

A. S. U. O. FUND GAINS BY $5000

Financial Report Shows Profit is Partly Due To A Decrease In Liabilities

Budget Control System Is Recommended As Means Of Careful Expenditure

The financial report of the Associated Students of the University, submitted to the executive council by L. H. Johnson, treasurer and University comptroller, indicates a gain in revenue for the year 1925 of nearly $5,000. This report contains the totals and itemized lists of all the sources of income, and the expenditures of the student body, for the period September 1, 1924 to August 30, 1925. Class funds and junior week end fund for 1925 are included in the lists. The report also shows operating results of the Oregon Daily Emerald and the Oregana, necessary to verify income accounts.

Income and Expenses

The following is an itemized list of the income and expenditures:

Income—
Athletic Activities	$36,556.38
Music, Including Tax	3,978.17
Student Tax	26,558.50
Oregon Daily Emerald	13,214.23
Oregana	9,703.08
Total Available Income	$90,010.36
Expenditures—
Athletics	$49,714.99
Administration	7,727.11
Refunds	88.50
Oregon Daily Emerald	12,532.13
Oregana	1,484.82
Athletic Field	401.46
Total Expended	$76,369.48

Accounts payable, which consist of the Oregana, miscellaneous, and the Oregana profit not paid out, totals $8,796.90. These accounts are in addition to the cash statements listed under expenditures. The net gain for the entire year is shown to be $4,843.98, cash.

Resources Estimated

An estimate of resources, such as equipment and other property owned by the A. S. U. O. of resources, such as equipment and other property owned by the A. S. U. O. with the graduate manager's estimate of supplies totals $27,915.00. This estimate includes grandstand, bleachers, field improvement and equipment, athletic supplies, instruments, orchestra, office equipment, armory improvements and miscellaneous repair and training equipment.

The total gross liabilities were $19,763.05. However, $129.66 was the amount of cash on hand, making a total net debt of $19,633.39. In 1924 the indebtedness was $25,291.48. This makes the gains for the past year of 1925 $5,658.09.

Budget Is Recommended

In adopting policies to further safeguard the students' interest in the matter of keeping the expenditures of different activities within the limit of anticipated revenues, Mr. Johnson says that a proper budget control could be maintained in the office of the graduate manager at a small expense. Thus monthly budgetary comparisons could be made with actual disbursements, giving full knowledge of each activity and more accurately forecasting results of the year's work.

COACH LESLIE WORKING FRESHMEN SQUAD HARD

Five freshman football teams were put through a strenuous signal practice and scrimmage last night by Coach "Spike" Leslie. The final touches were being made for the coming game with the University of Washington babes, Saturday, at 1:00 o'clock on Hayward field.

This signal practice lasted for an hour, after which the first team held a light scrimmage with the super-varsity, and the other four engaged in scrimmage. The first-string yearling players were given the ball on the 20-yard line and instructed to carry the pigskin over in eight attempts. Several times, through line plunges, end runs and passes, the ball was carried over. In Gould and Gooden, fullbacks, "Spike" has two who hit the line and make yardage. Ostrum and Cole, halfbacks, are two speedy ball carriers. Woody, quarterback, seems to be getting the call over Wilson. Woody is a triple threat man, being able to punt, pass and carry the ball. He is fast and shifty dodging opposing tacklers.

At the wing position Gear and Pope are showing up well. Both show ability in receiving passes and getting down under punts. Guards position will be ably taken care of by Flagel and Thompson. Martin and Demott, tackles, seem to be showing the best stuff and will probably get the call over other tacklers in starting Saturday's game.

The University of Washington baby Huskies are not coming under-rated. In the several games played this year they have showed stuff to make them of varsity caliber. One of the biggest factors in their defense is Harry Schneiderman, center. Schneiderman is a product of the Portland high schools having played four years for Commerce high. He is the only Portland high school player who made the all-star team for four years and is rated as the best center ever turned out by the Portland high schools.

Many to Have Chance

In Saturday's fracas, Coach Leslie will have three teams ready to start if necessary. All will probably see action. The probable starting line will be: Cadwell, center; Flagel and Thompson, guards; Martin and Demott, tackles; Gear and Pope, ends; Wobdy, quarterback; Ostrum and Coles, halves and Gould, fullback. Other men who will probably get in are Klippel and Sandvall, centers; Winters, Akers, Cockeran and Cagghella, guards; Nosler, Cramer, Bonnett and Wade, tackles; Burnell, Jamison, Hendron and Sjausen, ends; Wilson and Hogen, quarter; Eddie Green, Raymond and Bevellyn, halves, and Gooden and Goulke, fullbacks.

ORIENTAL ART SLIDES SHOWN NEXT WEEK

For the purpose of helping the students now enrolled in the course of art appreciation, Mrs. Murray Warner will exhibit slides of oriental art next week.

"Students are learning that the principles of design are universal, and though they differ widely in various countries and localities, they all have the same eternal background," said N. B. Zane, the instructor. "The class is now setting forth on a study of the contributions the orient has made to world art, and these slides will be shown as a means of bringing the students more closely in touch with oriental art," he continued.

Two sections of the class will benefit from the pictures. One will meet on Tuesday at 9:00 in the lecture room in the architectural at Villard hall on Thursday morning building and the other will meet at 10:00.

INTELLIGENCE TEST RECORD AVAILABLE

Scores of Freshmen Kept For Faculty Use

"The committee in charge desires to report that the work of mental testing for entering freshmen is now complete and available for faculty use," says the report in the Faculty Bulletin, signed by Dr. Edmund S. Conklin, head of the psychology department, who is chairman of the committee on Freshman Week.

"As the actual scores would be meaningless without some interpretation they have been translated into terms of the six following groups: I, very superior; II, superior; III, slightly above average; IV, slightly below average; V, inferior; VI, very inferior.

"A file recording the class into which each student's score falls has been placed in the office of the Dean of Men and another in the office of the Dean of Women, where information may be obtained by members of the faculty.

"The original tests and the actual scores made besides all other information and data concerning these tests are filed in the office of Professor Taylor of the department of psychology in Condon hall. The committee especially desires to have the faculty make use of Professor Taylor's knowledge of testing, and the interpretation of the results. Consultation with him will be found especially helpful if the tests results are to be used as a basis for the sectioning of classes. "Further studies of these test results will be made as time permits. Comparison with the results in other institutions will be made as soon as the data for this year can be obtained from other places."

The committee on Freshman Week consists of Dr. Edmund S. Conklin, head of the psychology department, chairman; Virginia Judy Esterly, dean of women; Dean H.

Walker, dean of men; Prof. Earl B. Douglass, of the school of education; and Harry A. Scott, of the physical education department.

OREGON OVERCOAT FOUND BY O. A. C. MAN

Last Friday night a Lemon-Yellow rdoter cap served another purpose than that of decorating the head of a student serpentine through the streets of Portland.

An overcoat was found in Corvallis by E. D. Meyer, professor of engineering at O. A. C. The only means of identification was an Oregon roster cap found in one of the pockets.

Advertisements have been unsuccessful in locating the owner, and Mr. Meyer requests the loser to communicate at the school of engineering, O. A. C., and identify the coat.

Wars and Kaisers Meant Nothing to Oregon Frosh; Five Years Old in 1914

from Washington high school, Portland, when he had just passed his fifteenth birthday.

"Lucky," was Harvey's laconic comment concerning his rapid progress through the grammar and high school courses—a trip which usually takes 12 years, maybe more.

Asked for details, he related with a grumble that he hoped "none of this stuff will go in any darned newspaper."

"Well, I made the eight-year grammar school course in five," he said, "but could do no better than the regular four-year course in Washington high. Honest, I'm sort of dumb, really, and luck is the only reason I can give for getting through school so soon."

The grammar school he had attended, Harvey explained, was Russellville, just outside the city limits of Portland. He had started at the customary age of six and had completed it before he was eleven.

"No, the folks had not taught me even the numerals before I started to school. I started right in with the rest of them," he said. Then it developed that Harvey's parents had both been born in Denmark and that little English was spoken in the home until he started grammar school.

Harvey, because of his age, never went out for athletics in high school but is out for the freshmen football team here. He expects also to go out for track and baseball. He lives with friends of his family on East fifteenth street.
