CAMPUS WRITERS TO DISCUSS NEW MAGAZINE TODAY

Tabard Inn and Pot and Quill To Meet With Students And Professors At 4:15

Former Fiction Publications Failures Owed To Lack Of Financial Resources

The feasibility of starting a new campus magazine will be discussed at a meeting to be held in 105 journalism at 4:15 this afternoon, under the auspices of Tabard Inn, of Sigma Epsilon, men writer's fraternity and Pot and Quill, women writers' fraternity.

All students and faculty members interested in the publication of a new magazine are asked to attend the meeting when several proposals for the new magazine will be advanced. This meeting will probably determine whether the University will have another publication, and if so the type of publication it will be.

No Literary Organ At Present

An inventory of the present campus publications taken from a recent Emerald editorial displays a meager list; "first the 'Hello Book,' yearly information and advice; the student and faculty 'Directory,' statistics; the 'Daily Emerald'; the annual 'Oregon'; and the monthly 'Old Oregon,' the latter an alumni magazine.

Twenty five years ago, with 300 students enrolled, a monthly magazine in addition to the weekly struggled bravely, but somewhere along the line it gave up the ghost. Pot and Quill, women writers' fraternity, recently published one issue of a literary magazine, "Green Ink," but it died in swaddling clothes.

Financial Difficulties Involved

Lemon Punch, the brain child of campus wits, died a recent ignoble death, and lies with grave unkept. A magazine of short stories, planned last year, got no farther than the brains of its projectors. No finances.

Last year, also, there was 'Emerald Ink,' a supplement promised in lieu of the extinct Sunday Emerald. Gone, gone, also a victim of financial disability on the part of the Emerald.

Another Emerald supplement planned for the present year seems to have followed the rest of the corpses with not enough money on hand to provide a decent funeral." The need of a magazine has been expressed by many. "The publication of a magazine would be one of the biggest steps toward attaining culture the campus could take," says Glen Burch, president of Tabard Inn. "It would stimulate the function of amateur poetry and creative writing on the campus. Practically all colleges of any size have a student magazine. The University has grown to the place where one is as necessary as a campus newspaper."

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED BY CAMPUS DEMOLAYS

The officers of the Councilor club, campus organization of DeMolays, who have been serving during the fall term of this school year were unanimously re-elected for the duration of the winter term at a meeting held last Wednesday afternoon at the Craftsman club.

The officers of the club are: Burton Nelson, president; Ed Johnson, master counselor; Ed Brown, senior counselor; Milo Hempy, junior counselor; William Schulze, scribe; and Ed Best, treasurer.

The installation of officers will take place at a luncheon at the Campa Shoppe next Tuesday noon. Tickets are not being sold for the affair, but each one will order his own meal separately. The club has extended an invitation to all DeMolays on the campus to be present at the luncheon, and announcements to this effect are being made at the various living organizations.

Food Preparation Course Is Praised By English Farmer

It is a far cry from the Emerald to Leicester, England, but a cowman, working on a farm there, bridged it when he wrote to express his appreciation of the courses in food selection and preparation given by Miss Lillian Tingle, head of the home economics department here. The writer stated that he had read the article in the Boston Christian Science Monitor, which had copied the article from the Emerald.

The letter gives a glimpse of the terrible food conditions existing in England today. Hedgehogs and other unfit material are being used for food because of shortage. The writer expresses the wish that there were "more women like Miss Tingle" to help people along these lines.

HIGH SCHOOL SESSIONS AT OREGON WELCOMED

Plans for Big Conference In December Outlined

An unparalleled opportunity for service to the high schools of the state is seen in the high school conference to be held on the campus December 4 and 5. At a meeting of the full conference committee held last night speakers outlined plans for the sessions.

"There is no more significant occasion on this campus than this conference," said Professor Powers, assistant director of the extension division, in addressing the committee. "These 500 delegates come down here to get something and it is up to us to see that they get it."

Walter Malcolm, president of the student body, told the committee members that the impression the university makes will be important.

The administration of the University, through Karl Onthank, pledged support to the conference.

Each committee chairman reported that all details were being taken care of in advance of the conference. Welcoming students, housing them, entertaining them at the banquet and college night, were the topics discussed by the chairman in charge of each division of the work.

Adrienne Hazard, chairman of the booklet committee, announced that copy is nearly all in for a snappy, sixteen-page booklet to be given the delegates and for use during the year. The book will contain, besides appropriate writings, pictures of the campus and a number of ink pictures.

Anna DeWitt announced the program for the girls' league division which is being sponsored by the Woman's League. One of the features of this part of the conference will be the annual style show, which will be held Saturday morning December 5, in Guild Hall.

Carl Dahl, general chairman of the directorate, insisted that each committee continue to do its allotted part.

ONIONS ARE STUDIED BY SENIOR IN ZOOLOGY

Onions are being grown by John Eberhart, senior in the zoology department, in an attempt to determine the chemical processes underlying the growth of plants and to measure the progress made by the onions each day.

The onion sets are placed in a solution which contains all the food elements necessary for growth, and an accurate record of the increase in size and changes in development is kept. Bull plants are best for this experiment because they are larger and easier to watch. This is a new experiment, and if it does not produce the desired information some other problem will be used, Oscar Richards, of the zoology department explained.

DANGER FACING MODERN YOUTH SEEN BY BISHOP

Modesty, Conventionality and Formality Safeguards, Says Rev. W. T. Sumner

Plea Made For Observation Of 'Ten Commandments,' Decalogue Not Legend

Maintaining that informality and unconventionality do not necessarily spell immorality, Rt. Rev. Walter T. Sumner, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Oregon, in his assembly address yesterday expressed his absolute confidence in the youth of today. In opposition to the present attack on youth which he declared to be world wide, Bishop Sumner said that youth today is just as moral, as it was in the days of his youth or any previous generation, if not more so.

Bishop Sumner made a plea to the students for more modesty, conventionality and formality, which, he said, were safeguards. He called for greater cooperation on the part of students with their parents, warning students to listen to their elders until such time they are able to prove by experience that they are right in their actions.

Many Believe In Youth

"There are those who believe in youth. Be as good as they believe," Bishop Sumner pleaded. "Those who revolt against convention, which society has placed as a safeguard to all, are doing a tremendous injustice by spreading their influence to those who are not so stable. It is a reflection on fathers and mothers and an injustice to themselves, although the actions may be meaningless and innocent on the transgressors' part."

"The Ten Commandments," the speaker concluded, "are not legends; they are still the commandments of God, and those who violate them will pay the penalty. Why we fail so in our life is because of a spiritual convention, based on some convention of a religious nature, therefore I make a plea that each of you have some form of religious convention."

Musical Numbers Given

Two highly appreciated numbers were sung by Vivian Woodside, mezzo-soprano. Alfred Powers, assistant director of the extension division, outlined plans for the annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross, giving the functions of the Red Cross in time of peace. Steele Winterer is in charge of the enrollment, which will take place all day Tuesday. Mr. Powers urged all students to join. Dean John Straub presided at the assembly, and Dean H. D. Sheldon introduced the speaker.

GREAT NORTHERN MEN TO ADDRESS CLASSES

Officials of the Great Northern railway will address economics classes on the campus this afternoon on the subject of the Northwest railway situation. A public meeting will be held at 7:30 in the Eugene Chamber of Commerce rooms.

The railway party consists of M. L. Countryman, St. Paul, vice-president and general counsel of the Great Northern railway; and S. D. Morris, Chicago, assistant to the chairman of public relations for all railways west of Chicago.

SOPHOMORE WITHDRAWS

David Adolph, a sophomore in the school of business administration, returned to his home in Salem Wednesday on account of poor health resulting from a bronchial cold. Mr. Adolph is a member of Kappa Sigma.

IMPORTANT MEETING!

Order of "O" will meet at men's Gym. Every letterman on the campus must be there, very important.

Students To View Cardinal-Bear Mix Over Grid-Graph

Dancing To Be Held Between Halves

Oregon football fans, who crave the thrills which come from watching two strong eleven fight for supremacy, will have this opportunity Saturday when the Stanford Cardinal mixes with the Oregon Bear in Palo Alto, declared Louie Anderson, president of the Order of the "O," yesterday.

This game will be pictured in minutest details on the grid-graph in the Woman's building tomorrow, starting promptly at 2:30, it is announced.

The plans for the afternoon call for a dance to start the afternoon's festivities. Dancing will commence at 2:00 o'clock and continue until 5:30.

Tickets for the grid-graph can be obtained at the door for a nominal sum. "Chuck" Jost and Ted Gillenwaters will take charge of the tickets and the operation of the grid-graph.

A special meeting of all Oregon lettermen will be held at 12:45 today in the men's gymnasium in order to formulate more complete plans, the president announced.

'YELLOW FANG' KILLED; PUBLISHERS LOSE $60

Sigma Delta Chi "Holding Sack" After Plans Fail

Who censored Yellow Fang? "Not I," said the Prof. "By my pencil and golf, did not censor Yellow Fang."

A funeral or a sale of the remains, is the question facing the committee of Sigma Delta Chi which published the Yellow Fang. There remains a vigorous editorial policy, the committee says, a slight biased news service, a sad case of chagrin, 2000 Yellow Fangs and a $60 printing bill. Sigma Delta Chi holds the sack.

Before the Yellow Fangs were published, plans were agreed upon by which the Sigma Delta Chi committee would work in conjunction with the homecoming rally committee. The rally committee was to distribute the papers, help get them out and share the expenses. sight the homecoming chairman was not notified of this arrangement. No place was left on the program for the sale of the Yellow Fangs, which were censored by "the powers," late in the day. Consequently they were not sold and Sigma Delta Chi holds the $60.

The publishing committee announces 2000 guaranteed pure, censored, cut and re-cut, Yellow Fangs for sale. Soon the campus may hear the cry, "Extra, Extra, send a copy home to the family."

THREE COLLEGES NEED ZOOLOGY INSTRUCTORS

Three calls for men teachers of college zoology have been received recently by Dr. H. B. Yocum, of the biology department. They were issued by Washington State College, the University of Wyoming, and the University of Hawaii. Dr. C. H. Edmondson, a former assistant professor of biology at the University of Oregon, who is now at the University of Hawaii, sent the request from that place.

Dr. Yocum points out that the idea that medicine is the only field for students trained in zoology is a mistaken one, and that demands for zoology instructors are constantly being received.

LAST DAY OF WITHDRAWALS

Today is the last day that a student may withdraw from the University without a special petition signed by the registrar's office. Any student who fails to make the proper arrangements with officials before leaving school will be given a grade of "F" in all courses.

MORTAR BOARD WOMEN ARRIVE FOR CONVENTION

Eloise Buck Is Arranging Full Week-End Program To Entertain Visitors

Saturday Will Be Devoted To Sight-Seeing, Dinner, And Business Meeting

Mortar Board, senior women's national honorary, is holding its biennial Section Convention on the University of Oregon campus this week end, November 21. Representatives are expected from the University of Idaho, Washington State College, and of Washington University. Those delegates who are expected to attend are: Margaret Bement, Washington State College; Ruth Zornes, University of Idaho, and Susan Seefeld, Marian Robb, and five other alumnae and active members will represent the University of Washington.

Women To Arrive Today

The visiting delegates are expected to arrive this afternoon and tomorrow morning. They will be entertained at various living organizations here. It is especially urged by Miss Eloise Buck, president of Mortar Board here, that every house extend these girls the utmost cordiality. They are leaders on their respective campuses, she pointed out, and will undoubtedly carry their impressions of Oregon to their colleges. Marian Robb, a representative from University of Washington, is editor of one of the student publications there.

Week-End Program Arranged

The first thing which has been planned for the convention program is a campus tour which will be Saturday morning. At noon the girls will be entertained at lunch by the various houses. Then from 1:00 to 3:00 p. m. a business meeting will be held. At three there will be a tea given in the honor of the guests at Alumni Hall. Kwama will serve at this affair. From 4:00 to 5:00 the business meeting will be resumed. At 6:30 a formal dinner will be given at the Eugene Hotel.

Mortar Board was installed here in 1923, having been known as a local here by the name of "Scroll and Script." Only senior women of the highest standing and most prominence in student activities are elected to its membership. This organization elects in the spring at Junior Week-end here.

PHYSICAL TEST GIVEN 51 MEN PASSED BY 45

Forty-five men, mostly freshmen and sophomores, successfully passed the physical ability test given in the men's gymnasium Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Fifty-one took the test.

Bill Cushman, with 82 points, scored high for the day. Ray Jost, with 73, and Louis Bonney, scoring 72, were close behind, however, W. A. Woods captured fourth place among the day's candidates, finishing with 7 points.

The test is composed of five events; the rope climb, high jump, bar vault, a 192-yard sprint, followed by the swim. This event, which calls for the candidate to swim five lengths of the tank, one on his back, proves the hardest obstacle to surmount. Ed Kier, freshman, made exceptional time in this event. He finished in 1 minute, 20 3/4 seconds. Ben Lombard, time 1 minute, 9 seconds, hold the all-time record in this trial.

Bill Cushman and Louis Bonney each went over feet in the bar vault. The record, 6 feet 10, is held by Don Woodward.

ATTENTION!

Meeting of heads of all men's living organizations 5 o'clock today, room 1, basement of Administration building.

Seven Out of Eight Law Graduates Are Now Established

Of the eight students who completed the law course, last year, all but one are practicing law, many in their home towns.

Ted Kurashige is practicing law in Pearl City, Hawaii.

Armond H. Fachz is the member of a law firm at Baker, Oregon.

James H. Ross has established a law office at Toledo, Oregon, his home.

Marion Dickey, of Portland, is practicing law in Portland.

Three students who did not receive their degrees from the University, but last summer passed the examination and were admitted to the bar are:

James K. King, Prineville, who has become a member of the Eugene firm of Potter and Foster; Margaret White, Portland; Jean Du Paul, San Diego, California, who expects to locate in Portland.

FRESH HOOP SQUAD TO BEGIN WORK NEXT TERM

Large Turnout Is Expected By Coach Leslie

Freshman basketball practice will not officially start until the beginning of next term. Complications which make it impossible to get the men's gymnasium at a desired time is the main cause for the few weeks delay. Doughnut basketball, which is played each afternoon, is now in the middle of the second round and it will probably be several weeks before the champions of this series is determined.

Yearling football was completed last Friday with the Oregon Aggie Rook game at Corvallis. A number of freshman football men intend to report for basketball. The coaches think that a few weeks rest will do the men good. In addition to men who have been playing football, a number of freshman are playing with teams in the Doughnut league.

According to Coach "Spike" Leslie, he wishes all men intending to report for freshman basketball to play basketball during their spare time. He wants the men to be accustomed to handling the ball. Practice will start in earnest after the Christmas holidays. Early work will consist largely of fundamentals and a general conditioning of the men. A large turnout is expected when the first call is issued and coach Leslie will have several assistants to give personal help.

The first year men's schedule is now being arranged. This will include four games with the O. A. C. Rooks, possibly two with the University of Washington babes and a number with strong high school and minor college fives of the state.

LATIN STUDENT VIEW INTERESTING SLIDES

A trip over the Appian way, through the forum of Rome and up to historic Capitoline hill was the experience of members of the Latin club at a regular club meeting held Wednesday evening, at 7:30, in room 107 Oregon building.

At this time Professor Frederic S. Dunn, head of the Latin department, showed stereopticon slides to illustrate his lecture, "A Trip Through Rome." Professor Dunn has been in Rome and was able to give his own experiences and impressions.

Ruins of majestic tombs, the Claudian aqueducts, great towers guarding the walls of Rome, the Circus Maximus, the Coliseum in which gladiatorial combats were staged, the arch of Titus, Capitoline hill and the statue of Marcus Aurelius were among the slides shown.

The speaker was introduced by Francis F. Powers, president of the club, who spoke a few words in appreciation of the work of Professor Dunn.

MANY ASPIRANTS FOR FIRST SQUAD ON MAPLE COURT

Five Lettermen Available; Members Of Last Year's Second Team Promising

Newly Designed Basketball Shoe Overcomes Usual Arch And Ankle Trouble

The lure of the maple court is now drawing its quota of athletes who are turning their attention towards the coming basketball season. At 5:00 o'clock each evening, 35 men are reporting for the preliminary workout. Of the 35 men working out, 5 are lettermen from last year's successful team, Hobson, Gillenwaters, Gunther, Jost and Westergren.

A number of promising candidates for this year's quintet are from the varsity second team of last year. In addition to these, a number of men from last year's freshman team are out for varsity berths. Powers, Joy, Walker, Beeny, and Eberhart are reporting regularly. Three men from the varsity squad who are now playing football will report after the completion of the season, namely, Carter, Kiminki and Reynolds.

Fundamentals Practiced

Practice for the rest of this month will consist solely of conditioning and the learning of fundamentals. The fundamentals of the hoop game are strongly emphasized by Coach Rinehart. He believes that a team with the beginning points of the game will develop into a scoring machine. Conditioning of the men is another one of the big problems confronted by the coach. Basketball practically takes more intensive training than any other branch of college athletics.

According to the coach, prospects for a winning season look very good. He added, however, that it was nearly impossible to make any definite season forecast at the beginning of practice. Roy Okerberg, star center from last year's hoopers and choice of many sports writers for all-coast center berth, was working out with the varsity Tuesday. Okerberg is not in school but has been visiting on the campus for several days. In speaking of the possibility of Okerberg's return next term, Coach Rinehart said, "there is some possibility of Okerberg's return next sible chance but as yet nothing definite."

New Special Shoe Used

A trouble that confronted every player early in the season last year—mainly foot trouble is being overcome this year by the use of the newly designed basketball shoe by Oregon's versatile coach. This piece of footwear is strongly supported with an arch support, ankle supports, and cushion insoles. The sole of the shoe is baked to the upper which is made of much stronger but lighter material than the ordinary shoe. This shoe has become a permanent basketball equipment and all varsity aspirants are equipped with such.

The possibilities of a barnstorming trip during the Christmas holidays is still hanging free. There are, however, some chances of a state or out of state Christmas vacation tour.

BRUCE CURRY ELECTED CRAFTSMAN CLUB HEAD

Bruce Y. Curry, a student in the University law school, was elected as president of the Craftsman club at the regular monthly meeting of the club last night. William Fritz was elected as tyler. It was announced at the meeting that the Craftsman club degree team will confer the third degree in the Springfield Lodge next Tuesday evening, November 24.

Before the meeting, a dinner in the banquet hall of the club house was given to the members. Several vocal solos were rendered by David John Jones, superintendent of the Eugene public schools.
