

UNIVERSITY HIGH WORK ORGANIZED FOR YEAR

With registration standing at 210, and various activities of the school city high school well under way this week. Enrollment is practically the same as last year, with unusually large registration, however, in the seventh and eighth grades, according to Principal R. U. Moore.

School authorities hope to promote more whole some class spirit through the adoption of the roll room plan for the various classes. By this method, each class meets with its adviser for 10 or 15 minutes daily, to plan for class and school activities. This method of stimulating school spirit, says Principal Moore, has been successfully tried by many high schools.

Two new instructors have been added to the faculty this year, Miss Ruby Bough in typing, and F. C. Wooton in the history department.

Frosh Parade Curtailed; Mix Scheduled For Next Saturday Too

Walker yesterday. "First, it promotes the early learning on the part of the underclassmen of the University songs and yells. It makes it possible for the girls to participate for the first time in the singing and yelling contests which are a part of the mix, and this feature will add color to this already colorful event."

Stimulant of Spirit

"I think it an extremely important kind of event," Dean Walker declared. "It is typical of the University, which, although it frowns on hazing, attempts in other ways such as the mix and parade to imbue entering students with the Oregon spirit."

By 9 o'clock Saturday morning a squad of freshman football men will have completed the painting of the huge 'O' on Skinner's Butte. From there they will enter the parade which will proceed down the hill, through the town and out to the University where Freshmen will learn the significance of the seal. From the seal, the parade will proceed out to Hayward field, and the mix will begin at once. Sophomore men and women and freshmen men and women will sit in special sections of the bleachers, while upperclassmen and other spectators will sit in the grandstand during the performances. Participants for the mix will be chosen from among the sophomore and freshmen men in the bleachers.

Green to Deck Frosh Heads
After the mix, the grand climax of all will come when the freshmen men will be officially crowned with their green caps which they are doomed to wear until Junior week-end late in the spring term.

A sophomore class meeting will be held in Villard hall Thursday afternoon of this week at 4:15 to discuss the Sophomore work in connection with the Frosh parade and mix, according to Benoit McCroskey, president of the class.

These are the styles that have the college man's O. K. for fall

They're smart and they're authentic; every detail of lapel, shoulders, of the trousers, is correct. We'll show you the new two and three button double-breasted; the single-breasted sacks. We'll show you the new Brackens; the Antwerp blue and bottle blue colors; the chamois shades. We'll show you some remarkable big values, too.
