WATER CARNIVAL EIGHT DAYS OFF

Students Will Get First Chance for Tickets to Canoe Fete Next Week

SALE STARTS TOMORROW

Temporary Bleachers to Be Erected in Street, to Seat 1000 Spectators

All houses are urged to work on the floats which they are to enter in the canoe fete, for there are only eight more days before the canoe fete. This was the statement issued yesterday by Clarence Toole, chairman of the fete.

Several of the organizations have done a great deal on their floats and have most of the work, with the exception of the final details, nearly completed. All groups which have not begun their floats are asked to get together and do as much as possible this week-end, in order to leave sufficient time for the completion of details.

Students Get First Chance

Geneva Smith has been placed in charge of the ticket sale which will begin tomorrow. Students, it was announced, will be given first chance for tickets. The regular bleachers will sell for 50 cents, while the price for seats in the temporary bleachers will be 25 cents. In addition to the permanent bleachers, temporary bleachers which will accommodate approximately 1000 persons, will be erected in the street.

The town people will be given preference in the choice of seats next Monday. In the meantime, the committee in charge of the tickets will distribute tickets for sale at the various fraternities and sororities, the dormitories, and at the Co-op.

One Name Out

All of the organizations that have chosen names for their floats turned them in with the exception of one, according to Marian Phy, who is chairman of the program committee. Because the printing of the programs will take approximately a week, it is necessary that the printing be started this week-end. As the names of the floats will be sent to the printers tomorrow, it is imperative that this name be submitted immediately.

CONDON HALL FURNITURE ARRIVES FROM PORTLAND

A carload of furniture for the new library in Condon hall arrived yesterday from Portland, and was transferred from the depot to the second floor of the building by the campus workmen. It includes tables, desks and chairs. Some of the furnishings for the psychology department, which were obtained in Eugene, have also been taken to the science building.

GUILD THEATRE PRODUCTION DEPICTS ORIENTAL MYSTERY

By Raymond Lawrence

All the splendor and romantic oriental mystery of Bagdad was in "Hassan," the five-act drama by James Elroy Flecker, presented at Guild hall for the first time Thursday night.

Cast in a role of great dramatic power, Eddie probably far outran anything else he has ever played at Guild hall. He was at once the simple confectioner of the Bagdad market place, the dreamer of dreams by night that men might learn to dream by day, the central figure in a passionate, dramatic situation. Those who have the slightest doubt that Guild hall can approach—and excel many—professional productions will be disappointed if they do not see "Hassan" tonight or tomorrow.

Darrell Larsen, as the Caliph of Bagdad, was excellent. Clad in the majestic robes of "the ruler of the world," he had all of the dignity, ruthless dominance and romantic sensuousness of Haroun Al Rashid of Arabian Nights story.

W. D. Smith Will Lead Hikers Over Old Jungle Trail

Dr. Warren D. Smith, of the geology department, is to lead the Mazama hike from Coburg to Marcola next Sunday. This trip was postponed last term because of bad weather. The hikers will meet at the administration building at 8:30 Sunday morning, and take the bus to Coburg. From there they will journey over an old, forgotten trail to Marcola.

Dr. Smith, who was over the route some years ago, declared that this locality is the nearest approach to a jungle he has ever seen in Oregon. Anything of geological interest which may be found will be explained by him. All those who go are requested to bring $1.60 for bus fare, ten cents for coffee, a tin cup, and lunch. The hikers will return on the bus from Marcola.

YEARLING SPRINTERS TO MEET FRANKLIN HIGH

Oberteuffer Takes Charge Of Training Babes

The freshman tracksters will swap abilities with an aggregation from Franklin high of Portland, Saturday, on Hayward field. The meet is scheduled to begin at 2:30 sharp.

According to advanced dope the yearlings should take the preppers into camp by a sizable count. Jefferson high of Portland won over the Franklinites by a good score and in last week-end's meet, the fresh won from Jefferson.

Del Oberteuffer, famous varsity star athlete in the century dash and others, is taking the babes under his personal tutelage and is giving them individual instructions in how to get to the tape in advance of all opponents. His concentrated efforts are put forth on the young sprinters only. He is taking the place of Hayward as freshman track coach for this week as Bill will be with the varsity on its northern invasion.

At one time the name of Oberteuffer was a by-word with campus followers of track. The time in which he and Ole Larson ran the century dash in a dead heat and were both clocked at 9.9 is one which all former students can well remember.

Del declares that he has several fast men in the short distance sprints among them Wetzel, Winslow, Allen and Kuykendall in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Cooper seems to be the fastest half-miler now in fresh uniform, although several others are running a close second to him.

Final announcement of the men who will represent Oregon in this meet have not been made and because several present aspirants may break into the lineup before the week is out it will not be made until Friday.

GALE DESCRIBES PROM SETTING

Decorations to Carry Out Spirit of Medieval Ages During Period of Louis XI

AFFAIR TO BE INFORMAL

Meeting of Construction Committee is Scheduled For Today at Armory

The spirit of the medieval ages in France will be carried out in every detail of the decorations for the Junior Prom this year.

The various elements in the decorative scheme will be so arranged as to give the effect of height and spaciousness characteristic of French chateaus during the time of Louis XI. The prom will be one of the most elaborate affairs ever given on this campus, according to the committee in charge. Every means possible will be used to carry out the spirit of the period, and to give a setting typical of the French Gothic style.

Hangings are Designed

The colors used in the tapestries and hangings have been carefully worked out and will be typical of those in vogue during the fifteenth century. All of the hangings have been designed and dyed, and the costumes for the orchestra are being made now. The costumes are being made by the women's organizations.

The orchestra, dressed in costumes which might have been worn by attendants of a French lord, will not be seated on the stage. The stage will be decorated so that its identity will be lost. The pages and other attendants will also be garbed in costumes typical of the age.

The feature, it is claimed, will be something very different from others previously given, and will be presented by campus talent.

Program Well Under Way

The sketch for the programs, designed by Arthur Gale, decorations chairman, was sent to the printers some time ago; and the programs are now well under way.

The members of the construction work, which consists of a pageant of each men's house, are urged to come to the Armory at 4 o'clock this afternoon, Friday, in order that the organization of the construction may be effected.

The tickets, under the direction of "Babe" Sherman, will probably be placed on sale this Saturday. A committee will be appointed to take charge of the ticket sale in the various fraternities.

The spirit of the prom this year, it was announced, will be informal; but the wearing of tuxedos will be optional.

Junior Prom tickets will be on sale at the men's organizations and at the Co-op, Saturday morning.

MONTGOMERY WARD MAY USE STUDENTS

Owen Calloway, '23, graduate of the school of business administration, visited the department yesterday as representative of Montgomery Ward company of Portland, for the purpose of interviewing senior men in commerce regarding positions following their graduation in June. There are a number of prominent students who are interested in this work and they were interviewed by Calloway yesterday. The number of men to be selected to work for the company is not known.

It is a custom of several companies to send representatives annually to interview graduating business administration students and Montgomery Ward company does this invariably every year. Other companies who seek Oregon graduates for filling positions are the Standard oil company, and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company. Both these corporations have sent representatives here this year.

Calloway, who graduated in 1923, was one of the most prominent students in the school of business administration and he is now head of one of the Portland departments of the Montgomery Ward company.

The play has been criticised because of its complicated construction.

National Militia Inspector Reviews Oregon R. O. T. C.

Major General Creed C. Hammond, chief of the militia bureau of the war department at Washington, D. C., was the distinguished guest at the weekly battalion drill of the University R. O. T. C. unit yesterday afternoon. The regular parade ceremony was dispensed with, and the battalion was reviewed by General Hammond and Colonel W. S. Sinclair, commander of the local R. O. T. C. unit.

General Hammond is on a tour of inspection of national guard camps and other military posts on the Pacific coast. His itinerary will include Camp Lewis, Portland, San Francisco and Eugene. General Hammond's visit here is especially interesting to Eugenians, in view of the fact that he was once a resident of this city, and connected with national guard affairs on the Pacific coast.

"The men of this unit are doing remarkably good work, exceptional, in view of the little time devoted to R. O. T. C. work at state institutions," said General Hammond, commenting on the review.

The battalion review ceremony yesterday is somewhat simpler than the regular battalion parade, but it was the subject of much favorable comment from the large assemblage of students and townspersons who witnessed the demonstration. The parade, with additional phases of the ceremony, will be put on in connection with Junior Week-end.

JUSTICE AND TRUTH HELD BASIS OF PEACE

Attainment Difficult Task; Says Red Cross Man

So long as the world holds peace up merely as an ideal it cannot be attained, according to Dr. T. E. Green, member of the Staff Council of the American National Red Cross, in his address on "Building for Peace" at assembly yesterday.

Like the conference of mice held to tell the cat, the speaker said, the "thundering majority" is in favor of peace, but the difficulty is how it is to be brought about.

"There can not be any peace between nations, as between individuals, that is not a righteous peace," Dr. Green declared. "We cannot have a peace daubed up with oil and graft and selfishness and one that is not founded on mercy and truth."

Dr. Green traced the history of the Red Cross from the conference at Geneva in 1864 when the nations of Europe met to attempt in some way to ameliorate the sufferings of war and to neutralize doctors, nurses and hospitals. The square cross of the Swiss flag was at that time adopted as the distinguishing symbol of the organization's humane mission.

It was the World War that brought the magnitude of the organization's scope, the speaker explained, when nurses were trained and sent abroad, and hospital supplies were made under the auspices of the Red Cross in every community. Even a junior organization was created.

The speaker explained why the Red Cross, unlike other war organizations, had not been disbanded. It could not, he said, because it had been organized by an international treaty, which America signed in 1882.

It is one factor which serves as a tie to bind this country to the rest of the world, Dr. Green said, since America belongs to no other international group, the League of Nations having become "a football of the politicians," and since America is not even a member of the International Court.

The Red Cross, as a part of the government, has President Coolidge at its head, he explained, and in the case of disasters, is called in as a branch of the government. It can carry on work only in territories covered by the International treaty.

Gage Christopher, bass soloist from Los Angeles, sang "The Prologue, from Pagliacci" in English, and two negro spiritual songs.

TRACKMEN LEAVE ON SEATTLE TRIP

Bill Hayward and Sixteen Cinder Artists Enroute For Washington Meet

HALF MILER NOT CHOSEN

Husky Team Well Balanced Aggregation; Entrants Show Unusual Strength

Sixteen Oregon trackmen are leaving this morning for the dual meet with Washington on May 16. Bill Hayward announced last night that they were all in condition with the exception of two who are still bothered with leg trouble. Bill will shape his 16 man team against the Huskies so that he can score the most points.

The trio of sprinters, Extra, Westerman and Flanagan, are meeting some of the fastest flashes on the coast in Clarke and Schroder of Washington. Clarke, the Husky crack 100 yard man has improved a lot since he was beaten by Oregon men last year. Extra will have his first opportunity to step out without being handicapped by illness.

Westerman, although troubled with a bad leg, will probably make the hundred his big race.

The quarter mile promises to be the real clash of the afternoon with Big Jim Kinney pounding the cinders in about the same time as Applegate for Washington is doing it. Applegate has a strong second placer in Wyers. Joe Price will be the second Oregon man in the event.

The half milers haven't been selected by Hayward but they will probably be Gerke and Mauney, two men who have been running close races in tryouts. Charters, and Wyers of Washington have been clipping the half off at a pace well under two minutes. It is probable that the Oregon half milers, being pressed can run it under that.

Henry Tetz is the entry in the mile. Tetz with a couple of years experience in the long race has developed into a strong runner, who before the season is over will come close to Glen Walkley's time in the mile. He knows his race now and and although he is meeting some hard competition in Wilde of Washington who is credited with running it in 4:25, Tetz will be running his first mile in condition and will probably do better than ever before.

New Man in Mile

The two mile will be taken care of by Tom Holder, new man on the squad this year, who has a world of endurance.

He has been running the mile in previous races but he seems to be able to work his mile pace into the two mile as well.

BETA GAMMA SIGMA INITIATES FIVE SUNDAY

Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary commerce fraternity, initiated five prominent business administration majors into the local chapter Sunday. The men are: Maurice Warrick, Clifford Snyder, Lionel Haught, Alvin Grimm, and Kenneth Stephenson.

The initiation was Sunday afternoon in the Woman's building and a banquet was held immediately following at the Anchorage. Jack Rogers, president of Beta Gamma Sigma, reported on the convention of the national organization, which he attended at the start of the present term. It was held at St. Louis, Missouri.

There are fifteen active members of the local chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma. Scholarship is the primary requisite for membership although other qualifications such as leadership in activities constitute a large consideration. No man may become a member who has failed any hours. During the past several terms, the organization has maintained a higher scholastic average than any other honorary fraternity of the International Court.

The Red Cross, as a part of the government, has President Coolidge at its head, he explained, and in the case of disasters, is called in as a branch of the government. It can carry on work only in territories covered by the International treaty.

Various Articles From Pins to Pens Repose in Depot

Be sure to pay a visit to the lost and found department at the University depot before the term is over. Your umbrella or fountain pen is still patiently awaiting its owner.

Every day the lost and found articles recruit new members to their force, but claimants for them are rather slow in appearing.

Just yesterday three gold pins and a barrette arrived in an envelope. Somebody has lost the evidence, shown by these pins, of honors bestowed upon her.

Four umbrellas yesterday joined their multitude of sisters, hanging in the big cupboard at the University post office until such time as they may be claimed.

EXAMINERS TO TEST ABILITY OF SWIMMERS

Final Lifesaving Tryouts Set for May 28

The final chance for aspirants to become members of the local corps of the American Red Cross Life Saving corps will be given at 4 o'clock May 27 and 28. At this time the board of examiners consisting of Rudolph Fahl, swimming instructor, Webster and Hobblitt, will be present.

A man taking the test cannot be declared a member of the corps unless he makes a showing which the examiners think verify his ability to save lives in case of emergencies or otherwise.

The desirability of the students to take advantage of this free instruction is shown by the large number who have signed up for the test. According to Fahl the number of interested students is increasing yearly. A case of the ability of a student taking this instruction to use it was shown a few weeks ago when several people were brought to safety after becoming anchored on an island just above the head of the mill race.

The students who have signified their intention of taking the lifesaving test and who have put in part of their six hour preliminary training are: D. R. Woodward, Adrian French, Arlington Crumb, Ted Hendry, Dwight Hedges, Edward Somner, Lee M. Brown, Carvel Nelson, T. Graham, Bachman, Swigart, R. S. Henagin, Don Adams, R. Gledhill, Merlin Swarthout, and George Dodds. In case any other students are interested in taking this test they should make arrangements with Fahl for preliminary practices and instruction.

Free instructions are given daily in the pool in the men's gymnasium. The following men are instructors: Lamont Stone, Monday at 11; L. Hobblitt, Monday at 2:30 to 3:30; E. D. Conway, Tuesday and Wednesday at 2:30 to 3 to 3:30; B. Yaden and Stovall, Tuesday and Wednesday at 3 to 4; Van Atta, Wednesday and
