Junior Week-end Plans Outlined By Directorate

Lights to Be Installed Under Water for Canoe Fete

Reports of the work being accomplished by the various committees were made by members of the Junior Week-end directorate at a meeting called by Bob McCabe, directorate chairman, last evening.

Clarence Toole, who is in charge of the canoe fete, stated that Frank Roehr is chairman of the lights. All of the lights will be under the water and at the foot of the bleachers. In addition, a system of spot lights will be used to show the colors of the floats to best advantage. All of the houses are asked to turn in the list of colors which they wish to have thrown upon their floats immediately. Each house may have any color desired, and the committee for lighting will regulate the spot lights.

The two large spotlights which will be used have been obtained from Portland. The mayor has consented to close the street in back of the bleachers beginning with Friday noon and continuing until Saturday noon of next week. The transportation committee will have charge of the moving of the bleachers from Hayward field to the race on Friday morning. All traffic on Eleventh street, near the bleachers, will be closed during the time; and H. M. Fisher, superintendent of the grounds, has offered to co-operate with the police force to help check traffic.

Arthur Gale, chairman of the decorations committee for the Prom, again stressed the necessity for men who have been appointed on the construction committee to report for duty. Work begins at the Armory at 9:15 this morning.

"The more men," he said, "who come down to work, the quicker the construction work will be completed. It is important that they come, for following the construction work, it will be necessary to paint the arches." Each junior man who can possibly come to work is asked to bring a hammer and saw with him, and assist.

Varsity Netmen To Play Huskies

Oregon Team Is Same That Defeated Aggies & Reed In First Meets of Season

Bleachers Are Erected

Huskies Have Strong Team; First Local Meet Will Be Held Today at 2 o'clock

The University courts this afternoon at two o'clock will be the scene of a tennis meet between the University of Oregon netmen and the University of Washington team. The Huskies, considered the strongest quintet of racquet wielders on the coast, are on a week-end trip. They meet Willamette university on Thursday and the Oregon Aggies yesterday, so should be in prime to meet the Webfooters this afternoon.

Five Men on Team

The University of Washington team is composed of five men: Captain Bob Hesketh, Mel Dranga, Dick Dubois, Joe Livengood and Sam Skidmore. Hesketh, captain, was a member of the double team that went east last year. At this meet Scott, a member of last year's team, won the National Intercollegiate singles championship. The meet with Willamette, Thursday, was their first intercollegiate net play of the year.

The Oregon team will be the same one that defeated the Aggie netmen and Reed college in the first two intercollegiate meets this season. The two lettermen on the varsity are: Captain Harry Meyer, who is playing his third year and George Hayden, who is serving his second. The three other men on the team are: Roy Okerberg, George Mead and William Adams, all from last year's frosh team, except Okerberg.

Varsity Practices Hard

The Webfooters facing the Huskies in the doubles will be Meyer and Mead; Okerberg and Hayden. The varsity team has been practicing very strenuously the past week and will be ready to swing into action this afternoon. The hot weather the last few days has helped the local team considerably.

After the Willamette meet here next Wednesday and the return meet with the Aggies here next Friday, Coach Rudolph Ernst will pick a three-man team to represent the University at the Pacific Coast meet held in Seattle on May 29 and 30.

Bleachers are being constructed on the tennis courts so that a large crowd may be accommodated. This is the first meet this year on the local courts and should draw a large crowd.

GAMMA PHI BETA TO SELL PASTRIES TODAY

Cakes—m-m-m—with brown frosting and white frostings—pies—lemon and otherwise, and candy—everything from frothy sea-foam to—words won't describe it! Cookies—the kind mother used to make (or those akin to the ones we used to slyly sneak from grandmother's cookie jar).

All of these things, and more, are to be available for the campus crowd as well as the general public. Listen, boys, not only do you get a delicious bit of home-cooking and candy-making, but the Gamma Phi Beta girls will officiate as sales-ladies of these sweets at Laraway's Music store today from nine to five.

PROM COMMITTEE TO REPORT

All members of Junior Prom construction committee appointed from different houses please report at the armory at 9:15 this morning.

Eight o'clock in the morning has been set as the opening of the distribution. Those who have already ordered their books will have to pay $2.50 when they receive their copies. The total cost of the Oregana this year is $4.50.

OREGON MEETS AGGIES IN CORVALLIS TODAY

Last Game Before Northern Trip Next Tuesday

The Oregon-O. A. C. baseball tilt this afternoon at Corvallis, will be one of the feature games of this season from all indications. The Aggie nine has met every team represented in the northwest conference, except Oregon, and has emerged victorious in each of these contests.

The varsity is beginning to strike a mid-season stride, and will give the Beavers a real battle. Coach Reinhart's choice for the one to take up the twirling duties today will probably fall on either Skipper Brooks, Fred Harrison or Ray Williams, with perhaps Brooks or Harrison starting on the mound.

The batting averages, recently compiled, show that the Lemon Yellow bludgeon wielders are highly dangerous. Howard Hobson has been hitting at the extremely lively clip of .523, while Rex Adolph is well over the .400 mark. Cook, Knudson and Bliss have earned their share of hits, with averages around the .300 mark or over. With these men facing the Aggie twirlers, Oregon should be able to break through with some timely swats that may aid in winning today's battle.

This game will be the last played by the varsity before they start on the northern trip which begins Tuesday of next week.

"THE CREATION" BY 170 VOICES PLEASES ON FIRST APPEARANCE

By E. H.

The biggest concert ever given in Eugene was presented last night at the Methodist church when the Oratorio society of Eugene gave "The Creation," an oratorio written by Joseph Haydn. The chorus included 170 voices beside Jane Burns Albert, soprano, Prudence E. Clark, contralto; William Pilcher, tenor; and Gage Christopher, bass. The organist was Miss Frances Pierce who proved a good accompanist, also did some splendid interpreting.

The solo parts taken by Mrs. Albert, Mr. Christopher and Mr. Pilcher were good. The soprano part was lovely with soft yet clear tones,

PROTEST MADE BY UNIVERSITY

Board of Higher Curricula To Consider Brief Filed By Board of Regents

DUPLICATION IS CHARGE

O. A. C. Courses Alleged to Overlap Those Offered By Departments Here

A brief, prepared by the University of Oregon, charging that the Oregon Agricultural college since 1920 has been gradually encroaching upon the field of education allotted to the University, will be considered by the state board of higher curricula, organized to handle such problems, when that body meets, Monday, May 18, according to stories published in Portland papers. The board is composed of Joseph Hedges of Oregon City, Rabbi Jonah B. Wise, of Portland; Dr. C. J. Smith of Portland, A. G. Beals of Tillamook, and Charles Brandt of Roseburg.

Before 1909 and since then there has been a constant question as to what should be taught at O. A. C. and what at U. of O. In 1923 the board made an order assigning to the University the department of fine arts, architecture, music economics, higher commerce, education and the graduate school. The ruling was not inelastic. For instance, music was not forbidden at the O. A. C. except as a special study leading to a degree.

Engineering Given O. A. C.

Agriculture and allied subjects, along with electrical, chemical, mechanical and civil engineering, were given to the agricultural college. The tendency has been to give to Eugene the professional courses and arts, while the vocational schools, home economics, engineering and agriculture went to Corvallis.

But it is understood that the University regents claim that since 1920 the college has been "moving in" on their fields by beginning to teach advanced courses in professional subjects. The college, it is alleged, did this by stating that the courses offered simply rounded out the education of students in the established schools. Later, it is said, the University complains, a dean was named at O. A. C. of the school of basic arts and sciences, whose duties are much the same as those of the dean of arts at the University.

College Has Duplications

It is charged that the college now offers degree courses in economics, sociology and political science. The schools of commerce and journalism at the college also are duplications of those at the University and offer competition to them, according to the reported allegations.

In short, the college is accused of attempting to take over the work of the University in addition to its own.

It is said that O. A. C. is preparing a brief in answer to the complaints filed by the University, which will be presented to the board. There is a possibility that if the board does not receive this report by Monday the meeting may be postponed.

and delightful expression. Mr. Christopher has an excellent bass voice and showed rich quality. The tenor part also was rich in quality and with a wide range. The chorus work was wonderful. The quality and control of the choruses were noteworthy and the volume was unlimited, being probably enough to fill an auditorium several times as large as the one used.

Beside the beauty of the music, the chorus was very pleasing to see with the bank of ferns in front and the singers in white gowns, with the dark costumes of the men in the back. "The Creation" will be given again tonight at the Methodist church.
