FRANK RIGGS WINS THREE TITLES

One of the outstanding features of the Pacific Northwest Association wrestling and boxing tournament, held several weeks ago, was the winning of three boxing titles by Frank Riggs, a student of the University of Oregon.

Riggs won the P. N. A. championship in the 147, 160 and the light heavyweight divisions. This is a very good record and probably will not be surpassed for some time. Riggs is fast and clever, and although he does not knock his opponents out, he manages to be the aggressor.

Tug Irvin, also a University student, did not come out as well as Riggs, since he lost his first bout. Tug injured his hand which kept him from advancing to the finals.

GRID TURNOUT LARGE AT NOTRE DAME

Spring football training began at Notre Dame two weeks ago with twelve full teams reporting for the first practice. If Knute Rockne does not select another championship aggregation from this squad the odds will be against him.

Only three or four veterans reported for the initial workout and they were placed in charge of various squads. Coach Rockne will watch every recruit and anyone showing knowledge of the pigskin game will be kept on the squad.

From reports sent out from the Notre Dame camp the Irishmen are to repeat their performance of the past season.

TRACK ENTERS INTO GRID PROGRAM

Characteristic of the thorough manner in which Coach Smith has handled the present spring grid practice, is the new plan which the Oregon football mentor has adopted. Smith plans to have the entire squad of grid candidates turn out for track during the rest of the spring term. These men will be placed under Bill Hayward and will be given regular workouts on the cinder path.

By giving the football men numerous pointers on starting and developing speed, Bill Hayward hopes to develop the squad into an exceptionally fast aggregation. The "quick starting" and speed developed on the track will be invaluable to the grid eleven in the fall and will tend to make the Oregon team one of the fastest teams in the conference.

The football men will turn out three times a week for the customary training given to regular track candidates. This will include considerable time spent each day on "starts" and limbering-up by circuiting the track several times, in addition to some time given over to developing speed in the sprints.

Associated somewhat with this form of general training given to grid candidates by track work, is the system used by Billy Reinhart in his basketball coaching. The majority of Reinhart's basketball players from the 1925 team are now spending some time each week training and getting into shape for next season. The candidates for the next hoop team have adopted the program which includes workouts three times a week with the following methods of practice: Skipping rope, to develop speedy foot work, several games of handball, and some time spent on tumbling.

WASHINGTON EXPECTING ANOTHER CREW VICTORY

Enthusiasm is running high at the University of Washington over the prospects of another national intercollegiate rowing championship. The University of Washington's crew won the national championship last year at the regatta at Poughkeepsie, New York, and are out to duplicate the feat this year.

Crew is one of the major sports on the Washington campus and recently the board of regents gave the University of Washington Alumni association permission to raise $17,000 for the crew; $13,000 to be used for expenses, $2,000 for a new launch and $1,000 for emergencies. A balance of $1,308 from last year is to be used in the fund.

The crew is now training very hard for the coming national meet, having defeated their strongest rivals, California, several weeks ago. The national intercollegiate regatta will be held at Poughkeepsie, New York, in the early part of May. A junior varsity crew will also be entered in this meet.

Y.W.C.A. CONVENTION

THOUGHT WORTH WHILE

Northwest Officer Lauds State Cabinet Meet

The Annual State Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Council proved worthwhile, both to the delegates and to the leaders, is the opinion of Miss Elsie Heller, national secretary of the northwest field. The students "did some good thinking in this conference—thinking just as searching and splendid as I have found any place," Miss Heller said in speaking of the state conferences which she has been attending in Washington and Idaho as well as in Oregon.

Two main problems were discussed Saturday forenoon, during the session which lasted from 9:00 to 11:30. Miss Katherine Seay, secretary of the Y. W. C. A. at Oregon Agricultural college conducted the discussion upon this problem. She was followed by Miss Elsie Heller who presented the problem of the essentials of leadership in a Christian association.

At noon the delegates were guests of the local cabinet at a luncheon held at the Anchorage. The afternoon session took up at 3:00 and the following two hours were devoted to national and international phases of Y. W. C. A. work. Janelle Vandervort, chairman of the Seabeek conference and a senior at Willamette university, gave a report on the national meeting in New York at Christmas time, to which she was the northwest representative. Miss Henrietta Thomson, chairman of the Friendly Relations committee, for the Pacific slope, located at Berkeley, conducted the discussion on the international work.

A Seabeek picnic at which plans for the summer conference convening in Seabeek, Washington, June 23-July 3, was held at Coburg bridge in the evening at 6:00. Some of the plans and discussions Miss Heller styled as a "good fore-run."

ner for the Seabeek conference" which is to be conducted differently from previous years in that it is to be provocative of good thinking.

Charlotte Winnard conducted the morning worship at 9:30, dismissing in time for regular church services. The closing took the form of a commitment service in which the new leaders of each cabinet were dedicated and consecrated to their work for the coming year.

HINDU STUDENT PLANS FRUIT CANNERY IN INDIA

Satya Loomba Studies Foreign Trade Here

Satya Loomba, a Hindu student, who has graduated from Oregon Agricultural college where he took a course in fruit canning, and who is at present taking a course in foreign trade and other commercial subjects, at Oregon, smiled when asked to tell about his plans for his fruit canneries which he intends to have when he returns to India. Although Mr. Loomba's home is in Punjab, his canneries will be located in Kashmir, which is in the northern part of India.

"There is very little canning done in India," he declared. "Most of what is done is in small lots just for home use. There are three canneries in the country at present."

While in the state Mr. Loomba has visited every canneries in Oregon and last summer he worked for "I am going back home about the middle of July," said Mr. Loomba. "On my way I will visit England, France, and Spain, and see their canneries. England has no other canneries for fruit than those for jams and marmalades. My father is a civil engineer in the employ of the government and by the time I will have returned he will have served for twenty-five years and will be pensioned by the government. Then he will go into business with me."

OREGON MEN AWARDED RADIO DEBATE DECISION

Ivan Houston, Joe Fraser Win From Stanford

The decision for the Oregon-Stanford radio debate held March 25, has been given to the University of Oregon, according to the votes sent in. A definite dead line has been set and no more votes are to be accepted.

It is the second time the University debating team has won a radio debate. It was the second radio debate in history, too, where the two teams have been many hundred miles apart.

Last year the Oregon team won by a large majority over the University of California, by decision of the radio fans.

For certain reasons, the final figures on the debate will not be published. However, the University team won the debate.

This announcement has been made after more than six weeks of silence on the subject. The Oregonian had planned on making the announcement nearly a month ago, but these results never were published.

The subject of debate was, "Resolved, That the immigration act of 1924 should be amended so as to admit Japanese on the same basis as Europeans." The Oregon team assembled in radio KGW of the Morning Oregonian; while the Stanford team assembled in radio KXL of the Oakland Tribune.

The debaters for Oregon were Ivan Houston and Joe Fraser.
