

MILITARY CAMP DRAWS 28 MEN

Bulletin Announcing Scope
Of Work Received

OPENING DATE, JUNE 13

Trip to Rainier National Park
To Be Made in July

Twenty-eight men of the University of Oregon R. O. T. C. unit have signified their intention of attending the advanced and basic camps in military training, to be held at Camp Lewis, Washington, from June 13 to July 23.

Those men who plan to attend the Advanced camp are as follows: Arthur C. Gray, Levi Ankeny, Lewis Carlson, Francis Cleaver, Roland Eby, Ned French, George Hillis, Webster Jones, Rodney Keating, Hershel Kidwell, Paul Krause, Henry Maier, Walter Malcolm, Guy Manney, Herbert Powell, Albert Powers, Warren Small, Kenneth Stephenson, Carl Vreeland, Kenneth Wadleigh, Leland Walker, Conrad Weivoda, George Wilhelm, Steele Winterer, and Don Woods.

Men going to the Basic camp are: Thomas McCambridge, Theodore Slater, and Boyd Yaden.

Scope of Work Described
The nature and the scope of the work to be taken up at the summer camp, and interesting details as to the camp itself are contained in a bulletin of information, recently received at the local R. O. T. C. headquarters.

Camp Lewis, according to the bulletin, was the great National Army camp of the Northwest during the late World War. It is located approximately 17 miles south of Tacoma, about midway between Tacoma and Olympia, Washington. The camp has adequate rail and bus service, a postoffice is maintained, and ample telegraph and phone service is provided throughout the area.

Seasonable athletics are indulged in, in the camp proper, as a means of recreation for the students. Each organization, in addition to Camp Lewis, has a baseball team, and ample grandstand and bleacher accommodations have been provided on Lewis Athletic field, which is located near camp headquarters. At American lake, which practically adjoins Camp Lewis, boating and swimming facilities are provided, and at Green Park, across the highway from the camp, is situated a large moving picture theatre, for the accommodation of the students.

The men will be quartered in the cantonment proper, in large two-story buildings of frame construction. Mess halls and conference rooms are located in the same area, and various organizations, such as the Officers' club, maintain club rooms in the immediate vicinity.

Program Given
According to the daily program outlined by the training schedule in the bulletin, actual drill will be held on Monday, June 15. During the month of June, various phases of close and extended order drill, map reading, physical drill, manual of arms, and camp-making, will be taken up, with ceremonial and inspection drills each week-end. The last week of the month will be spent in instruction and record practice on the rifle range.

The work during the month of July will consist of practical drill in troop movements, offensive and defensive, and field engineering practice. Instruction in the use of automatic rifles, machine guns, trench mortar guns, and the .37 millimetre field gun will also be emphasized. Demonstrations of attacking methods, in platoon formation, will be given by regular troops at the camp, and duplicated by R. O. T. C. students.

On July 11, the entire R. O. T. C. unit will move by auto truck to Mount Rainier and pitch a shelter tent camp, returning on the following evening. Although this trip is in the nature of a practice march, it is one which is thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

The week of July 13 to 18 will be taken up with demonstration exercises; problems in scouting and patrol work; maneuvers in which the entire R. O. T. C. unit will participate, and practice marches. The summer's work will terminate with an inspection and review of the entire unit, on Saturday, July 18. Final physical examination of all students will be given on July 20. Tuesday, July 21, will be set aside as visitor's day at the camp, and a special military program will be arranged for the day. Property will be turned in on the following day, and the troops will break camp on July 23.

Rifle Match to Be Held
In addition to the regular work of the camp, the Intercollegiate rifle match of the Ninth corps area will be held again this summer. The six students from any institution in the area receiving the highest aggregate score will constitute the team of that institution, which will compete with similar teams from other schools. The team receiving the highest aggregate score is awarded the trophy, "The Doughboy of the West," a bronze replica of the original by Avard Fairbanks, formerly of the fine arts department of the University of Oregon.

Of the 24 men who attended the summer camp last year, several received high ratings, almost all making marksman or better. With the preliminary marksmanship instruction being given this term, and the increase in the number of men who will attend the camp, the men of the 1925 camp should more than equal the good record of last year's delegation.

of music in the University. The loan will be payable six years later without interest. By changing its policy from giving out-right gifts, to making loans, Mu Phi Epsilon, expects in time to help more than two students a year.

It is important, says Miss Teshner, that each contestant be prepared with two contrasting numbers.

SENIOR PLAY CHOSEN BY UNIVERSITY HIGH

'Seventeen' Will Be Given
On May 28 and 29

The calendar for the remainder of the school year at the University high school is now complete. Up to the present time the seniors have had their "skip day" or "picnic day" as it is more generally known, at Triangle lake, and have also been entertained by the junior class at a picnic at Dedman's ferry. The next affair will be the senior play, "Seventeen" has been chosen for presentation. May 28 and 29 have been decided as dates for the event. Leads will be played by Gordon Stearns and Lyndall Elliott.

Seniors' assembly day is dated for June 5. Kathryn Fry has been appointed chairman of the assembly. At this meeting a program is arranged at which brief resume of the past of each member of the class is given.

Two cups are also awarded at this time. One is given to the class which has made the highest scholastic standing during the past year. Last year the cup was won by the senior class. It is not certain yet which class will receive it this year. The other cup is awarded for class activity. The class which wins in interclass debate, basketball and baseball wins this. This year the senior class will probably get the cup.

The baccalaureate address, which will be given in the auditorium of the music building, will be delivered by Rev. Mr. Stivers, of the Christian church. June 7 has been aside as the date for the address. Donald Allison, a University high school student, will play the organ, and Frank Jue will give a vocal solo.

The Senior dinner dance, which is to be June 12, will probably be given at the new hotel, which is nearly completed.

Graduation exercises are to be held in the auditorium of the high school. Governor Pierce will be the speaker.

SENIOR ORATORICAL TRYOUT TO BE JUNE 11

Failing and Beekman Prizes
Will Go to Winners

Elimination tryouts for the Failing-Beekman senior oratorical contest to be held on the evening of June 11, will be held on Friday afternoon, May 29 at four o'clock in Villard hall, announced H. E. Rosson of the English department, yesterday. At this tryout the four best orators will be chosen to compete for the Failing and the Beekman cash prizes at the main contest, June 11. This will constitute the first event of Commencement week.

Orations, while they may be on any subject desired by the contestant, are limited to 2,000 words in length. All graduating seniors are eligible to compete. Prizes are $150, for the Failing prize, awarded to the winner of first place, and $100, the Beekman prize, awarded to the second best speaker.

Three faculty members will act as judges at the tryouts on May 29. Manuscripts must be submitted in typewritten form at that time. Orations will be judged both on thought and composition, and on delivery.

It is necessary that students preparing orations have their manuscripts completed at the earliest date possible, since only eight days remain before the four final speakers are to be determined.

Much interest on the part of the Eugene people and University students has been evidenced in the past Failing-Beekman contests. Last year approximately six or seven hundred people heard the contestants give their orations in Villard hall.

DEPARTMENT HEADS FOR U. H. S. ELECTED

Three new department heads have been elected for the coming school year at the University high school. They are: Ruby Baugh, F. C. Wooton and R. Moore.

Wooton, who is now a graduate assistant in the department of education of the University, will take the place of Rollien Dickerson, who is at present head of the department of social sciences and history.

The principalship, which will be vacated by Mr. Harold Benjamin, who has received a fellowship to Stanford university, will be filled by R. Moore. Mr. Moore has been principal of McMinnville high school and is at present assistant principal at Salem senior high school. Mr. Moore received his bachelors degree from the University with the class of '23.
