Coaches Who Scouted California-St. Mary's Game Tell Of Work Of "Wonder Team"

By Web Jones

Bill Reinhart and "Spike" Leslie scouted the California-St. Mary's game last Saturday. They saw the "wonder team" and most of its outstanding players in action. This is what they had to say about it.

Andy Smith is smart. There is no question about the power of the team this year. It is strong in reserves for the California coach used three teams in the game and the usual part of it was that the men who were substituted looked better than the men who started the game. The team actually played a better game in the second half than in the first. Perhaps they were as good as the starters and the weakened condition of the St. Mary's team made them look better.

The power of the team is not due to brute strength and beef but to intelligent playing. They know how to handle the offense. Linesmen repeatedly slipped back to the quarterback to tell him what his man was doing so that the quarterback would know where to direct the attack. It was brainy football.

The offense was organized. The gains were made through the line often for 25 to 30 yards. A back shot through the first line of scrimmage and picked up his interference on the other side where it was meant to be. Often he hesitated momentarily on the verge of being tackled, to allow his interference to form.

The backfield is composed of average size men, about 160 pounds. Young and Dixon, who weigh the most, are not over 170 pounds. The backfield will weigh much less than that of Oregon. The ends are also light but fast. The rest of the line is heavy.

Dixon the California kicker, averaged about 36 yards on his punts. The St. Mary's kicker averaged less. That is going to give Oregon a big edge in this department of the game.

The offense is organized, there are no stars. Each man is a part of a perfect machine. As long as a man does his task he is as much a star as any other man on the team.

The backs have wonderful interference. That helps to make the team as much as anything else. The interference knows what to do. The team works as a unit. The style is conducive to wonderful team play but not to the "Red" Grange type.

Three teams went into the Saturday game and there was very little difference between them. The backfield had Dixon, Griffith, Imlay, Young, Blewett, Jabs, Carlson and Brown.

One of the most apparent things was that everyone is worried.

The coaches are worried, the team is worried, the students are worried, and the followers are worried. They are thinking that the team with its wonderful material will not come through this year. They show it. It's in the air and one can sense it as soon as one gets there.

This is the first time for many, many years that the coaches have been worried about the team. It doesn't happen down there very often, but this year it has come over the campus in full force. That's why Oregon has a good chance. If there is any gloom on this campus there is twice as much on the Berkeley campus.

Official Special Tickets On Sale; $3.81 Round Trip

Railroad tickets for the official "rally special" train leaving via Southern Pacific at 3:30 Friday, will be on sale all day Thursday and if necessary also on Friday morning. A ticket booth will be placed in front of the library for the convenience of the students. The fare on the special will be $3.81 round trip. The train will return Sunday evening, leaving Portland at 7:00 o'clock. So that student luggage will not interfere with the special features and entertainment on the train, officials have added another baggage car for the checking of baggage.

The train will consist of ten coaches, two baggage cars (one being used for dancing) and a club-lunch car. Plans are being made to make this train one of the most colorful student specials that has left the campus.

JOHN H. NASH SENDS BOOKS TO UNIVERSITY

Two volumes containing samples of the very finest printing from the time of the Venetians up to the present, have been received by Dean Eric W. Allen, of the school of journalism, from John Henry Nash, noted printer of San Francisco. Mr. Nash, who had his collection of rare old printing and books on exhibit here last spring, was honored with the degree of doctor of letters at the last commencement at Oregon. Some of his work is included in the second book.

The first volume is entitled "Four Centuries of Fine Printing," while the second volume is "Fine Modern Printing." The books are to be used in Dean Allen's classes in publishing. The originals of the samples included in the books could only be seen by travelling great distances to private and public collections scattered all over the world. The best samples of the work of the most noted printers of the times are included in the volumes.

The University library has bought two of the volumes for its collection. The books are published by the University Press, Cambridge, England.

B. C. HALL RETURNS HOME

Robert C. Hall, of the school of journalism, who has been receiving medical treatment in Portland for some time, returned to his home in Eugene Saturday. Mr. Hall has charge of the courses in printing and his classes have been discontinued until winter term.

Girls' League Sponsoring Dime Crawl To Be Held At All Women's Houses

Ten-Cent Admission Helps Build Fund For Foreign Scholarship At University

A dime crawl, the first of several which will be held during the year, is to be featured this evening from 6:30 to 7:30 at all women's organizations on the campus under the auspices of Women's League. Dorothy Myers is in charge of the affair. Ten cents admission will be charged at each house. Miss Myers is eager that the men of the campus support it enthusiastically, as it is upon them that the success of the dime crawl depends.

These social features were started two years ago, and have become a definite part of the campus activity program. They are given by Women's League for the purpose of raising money for the Foreign scholarship. The first dime crawl was managed by Jeanne Gay, chairman of the Women's League Scholarship Loan Fund, in the year 1923-24. The idea, according to Georgia Benson, who was president of Women's League at that time, was taken from the dime crawls which are held at the University of California for their Student Union fund. About $100 is made at each dance, and sometimes more. "We found them very successful," remarked Miss Benson, "and of course their success was due to the enthusiasm shown by the men."

Dean Esterly commends "The dime crawl is an easy and effective method of raising money," Dean Esterly observed, "and is a good thing as long as it is closed on time. However, everyone must remember that the closing time is definitely set for 7:30, and that the rule must be abided by."

Oregon Club will hold its dime crawl at 815 E. 13th at their club room, and all other women's organizations will entertain in their own houses except Chi Omega, which will occupy the Beta Theta Pi house, Alpha Delta Pi which will be at the Phi Kappa Psi house, and Delta Zeta, which is to be at the College Side Inn.

RILEY H. ALLEN, EDITOR AND AUTHOR WILL VISIT

Riley H. Allen, editor of the Honolulu Star Bulletin, and Mrs. Allen, will be guests of the campus and especially of the school of journalism a week from today. Mr. Allen was sports editor on the Seattle Post-Intelligencer at the time that Dean Eric W. Allen was Northwest editor, George S. Turnbull, news editor, and Ralph D. Casey, reporter on the same paper.

Mr. Allen has contributed special articles on Hawaiian life to the World's Work and other magazines and has also written short stories for Collier's, Everybody's and other fiction publications. He is a former student of the University of Washington and a graduate of Chicago University.

During the war he saw active service as a Red Cross major at Vladivostok Siberia. Mrs. Allen was a well known Seattle vocalist at the time of her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen will be guests of Theta Sigma Phi and Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternities, while here.

SLOGAN WANTED BY HOMECOMING EXECUTIVE BODY

Fraternity Signs To Stress New Features Planned Welcome To Graduates

A spirit of welcome, hospitality, goodfellowship and reunion will permeate the Oregon campus during the 1925 Homecoming. There will be many new features and the old time pep and enthusiasm will be in evidence to make this the most successful and the biggest event of its kind in Oregon history. Such was the message given out at the first meeting of the Homecoming directorate last night.

The biggest thing that faces the directorate at this time is the lack of interest in a slogan. To date only one slogan has been turned in, and hundreds are needed to cover one suitable for the occasion. Every student is urged to submit his ideas immediately on the blank coupons printed in this issue. A box is provided for this purpose in the library. Only three weeks remain before the annual event and slogans must be in, in time to use for advertising purposes.

Hospitality Idea Stressed "The cards are stacked for one of the most successful Homecomings in the history of Oregon," said Walter Malcolm, student body president. The idea of hospitality will be stressed this year more than ever before.

In addition to the usual program on Friday and Saturday there will be, many features the nature of which will be disclosed later. A reception committee will meet all trains and care for visitors. Alumni will be asked to get in the line of march this year in the annual rally parade.

The old notion of antagonism against the Aggies on the fraternity signs will be abolished and the idea of welcome to old grads will be stressed. This matter along with the other present traffic problem will be handled by a committee composed of Tom Graham, chairman, Bruce Fenton, Doug King, Proc Flannigan, Milton Brown and Harold Llewellyn.

Class Members Featured Another feature the committee is working on is the class reunion. After the Saturday noon luncheon all classes will assemble at designated points near the library and meet old grads. Five classes will assemble at the same point.

Finances this year are being handled by Ken Stephenson and Bob Love. All purchases must be made with the use of a requisition issued by either of the men in charge.

A meeting of all members of the Homecoming directorate will be held sometime Thursday, an announcement will appear in a later Emerald. Further plans and additional features will be announced at that time.

Annual Finance Drive Planned By Y. W. C. A. Ethel McClellan, Chairman Gives Aim of Campaign

Plans for the Y. W. C. A. finance drive will be discussed at a preliminary meeting of the committee in charge at the Bungalow today at three o'clock. Miss Elsie Heller, national secretary, will speak on the subject of "National Finance."

While the Y. W. C. A. on the campus has played an important part in the lives of University women for years, as Oregon becomes larger and larger its function become more vital. The Bungalow is the only meeting place for all University women, and it serves as a medium in bringing them together. For this reason, if for no other, the organization deserves the financial support of every woman on the campus," is the statement issued by Ellen McClellan, general chairman of the drive.

The quota to be raised this year is $1600. Average pledges in the past have approximated $3 for the entire year. Smaller amounts are always acceptable, however.

Girl reserve work in high schools is one of the most prominent phases of the Y. W. C. A.'s activities. University women are trained to be leaders of clubs in high schools and communities. The World Fellowship discussion groups which proved successful last year are to be continued this year. The World Court will probably be the subject for study, according to Miss McClellan.

Those in charge of the drive are: Ellen McClellan, general chairman; Beatrice Mason, pep manager; Alpha Chi Omega, Alice Southwick; Alpha Delta Pi, Dorothy Strauglin; Alpha Gamma Delta, Alice Olsen; Alpha Phi, Barbara Blythe; Alpha Omicron Pi, Anita Kellogg; Alpha Xi Delta, Frances Schroeder; Delta Gamma, Katherine Strupler; Delta Delta Delta, Ellen McClellan; Chi Omega, Helen Coates; Delta Zeta, Mae Mordoff; Gamma Phi Beta, Doris Kendall; Kappa Alpha Theta, Constance Roth; Kappa Kappa Gamma, Eleanor Beckwith; Beta Phi, Edith Bader; Kappa Omicron, Edith Huntsman; Sigma Beta Phi, Marjorie Meyers; Tau Nu, Geraldine Troy; Oregon Club, Marie Gilkeson; Hendricks Hall, Sara Starr; Susan Campbell Hall, Ruth Corey; Thatcher Cottage, Josephine Yocum.

Leaders among the town girls will be announced later, and any girl who is especially interested in leading the campaign is asked to call Ellen McClellan.

BEAR TACTICS SHOWN VARSITY BY FRESHMEN

California-St. Mary's Game Watched By Coaches

The freshman football team feels quite honored this week. They are now the University of California's golden bears—that is they act as California in practice games against the varsity. Backfield coach, Billy Reinhart, and "Spike" Leslie, freshman coach, returned Monday from Berkeley, California where they witnessed the California-St. Mary's game. As a result of the trip both men know much about the golden stater's style of play. The freshman team has been drilled with this particular style.

Last night scrimmage against the varsity was strenuous. The freshmen were kept fighting all the time. The yearling team gave a very good exhibition of themselves last Saturday in the game against the super- varsity, third team. In this game the green cappers keep their more experienced opponents on the go all the time. The third quarter proved the down fall of the super- varsity when they fumbled on their 40-yard line and a freshman player picked the ball up and raced for the only score of the game as the try-for-point kick failed. Again in this quarter a first year man broke through the line for a 50-yard sprint. This brought the ball to the five yard line but the gun sounded, ending the game before the ball could be bucked over. Gooden at fullback and Ostrum at half made consistent gains through the super- varsity line.

According to Coach Leslie, a squad of 18 men will be sent to Roseburg where they will meet the fast American Legion eleven of that city on Armistice day. This squad will be picked from the seven teams which are reporting for daily work. The coach, however, will not pick the men he intends to use against the O. A. C. Rooks at Corvallis on Friday, November 13.

Freshman stock took a considerable jump the first part of the week when three yearling players who have been on the injured list reported for work. Cotter Gould, fullback, who was out with a wrenched knee is hitting the line harder than ever. Sandvall, center, is again turning out for the pivot position. Thompson, guard, who has been laid up with a bruised shoulder and is one of Leslie's surest bets on the line, is again spilling plays.

Mlle. Lydie Coqblin was the principal speaker at the meeting of the French club held last evening at the Y. W. Bungalow. Mlle. Coqblin gave a talk on her idea of the scenery of Oregon and contrasted it and urged to attend, said Dorothy Henderson, president, with her home in France. During the evening Marie Richards played the Polonaise by Chopin. All students who are taking French courses are welcome in this club.

VARSITY WORKS IN SECRECY FOR FRAY WITH BEAR

Squad Behind Closed Gates Driven Hard By Coaches Until Night Hides Field

Grid Warriors Develop New Vim As Scrimmage Goes Forward For Calif. Tilt

A deep far reaching mist of mystery surrounds football this week as the Hayward aspirants, coaches and few others work far past darkness in preparation for the oncoming California game.

Signals, called by three quarterbacks as they send the members of their teams through light practice and then take them into a real fighting scrimmage; are heard each afternoon.

A new life, a new spirit seems to have entered the men on the field as they go through the plays outlined by the three coaches. The team walks through a play, repeats a few times, and then lines up against the second string or freshman and tests the perfected play. The coaches are endeavoring to get the team working in clock-like precision and are driving the men on to do their utmost. They are taking pains to clarify the plays in the minds of the athletes and then telling them to go, go as they would again the claws of the Golden Bear.

This method of explanation by the coaches is bringing about a new feeling; a new showing of spirit, and a new attitude toward the game among the players. They are beginning to feel that "hopped-up" spirit and are showing it in scrimmage. That spirit displayed when the students repeat that "fight 'em Oregon" yell, is taking preference over the inner feeling of the men.

Although no athlete's show is made by the outdoors, a spectator is able to tell that the men are ready to uphold the honor of Oregon. The linemen are charging harder, the backfield men are hitting harder, and the coaches are driving harder this week than since the days of Hugo Beddek and his 1916 championship team.

Condition is another obstacle overcome by the coaches and Bill Hayward, veteran trainer, have the men ready, with the exception of Jones. Jones is slated to sit on the bench during the opening minutes of the Bear contest but the minute his strength is needed to bolster up the backfield he will be sent. His injured wrist is healing in nice fashion, Bill states, but no chances will be taken in irritating the injured member by scrimmage.

However, Jones has been following the first string fullback in all the plays and is ready to step in when the time comes.

Vitus to Play Vitus will start his first intercollegiate game this Saturday. "St" Vitus has been going good in practice this past week. He is a sure tackler and one of the best defensive backs on the squad, it is stated.

Byrl Hodgen is being groomed to take over Jones' work as full back and is going good.

Vic Wetzel has charge of the other half position and is ready to put his punting wares against that of the Bear.

The line may see a change before the end of this week. Smith and Mautz will probably be working at the wing positions when the game starts. Three guards and as many tackles have been showing ability this week.

Shields will take care of one guard berth with either Harden or Bailey at the other. Kerns is situated at one tackle and from the practice this week, Sinclair has displaced Gooding at the other. However, this scrap hasn't been settled as yet. Johnson is assured as the center.
