

SOCIETY

The drama "Hassan" occupied a great part of the week and, aside from the usual number of picnics, a few rather informal affairs comprise the doings in the realm of society for this week. Junior week-end, which comes in a few days, will be a busy time for all. It is to be our play-time,—free from the responsibility of guests. After this week, events will simmer down in number and before we realize it the term will draw to an end.

Perhaps the most formal event of the week was the dance for which members of Kappa Alpha Theta were hostesses at their house on South Alder street, Saturday evening. The rooms were most effective with the spring flowers, potted plants and ferns.

Patrons and patronesses were Mrs. F. N. Boyer, Dean and Mrs. Colin Dymont, Mrs. W. F. Jewett, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Jewett, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Onthank and Mrs. Virginia Judy Esterly.

Bright blue lights on the porch of the Bachelordon house cast a lovely glow over the rooms where they held an informal dance on Saturday evening. Dark blue cloth enclosed the porch where greens were used in profusion. Bill McBride's orchestra furnished the music.

Prof. and Mrs. Frederick S. Dunn and Dr. and Mrs. Miller were patrons and patronesses.

Very informal was the dance for which the underclassmen of Delta Delta Delta were hostess on Saturday at their chapter house. Spring flowers formed the decorations.

Chaperoning the affair were Mrs. B. Fitzsimmons, Mrs. Virginia Judy Esterly and Mrs. D. J. McKinnon.

On Tuesday, at dinner at the Tau Nu house, Miss Alice Ehrenreich of Albany, senior in the department of business administration, announced her engagement to J. W. Cummings of Corvallis, instructor in the Oregon Agricultural school of commerce and a member of Beta Alpha Psi, and Aecacia.

Miss Ehrenreich is a member of Tau Nu sorority. She has been prominent in athletics while in the University.

The Woman's building was the scene of Psi Kappa's formal, Saturday evening. Huge bouquets of rhododendrons decorated the ball room. Delbert Faust entertained the dancers with an Indian dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Spencer, Dr. and Mrs. William Dale and Mrs. Virginia Judy Esterly were patrons and patronesses.

The Alpha Gamma Delta house was the scene of an attractive dinner Monday evening when the engagement of Miss Merle Oliver to Ralph Gibbs was announced. In the center of the table was a tiny doll-size stucco cottage representing the future home of the bride-to-be. A toy automobile was standing beside a miniature garage and bore the ring and cards which told the news as it was sent around the table.

Miss Oliver, whose home is in Hollywood, California, is a senior in the department of written English. She is well known on the campus, being a member of Alpha Gamma Delta, Tau Nu and Euxasian Literary society. She was a junior in her University student and is now actively engaged in architectural work in Eugene.

Miss Lucinda Dell, of Athena, was married to Armonde DeMerritt, of Marshfield, Saturday at the Unitarian church. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for Marshfield, where they will make their home.

Both of the young people were very prominent on the campus, Mrs. DeMerritt being a member of Gamma Phi Beta and Kwama, honorary society. She was a junior in the department of sociology. Mr. DeMerritt is affiliated with Chi Psi and was a major in the law school.

The Alpha Xi Delta house was very cleverly decorated for their informal dance Saturday evening which was given in honor of a number of rush guests whom they entertained at their house over the week-end.

One room was arranged as a tea parlor, another represented the athletic side of college life, with all the golf clubs, tennis rackets and another was unique with the playing cards, large and small all over the walls and ceiling. Mrs. Joe Ellis sang during the evening.

FROSH TRACKMEN WIN FROM FRANKLIN HIGH

Vic Wetzel of Freshmen Scores Most Points

Hayward field became a series of puddles last Saturday afternoon when the Oregon freshmen track team battled in a light rain for a 72 to 45 point victory over the Franklin high school track squad.

The good showing of several Franklin track men accounted for the score which they made. The meet was close, in spite of the final score, and it was only near the end that the Oregon babes were able to pile up enough points to be reasonably sure of winning. The wet track and the soggy pits slowed up the races considerably and lowered the distances of the jumps.

Renfro, of the Franklin team, was the visitors star. He romped 100 and the 220-yard dash for 10 points and second point honors of the meet. His time of 22:6 for the furlong was exceptionally fast on the slow wet track.

Vic Wetzel was high point man of the meet with firsts in three events, javelin, shot and discus, which netted the freshmen a total of 15 points. Wetzel was going strong last Saturday and heaved the shot 46 feet. His javelin throw of 172 feet and one inch was good for a beginner.

Kelly, frosh miler, won his event easily. Pearson garnered a first in the 440. Guttridge won the low hurdles; Overstreet the half mile, and Soderstrom the broad jump.

The summary:
100 yard dash—Renfro, Franklin, first; Allen, Oregon, second; Kuykendall, Oregon, third. Time, 10:3.
1 mile run—Kelly, Oregon, first; Sisson, Franklin, second; Jamison, Oregon, third. Time 4:54.

University high school won its third tennis tournament when it defeated Corvallis high school here Thursday evening, winning three out of five matches.

Local players were Gordon Ridings, Hugh Miller, DeVerl Hempy and Wilbur Adams.

In the single matches both Hempy and Ridings won. Adams lost his match. Doubles were won by Hempy and Ridings, and lost by Miller and Adams.

The tournament was hard fought, the last match not ending until after 8 o'clock.

So far the local players have had a pretty good record, the first two tournaments with Dallas and Roseburg being ties. Future tournaments may be scheduled with Eugene high school and the University frosh, and a tentative tournament is in view with Salem high school.

JERRY CRAZY SERVES AS EXTRA FOR MOVIES

From aluminum to moving pictures, Jerry Crazy has found his way in the Eastern Oregon country near Wallowa lake. Jerry, circulation manager of the Emerald, until this term, has been selling aluminum in that district and at the same time the moving picture, "Winds of Chance," is being filmed there, so Jerry has worked as an extra.

Morris Bocoock, it is rumored, who is in the same territory, has also been given a chance to show his ability before the camera.

Y. M. C. A. TO COLLECT NEAR EAST SUPPLIES

Warm clothing and blankets for those whom the Near East workers are helping may be brought to the Y hut, May 20. According to reports from the Near East, many were still suffering from the cold last winter, some of them "children scarcely old enough to stand."

Old coats, suits, woolens, and almost everything except shoes, are wanted. Thousands of refugees who were made homeless and helpless by the vicissitudes of war are in need of warm clothing. The spare clothing from American homes may be used to save lives in the mountainous regions of Armenia next winter, say workers.

Ralph Highmiller of the campus Y. M. C. A. will be in charge of donations by the men. Bundles are to be brought to the Y. M. C. A. hut Wednesday, May 20. The Y. W. C. A. will also receive contributions on the same date from women.

Colleges Agree on Three Points; Concessions Made By Agricultural School

The board to restrain its alleged policy of duplicating courses definitely assigned to the University in several fields of liberal arts and in the schools of education and journalism. The agricultural college, it was alleged, under authority to grant service courses, has expanded and is expanding them in such a way as to build up what is tending to become a second state university, forty miles from the University of Oregon.

Counter Attack Made

The general purport of the reply of the agricultural college was, that such duplication was necessary to the proper education of its majors in vocational branches. A counter attack was launched against the University on the ground that the University was less economically conducted than the Corvallis institution, on the basis of "costs for instruction by the clock hour" in the two institutions. Lower "clock hour" costs were listed in English, history, journalism, political science, education, physical education, home economics, music, economics, and business. In reply to this the University replied that "both institutions are actually run on an extremely economical basis compared with institutions in other states, but that "figures from the impartial United States Bureau of Education, report for 1922-23, show that in that year, the one used by O. A. C. as a basis of its claim, the total state cost per student at the University was $320.84, and at the Oregon Agricultural college, $335.66, and the tax cost per student, $259 at the University and $264 at the college.

Becoming "Second University"

The University in its brief asserted the following points: (1) That the Oregon Agricultural college both by offering courses of an advanced or semi-graduate character in fundamental subjects and by practically organizing a college of basic arts under a dean, and by establishing non-technical majors therein, has taken the most important steps toward becoming a second state university in Oregon, a step involving much duplication in courses established for many years at the University of Oregon.

(2) That in the field of business administration the Oregon Agricultural college not only trains hundreds of students in the basic courses of which it has a monopoly but also duplicates all the work in higher commerce of a professional character assigned to the University by the settlement of 1913-14.

(3) That as regards education, the Agricultural college has recently included a considerable array of courses of value chiefly to non-vocational teachers and to educational administration. This duplication, noticeable in the regular session, is particularly flagrant in the work of the summer school and in the fields of physical training and art.

Understanding Held Ignored

(4) That the understanding with the board of higher curricula in regard to the scope and limitations of the department of industrial journalism at the Oregon Agricultural college has not been lived up to.

(5) That the limits assigned to the school of music at the Oregon Agricultural college by the settlement of 1913-14 have been greatly expanded without any action of the board of higher curricula.

Specific requests to the board involving the correction of the conditions set forth were made in the University brief.

The Oregon Agricultural college, in its brief, denied deviation from the rulings of the board and contended that the University was seeking, in asking the elimination of duplicated courses, "completely to demolish and establish on a grade below any land-grant college in America an institution that has been built in conformity with a policy of eliminating all unnecessary duplications of courses as laid down by the board." In its brief the college asked that the undergraduate work in commerce be eliminated from the University and the graduate work, except in the field of agricultural economics, including marketing and rural sociology, be eliminated from the college.

That the board examine carefully the courses in household arts, offered at the University "with a view to securing greater precision and definiteness in meeting the cultural needs of the women students of that institution."

That the school of music at the University be placed on a self-supporting basis.

That the courses now given in industrial journalism at the college be continued.

That graduate work in physical education be recognized as belonging exclusively to the University, and undergraduate work be developed on an equal basis.

Courses Contended For

That the new courses requested of the board of higher curricula in brief submitted March 21, 1925, and protested by the University, be approved. The courses listed by name are constitutional history of
