

DEAN EARL KILPATRICK TENDERS RESIGNATION

Extension Chief To Assume New Work January 1

Earl Kilpatrick, dean of the extension division and director of the Portland center of the University of Oregon, tendered his resignation, Saturday through the administrative committee, to the board of regents, effective January 1, 1926.

Dean Kilpatrick announced that he has resigned to accept an attractive staff position with a national agency in which he has long been interested.

Joining the extension staff in 1914, Dean Kilpatrick has organized and directed during the past 11 years, the work of this department through which the services of the University have been made available to the people of the state.

Last year at the invitation of Dr. Raoul Montandon, president of the Geographical Society of Geneva, he was appointed on a committee, international in scope, for the study of calamities and measures for their prevention.

Dean Kilpatrick assumed direct supervision of the Portland center in 1921, succeeding Dr. George Rebec, dean of the graduate school, in administration of the numerous Portland classes, which, with the annual summer session held in Lincoln high school, covers work in more than 100 courses carrying regular University credit.

He was graduated from the University of Oregon in 1909, enrolling from La Grande, and has been constantly active in the alumni organization, serving at one time as secretary and being at present a member of the alumni council.

He was recently offered a position as director of the extension activities of an eastern university, but he was unwilling to leave the University for work of a similar nature elsewhere, and has indicated he is accepting the new work because of its national scope and the wider opportunities it offers.

MISS BROWN TO SPEAK AT CONFERENCE HERE

Miss Marion A. Brown, dean of girls and vice-principal in the University high school, Oakland, California, has accepted an invitation to speak here before the high school conference, December 4 and 5.

Miss Brown is one of the best-known educators on the Pacific coast and is recognized by the foremost authorities of the country for her work, especially in the girls' and faculty branches.

Responding to a request from the school of education, Miss Brown has agreed to deliver three addresses during the two days of the conference. She will address the faculty division on some phase of student advisory work and will talk on girls' organization problems before the Association of Girl's Leagues. She will also speak before the Association of Student Body Officers.

Miss Brown is known on the campus having conducted a summer session course here during the past summer. At that time she gave instruction in problems and procedure for deans and advisors of girls.

As dean of girls, Miss Brown has supervision of all girls' work in the Oakland school, including academic guidance, vocational guidance, health, discipline, direction of social interests, and attendance. As vice-principal, she has general supervision of extra-curricular activities, including student government, clubs, class organizations, productions and social functions.

The school of 1,350 pupils, in which Miss Brown conducts her work, is administered by the University of California and the Oakland board of education. In her work there, Miss Brown has come into contact with almost every phase of student activity.

According to Prof. F. L. Stetson, of the school of education, Miss Brown is a brilliant speaker and has a wide range of knowledge concerning the subjects upon which she will speak.

Other outside speakers, including J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of schools, and a number of other Oregon educators, will have a place on the program, which is not yet completed. The student officers, editorial staffs, girls' league, and faculty programs are being worked out separately, each branch of discussion treating on the problems which will be of interest only to the individual groups.

PROFESSOR HONORED

Dr. R. J. Williams, of the chemistry department, was elected president of the Oregon section of the American Chemical Society at its meeting in Portland last Saturday.

Prof. H. G. Tanner, also of the chemistry department, received the office of secretary-treasurer. The next meeting of the society will be held at Portland in December.

Medical Student Tells Of Experience Before Entering The University

Time I went with the doctor, I intended to take the notes in another room having never had the courage to study a corpse. About the middle of the autopsy I became so interested I had to see what it was all about so I went in. Since then I have never been nervous about such things."

Blood Tests Important

Miss Edgar's most important work in the Portland hospital was taking transfusion blood tests. This required absolute concentration. The least inaccuracy in the blood test may cause the loss of a life.

Miss Edgar will graduate from the University next spring and she plans to attend the Portland Medical School in the fall. She is not decided as to the type of medical work she will follow.

TOWNSPEOPLE MAKE USE OF U. OF O. GYM

Swimming Courses, Hand- ball Now Offered

Among the Eugene townspeople who are availing themselves of the privileges of the physical education department of the University are a number of boys and girls 8 to 15 years old. Every Saturday morning, the boys go swimming in the men's tank under the supervision of juniors in the department of physical education.

Miss Florence D. Alden, instructor of the combined boys and girls class on Saturday morning, directs about sixty or seventy Eugene children in seasonal athletic games and contests of various sorts. The class starts at 9:00 o'clock. After their games, the boys go swimming. They are divided into two groups according to age, one of boys from 8 to 12, the other of boys up to 15.

Under the supervision of Arleigh Read and Harry Davis, both groups of boys are taught to swim, if they do not know how. Saturday morning in the men's dressing room, these youngsters give the impression of a young Fourth of July celebration in progress.

"No discrimination is made," said Harry A. Scott, head of the men's physical education department, "against townspeople who desire to use the gymnasium or swimming tank, provided the student classes are not interfered with. It is our policy to extend to outsiders, the facilities of the physical education department, and an effort is made to supply the demand for every form of exercise."

Besides the children, who pay a fee of fifty cents a term for towels and locker privileges, there is a class of Eugene business men who play handball three times a week in the outdoor gym. The tennis courts and golf links are at their disposal on the same conditions as for University students.

BEAUTY PARLOR

Opens in a Few Days

A new beauty parlor to be known as the Model Beauty Parlor, located at 817 Willamette Street, over the Green-Kilborn clothing store, will open about November 10. One of a chain of beauty parlors under the same management as the Model Beauty Parlor of Salem—one of the first to have an exclusive place for ladies hair-cutting on the coast. We employ experienced help only. The parlor will be under the direct management of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Mills, formerly of Iowa, but the last year employed at the Model at Salem, using the system of hair cutting inaugurated by H. A. Loveall, manager of the Model at Salem.

We have secured the services of Miss Gibson of Eugene which needs no introduction, as you all know her to be a first class operator and G. C. Robinson, formerly of Los Angeles, as an expert hair cutter.
