A Foot-Hold in Arcadia

FRANK L. Chambers, Eugene banker, has given to the University a 1000-foot strip of land on the south bank of the mill race. The strip, we understand, extends from the present bleachers east to the point where floats are annually launched in the canoe fete. Seldom has a gift to the University so appealed to the imagination. In giving the land Mr. Chambers assures for all time the use of the race by the students in one of their dearest traditions. The privilege of using the race for the fete is now in the hands of the students, and can be denied to them by no one.

Mr. Chambers does not claim the University of Oregon as his alma mater, yet he has ever been one of its best friends. His daughter and wife are Oregon alumnae. Had the students used a wishing ring or a magic wand they could scarcely have thought of a more delightful gift to wish for than that of Mr. Chambers—it is, indeed, a foot-hold in Arcadia. Celebrated, in truth, is this mill race in songs and stories of Oregon—invoking as it does the memory of picnics and water sports, and the important “once-a-year” occasion when Alladin rubs his magic lamp and strange and wonderful creations float out of the darkness...

The donor of the bleachers site has come very close to the student life, and shown his understanding of it.

The “Creation”

HAYDN'S musical masterpiece, “The Creation,” is to be presented tonight by the Eugene Oratorio society in the Methodist Episcopal church. It will likewise be heard tomorrow evening. It is significant that John Stark Evans, assistant dean of the school of music, is directing the work of the 170 singers. It is also significant that the singers are the best musicians in city and University circles. Music serves the delight of man. And in this case it is an added bond between the University and the people of Eugene.

To relieve the congestion in Quartz hall, some of the classes now using the room will move into Condon hall, the new science building. Puns were considered pardonable in the time of Queen Elizabeth. Might we venture that housing classes in Quartz hall has become a hard proposition?

Whose was the blame? Whose was the blame? “Paramour” seems to have been misspelled in one of the contributions of a campus poet to The Emerald. It might have been the poet's fault—or the copy-reader's—or the proof-reader's. Or all their faults. Or an accident. Anyway, Martha Hennley will take courage from the fact that these various persons are not too familiar with such a “wicked, wicked word!”

Communications

Letters to the EMERALD from students and faculty members are welcomed, but must be signed and worded concisely. If it is desired, the writer's name will be kept out of print. It must be understood that the editor reserves the right to reject communications.

POET OFFERS HER APOLOGIES TO WEBSTER

To the Editor:

To ward off further criticism I wish to make an explanation for the misspelling of one of the words in one of my attempts at poetry in Thursday's Emerald. I refer to the word “paramour,” which appeared at the end of the last sketch, and which appeared “paramore.” The original version of my labors was roughly scribbled on the cover of a magazine, as I received the “inspiration” on the S. P. en route to Portland one week-end. This copy was handed to Walter Evans Kidd, who in turn gave it over to a third party for typing, and because of the joggling of the train and the irregularity of my own cursive the typist probably was unable to read my writing. On the other hand, the fault may have been with the proof-reader, and was obviously overlooked by the copy-readers. However, on the other hand it may have been I, who, wrapped in the spell of my inspiration as the train pulled into the city, was all oblivious to spelling and such, and mis-spelled it myself. In that case, I wish to apologize to the Emerald, to the public and to Webster's.

HUMBLY.

CONGRATULATIONS, TREATS FROM DEFEATED CANDIDATE

To the Editor:

I wish to congratulate Ed Miller on his victory in the race for the editorship. I ran him a close race and with about five hundred more votes I would have won easily. I have purchased sixty choice Havana cigars and will give one to each of my loyal supporters who will bring me a sworn statement showing that he voted for me.

INTERESTING FACTS OF HISTORY

Do You Know

that Monticello, Jefferson's estate on a hill overlooking the University of Virginia is being restored by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation and will be maintained by them for the American people?

Thomas Jefferson was born on April 13, 1743. He framed the Declaration of Independence. His associates, among whom were John Adams, Benjamin Franklin and John Hancock, knew that Jefferson could do that satisfactorily and they signed it, with minor changes, as it expressed the minds of the American people.

Jefferson and Adams both served as President of the United States for opposing parties.

They became fast friends, and by a singular coincidence both died on July 4, 1826.

Facsimile copies of the Declaration of Independence for framing are obtainable free on request from this company.

The John Hancock Mutual is particularly interested in insuring college men and women and obtaining ambitious college graduates for the personnel of its field.

ANNE DEAR:

Affairs on the campus are beginning to become normal once again after a week of frenzy. Every one was worked up to a high pitch, for the student body election was held on Wednesday, and you know how seriously this affair is taken by all of the students.

Martha broke the spring of her darling wrist watch. It is a tiny diamond shape Swiss watch, a very attractive and unusual design. You can understand how grieved she was to break it. She took it to a number of jewelers in town but none of them could repair it because they did not have the delicate Swiss parts. I told her to go to Skeie's, and sure enough, Skeie's glad under took to repair it. They do all kinds of watch repairing and make a specialty of Swiss repair work.

Shagginess is certainly an unforgivable sin, especially when the Co-ed Barber Shop is so close to the campus that a girl may drop in there between classes and have her hair trimmed. This shop is ideal in every way—handy, exclusively for women as its name indicates, and expert barbers. Hardly any one goes to town for hair cuts any more.

The Style Shop has an entirely new idea in sport hats. This attractive little affair is called a picnic hat. It comes in all colors of wool felt and its unusual feature is that it may be folded up or rolled up and carried in the pocket without destroying its shape. It's a splendid hat for hikes or picnics because it is so light and indestructible. One can safely buy a white or light colored one because they may be dry cleaned. It seems remarkable that these smart felts are only two dollars. The picnic hat comes in a sealed package.

It is possible to keep a house looking very attractive if one keeps fresh flowers prettily arranged here and there. At Ram's Floral Shop, where assistance is always given in choosing appropriate floral decorations, we got some gorgeous gladiolas in shades varying from delicate shell to rich rose. The baby gladiolas add a desirable touch to a bouquet of the large blossoms. Then, snap dragons in harmonizing colors, are certainly very pleasing, too.

Charles is taking me on his house picnic tomorrow night. You can't imagine how thrilled I am about going, for it is to be held up the McKenzie. Charles is on the “eats” committee, and said that he had ordered some potato salad and sandwich dainty spread at Underwood and Elliott's Grocery. To me, a picnic is never complete without a good salad, so I welcome the thoughts of some Underwood and Elliott's get it fresh daily.

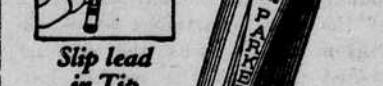

Wish you could be along on our picnic. Can't you plan to come up before the end of the term?

CAROL.
