Promptly at 9 o'clock this morning the traditional frosh parade followed by the underclass mix will swing into a three hours jammed full of spectacular events when members of the two underclasses assemble at the 'O' on Sinner's butte.

Squareness Is Promised
Adequate police protection will be furnished by the Senior Cops who will take an active part in leading the parade and assuring the Freshmen of the squarest mix in history. Canes, sombreros, and cords will be the colorful attire of the cops.

A doubleline of sophomores will form an avenue along which the first year men will travel into a series of ordeals which will test their fortitude in an endeavor to imbue them with something of the Oregon spirit and traditions.

The sophomore committee in charge of the frosh parade is composed of Arthur Prialux, chairman; Jack Hempstead, Bob Keeney, Fred Joy, Bill Pendergrast, Calder McCall and Howard Dilge.

Fred West heads the Junopi committee in charge of the underclass mix. Other members are: "Swede" Westergren, Carl Johnson, George Minnaugh, Bob Love, Bob Neighbor, Bud Christensen, Rex Adolph, Proctor Plannian, and Joe Price.

Sophomores Guarantee Snap
"The sophomores guarantee a live snappy parade," said James Johnson, Junior class president. "The juniors guarantee the squarest mix. The combination of the two affairs offers Oregon a wonderful opportunity to get together, and get all hopped up for the first game. Let's make this not only the squarest but the peepiest mix."

As the Frosh parade enters Hayward field, the Senior cops will initiate the men into the mix. Freshmen and women will be separated from the sophomore men and women in the bleachers. Del Oberteuffer, former Oregon yell king and Fred Martin, present yell leader will assist in the competition of the two classes in singing and yelling. Officials for the mix include Bill Hayward, Oregon trainer and track coach.

Freshmen men will be warned in posters distributed over the campus this morning to come to the 'O' each equipped with a garter, a dime, a package of cigarettes and a green lid. Lists of men excused from the parade and mix are in the hands of the sophomores and the penalty of (Continued on page four)

Beautiful Venus Cold and Cloudy, Says Astronomer

Venus, the beautiful, is as cold as she is lovely, says Professor E. H. McAlister of the mechanics and astronomy department. Although nearer the sun by millions of miles, the temperature of the planet is always near the freezing point. The cause for this phenomenon has not yet been determined by C. E. St. John, Mount Wilson astronomer, whose latest discovery has broken down all previous beliefs that Venus must necessarily be a hot place because of her proximity to the sun. The planet Venus is covered by a cloudy atmosphere all the time, so that it is difficult to fix a definite point on it for observation. Dr. St. John's discoveries have cleared up many errors in the minds of astronomers who have been unable to penetrate the fog successfully.

DR. HODGE RETURNS FROM GEOLOGICAL TRIP

Mt. Jefferson Is Scaled On North By Four

Dr. Edwin T. Hodge, of the geology department, returned to his classes this fall after spending several weeks of the summer in geologic investigations and studies.

Accompanied by John F. Bovard, Dean of the school of physical education, Dr. Hodge spent the first two weeks in August in studying the area around Mt. Jefferson. The mountain itself, its glaciers, rocks and lakes were studied.

Dr. Hodge climbed the mountain from various sides. He was one of a party of four who reached the top from the north side. As far as is known, this is the only party who have succeeded in scaling the mountain from that side. On this trip one of the men fell 300 feet into a crevasse and broke his leg in two places. It was quite a task, according to Dr. Hodge, to get the injured man to the foot of the mountain.

Dr. Hodge intends to make a topographical map of Mt. Jefferson and to study the rocks more intensively. He will also write an article dealing with the composition of the mountain and the effect of it on glaciers.

Dr. Hodge expects his book on the Three Sisters to come from the press sometime this month. The title of his book is "Mt. Multnomah, Ancient Ancestor of the Three Sisters."

INFIRMARY TO OCCUPY RENOVATED BUILDING

Every year the infirmary is confronted with several epidemics and this year is to be no exception, according to information from that place. In fact, one epidemic has been weathered already this year, and that just because the students insisted on breaking in their new shoes in a hurry. Case after case of blistered and sore feet were handled, some of them being of a rather serious nature due to infection.

From all indications it is going to be a good year for the department which will soon move into the "shack" next to the Journalism building. According to the carpenters working on the building, it will be ready to be occupied in about ten days. Meanwhile the infirmary, located on Onyx street, is open to all calls that students wish to make.

MEN TO START ON CAMPUS TOUR AT 6:45 TONIGHT

Houses Asked To Observe Schedule Closely That All Delay Be Eliminated

Only Two Women's Groups Change Locations; Visits Of 10 Minutes Planned

Open house, the big handshaking contest of the year when all the men's houses travel around to all the women's houses for a ten-minute visit and dance at each place, is scheduled for tonight. Bill James and Hulda Guild are in charge of the arrangements and invite everyone to take part in order to make the evening a success.

Tradition Is Old
Last year the evening started at 7:00 o'clock, but tonight activity will start promptly at 6:45, because of the number of houses and the length of time allowed. Men are urged to follow their schedules closely so as to avoid mixups and delays. These schedules will be delivered some time today. They allow ten minutes visiting at each house with five minutes travelling time in which to get from one house to another.

Open house taking place the week after pledging, is an institution of long standing at the University. Its purpose is to foster friendships between men's and women's houses and to enable freshmen to get acquainted with the different organizations on the campus.

Cooperation Is Asked
Bill James calls attention to the fact that there are 21 women's houses on the campus and 19 men's houses. Consequently, he says, there will be some time during the evening when each of the women's houses will have a half-hour wait but no one will be skipped at any time.

The Alpha Chi Omegas will be at the Sigma Nu house and the Gamma Phi Betas, on account of their new house being unfinished, will be at the Beta Theta Pi house. These are the only changes in location.

Bill James again urges that every one cooperate to put the affair over with the characteristic friendly feeling that will make the evening a success in every particular.

Glee Club Tryouts To Be Held Monday In Music Building

Vocal Training, Trips, Features Offered

"There are several vacancies on the Men's Glee club and all men who can sing at all are urged to try out next Monday at five o'clock in the school of music," is the word of Ted Larson, president.

Work under John Stark Evans, director, will give excellent vocal training. This year will find the club very active as there are several trips planned, and a great many events, the first of which will be special features at Homecoming. A new feature of this year's work will be the introduction of eight part singing with the girl's club.

EX-OREGON ATHLETE IS WEST POINT STAR

Don Zimmerman Receives Honorable Mention

"When the United States military academy at West Point commends an 'humble plebe' or fourth classman within two months after he puts on his uniform his state has a right to be proud of him." Such was the beginning of a story written for the Portland Oregonian by Charles L. Gridley, Washington staff correspondent concerning Don Zimmerman, of Eugene, graduate of the University in 1924.

Not only has Zimmerman, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Zimmerman of 827 Eleventh avenue, been complimented on his excellent scholastic showing since he entered the academy, but has shown promise as an athlete as well, the article continues.

Besides playing right field and pitching for the plebe first baseball squad, almost immediately after arriving at West Point, the ex-Oregon man has made and remained on the A or first squad of the fourth class or plebe football team. Athletes to remain on football squads must maintain grades of not less than 2 in all studies or be automatically dropped, according to letters received by his mother.

Senator Robert N. Stanfield, acting through his secretary, E. J. Adams, made the appointment on June 24 and Zimmerman had to report for duty on July 1. Captain J. T. Murray of the University R. O. T. C. was instrumental in securing the appointment.

During both high school and college, Zimmerman's grades were excellent. This fact together with the limited time caused the West Point authorities to admit Zimmerman without any previous mentality examination, when a certificate of his grades was forwarded. He passed the physical examination without difficulty.

Zimmerman is in company M, one of the two tall men's companies. He is twentieth from the first tall man in this tall men's company.

While at the University, Don majored in geology, earning a bachelor's and master's degree in six years. He played basketball three years and baseball three years. He captained the team at Eugene in his senior year. "The baseball coach at the army school," says Mr. Gridley in his article, "no doubt has his eye on Plebe Zimmerman for next spring."

'MAKE 'EM LOUD AT GAME TODAY,' MARTIN'S PLEA

Aspirants Will Be Judged By Ex-Yell King Before All Student Spectators

New Yell In Process of Evolution Has Volume And Zip, Says Leader

Rah, Rah, Oregon!
Rah, Rah, Oregon!
Oskey, Wow, Wow!

That's the yell that will inaugurate Oregon's football team this afternoon under the leadership of Yell King Freddie Martin. The yelling thousands will have their first workout of the year, and the freshmen their first participation in making Oregon spirit, in preparation for the big yelling that will come later on in the season. "Just a yell given at proper times this season is going to make or break Oregon's team!" Bill Reinhart, Dick Smith and Baz Williams are doing their share to make the team and the rest is up to the students. There's no better way to show your support than to yell," says Martin.

As an added feature of today's cheering practice will be the try-out for two assistants for Martin's staff. Over a dozen men will be required to lead two or three yells each. The winner will be chosen entirely on how he conducts the routing. Delbert Oberteuffer, former yell king, will be the judge. The assistants will be chosen to take the place of George Shaeffers, who is not in school and Jack Seabrook, whose leg injury keeps him from strenuous exercise.

New Yell Planned
Yell King Martin has a surprise for the rooters. He and Oberteuffer have been planning a new yell. It has all the zip, all the back tinging qualities, all the volume, that the other yells have, and a little bit more, according to Martin. He is going to announce this new one after the tryouts.

Over half of Oregon's games are on Hayward field. Next week-end comes that hard mix with Idaho, which last year broke the 14 year jinx. The yell king wants everyone out. He hopes to rock old Judkins point by the volume of "Oskey." Voices with four month's rest should be able to crack, he declares.

FRENCH CLASSES ARE POPULAR THIS FALL

French, in its various class forms, has become so popular upon the campus this fall that an extra instructor has been called in to serve the overflow of students.

Miss Cornelia B. Pipes, graduate of the University of Oregon Romance language department in 1924, has accepted the position created through this influx of entrants, and will arrive in Eugene in time to meet her classes next Monday morning.

Miss Pipes made an enviable record in the French department while on the campus and has since been studying under a noted French tutor. She has just been appointed French instructor in a large Chinese university, but turned down this offer to come to her alma mater.

'Save Our Pride and Joy Tonight,' Is Tri Delt Plea

The Tri Delt lawn in front of their new house on Twentieth and University is to be a source of pride and joy when it starts to grow, but at present its existence is threatened. Open House means many feet tramping up the walk and perhaps disregarding the walk altogether.

The girls in the house plead and implore for a sympathetic interest in the lawn and beg that the walk be used tonight by men from visiting houses.

REGISTRATION SHOWS INCREASE THIS YEAR

New Students on Campus Number 1085 To Date

Twenty-seven hundred and sixty students have taken out registration material to date on the Eugene campus, which is three in excess of the enrollment for the entire three terms last year, and with the medical school total of 210 at Portland, the University of Oregon full-time enrollment will be close to the 3,000 mark this week. The enrollment for the fall, winter, and spring terms will exceed 3,000 by a comfortable figure.

While every mother's son of the 2760 Eugene campus registrants may not finish the routine of entering classes, 2652 are already fully signed up and attending classes, with several days remaining for the late arrivals to comply routine registration formalities. Graduate students have a full week yet in which to register.

The enrollment in the recent summer term at Oregon was 1012, so that the total registration for fall, winter, spring and summer terms will exceed 4,000.

Enrollment at Oregon this year breaks several records. There were 2531 enrolled for the entire fall last year at Eugene, so this fall's total shows a new mark as will the yearly total. New students on the Eugene campus—freshmen and advanced students from other institutions—number 1085, approximately 200 more than entered Oregon last fall.

NEW PRESS BUILDING NEARING COMPLETION

Work on the new University Press building, situated in the block between University and Onyx streets, is proceeding rapidly, and the structure will be ready for use about the first of November, said Dean Eric W. Allen, head of the school of journalism. The concrete walls are now complete and the roof is on. The wiring and plumbing also are completed. The workmen are now putting down the floors. Several days will be required for the concrete to set. A No. 3 Miehle press, which is now on the ground will be installed in the building as soon as the concrete has set.

Owing to the continued growth of the institution, the University Press has been for some time in a congested condition. The work of the college press long ago outgrew the space available in McClure Hall, but new building had to await available funds.

OREGON FACING FIERCE COMBAT IN FIRST GAME

Multnomah Club Lineup Includes Noted Stars; Team Headed By Sax

Coach Smith Plans To Use Two Complete Squads; Lemon-Yellow Is Hopeful

By Web Jones Sports Editor

A genuine Tartar, in the form of Multnomah Club, promises to put the Oregon varsity to a severe test this afternoon at 2:30 on Hayward field in the take-off game of the season.

There are no wildly optimistic predictions advanced by the Oregon coaching staff. On the other hand there are no bear stories, loaded with gloom, being passed out by Dick Smith. The team is out to do the best it can with a bare three weeks of work behind. It is a test game in which Dick Smith will run in every one of his men in order to find out how each will stand up under fire.

Sax Leads Invaders
Coach Moe Sax of the clubmen, former Oregon half back, who developed such a phenomenal team at Lincoln high school last year, has drilled the visiting eleven for four months in all the subtleties of football which he alone is capable of teaching. For the first time in many years the clubmen are bringing down a formidable list of reserves with them, with a different style of play than in former years in that more team play will be used instead of letting the former college stars alone do the work.

The group of stars who are playing under the club colors includes Vesser, Idaho end, who was mentioned for coast last year; Pelouze, all coast end three years ago; Carpenter, Oregon Aggie end for three years; Paville, Stanford all-star tackle in 1923; Mickelwait, stellar Aggie guard; Harrington, present coach at Columbia and former Notre Dame player; Mason, O. A. C. tackle for three years; George, ex-W. S. C. player under "Lone Star" Deitz; Nelson, former Gonzaga center; and Hump Agee and Fred Carlberg Oregon freshmen players two years ago.

In addition to the roster of ex-college luminaries the team is filled in with Portland high school stars and others.

Harrison Among Injured

The Oregon team finished training last night with signal practice and fierce scrimmage between the second and third teams. The list of injuries was augmented last night by the failure of Fred Harrison to report in a suit. He will be out for a few days with an injured hip and shoulder.

The Lemon-Yellow team will enter the first game "hopped-up" to win. But if the crafty club aggregation get the drop on them and win the game it will be no blot on the Oregon record, for the Multnomah men have pointed for this game consistently since they began work. A victory would mean a lot for the visitors in their next game with the Olympic club. On the other hand the varsity is not going into a slump by any means if the game is lost.

Smith To Use Two Teams
Dick Smith is planning to use at least two complete teams. Out of the mass of material at hand two complete teams will be picked for the varsity. New men are starting in the lineup and new men will be playing throughout the game. No matter how the game goes Dick will send in 12 or 15 men before the fracas is over.
