

W. A. A. SEASON IS SUCCESSFUL

Triangular Contest Forms Main Work of Year

SPORTS CLAIM INTEREST

The movement to abolish doughnut competition in women's sports, in that it indicates a new attitude of "sport for sport's sake" on the part of Oregon women, has been one of the outstanding achievements of the past year.

In reviewing the sports activities of the closing year, Maude Schroeder, president of W. A. A. said, "The interest this year has centered around tennis and other individual sports rather than group games. People like to play the games they will continue in the summer."

Hiking is Unsuccessful

Hiking, as a W. A. A. sport, has not been successful. It may be replaced by rifle shooting. A resolution to allow points on the latter sport has already passed the council and will go into effect next year upon a favorable vote of a W. A. A. mass meeting.

The Life Saving corps is a new activity in the field of women's sports introduced for the first time this year. Vaccination made impossible a demonstration planned for the winter term. This organization of expert swimmers has held weekly practices in preparation for Master's life saving examination and master's swimming tests conducted by the National Swimming Instructor's Association of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. Miss Barbara Page, who is a member of the latter organization, is in charge of the work. Elizabeth Lounsbury is the only woman on the campus to succeed.

Feminine Writers Edit Women's Page Of Final Emerald

Theta Sigma Phi, women's national honorary journalism fraternity, instead of editing, as has been its custom, one issue of the Emerald, has decided this year to put out a page of the last-number edition. It is with the help of several other women of the department that this page has been completed.

Members of Theta chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, all of whom have been especially active in journalism and in work on the Emerald, are: Margaret Morrison, Norma Wilson, Esther Davis, Mary Clerin, Emily Houston, Frances Simpson, Gertrude Houk, Anna Jerzyk, and Margaret Skavlan.

WOMEN'S GAITY, MEN'S EJECTION LEADING FEATURES OF FROLIC

By Geneva Foss

Two men madly rushing for the door, a riot of color, and a spirit of friendliness and gaiety entered into by both students and faculty—these were the outstanding features of April Frolic, the annual all-women's affair sponsored by the Women's League. The Frolic was held in the Woman's building April 11, with Doris Brophy as general chairman.

In order to promote the friendliness of the women on the campus, and to make the Frolic a real play time, the cost of the stunts was limited, thereby eliminating the ele-

MARY JANE WINS BY ENTHUSIASM

Albert Award Tribute to Girl's Spirit

ACTIVITY LIST LARGE

By Pauline Bondurant

Mary Jane Hathaway has added one more laurel to her wreath, which, by the way, is getting to be quite huge. The new laurel is the Albert award, a cup given to the most worthy member of the senior class. When told of this new honor, Mary Jane hardly knew what to say.

Mary Jane's secret of success has been her enthusiasm, her sparkling zest for everything that she does. She is carried away by the spirit of each enterprise that she undertakes. She has always laid stress upon activities, and has considered the time and effort that she has ment of competition. Gamma Phi Beta was awarded the cup for the best stunt, "Jabberwack Jinglee," which was a representation of "Alice in Wonderland." Alice, the Duchess, the White Rabbit, as well as the other famous characters were all included in the act which closed with "Mad Hatter Blues," sung by the Mad Hatter chorus.

"Memory Land," presented by Delta Gamma, received honorable mention. It showed the memory book of an Oregon co-ed, the pages of which represented Homecoming, the Senior Ball, Frosh Glee and the spent in such a manner to have been exceedingly worth while.

She represented Phi Chi Theta at the national convention held in Chicago. She was also president of the organization, besides being elected president of heads of houses. She has been vice-president of W. A. A., a member of the special gifts committee for the Student Union drive, manager of the class formal in her sophomore year, head of the Women's League convention held here recently, and a participant on all the homecoming committees since she entered college.

Her list of achievements is varied. They range from doughnut sports to executive councils, and they all brand Mary Jane as an "all around Oregon girl."

CAREER BEGUN WITH $5 ENDS IN GRADUATION

We recommend for the collegiate hall of fame the girl who came to Oregon with five dollars and no prospects of a job. She made it and graduates this June.

WORKED WITH Y. W. C. A.

By Mary Clerin

Poise and leadership are two of the many qualities attributed to Eloise Buck, winner of the Gerlinger cup as the most outstanding and all-around junior woman on the campus this year. Qualities necessary as requisites for the honor of receiving the Gerlinger award are soundness in body and mind, modesty, dignity, personal integrity, high character and scholarship.

In scholarship Miss Buck stands very high. Her average has always been well above the University average. She has been on the honor roll for grades several times.

Since being in college, Miss Buck

SENIOR WOMEN BOLDLY PURSUE SHY MEN DURING LEAP WEEK

By Lillian Baker

The Senior Leap Week siege this year was a red letter week in college activities, both for the senior women, who cast aside their natural modesty and boldly pursued their dignified classmates, and for the dignified classmates, who waited patiently at home. It lasted four days and great were the casualties of the men thereof, some in broken hearts over no dates and others in perturbed hearts over dates.

The assault began with open house on the night of Wednesday, April 1, when the women made the rounds of the men's houses, eyeing

Successful Season Brought to Close By Mu Phi Epsilon

Mu Phi Epsilon, women's national musical fraternity, is bringing to a close one of the most successful years in its history on the Oregon campus. Concerts have always been a feature of its year's work, but never until this season has it sponsored a series of concerts with the assistance of the school of music faculty.

A miscellaneous program under the supervision of Lois Parker opened the series in the new school of music auditorium. A talk on oriental music with illustrations by Anne Landsbury Beck was the interesting subject of the second program. A program of Yuletide music was given during the holidays and an opera program by Madame Rose McGrew given the first of spring term was exceptionally interesting.

Rex Underwood sponsored a program a few weeks ago in which he explained the many interesting features of an orchestra. The last program in the series will be a lecture recital by John Stark Evans, associate dean of the school of music, Tuesday, June 2, at 8:15 p. m., in the music auditorium.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE HAS ACTIVE YEAR

National Convention Proves Biggest Undertaking

ANNA DE WITT NEW HEAD

By Elizabeth Cady

The Women's League has just completed its biggest and most influential year on the campus. This is the general consensus of opinion of those who have kept in touch with its different activities since last fall. Undoubtedly, the national convention of Associated Women Students, to which the local league was hostess, is the most outstanding project which the Oregon women have put across.

This conference embraced all colleges and universities west of the Appalachian Mountains. About 100 delegates to the convention for four days of well-organized work and entertainment. In spite of the fact that it rained incessantly during the convention, all of the delegates voted it to be one of the best and most helpful conferences they had ever attended.

Conference is Large

This is the first time in the history of the school that the Women's League has entertained as large a number of guests, but in view of the successful way in which the program was put across, the Oregon campus bids fair to become one of the most popular convening places.

This year a Freshman Girls' Loan Fund was established by the women's organization, which has met the needs of many freshmen women, and is under the charge of Dean Walker, student advisor. This fund

A Challenge of Summer Study

1. Summer study shortens the four-year course, making up for lost time or cutting down on the regular requirement. Nine term hours may be earned in summer session.
2. Summer study gives an opportunity to take many courses not offered during the regular year or not available through exigencies of individual schedules.
3. Summer study makes learning consecutive and effective. Do you know of any successful person who neglects his business for three months of the year while he goes on a vacation?

4. Summer study affords contact with an earnest, aggressive and purposeful group of students, cosmopolitan and mature, thereby giving the stimulus of a new kind of competition.
5. Summer study permits close acquaintance with leading American scholars. The University of Oregon, grown to be a large institution, is pleasantly small in the summer.
6. Summer study does not eliminate the vacation, or the possibility of gainful occupation, since the fall term does not begin till nearly two months after the close of summer session.

The 1925 summer sessions of the University of Oregon will be held simultaneously on the campus at Eugene and in Lincoln high school, Portland, from June 22 to July 31. A catalogue fully describing the wide variety of courses offered in both sessions, may be obtained from the registrar or from the extension division, or a copy will be mailed upon request.
