestra last weekend in both Salem and Portland, where they gave combined concerts.

The people of Salem gave the organizations, which were directed by John Stark Evans and Rex Underwood, an exceptionally hearty welcome, and several requests have been made by Oregon alumni and others for a return concert in the near future. A larger crowd greeted the musicians at the Heilig in Portland, and almost every number was applauded for an encore.

Critic Praises Work

The following review of the Portland concert appeared in the Sunday Oregonian by C. Hilton-Turvey:

"The orchestra, which opened the concert, showed itself fine-toned, musically alert, and responsive to the conductor. The Greig march was performed with spirit, the substitute number, 'Love's Dream,' being in striking contrast. One of the most effective numbers, the 'Second Hungarian Rhapsody of Liszt,' had to be omitted in part, owing to the length of the program and the extra numbers demanded and given, but the part played was full of dash and fire.

The two glee clubs, like the orchestra, did extremely good work. The Cederidge-Taylor opus, 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast,' was put through with solid, musical ensemble, good shading and rich, young tone. Frank Jue sang his solo, 'Onaway, Awake Beloved' with impassioned style and lyric tone, and won the house to a tumult of applause. He was twice recalled.

Solos Well Received

Alberta Potter, violinist, displayed fine, tenuous tone in her solo and encore, as well as brilliant and facile technique. Lora Teshner, violinist, also played a programmed number and an encore with a decisive manner, incisive tone and good intonation. Mrs. Rex Underwood played skillful accompaniments for both girls. Roy Bryson's light tenor voice made a decided impression and he, too, was recalled and obliged to add an extra. The whole performance of the glee clubs and orchestra was one of which the directors might well be proud, and the work of these

OLD HORSE ONCE NEARLY RUINED FROSH CLASS, SAYS DEAN STRAUB

About 20 or 25 years ago when the Homecoming bonfire business was in its infancy, the freshmen used to borrow the university wagon to gather boxes and other material from all over town. They did not use a horse, but pulled the wagon to and from the wood pile.

One year the freshmen found an old sway-backed horse lying down in a barnyard, and thought they would borrow him. The horse was too weak to get up by himself, and the boys got some 2x4's and raised him. When they got him up, his engine wouldn't reverse and they had to push the wagon up to him to get him into the shafts. The horse could only stand when in motion; and when the boys stopped anywhere to get boxes, two freshmen had to stand on each side to hold him up or put two props under the shafts.

Several times on the way, the horse would stop suddenly and begin to sway (he was a sway-backed horse anyway) and immediately the freshmen would jump down from the wagon, two on each side, balance him and get him started. After the second trip to the

Campus Squirrels, ... Once Big Troop, Dwindle to Three

Although it has been many years since the Oregon campus was the habitat of wild animals, a few of their descendants still remain in the old haunts. These are the gray squirrels, and now even they are disappearing.

"Some 10 or 12 years ago, there were quite a number of squirrels on the campus," said H. M. Fisher, superintendent of grounds. "For a long time we fed them, and did our best to keep them on the campus. But they have gradually been killed by dogs or have left."

One lively little fellow stays near Villard hall most of the time. He climbs the fire escape, and then crawls up the ivy to the ledge of on top of the building. There is a small house, painted green, in one of the big fir near Deady, where the squirrels can find shelter. It was placed there about 10 years ago, and they have lived in it most of the time since it was put in the tree.

FOUR SCHOOLS REMAIN DEBATE CONTESTANTS

State High School Victory Will Be May Event

Only four high schools remain as contestants for the championship in the Oregon high school debate league. Two of these are in the Eastern Oregon district; while two are in the Western Oregon district. Starting with nearly a dozen high school districts the number has gradually simmered down to four, according to Dr. Dan Clark of the extension division who is directing the work on the part of the University.

The Ashland high school and the Tillamook high school are the two contestants in Western Oregon. The Ontario high school and the McLaughlin union high school at Milton are the two contesting teams in Eastern Oregon.

It will be some time in the latter part of May when the victor from the eastern side of the state meets the victor from the western side, according to Dr. Clark. They will hold the state championship on the campus. Last year the Salem high school team won over the Union high school team.

GRA-KOS ALUMNI INVITED ATTEND LUNCHEON TODAY

Members of Gra-Kos, sophomore society, will meet at a luncheon today noon at the College Side Inn to talk over plans for a formal dance to be given May 9, at a decided impression and he, too, was recalled and obliged to add an extra. Alumni of the organization are invited to attend the luncheon and it is urged that as many as possible be there. The dance will wind up the business and social activities of the society for this year.

WORK TO START ON DECORATIONS

Two Committees to Meet
At 5:00 This Afternoon;
Full Attendance Urged

NEW SYSTEM ADOPTED

Names of Representatives
To Take Charge of Work
In Houses Announced

Announcement of the names of the representatives, who will take charge of the decorations which will be made by the various fraternities, was made by Arthur Gale, head of the decorations committee for the Junior Prom, yesterday.

In case that it is impossible for any of those who have been appointed to take charge of the work assigned to them, they will be held responsible and expected to get some one to take their place.

New Plan Introduced

Work on the decorations, which will begin this week, will be assigned by the Junior Prom committee. The plan adopted this year is a decided advantage in getting the work done early, and thereby serves as a means of eliminating the last minute rush, according to Gale.

Meeting is Scheduled

A meeting of the decorations and feature committees for the Junior Prom is scheduled for this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the administration building. All members are urged to attend.

House Leaders Named

The men appointed to take charge of the work in the various houses are as follows: Alpha Beta Chi, Kenneth Rew; Alpha Tau Omega, Rufus Sumner; Bachelorhood, Ray Mosier; Beta Theta Pi, Jerome Gunther; Chi Psi, James Forester; Delta Tau Delta, John Sherman; Kappa Delta Phi, Poloski; Kappa Sigma, Charles Snyder; Lambda Psi, Paul Ager; Phi Delta Theta, Fred Gerke; Phi Gamma Delta, Richard Lyman; Phi Kappa Psi, Maurice Warnock; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Edwin Hicks; Sigma Chi, Parley Stoddard; Sigma Nu, Carl Dahl; Sigma Pi Tau, Warren Small; and Theta Chi, Charles R. Hoyt.

PROF. FREDERIC DUNN PREPARES LECTURES

Professor Frederic S. Dunn, head of the Latin department is at present working on two illustrated lectures, one dealing with "The Homeric Poems in Art," and the other on the subject of "The Face of Jesus."

The first subject is a continuation of a paper, first presented in assembly at the University about three years ago. This paper covered the prefatory events, leading up to the siege of Troy—or those events which are chronicled in the first few chapters of the "Iliad." The papers which Professor Dunn is working on at the present time dealt with the remainder of the "Iliad," and the entire "Odyssey," thus including events following the Trojan war, and the return of the Greek chieftains.

The paper on the "Face of Jesus" is to be considered not only from an aesthetic, but also from an historic standpoint, according to Professor Dunn. Reproductions of the best representations of the face of Jesus are to be shown, and the matter of the authenticity of some of the portraits will be considered. Some of the oldest portraits come from the catacombs, and others are taken from old coins.

Caps and Gowns Should Be Ordered At Co-op by May 1

Caps and gowns for the seniors should be ordered as soon as possible. A five dollar deposit is required, two dollars and a half of which will be returned when the gowns are returned, the remaining two dollars and a half being retained as rental fee.

Prices on the cap and gowns will raise after May 1, as all orders received after that time will be wired east. The same fact holds true for announcements, which will accordingly be more expensive after May 1. Those desiring caps and gowns or announcements are desired to order through the Co-op as soon as possible.

PRESIDENT OF REED TO COME AS SPEAKER

Norman F. Coleman Will Address Assembly

Norman F. Coleman, recently elected president of Reed college in Portland, who will be on the campus this week as the speaker for assembly, was a classmate of Dean Colin V. Dymont at the University of Toronto.

Dean Dymont, in recalling Mr. Coleman's record at school, said he was one of the few men able to carry on the work for honors in his own department and do work in other departments as well.

"Mr. Coleman was originally a zoologist, but his interest lay also in English and he won the Governor General's gold medal for English at Toronto," he said.

Mr. Coleman came West and taught in the Spokane high school and in the English department at Whitman. He came to Reed college from Whitman about 1911, and was so conspicuous for his work there that when President Scholz died, Mr. Coleman seemed to be the logical man to succeed and was elected president last December.

Mr. and Mrs. Coleman were classmates at Toronto, Dean Dymont said, and Mrs. Coleman won the first class honors and the medal in modern languages there.

Mr. Coleman is widely known among the lumbermen of the state as president of the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen, and for his activities in connection with industrial problems.

Dean Dymont characterized Mr. Coleman as "an excellent speaker, deeply interested in problems of morality and hygiene."

OREGON KNIGHTS PLAN DANCE FRIDAY EVENING

The Oregon Knights are sponsoring a dance which will be given at the College Side Inn, Friday evening. The committee, which is headed by Alan Button, have been making due preparations for the affair.

Lowell Baker and Laverne Miller, who are also on the dance committee, have charge of the decorations and the music. The proceeds of the dance will go to the Oregon Knight treasury, and the money is used by the Knights to carry on their work on the campus.

Although the committee have not given out any "dope" on the nature of the feature, the students can be at ease that the dance will have its surpluses.

CLASS IN ADVERTISING COMPETE FOR PRIZES

Professor W. F. G. Thacher's advertising class was presented yesterday with the problem for the annual Botsford-Constantine prizes of $25, $15 and $10. The awards will be made on the basis of excellence in the solution of an advertising problem which includes the work of a complete campaign. The students will make a thorough investigation of the product they select, plan the lay-outs, write the copy for the advertisements and estimate the cost. A list of ten products are offered, which embrace some of the prominent accounts of the Botsford-Constantine company.

HAYWARD PICKS FROSH FOR MEET

Annual Babe vs. Rook Relay
Carnival Scheduled for
Hayward Field Saturday

WIND HAMPERS RUNNERS

Prendergast Wins Two Firsts
In Recent Track Contests;
Events Show Slow Time

Competing in a strong wind last Saturday afternoon the four fastest freshmen in four running events were selected to represent the green cappers in the annual Frosh-Rook relay carnival to be held on Hayward field, May 2. The results of the meet were not encouraging, for a southwest wind retarded the runners and cut down the times of the events to some extent.

Few Men Turning Out

Bill Hayward's frosh track aspirants numbered around sixty at the first of the term but they have been dropping off until he now has comparatively few men out. Their showing last Saturday, in spite of the wind, should have been better than was registered by the timers. They will have an opportunity to show what ability they have in the carnival next week-end. The competition will be keen against the strong crew of Rook baton carriers.

All the times caught on the runners were slow. The 220-yard dash was run on the new straight way head on against the wind. Allen, one of the most promising frosh sprinters, stumbled on the last yard when he was abreast of Prendergast. Bob Overstreet, the outstanding distance man on the squad was not competing but will probably be entered in the carnival in spite of this.

Wind Slows Times

The 100-yard dash was run off in two heats—both of them comparatively slow. The final heat caught the leaders at the tape with very little interval between them. Prendergast won in the time of 10:1 with Allen, Guttridge, Kuykendall and Wetzel close on his heels.

The 220 was also won by Prendergast, followed by Guttridge, Winslow and Allen. The time was 24:3.

Cooper Wins Quarter Mile

Cooper won a slow quarter mile in 54 seconds. Pearson followed him close for second place. Hicks and Clarke finished third and fourth.

DOUGHNUT NET MEN HAVE INITIAL CONTEST

Doughnut tennis opened yesterday afternoon with the Sigma Alpha Epsilon pair eliminating the boys from Beta Theta Pi, 6-1, 6-1.

Ed Britts and Reginald Heber made up the winning team. Fred Joy and Laurine Reynolds played for the Beta's.

This afternoon will see the championship aspirants from Bachelorhood and Phi Delta Theta tangle in the second contest of the first round. Tomorrow Friendly hall and Alpha Tau Omega will play for the "survival of the fittest." Sigma Pi Tau will mix with Kappa Sigma on Thursday. The remaining contests in the first round will have to be re-scheduled and the final result will be announced or posted later.

These games are being played on the straight elimination basis with the team winning the first two out of three sets acclaimed victors.

Bat Hunter Steps Through Plaster of Villard Ceiling

Bats nearly spelled misfortune to a young man yesterday morning who went in search of them in the attic over the assembly room of Villard hall—a favorite haunt of bats, by the way.

This particular bat seeker, carrying the victims of his hunt with him, stepped off the joist and his leg went through the plastering. Luckily, he did not go far, for, had he fallen clear through the plastering, he would have descended on the benches some thirty feet below, which might possibly have meant death.

BERNICE YEO TO PLAY IN RECITAL TONIGHT

Pianist Known on Campus
For Musical Activities

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the recital hall of the school of music, Bernice Yeo, pianist, and a student in the school of music, will be presented by John Stark Evans, in her senior recital. Miss Yeo is well-known on the campus by her prominence in musical activities, especially as a piano soloist and accompanist. She is an active member of Mu Phi Epsilon, national musical fraternity for women, and last year was accompanist for the women's glee club. She also had the distinction last year of holding the Mu Phi Epsilon scholarship in piano.

A very brilliant junior recital was given by Miss Yeo last year. Her playing is noted for its unusual technique which is perfected to a high degree of efficiency. She also has an extensive repertoire. Following is her program for tonight which is both exceedingly interesting and difficult:

Appassionata Sonata .....Beethoven
Two Etudes in Double Notes ..... Philipp

Nocturne .....Four
Impromptu .....Four
Etude, op. 10—No. 5—g flat.
Nocturne, op. 15—No. 2—f sharp.
Polonaise, op. 53—a flat. Chopin
Concerto, op. 54—a minor Schumann

With organ accompaniment
The public is invited to attend the recital, which marks the first senior recital to be given this term.

PROFESSOR HOWE RETURNS TO REGULAR CLASSES

Professor H. C. Howe, of the English department, appeared at his Saturday afternoon and Monday classes after an absence of several days due to an attack of grippe.

STUDENT, RENINISCENT, TELLS OF DAYS AS SALT-SEA SAILOR

Gold-lacquered deities glaring through the incense laden air of a Shanghai joss house; banners fluttering lazily in the wind at Yokohama; geisha girls pouring tea in a paper-walled Tokio tea house, sam-pans gliding across the light-reflecting night waters of Hong Kong harbor; white walls and red-tiled roofs showing through the palm trees at Panama; dancing girls whirling in the tobacco-laden air of the Red Lantern of Buenos Aires; buglers sounding warnings of Zep-pelin raids at London, Dutch girls in their huge sabots clattering on the cobble stones of Amsterdam,—these are some of the memories recalled from former sailing days by Richard M. Nance, major in business administration, in an interview recently. The most vivid memories, however, are those of storms.

"The S. S. Boykin while crossing the North Atlantic in 1918 was four times reported lost before it finally docked at Philadelphia," said Nance, who was serving as chief quartermaster. "Another storm that offered a few thrills was the North Atlantic storm in 1919 which experienced seamen

STUDENT GIFTS EXCEED QUOTA

Total of $67,500 Announced
At Wind-up Banquet Held
Saturday for Workers

PLEDGES STILL COMING

Contributions of People
And Business Firms of
Eugene Amount to $2,000

The Student Union campaign crashed over the top Saturday night with a total of $67,500 pledged. This was a safe margin over the quota of $64,00, and insured the success of the drive.

Announcement of the final total was made Saturday night at the final wind-up banquet held in the Woman's building, when Randall Jones read the figures to the workers.

Business Firms Give

The safe margin reached was due largely to the generosity of several Eugene business firms and townspeople. Late in the afternoon the flying squadron obtained substantial subscriptions from the townspeople which, all told, amounted to $2,200.

Green-Kilbourne, men's clothiers at 825 Willamette street, showed their interest in the success of the Union drive by pledging $250.

The Osburn hotel also pledged $250 towards the Union building fund.

Peter Pan, restaurant and confectionery at 996 Willamette, gave a pledge for $200.

Paul Green's store for men, 713 Willamette, signed a pledge for $200.

Baker-Button, photographers at 7, Seventh street West, gave a $100 pledge.

The Oregana, student restaurant on Eleventh and Alder, signed a $100 pledge.

The Campa Shoppe, student restaurant on Twelfth and Alder, gave a $100 pledge.

Mautz Expresses Thanks

Mrs. W. F. Jewett, of Eugene, Saturday gave to the Student Union, a check for $200.

Robert Mautz, chairman of the drive, expressed appreciation to the townspeople who have supported the Union campaign.

"Its mighty fine of these people and firms to give their money this way, and the students certainly do appreciate it."

At the banquet Saturday night Randall Jones, president of the student body, expressing the heartiest thanks of the associated students to the workers on the Union committee, said that it was a hard job requiring a great sacrifice in time
