

Society

By Lylah Lou McMurphy

There were very few notable events this week on the campus, but engagements and marriages of considerable interest to college folk have been announced from out of town.

This week's outstanding event in Portland was the All-Oregon 1925 exposition and bazaar with the opening at noon yesterday in the public auditorium. Perhaps the height of interest will be centered in the fashion ball which will come Saturday night as a delightful end to the week's activities. Practically everyone knows that funds from the exposition will go towards the building of the fine arts museum for the University. People from all over the state have been working for the success of the exposition and the development will be closely watched from day to day.

The activities of the week-end, which included the church receptions Friday evening, the interclass mix and football game Saturday, came to a rather strenuous close Saturday evening with the annual open house which formally opens the year's social schedule on the campus.

The first of the series of Vesper services that will be given for college students and town folk each Sunday afternoon was held Sunday in the auditorium of the school of music.

The engagement of Miss Helen Versteeg and Frank M. Love, which was formally announced October fourth, is of interest to a wide circle of friends here. The news was made known at a large tea for which Miss Florence Hartman was hostess at her home in Portland. Miss Versteeg attended college here and was a member of Gamma Phi Beta. Mr. Love is a graduate of the California University of Technology.

An attractive affair of the week was the tea and reception for which the University was host Thursday afternoon in Alumni hall for the visitors and delegates attending the Methodist conference. Tea was served in the sun parlor and afterwards the guests were shown through the Murray Warner art museum.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Karl Onthank, Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. Smith, Mrs. Virginia Judy Esterly, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Sweetser, Mr. and Mrs. Fredric S. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. John Bovard and Miss Florence Magowan.

Mrs. B. W. DeBusk was hostess Thursday evening at her home for a social meeting of the Kappa Alpha Theta Alumni association of Eugene.

Thursday afternoon active and alumnae members of Pi Beta Phi entertained at their chapter house, with Mrs. Paul Harding (Felicia Perkins), an alumna from Pasadena, California as a special guest. Mrs. Harding, who is a graduate of the University of Oregon, is visiting here this week as a guest of her mother, Mrs. Lucy Perkins.

Miss Marjerry Vail of Pasadena, California, who attended college here in 1922 and later at Stanford University, is in Boston, Massachusetts this year doing work in the graduate school at Harvard University. She is a member of Alpha Phi fraternity.

Miss Margaret Fitzsimmons, daughter of Mrs. Beatrice Fitzsimmons, head resident at the Delta Delta house, and Robert A. Hawkins Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hawkins of Seaview, Washington, were married at the Hotel Benson Saturday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock. The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. William Cronin.

Miss Fitzsimmons' only attendant was Miss Alice Ann Tuthill, of Baker, and Russell Brown, of Eugene was best man. Both of the young people are former students of the University, the bride being a member of Delta Delta Delta and the groom of Phi Gamma Delta. They will make their home in Astoria.

RIDDLE ON COLLEGE FACULTY

Mr. George Riddle, who was graduate assistant in mathematics at Oregon last year, and who took his Master's degree in the summer session, has been elected professor of mathematics at Albany College, and has already taken up his duties. Mr. Riddle is a graduate of Reed College.

WOMENS LEAGUE TEAS TO BEGIN WEDNESDAY

"Get Wise Party" Will Be Given Friday for Girls

Women's League is sponsoring a number of social affairs during this term for the purpose of, not only acquainting freshman women with upperclass women, but informing them of university traditions and urging them to take the advantage of opportunities which are available to freshmen on the campus.

The program will start with a tea, to be given Wednesday, October 7th, in the Woman's building between the hours of four and six. Upperclassmen and freshmen will be present. There will be dancing, and refreshments are to be served between dances. Big sisters will bring their little sisters. If the girls have not gotten in touch with their big sisters, they are urged to come anyway. Sophomores and other girls who are not freshmen although they are strangers on the campus will find that attendance at these teas will aid them in getting acquainted.

As was the practice last year, Women's League teas will be held on every Wednesday afternoon throughout this term. Girls are expected to drop in after classes in their school clothes, as the teas are very informal.

The other event of this week will be a "Get Wise Party" which is to be featured by Women's League and Women's Athletic Association Friday, October ninth.

This party is also for the benefit of freshman women. Its chief purpose will be to acquaint new girls with the many opportunities in activities which are offered on the campus. W. A. A. will put on impromptu stunts as a part of the evening's entertainment, which will be characterizations of the variety of sports available to girls. Dancing and refreshments will assume their usual part in the program.

Miss Anna DeWitt, president of Women's League, explains that, since the principal motive for these affairs is to make the new women feel more at home, and to help them in every way, she hopes that a large number of them will attend.

FACULTY INCLUDES RHODES SCHOLARS

Smith, Maddox, and Barnes Students at Oxford

Three instructors on the Oregon faculty are Rhodes Scholarship graduates of Oxford University in England.

Two of these three Rhodes scholars have been added to the staff of instructors since last spring. They are S. Stephenson Smith, member of the English department, and William P. Maddox, latest addition to the department of political science.

The third faculty man who was a Rhodes scholar is Walter C. Barnes, professor of history at Oregon since 1920.

Mr. Smith received the coveted Rhodes honor while a student at Reed college, where he made a brilliant record, previous to this he was a student at Washington high school in Portland. After receiving his degree of Bachelor of Literature at Oxford, Mr. Smith spent two years as a high school instructor in the state of Washington. He reads several continental languages, including French and German.

Professor Maddox was awarded the scholarship made possible by Cecil Rhodes by the state of Maryland. After his graduation from St. John's College in that state, one of the oldest educational institutions in America, having been founded in 1692, Maddox studied law for a year at the University of Maryland. He also did reporting on the Baltimore Sun. He finished at Oxford last year, having specialized in the honor school of politics, philosophy, and economics. Professor Barnes took an A. B. degree from Colorado College in 1912. The next year he did graduate work at California. Immediately after his graduate studies he went to Oxford on a Rhodes scholarship, taking his B. A. there in 1916 from the Honor School of Modern History. He spent a year on the faculty at the University of British Columbia and was on the California teaching staff from 1918 to 1920. He has since been in the history department of this University.
