

VARSITY STARTS HARD GRIND FOR STANFORD GAME

Team Leaves For Palo Alto Wednesday; Injuries Not Large in California Game

Playing of Golden Bears Show Exceptional Type Of Coordinated Football

By Web Jones

The varsity football squad again is making Hayward field the scene of fierce scrimmage and hard work. The difficult Stanford game looms for this week-end, which leaves only two more days for work, as the team embarks for Palo Alto Wednesday.

The slate is clean again and everything is ahead. There is no crabbng on the part of the coaches against the team because of the crushing defeat on Multnomah field last Saturday. The team was beaten, but not in spirit. Rather there is more dogged determination than ever out there, and the men are actually working harder. Every man fought against odds—crushing odds till the last and you have to hand it to players or coaches for that.

Allis Not Offered

There is a great big "If" attached to everything connected with the team, and the following of the team are saying "if so and so did this," or "if so and so hadn't done that." It all narrows down to the point that Andy Smith's tactics drilled for five years into that team spirit and in body, were so clever and so finely worked that Oregon didn't have a chance. And there is also the consolation of the breaks that were for their benefit—but that's an alibi and alibies are against the principles of everyone connected with the team. The team began the season without them and none are being passed out. Oregon was beaten by the premier eleven of the country and you can bank on that.

Golden Bear Exceptional

If exceptional football was ever played, it was last week-end. The Golden Bear team was the most perfectly coordinated piece of grid-iron machinery that ever displayed its wares in the Northwest. In spite of the fighting of every man on the Oregon team, playing by far three times better football than they have exhibited before this season, the native sons won. That's past and the team is going ahead with more fight than ever. The Webfoot eleven played twice the game that it played against Idaho. Last night the hard work started. The varsity was sent through an hour and a half scrimmage and limbering up work. The super- varsity worked harder on line work and a hashing over of the game, and pointing out some of the errors of the players. Drill on offense occupied most of the time, for offense will be Oregon's strong point.

MODERN POETS REACT AGAINST OLD FORMS SAYS MRS. ERNST

"I think the modern tendency in poetry toward formlessness, is a reflection of the same spirit we find at the present in the other arts, in music, in sculpture and in the drama. Everywhere there is a reaction against the too rigid forms of the past," said Mrs. Alice Ernst, who this fall offers a course in technique of versification in the department of English.

"Much of the work of the modern poet is interesting because it expresses the artist's individual idea or vision of some particular thing; yet, much of it is useless. Now forms are likely to be overdone, the refuge of people who don't take the time or trouble to work out their creations in shapes of beauty. The problem of the present time is to seek, critically, real value in the present movement and place it in the proper setting

Mother Goat and Kids Glitter in Sky With Giant Stars

Do some observing tonight for yourself.

Here are a few of the things you can see in the sky: The Mother Goat and her three Kids. She is called Capella, from the Latin, but her young ones, although dating back before the time of the ancients, are as yet unnamed. Capella can be found in the early evening, so you won't have to stay out late to see her. She is one of the brightest stars in the heavens at this time of year. The Kids are three faint stars near her.

Arcurus, a giant star, is low down in the west every evening now. It is considered important to astronomers because it has the same spectrum as the sun.

Higher up in the northeast is Algol, the "demon star," also a giant, which the ancient Arabs feared.

Jupiter and the moon are fairly close together now. Jupiter, the brightest star in the southern heavens, crosses the meridian about six o'clock in the evening.

DEBATE ASPIRANTS TO HOLD TRY-OUTS

Varsity and Frosh Orators Chosen This Week

Intensive work is being done by varsity and freshman men debate aspirants in preparation for the tryouts next Thursday and Friday. Freshmen will compete Thursday night on the subject: Resolved, that Federal subsidies to states should be abolished.

Starting at 4 p. m. Friday, the varsity preliminary will be held. From then until 6 o'clock and after dinner from 7 o'clock on, the men will be trying out until all have given their five minute constructive speeches and three-minute rebuttal speeches. Sixteen varsity debaters will be chosen for the entire season. Six freshmen men will make up the team to be selected at Thursday afternoon's tryouts.

Varsity Subject Selected

"Discontinuation of foreign intervention in China's political affairs" will be the subject of the varsity tryout. This question, stated somewhat differently, will be the annual O. A. C. dual debate this term.

Instructors in the English department will act as judges at both the tryouts this week. Women's tryouts come on Thursday and Friday of next week, the freshmen women on November fifth, and varsity women, November sixth.

It was definitely decided yesterday, according to J. Stanley Gray, head of the public speaking department, that the question for the freshmen girls' debate with the Eugene Bible University will be the national uniform marriage and divorce law. This is the subject on which the girls will speak at the preliminaries.

According to the reserve department officials of the main library, students are studying the questions diligently in preparation for the coming tryouts.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID VICTIM OF PORTLAND FALL

Fraternity Brothers Are Pallbearers At Funeral Of Alfred P. Goss, Jr.

Services Over Prominent Student Conducted By Rev. Edward H. Pence

Funeral services for Alfred P. Goss, University student who was killed by a fall from the grandstand at Multnomah field, October 24, were held at the Westminster Presbyterian church, of Portland, yesterday. Reverend E. A. Pence read the services. Solos were sung by Joseph P. Mulder. The pallbearers were J. P. Price, J. K. Bailey, R. M. Overstreet, F. B. Joy, F. E. Riggs, Eddy Edlund of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity of which Alfred Goss was a member. About 35 members of the fraternity and several other University students attended the funeral.

Prominent In Activities

Alfred Goss was a junior in the school of business administration. He was very popular on the campus. He was prominent in student activities, his most important work being in connection with the Student Union drive.

Goss was at the extreme end of the grandstand adjusting a sack of confetti just before the Oregon-California game Saturday when he fell to the ground 75 feet below. He was taken to the St. Vincent's hospital where he died a few hours later.

Buried At Riverview

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Goss of Portland. He is also survived by two younger brothers James, a student at O. A. C., and John, a student at Grant High school. The body was interred at Riverview cemetery.

Y. W. C. A. TO LAUNCH FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN

One of the biggest problems that the Y. W. C. A. finance campaign committee has to deal with this year is that of reaching all the girls who are living in town. The entire quota to be raised is $1600, which is the amount raised in previous drives when campus women numbered 800 or 900. Ellen McClellan, general chairman of the campaign, feels confident that there will be no difficulty in reaching the mark set because there are 1500 University girls enrolled this year.

At a meeting of the town girls last week it was decided that the town will be divided into sections which will be canvassed by teams. Willingness to co-operate in any way was expressed as the general sentiment. Several girls told how much they appreciated the aid of the Y. W. C. A. employment bureau, which has placed approximately 300 women in positions of various sorts, in this way enabling them to attend the University.

Expenditures of the organization last year were: Contribution to the National Y. W. C. A., $200; salaries, $1800; clerical work, $200; bungalow, $300; social, $75; conventions, $200; printing, $50; office, $50; miscellaneous, $150; reserve fund, $100; speakers, $75; total, $3200. Estimated receipts were: University, $600; students, $1400; advisory board, $1000; miscellaneous, $200; total, $3200.

HI STUDENTS PLEDGE FEALTY

At the last assembly in the University High school, the program arranged by Juanita Kilborn, chairman of the program committee, was entirely musical. Mary Lu Kent, Ruby George, Dalton Shinn, and Wanda Lesley were the stars of the day. Although few in number the students sang their pledge song with all the lustiness of a thousand.

Oriental Creation Of Ancient China Mass of Symbols

Old Emperor's Robe Is Described

To begin at the beginning, the reporter decided Monday to spend a spare hour in the Murray Warner museum. The question then arose—what should one see first? Each article has its story or its set of symbols, many of which have not yet been interpreted. Each object of art is worthy of a visit, and there is a bewildering variety.

After some wavering the writer decided to devote her hour to a splendid emperor's coat of yellow, brilliant with great blue dragons each chasing the proverbial "pearl of great price." The coat is wrought in the famous Kossu tapestry, prized by the Chinese far above embroidery.

In China yellow is the imperial color and none but royalty wears it. The great five toed dragon is the property of the higher nobility and the royal family. The dragon is very rare. The coat shows the twelve imperial symbols, the fishless knot, the swastika, the fish symbol of good luck, and the phoenix, emblem of an empress. On the skirt is a very elaborate pattern showing clouds and waves. The edges of the garment are bound in black and gold brocade, which, with its long, tight sleeves, marks the garment as about 150 years old, a creation of the Manchu dynasty, the last dynasty to rule China.

TRACK TRY-OUTS TO BE THIS WEEK

Track men, both varsity and frosh, get their first competition on the oval on Hayward field this week end, when the combined upper-classes meet the freshman and sophomore teams in the annual fall relay carnival.

The cinder artists have been limbering up steadily for the past month on the track. Varsity and frosh aspirants have kept the oval busy, with the cross country men swelling the number to well over a hundred.

Frosh May Win

The odds against the freshmen are not great in comparison with the depleted varsity ranks. Sixty yearling track men have been working hard all fall for this meet and they are liable to topple the upper-class men out of the honors. Some exceptional men are signed up and this will be the first time they have had a chance to show their mettle. The varsity men have not turned out en masse, as have the freshmen at this time of year.

Bill Hayward's annual relay carnival will be a means of sorting out his cross country men, as well as the most outstanding freshmen for work this winter. The fine weather has permitted track work to go ahead in fine style in the same manner as in the spring. Five events will be run off—440, relay, 880, mile, two mile and medley.

Tryout Date Set

The tryouts for the underclass teams were announced by Bill Hayward last night.

Frosh tryouts, Wednesday at 4:00 p. m. to pick the four highest men in the 100, 440, 880 and mile. One man out of each group will be chosen for the medley.

Sophomore tryouts in the 100, 220, 440, 880 and mile will be held on Wednesday at 3:30.

The upperclass team will be selected by the coach without tryouts.

RECOVERING FROM BURNS

Lyle Veazie, who was severely burned about the head two weeks ago, is progressing nicely in the Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, according to her brother, Alfred Veazie, who returned from Portland Sunday. Miss Veazie, a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority, was burned when a celluloid comb caught fire as she was drying her hair over an electric heater.

FROSH PREPARE TO AVENGE LAST YEAR DEFEAT

Washington Yearlings To Be Met Saturday; Tilt Will Be First Test For Frosh

Leslie Developing Speed; First Year Men Are Weak In Punting Department

By Dick Syring

Out to avenge the defeat handed the freshman football team last year by the University of Washington yearling squad, the freshman football team under the direction of Coach "Spike" Leslie started intensive practice last night in preparation for the game with the baby Huskies on Hayward field, Saturday, October 31.

The freshman football team lost almost a week of signal practice because of scrimmage with the varsity last week. The men received training in the fundamentals, but had to neglect their own plays.

Three Teams Wanted

"What we want to do," said the coach, "is to have three teams ready for the game Saturday."

Coach Leslie intends to arrange several scrimmage sessions with the varsity second team to give the frosh needed hard work. He wants to scrimmage against a squad not familiar with the green cappers signals. In the practice against the varsity last week, the frosh squad played a consistent game.

The freshmen squad is going on with its dummy tackling, line scrimmaging and other fundamental work. The line is to be trained into a quick charging unit.

"One of the big things of this week's practice is to perfect the plays," said Leslie.

Men Very Light

The men of the freshman team this year are very light. The average weight of the team will not do much over 160 pounds. Several members of the line are heavy, but the backfield is light.

The line seems to have all the weight in the center of the line. Men out for the center and guard positions are fairly big men. The tackles are quite large, but yearling wingmen are all light-weights averaging about 140 pounds.

The backfield is composed of all light men except for the two men showing up well at fullback, Gooden and Gould. Both of these men will weigh around 170 pounds.

Woody and Wilson, quarterbacks, are light men. Ostrum, halfback, is light but makes up for his loss of weight in speed. In the freshman-super varsity game, preceeding the recent varsity-Pacific game, he played a good game. Every time he had the ball he made yardage, running away from his much heavier opponents. He looks like another "Skeet" Manerud. Cotton Manerud, another backfield aspirant, will not weigh over 130 pounds in his football togs.

Weak On Punts

The weakest department on the team, according to the coach, is punting. He is having a hard time finding a man who can punt, and not become nervous at the sight of an onrushing line. The Washington babes, however, are strong kickers. The Washington yearlings in its game against St. Martin's college whom it defeated 26 to 0 last Saturday, out punted the baby collegians by several yards. Labrache, quarterback and Montgomery, left half, did all the punting for the Washington babes and succeeded in getting off some long spirals.

In the game against St. Martin's, the Washington freshman offense was built around Roy Meister, brilliant yearling halfback. Meister scored three of the frosh touchdowns, tearing through the line and skirting either end for big gains. For the first three quarters the Washington babes resorted to straight football, but in the last quarter opened up with an aerial attack that swept the St. Martin eleven off its feet.

LAW SCHOOL TO HOLD BANQUET THURSDAY

Portland Lawyer Will Talk On Law Topic

Judge W. M. Coke, head of a well known Portland law firm, will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet for students and faculty of the University of Oregon law school, next Thursday evening, at the Anchorage. Election of a president and discussion of matters of general interest to the law school organization will comprise the business of the evening.

"It is the custom in the law school to have some general, social gathering with a professional flavor, at the beginning of the year, at which time we take occasion to call the attention of the new students in the department to the operation of the honor system, a real tradition of the law school," said Dean William S. Hale, head of the law school. "We take pride in the system and are interested in perpetuating it," he declares.

Each year a distinguished member of the bar addresses the students, said Dean Hale. The tenor of his remarks on such an occasion covers the experiences that practitioners will have in getting started in their practice; he draws from his own experience as a man who has been over the ground. The students are usually more interested in a discussion of this nature than in the discussion of a specific legal topic.

Reservations for the banquet have been made at the Anchorage. The price will be 65 cents a plate. All those planning to attend are asked to sign up.

SIGMA XI HOLDS FIRST MEETING IN PORTLAND

Sigma Xi, national honorary science research fraternity, held its first meeting of the year at Portland last Saturday. The Portland school of medicine, which was host to the members, entertained with a dinner at the medical school building.

Prof. O. F. Stafford, head of the chemistry department and retiring president of Sigma Xi, delivered an address on modern experiments in the teaching of elementary chemistry.

Edwin P. Cox, fellow in the department of geology and former associate member of Sigma Xi, was elected to active membership at the meeting.

Karl W. Onthank, executive secretary of the University, was a special guest of Sigma Xi at Portland.

The next meeting will be held at the University of Oregon November 20 at which time members from O. A. C. and the Portland medical school will be guests of the University. Two papers by members of the O. A. C. faculty will be presented.

CARL DAHL HEAD OF CONFERENCE FOR STUDENTS

High School Associations Will Gather On Oregon Campus For Two Days

Student Officers, Press, And Girls League Will Be Represented At Meeting

Carl Dahl has been appointed general chairman of the sixth annual Oregon high school conference to be held at the University of Oregon, December 4th and fifth, according to announcement made by Walter Malcolm, president of the associated students. The conference includes three groups of students, the High School Association of student officers; the Oregon High School Press association; and the High School Association of Girl's League officers.

Combine Open Meeting

Although exact plans have not yet been made, the usual program for the convention will probably be followed. This includes an opening meeting of the three groups together, at which time Dean H. D. Sheldon will represent the University of Oregon faculty and Walter Malcolm the students, in speeches of welcome.

Immediately afterwards, they will go to the different assembling places where separate programs touching the individual questions and problems of each group will be considered.

Round Table Sessions

Round table discussions between faculty and students, in place of lectures, will be a feature of the High School Press association session. Such questions as editing high school newspapers and annuals, methods of financing publications, advertising problems, and writing news will be discussed, experts will give technical advice on how to manage publications.

Organization methods, debating and athletics, will be outstanding topics for consideration by the Association of High School student body officers.

Features On Program

Anna DeWitt, president of the Woman's League at the University, will plan the program for the High School League meeting.

The program last year also included the annual banquet Friday evening at the Woman's Building, followed by a college night program. A style show and tea for Girl's League delegates and a musical, were other features which will probably be duplicated this year.

SPORT WRITER HAS COMMENT ON GAME

Edwin P. (Ep) Hoyt, former sports editor of the Emerald, and at present news editor of the Pendleton East Oregonian will be on the campus for a week after coming from the round-up city for the California-Oregon game.

Ep Hoyt has followed football for the last ten years and he thinks Oregon's main weakness is in its offense. Here is what he has to say:

"Oregon has a fairly good team, but its offense isn't speedy enough. Since the line refuses to hold, I think the backfield plays should be speeded up so the backs could get a quicker start. If the kicking had been as good as in the Idaho game, I don't think California would have scored more than two touchdowns."

WORD RECEIVED FROM STOELI

Victor Stori, a graduate of the business administration department here last year, is now working for his master's degree at the University of Illinois, according to word received by Dean E. C. Robbins. Mr. Stori is also teaching accounting at that University.
