

SCRIBES TO SUE FOR $60 LOSSES ON YELLOW FANG

Sigma Delta Chi Alleges Homecoming Committee Cancels Selling Permit

Moot Court To Hear Case Early In Winter Term; Real Judge May Preside

Following an unsatisfactory attempt to reach a basis of settlement with the Homecoming committee, Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism fraternity, last night announced its intention of suing the Homecoming committee for $60.00 damages which the scribes allege is due them because of the committee's refusal to permit the sale of the Yellow Fang during the Homecoming rally.

This move on the part of Sigma Delta Chi was made known following a meeting of members of Sigma Delta Chi, Homecoming and Student Body officials, who it appears, were unable to agree on the responsibility for the affair.

Censors Delay Publication

The Yellow Fang, mud slinging publication, was published Saturday afternoon and evening of Homecoming, and because of unreasonable censorship, according to the scribes, printing of the Fang was delayed to the extent of making sale at the rally impossible.

The Homecoming committee, in defense, contend that the censorship of the Fang was warranted; and that late printing was due to Sigma Delta Chi's lack of organization and preparation.

Present at the meeting last night when the attempted reconciliation fell down were James Leake, chairman of Homecoming, and James Forestel, chairman of the rally committee, both representing the Homecoming committee; Walter Malcolm, student body president, representing the associated students; Harold Kirk, president of Sigma Delta Chi and Edward Miller, Emerald editor, both representing Sigma Delta Chi.

Judge May Preside

Trial will probably take place the first of the winter term when the moot court season for campus lawyers finds its inception. An attempt will be made to secure Judge Skipworth to preside, it was said.

Because of the claim made by certain persons that faculty members aided and abetted the censorship and because of the large number of student officials involved in the case, it may be expected that campus-wide interest will be attracted by the affair.

NEW OFFICE OF DEAN OF MEN IS ALTERED

A few nails, several cans of paint, and a trip to Portland after furniture, are the details that remain to be done before H. Walker, dean of men, moves into his new office, which is really Dean Esterly's old one.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Esterly moved her headquarters to the old psychology room in the Administration building.

Dean Walker intends to move during the Thanksgiving vacation if the necessary carpentry is completed by that time.

Mrs. Clara Fitch, secretary of the Administrative office, will occupy Dean Walker's present location on the second floor of the Administration building.

These changes have been contemplated since the beginning of the school year, but owing to the fact that extensive remodeling was necessary they have not been made.

FACULTY RECEIVE RATES

The finance committee of the Associated Students of the University of Oregon have decided to sell season tickets for the concert series to faculty members for $4.00. The price otherwise would be $8.00. This does not apply to the members of the faculty having A. S. U. O. membership tickets.

Gray Dusk Descends on Hayward as Team Cheers in Farewell

Members of Oregon Varsity, who Never Again Will Play Before Home Crowd, Give 'Three' As Local Football Careers Come to An End

By Harold Mangum

Dusk descended on the football field like a grey mantle gently floating down, last night, and a little knot of Oregon men in tattered blue jerseys formed in a cluster and gave three cheers for Hayward field.

A trifling incident, probably done in a spirit of horseplay, but it signifies that those Oregon men have dug their cleats into the shifting sand of Hayward for the last time. Never again will they face Oregon's athletic foes before a home crowd. That incident, trifling enough, meant a lot to those men.

Four years ago they entered college as freshmen. Then they all had dreams of championship teams, and hopes of representing Oregon and Pacific coast football in the annual classic at Pasadena. Now those hopes are memories. Due to mistakes, both of commission and omission, and the stern nod of Fate, that glory has been denied them. Winning or losing, they have practiced faithfully night after night, season after season, and now it's all over.

Much has been said about Oregon spirit both this season and in past seasons. Perhaps too much. But Oregon spirit and Oregon fight are factors that have to be reckoned with.

Last year, Washington had a better team than they have this year, and were everywhere picked as championship certainties. You remember how they invaded the Oregon campus that rainy day in November, 1924, and the result—their hopes were nipped in the bud when an Oregon team, filled with Oregon fight, rose triumphant.

Those twenty-nine players didn't leave for Seattle last night to be beaten. Man for man, the Oregon team compares almost favorably with the Huskies. The teams use practically the same plays. In case this game resolves, as other Oregon-Washington games have in the past, into a knockdown and drag-out, man for man battle, with neither side giving or accepting quarter, anything can happen—anything is very likely to happen.

Remember David and Goliath—and Oregon doesn't need a bean-shooter!

STUDENTS GIVE $350 IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Roll Call Is Held Success By Chairman Winterer

Although the final count had not yet been made, more than $350 were contributed to the Red Cross Roll Call yesterday, according to a statement made last night by Steele Winterer, chairman of the drive.

The amount subscribed through booths located at the new and old libraries and the administration building, was slightly more than $200. The remaining amount was collected by representatives in the living organizations and halls.

The result of the Roll Call was considered by Mr. Winterer and Walter Malcolm, student body president, to be successful, considering the facts that the drive was for a very limited time and immediately preceded the Thanksgiving vacation.

F. L. Amitage, Eugene Red Cross representative, expressed pleasure over the results of the drive to the committee.

The committee in charge wished to express their appreciation of the work done by the representatives on the campus and to the students who contributed, Mr. Winterer announced.

FRESHMAN CAPTURES LEGION ESSAY CONTEST

William Cruikshank, a 17-year old freshman in business administration, has won first place in Oregon in a state essay contest conducted by the American Legion. The silver medal to be given the winner in each state will be formally presented to Cruikshank through the local American Legion Post at the regular assembly, Thursday December 3, according to announcement made yesterday.

Cruikshank wrote the essay, he said, more for credit in his high school English course than with the idea of winning the state contest. The subject of the 500-word paper is "Why Has the American Legion, an organization of veterans of the World War, dedicated itself first of all to uphold and defend the constitution of the United States of America?"

Cruikshank, by winning the state contest, is eligible to receive a national prize.

CLOSE COMPETITION IN SWIMMING MEET

Frosh Fourth Team Wins Hard Fought Contest

The scores for last night's swimming meets: freshman fourth team 42, fifth team 4, and freshman second 32; junior second 19, do not allow for a fair interpretation of the contests. Every event was hard fought; difference between first and second place winners were slight. Competition was so close as to bring real rooting from the rest of the team members and spectators. Although the meets were not conspicuous for their form and speed, they showed the first real spirit of rivalry and fight of the contests held so far this season.

Maude Moore, of the freshman first team was high point winner of the meets with 15 points in all. Winifred Weter of the same team came in second with 13 points. Louise Storka of the freshman second team was third with 10 points.

The senior and sophomore first teams proved their superiority over the second class teams in meets last Friday night. The senior first team won from the senior second by a score of 38 to 21, and the sophomore first from the sophomore second by a score of 37 to 25.

According to the time made in these meets and in the meet held Wednesday between the freshmen and juniors, the seniors have the best chance of winning the finals.

Only points won in competing with other first class teams will be considered, however, in determining the champion team of the contests, says Miss E. Troemel, swimming coach. This means that the points which a first class team amasses in contest with a second team, will not be considered in counting the points of the first team for the swimming championship.

THEATRE ACTIVITY REVIVED

This year the drama and speech arts division of the English department is endeavoring to forward the idea of the Guild Theatre group as a student activity to be included among the other campus activities, such as the Emerald, W. A. A. and debate.

One program is to be given by the department this term. Plans are to be made to have two entire castes for each play produced, enabling a larger number to take active part in the department work. All the costumes and sets are being designed by the play production class, which has only ten members.

University Debate Work To Continue During Vacation

While most of the students are leaving this afternoon for their homes and an enjoyable vacation time with Thanksgiving dinner, parties, and renewal of acquaintanceships in their respective communities, some of the students are remaining in Eugene because their homes are too far away.

Little studying will be done among the student body at large but five men on the University debate squad will be training intensively for the first intercollegiate debate which comes with O. A. C. on Thursday, December 10. Under J. Stanley Gray, they will meet daily for rebuttal practice and delivery for the grueling mental contest with the O. A. C. orators.

The men are a part of the varsity squad to be used this year. They are: Benoit McCroskey, B. V. Ludington, Jack P. McGuire, and Herschel Brown, with Donald Beelar, alternate to be used in case of necessity.

DEAN CONDEMNS ITALY FOR CENSORING NEWS

Suppression By Mussolini Results in Unbelief

What is the ethics or political expediency of the wholesale suppression of newspapers by Mussolini, premier of Italy, and the Fascist party? When Eric W. Allen, dean of the University school of journalism, was confronted with this question, he said:

"One of the penalties that Mussolini must pay for his policy toward the press is that no one anywhere in the world can read Italian news with any confidence that it is fair and unbiased. It can be taken as certain the Italian news is uniformly more favorable to the Fascists than the facts justify. Just what happened recently in Italy no one outside of that country can say with any confidence, and possibly we shall never know. There may have been an attempt to overthrow the Savoy dynasty. On the other hand, it is extremely likely that whatever happened is being greatly distorted to create an impression at home and abroad favorable to the Mussolini regime.

"If Mussolini wants the world to believe the news that comes out of Italy at its face value, he should change his attitude toward the press. We can trust our press services to do their best under the circumstances, but getting news in Italy unfavorable to the present arbitrary and violent government is no easy task.

"I saw a little something of how the suppression of news was working in Italy when I was there two years ago. And since then I have believed that the idolaters of Mussolini, and these appear to be many in all countries, are people who are easily fooled by propaganda.

"Italy has had many Mussolinis in its long history, but this is the first time one has succeeded in convincing the world that he is an angel of progress, of justice, and of modern civilized ideas."

BOOKS ADDED TO SHELF

"One Increasing Purpose," the most recent book of A. S. M. Hutchinson, has been added to the rent collection of the library. Other new books placed on the rent shelf are: "The Confession of a Fool," by August Strindberg; "Five Oriental Tales," by Comte de Gobineau; "The Road," by Hilaire Belloc; "The New Age of Faith," by John Langdon Davies; "The Hounded Man," by Francis Cargo; "Two Lives," by William Ellery Leonard; "Prairie," by Walter J. Millen; "God Head," by Leonard Cline; "Christina Alberta's Father," by H. G. Wells; "Across the Moon," by Hamish Macleod; "Island of the Great," by G. Hauptmann; "The Enormous Room," by E. E. Cummings; "Daughters of Fire," by G. DeNerval; and "Elder Sister," by Swinerton.

CHURCH ANGLE ON HIGH PRICE OF HATE GIVEN

Hubert Herring Deplores Religious Strife Among Various Denominations

Lecturer Will Give Talks Before Sociology Majors On Subject Of Balkans

"Duties of education and religion are to have an energized conscience and a determination not to accept things as they are, but to shake them up so they will come out aright. You see what you are trained to see and you hear what you are trained to hear. Let us hear the hate in the world today," said Hubert C. Herring, secretary of the commission on social service of the National Congregational council, in his address, "The High Price of Hate," in Guild hall last night.

Strikes Described

The speaker told of the former deplorable strife along the water front in Seattle, which resulted in a series of strikes and lockouts. "Then," he said, "came the new desire of employers working with employees to attempt to find the common ground of their interests, continuity and security. That is a most hopeful situation. I feel we are coming to a new era in the relationships between capital and labor.

"The protestants have made fools of themselves by dividing up into different groups," Mr. Herring declared. He told of a Montana town in which he had visited that had a population of but 160 people and an equal amount in the surrounding country, which had four different churches fighting for supremacy. He also deplored the bad relations existing between Catholic and Protestant churches since the war.

Two Meetings Today

This morning Mr. Herring will address two sociology classes, one, Kimball Young's 9 o'clock section which meets in room 101 of McClure hall, and the other, Dean Young's 10 o'clock class which meets in room 101 of the sociology building. The Balkan situation will be discussed before Dr. Young's class. All those interested are invited to attend.

MANY UNUSUAL NAMES IN STUDENT DIRECTORY

Campus statisticians found something new on which to center their interest when the student directory came off the press. Not only was their interest attracted to cold figures, but every unusual feature of names did not escape them.

The Smiths who led the list in the directory with 28 names last year have fallen down to 22, forfeiting the lead to the Johnsons who number 24 strong. Jones is third with 16.

Those whose names bear an analogy with professions of life are not lacking, either in number or variety. Packers, Porters, Barbers, Millers, Hunters, Taylors, and Carpenters are in prominence, while King, Potter, Monk, Alderman, Duke, Pope, Harper, Weaver and Mason are also there, but in lesser numbers.

"Oskies" At Train Speed Team After Strong Husky Gang

More than 500 students gave the members of the football team a rousing send-off when they boarded a north bound train for Seattle, and the game with the Huskies Thursday, at 6:30 o'clock last night. Yell King Martin and Yell Duke Warner led the cheers. No speeches were given by members of the team, or the coaching staff; nor were any pep talks given by the yell staff. The 29 gridiron men making the trip, however, appeared in a determined mood to win. As the special pulled out of the station, an "Oskie" was given.

BETAS-OREGON CLUB DOUGHNUT VICTORS

Basketeers Last Tilt Set For Coming Week

Displaying a fighting form in the final seconds before the timer's whistle stopped the game the Beta Theta Pi aggregation of basketeers yesterday handed Sigma Chi its first defeat of the season taking the long end of a 17 to 12 count. In the second game Oregon club ran rampant and drew a win over Sigma Nu 23 to 9.

Both games showed some clever manipulation of ball carrying and running. Players on all teams carried the ball for considerable yardage, but this yardage availed nothing and referee Spike Leslie was watching with a wary eye and calling a foul for each attempt to rush. Several points were made by this method in the Beta-Sigma Chi game.

This game was the closest and hardest fought of the two and during the first half both teams played par ball. However, when the whistle sounded for the second, Beauty Poole, tore through the defense and broke the tie. From here on the battling Beta's fought to victory. They seemed to possess a spirit which guided them on to victory. This spirit came, however, from the words hurled at them by their dynamic midget coach, "Swede" Westergren. This star coach kept his team fighting throughout. "Plunks" Reinhart, coach for the Sigma Chi tried his best to keep him men going but could not outwit the Beta flash. Epps and Toole shone for the Beta Theta Pi team while Westphal and Slasson did likewise for the Sigma Chi's.

In the second game the Oregon club led by Boyer and Sharp scored enough in the first half to put the game on ice. The Sigma Nu team tried vainly to overcome this first half lead, but was not capable of the task set before them. However, the Dahl brothers made a creditable account of themselves during the game.

This concludes the doughnut games for this week, but starting next Tuesday the final round will be run off.

DATES FOR ANNA CASE MAY BE OBTAINED NOW

Any living organization which might desire to have Anna Case, noted soprano, who will be here for a concert on December 1, as a dinner or luncheon guest, can make arrangements with Jimmy Leake. It will be a case of first come, first served, as she will be here only a short time, and any one interested must see about it immediately.

Anna Case likes college people. Two years ago, when she gave a concert here, she attended a dance at the College Side Inn where she was literally the "life of the party." She gave the feature by singing a few songs, and enjoyed herself immensely. She will be here Tuesday, December 1, and will very likely stay over until Wednesday.

HOMEcoming SETS RECORD

Figures compiled in the office of the alumni secretary, Jeannette Calkins, show that 183 more alumni registered at Homecoming this year than last. There are always a number of returned graduates who do not register, but it is a small minority. In 1924, there were 385 registered and this year approximately 548.

FINAL WHISTLE SOUNDS; GRID PRACTICE ENDS

Hard Training Evident In Team Play; Two Full Squads Are Making Trip

Attendance Is Expected To Exceed 25,000; New Plays Are To Be Used

An hours' work on signal running and a half hour of dummy scrimmage wound up the final practice for the season and put the finishing touches on three months of hard drill. Hayward field is relegated to the darkness that has closed every practice this fall.

"The men are in the best of condition. They are peppy. There is no staleness. Every man who is entering the game has been working on the team. This week is the first time in the whole season that the men who entered the game have been able to practice together before the game," were the final words of Baz Williams.

Game Means Much to Team

The game Thanksgiving day in the big University of Washington Stadium means a lot to the varsity. If the team can hold and get the better of that powerful Husky machine it will be enough to wipe out the defeats of the season with one clean sweep.

The morale of the team is high. It is difficult for a team to go through the season with the morale of the team still up. The team is full of snap. There is no drooping of spirit. So the eleven which will be led out on the field by Captain Bob Mautz will be in the best mental and physical shape that it has been in this fall. It ought to give the coast champions a mighty hard battle.

New Plays Perfected

The team has been taking light workouts for the last week and a half. The hard rough scrimmage work is useless at this time of the year so signal work and dummy scrimmage was run through to perfect the new plays to be used against the Huskies. New plays have been added to the repertoire of the team after every game so that quarterback Louie Anderson will have a list of puzzlers to pull on the northerners in the coming game.

Two full teams worked out last night on Hayward field. The material in those two teams was exceptional in the history of Oregon football. One team was as versatile and as fast as the other. There was power, and brawn in both. The curtain rings down on the home gridiron. There were punters, line plungers, centers, linemen, passers, ends, and everything that makes a team. The team measures up with anything that Washington will send into the game.

Thirty Making Trip

Thirty men were taken along on the trip and it is probable that all of them will play in the Thanksgiving classic.

The game is attracting attention in Seattle and advance sales of tickets show that the attendance will be over 25,000. It is the only big game of the northwest in which the enthusiasts behind the Huskies will have to see them in action.

Super Work Expected

Coach Dick Smith has drilled the team in some new stuff that will be opened up against Bagshaw's men. The Washington coach is taking no chances. He has worked his team hard for this game and is sending in his first team to start the game. His supervarsity under the coaching of Bart Spellman has been tearing up the regular varsity in scrimmage. Players on the team state that the attack of Oregon as represented in the supervarsity is the most versatile and deceptive that they have met this year.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Kappa Alpha Theta announces the pledging of Mildred Stevens of Detroit, Michigan.
