

YEAR PROSPECTS HELD PROMISING

Walter Malcolm, Student Body Head, Commends Greater Oregon Body

Co-operation With Frosh Planned by Members of A. S. U. O. Council

Prospects for the year in almost every line of A. S. U. O. activity are extremely bright in the opinion of Walter Malcolm, president of the student body. The best evidence of this fact, he believes is the large freshman class, which is said to outnumber any previous entering class by a large margin.

Athletic Prospects Bright
Oregon's success in attracting so many new students can be attributed largely to the work of this year's Greater Oregon committee, said Malcolm. Robert McCabe is general chairman of the committee, and Hal Lundberg, associate chairman. The following students are members of the directorate:

George Meade, Ralph Staley, Carl Dahl, DeLoris Pearson, Paul Ager, Charles Jost and Nick Carter.

Athletic prospects, Malcolm feels are better than they have been for a great many years. The varsity line-up is stronger than it has been for some time past and predictions of a successful season seem warranted in consideration of the material available. Basketball prospects are equally promising and altogether the outlook for the season is a cheerful and encouraging one to the administration. The Freshman class in particular includes some good material which needs only organization to make it a successful factor in the athletic field.

Building Program Moving
The building program made possible by the adoption of the five dollar amendment last year is going ahead. The bleachers will be completely finished in time for the important games of the season and will be far enough advanced by next Saturday to seat the crowd for the first game. There were hopes of having a completed basketball pavilion in time for the basketball season but this can be made possible only through large additional expense.

Freshmen to be Added
Co-operation with the freshman class in every way possible with a strong organization in view is one of the first things to be undertaken by the A. S. U. O. administration, according to Malcolm. Everything in the administration's power will be adone to assist the freshman president so that his office may be made a really worth while one.

Another matter that has been considered by the student council is the matter of freshman discipline. In the past this has not been accorded the seriousness it deserves, in the days of the council, and the punishment on the library steps has been more of a farce than actual discipline. In the future, only those who deserve it will be punished and it is expected that the tendency to make the procedure a joke will be diminished.

Work to be Distributed
Fairness in the importance accorded any particular line of activities will be attempted throughout the entire year by the student council, Malcolm said, giving each activity the prominence it deserves and stressing none too much or too little.

"It is the plan of the administration to distribute student body work and appointments as widely as possible and to eliminate as far as possible any useless activity, with the purpose in mind that the activities of the University may serve as an assistance in the college course, rather than a detraction therefrom."

University to Honor Methodist Delegates

Members of the faculty and the University will be hosts Thursday afternoon at a reception and tea in honor of Methodist ministers attending the 73rd annual session of the Oregon Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, held in Eugene this week. The opening session of the conference was held last night in the First Methodist church.

A committee of four, consisting of Professors Fredric S. Dunn, chairman, Professor A. R. Sweetser, Dean John F. Bovard, and Dr. Warren D. Smith, have been appointed to arrange for the reception. A delegation of Oregon Knights will be on hand to conduct the visiting ministers over the campus. Dean Virginia Judy Esterly, dean of Women, is in charge of the tea and will be in the receiving line at the reception. Mrs. H. W. Davis will take charge of the serving and a number of University girls from the churches will serve.

Five Organizations Occupy New Homes

Five of the campus living organizations have moved into new homes since the close of school, last spring. Three new houses have been completed, and put into use. They are the Delta Delta Delta house, at 20th and University streets, the Alpha Tau Omega house, 1306 E. 18th street, and the Kappa Kappa Gamma house, at 821 E. 15th street. The Alpha Omicron Pi are now located at 754 East 13th street, the house occupied by the Kappa Kappa Gammas last year. The Psi Kappa's are living at the old Alpha Tau Omega house, at 874 E. 13th street.

The Men's Oregon club has established a headquarters in the old Alpha Phi house, on 13th street. About 22 of the men are living there now.

New Theatre to Give Initial Show Tonight

University students will find a new sinking fund for their always depleted allowances at the Colonial Theatre, recently completed on Eleventh avenue near Alder. The new theater will give its initial production tonight. The picture will be "Seven Days," a comedy drama.

The decorating scheme is planned to carry out a colonial style, the carpets and drapes giving the whole affair a quaint effect.

With the installation of one of the newest systems of ventilation, proper temperature at all times is provided for.

CAMPUS REPORTERS ON JOB FOR DAILIES

Campus correspondents have already started the daily grind of supplying their papers with a steady stream of news concerning the events that happen at the University. About ten scribes are kept busy handling the "cry for copy." Some of the University students holding down reporting jobs are:

George Godfrey, automobile editor for the Eugene Guard and Eugene correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor. Dick Godfrey is writing for the Seattle Times, while Dick Eekman sends his copy to the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and the Oregon Journal. Eddie Smith has just come down from the Portland staff of the Morning Oregonian to assume the position of University correspondent. Sam Wilderman retains his former job as sports correspondent for the Oregonian. Parker Branin is the Evening Telegram representative.

divisions are: first, $50; second, $30; third, $20. The students must select a subject closely allied to the following general topics: 1. The educational and cultural value of art, and 2. Value of Oregon-made goods and importance of industries.

The judges of the contest are: Judge Charles H. Carvey, former president of the Oregon Writers' League and author and historian; Anthony Bauer, poet and illustrator, and Dean Eric W. Allen, of the University of Oregon school of journalism.

Exhibits of Oregon products will be displayed by hundreds of Oregon dealers and manufacturers, all of the booths being already sold. A brilliant parade is planned for the opening night of the exposition in Portland in which will be represented all of the exhibitors, artists, museums, sculptors, writers and bazaar features. After the parade, the event will be officially opened by short talks by Mayor Baker, Gov. Walter M. Pierce, and Brigadier General Paul A. Wolf, commandant at Vancouver barracks.

In the afternoons during the expositions, bridge teas will be held, and style shows under the direction of Dorothy Corbett and cabaret dances will be evening features. On the last night a formal ball will be given in the auditorium as a closing number.

Another special feature of the exposition is the treasure hunt, for which sixty prizes are to be given to winners.

The actual work of staging the exposition is in charge of a board of directors composed of the following: Mayor George L. Baker, honorary president; Frank J. Cobbs, vice-president; Mrs. George T. Gerlinger, secretary; Miss Mabel Withycombe, assistant secretary; Mrs. Reade M. Ireland, assistant secretary; Walter A. Holt, treasurer; Mrs. Kenneth Beebe, assistant treasurer; Frank E. Andres, C. C. Colt, Max S. Hirsch, R. L. Macleay, W. L. Mune, W. O. Munsell, Ira F. Powers, Charles H. Stewart, and Fred H. Strong, general committee members.

Mrs. George T. Gerlinger, member of the board of regents, who is sponsoring the fine arts building, also conducted the drive for obtaining state subscriptions for the Woman's building. In the proposed fine arts building there will be housed the following: Museum of Northwestern historical curios, collections of American colonial art, French, Italian and Spanish art, the Murray Warner collection of Oriental art, and the North American Indian art, collected by Ada Millikan.
