

PLANS FORMED FOR SEABECK

Nationally Famous Men Will Give Lectures

SPORTS TO BE INCLUDED

Topics Selected Relate to Life of Student

Plans are being formulated to make the Y. W. C. A. Seabeck Conference, June 23 to July 3, much more of a worthwhile adventure than it has been heretofore, announces Miss Elsie Heller, national Y. W. C. A. secretary for the Northwest field, a campus visitor since last week. She further says that speakers of both national and international fame have been chosen to bring before the delegates problems of everyday life, and open forums will be conducted to discuss these problems.

Formerly, the conference was a student-community event, but the committee is excluding the latter this year, leaving it open to undergraduates, alumnae and faculty members from all the colleges and universities in the Northwest, Miss Heller declares. Any one who is interested in taking part in the discussions is welcome.

Student Interest Uppermost

It has been the purpose of the committee in charge of the program to select topics which relate closely to student life. Miss Heller gives the following as examples of these: "International Relations," "Campus Relations," "The Place of Women in the Work of the World," "The Adjustment of the Individual to the Community," "The Validity of Christianity." With such vital topics, it is hoped that real thinking will be done among the students at the discussions, so that they will carry worthwhile knowledge away from the conference.

Among the speakers selected for the coming session are: Dr. Chauncey Hawkins, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church at Seattle; Dr. M. H. Marvin, member of Methodist board in the Northwest; Dr. F. H. Yoder, of the sociology department at Washington State College; Dr. Helen A. Carey, of the health department in the Portland public schools, who will also act as conference physician. A national representative of the Y. W. C. A., whose name has not yet been announced, will be present, and it is hoped that the Japanese consul in Seattle will be one of the speakers.

Cosmopolitan Contacts

Miss Heller spoke at the meeting of the freshman commission Tuesday. "The conference at Seabeck is an occasion when we can make contacts which we never have time for during the school year," she stated. She went on to say that association with people who have traveled abroad, investigating economic, industrial, social and religious situations there, will be the privilege of the delegates to this year's conference. As an example of the experience of these people, she names Dr. Marvin, who was a member of the Sherwood Eddy party which journeyed to Europe last year, making an intimate study of conditions there. Miss Heller also told of Dr. Carey, who, with the cooperation of the delegates, will attempt to solve the problem of whether a woman can be a successful home-maker and at the same time follow a career. Dr. Carey manages a home and family and at the same time carries on her work in Portland.

Seabeck, which is ideally situated on the coast of Washington, is a half day's trip by boat from Seattle. Besides the pleasant surroundings, the committee plans to supplement the conference with more recreation than usual in the form of boating and hiking parties, as well as musical festivals and pageantry. Anita Greenlaw, a student at Washington State college, is chairman of the conference.

Students from the Oregon campus who attended the conference last year were: Mary Donaldson, Winifred Andrews and Frances Rose.

two instructors for the department at the same salaries paid this year. It is not known who these will be, but recommendations will be largely in the hands of the head of the department, Dr. George Rebec.

It was also learned today that a number of minor instructors had received increases in salaries, although no names were available.

Extension Lecturer Dropped

The office of lecturer in the extension division was abolished. This position was held by E. F. Carleton, former superintendent of Eugene schools.

According to the Morning Oregonian of Saturday, May 9, a number of the members of the board of regents were interviewed and agreed that the actions taken at the meeting held a week ago were in the interest of economy only, "it being felt that the University should keep within the bounds of its appropriations and millage income, and at the same time continue its building program, as contemplated when the millage tax was passed."

The Oregonian further stated, "A tendency to turn to frills, duplication of effort, division of departments and other evidences of administration, which, in the opinion of some members of the board at least, was not in accord with best business practice, was said to be another cause for action."

plate. One a double and the other a single.

It seems that in each game one varsity man must make a certain number of hits. Yesterday it was Cook, he gathered in three. Last time it was Freddie West. He collected a hit, however, in trying to offset this.

After all is said and done, Gardner, the little Husky pitcher, deserved to win. He struck out nine men and allowed but seven hits, one hit man and one free pass. This was his day and he knew it. He kept the hits well scattered and was never in danger.

Rex Adolph had his biggest day with the stick. He poled out three singles in three trips. He was tied for top honors, however, with Prevost of the Huskies, who also connected for a pair and a half of singles. Hobson was the only other man to make more than one hit. He gathered two, a double and single.

Pitching Motion Deceptive

Several hair-line decisions were given by the umpires that went against the varsity and seemed to cause the players to lose some of the old chatter while on the field. Three times balks were called on Knudson and the base runners were advanced. Knudson has a deceptive pitching motion and because he fooled the umpire as to whether he would throw to first or to the batter the caller took offense and called it a balk motion.

The next game will be against the Beavers next Saturday at Corvallis. So far the Aggies are undefeated and it is the hope of the varsity to be the first to stop their winning streak.
