

AWARDS COMMITTEE CHANGES ALBERT PRIZE

Silver Loving Cup Given In Place of Cash

A silver loving cup instead of a cash award of $25 is to constitute hereafter the Albert prize. This decision was reached recently by the Awards committee of the faculty after correspondence with Joseph H. Albert of the First National Bank of Salem, donor of the trophy.

This award has been made each year since 1920 to the senior who, during his college course, has made the greatest progress toward the ideal in character, service and wholesome influence. Under the rules governing the award the committee selects from among the members of the senior class, three whose record appears the best in these respects, and from those three the senior class makes the selection by ballot.

Last year the $25 prize was awarded to Claude Robinson, who was president of the student body.

The award committee also announced that the time remaining for turning in essays for the Murray Warner essay contest is very short. The period has been extended to May 10. There is better response to this competition this year than previously, with seven essays expected. There are three prizes for the best papers: first, $100; second, $65; and third $35.

Little interest has been shown as yet in the Philo Sherman Bennett contest of $20 for the best essay on the principles of free government. Essays will be accepted until May 15.

FROSH DEFEAT ROOKS IN ANNUAL TRACK MEET

The unexpected happened last Saturday when the frosh relay men won the annual frosh-rook relay meet by the score of 3 to 2. The meet was filled with close races, and hard fought competition. Surprises were plentiful for the freshman team was doped to lose with the loss of three good men.

Bill was highly pleased with the meet. "I certainly am satisfied" he declared, "especially since we expected to lose. I would not have been disappointed if we had lost, it was the only thing to expect after losing three of my men."

The summary of the meet was as follows:

440 relay—Won by Oregon; Allen, Kuykendall, Guttridge, and Wetzel. Time, 45:02.

Mile relay—Won by O. A. C. Skaggs, Schwartz, Jose and Peterson. Time 3:40.

Two-mile relay—Won by O. A. C. Hovey, Bollam, Howell and Peterson. Time, 8:45:7.

880 relay—Won by Oregon. Allen, Winslow, Kuykendall and Guttridge. Time, 1:35.

Medley relay—Won by Oregon. Allen, Cooper, Overstreet and Kelly. Time, 8:18:4.

This plan would make the construction of the Student Union building possible in the next three years instead of at some vague future date which the present student drives would make necessary. This building is recognized as a real need, and the first $500,000 of the money collected under the term fee plan would go towards this end the building of the basketball pavilion. The amount of money expended for this purpose, however, would not be so large that it would hinder the construction of other necessary buildings.

The payments under the proposed amendment of $5.00 a term would be credited on the Student Union gift pledges, thus a $100 pledge would be reduced to $85 at the end of next year. While it is desirable to keep the fees of this University as low as possible, even with this additional $5.00 a term, they would still be lower than most universities, and Oregon would be enabled to launch a definite campaign and maintain her athletic prestige by providing the structures necessary to its development.

afternoon in the large measure for freshman and sophomore classes. A possibility of free mornings might also overcome some of the student avoidance of afternoon classes.

Present Conditions Serious

The present and immediately prospective congestion in class rooms is so serious that any single relief measure will still be inadequate. The committee hopes that this opening up of Saturday morning to regular scheduling of classes will permit such readjustment that the afternoon hours will be more available also, and thus give relief for more than a single year. The committee recognizes that its proposal will call for some readjustments of the campus life, and occasionally work real hardship, but see no alternatives which are at the same time possible, economical, and equally acceptable.

the history of central Europe. While abroad, Dr. Bertha Stuart Dymont will take the opportunity to visit the children's clinics in Paris, Czecho-Slovakia, and Austria. During the war, she served in France and had 3000 children under her care in the Loire clinic, and is desirous of observing the clinical work at present.

Dr. Harry B. Torrey, professor of zoology and chairman of the department of medicine in the University of Oregon, was granted a year's leave of absence.

Dr. Torrey has been a member of the Oregon faculty for the past five years, joining the University staff at the invitation of President P. L. Campbell after eight years' service as professor of biology at Reed college, Portland. As chairman of the department of medicine at the University, Dr. Torrey has divided his time between his work at Eugene and at the medical school at Portland.

As research was an essential part of Dr. Torrey's work when he came to the University, he developed interest in experimental research and gathered about him a group of the members of his own staff and graduate students and assistants. This group research centered about the general problem of differentiation, a problem connected most closely with the problem of cancer.

As a result of this work, 15 or more publications on the investigations have been printed in various scientific journals, and interested in research was greatly stimulated.

The unification of the medical school program was one of Dr. Torrey's ambitions, and a seven-year curriculum was devised and adopted by the faculties at Eugene and at Portland. Dr. Torrey's policy has been to encourage breadth of culture and research in Eugene, and at the same time to show their bearing on medicine as it is and will be.

There are 172 major students in the departments of zoology and medicine at Eugene, nine of whom are graduate students and candidates for degrees.

David E. Faville, the son of E. E. Faville, publisher of the Western Farmer, Portland, was appointed assistant professor of business administration in the school of business administration. Professor Faville is a graduate of the Jefferson high school, Portland, and took his bachelor's degree with honors in economics at Stanford. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Delta Kappa. In June, he will obtain his master's degree from Harvard. He is the brother of Dick Faville, well-known former Stanford football man.

Chilton R. Bush, instructor in the University of Wisconsin school of journalism, was appointed assistant professor in the Oregon school of journalism.

Dr. Ernest S. Bates, professor of philosophy, who has been abroad during the past two years and who is continuing his studies there, submitted his resignation, which was accepted.

Dr. Robert C. Clark, head of the history department, was granted a leave of absence for the fall term to examine the archives of the Hudson Bay company for a study of the work of this organization in the early era of the Pacific Northwest region, and to make other studies. Prof. Mary H. Perkins, of the English department, was granted a year's leave to study and travel abroad.

The student body was authorized to conduct a referendum of undergraduates to determine if sentiment favors adding $5 a term to the student fee to add student union funds and moneys for other strictly student projects. To become lawful, the referendum must pass by a two-thirds vote.

The board voted to consolidate the department of drama and the speech arts with the English department.

The board reported a considerable saving on the yearly budget, the savings taking place through the college of literature, science and the arts, the various schools, and the extension division.

A $2000 bequest of the late J. H. Cook of Portland was announced, and set aside for the memorial court building fund.

Resignations of Dr. Fritz Marti, instructor in philosophy, and Bertha Hays and Vesta Holt, instructors in zoology, were accepted. Dr. Glenn E. Hoover of the economics and political science departments was transferred full-time to the former department.

R. U. Moore, an Oregon graduate, who has served as principal of McMinnville and Salem high schools, succeeds Harold Benjamin, and F. C. Wooten succeeds Rollien Dickerson as instructors in the school of education. Mr. Benjamin goes to Stanford, for advanced work, and Mr. Dickerson takes a professorship in the school of ethical culture, New York.

The administrative committee reported that more than 400 students will be graduated at the June commencement, a record class in the history of the institution.
