

VOLLEYBALL PLAY-OFF SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Sophomores And Juniors To Battle for Title

The result of the victory over the freshman second team last Wednesday tied the sophomores and juniors for the volleyball championship. The play-off is set for December 9, at 5:10 in the Woman's building.

Because of the experience and skill of the players of both teams, this promises to be one of the most intense contests of the volleyball season. Each has lost one game, the juniors to the sophomores and the sophomores to the freshmen. The sophomores are regarded as more steady and dependable than the juniors.

Nellie Johns because of her spectacular and expert serve, is considered one of the strongest sophomore players. Her balls are very swift, and drop in a sharp curve as soon as they have skimmed the net, resembling the difficult balls served by a tennis player. Harriet Osborn has a smashing two-handed return and is dexterous in picking up balls close to the floor. Eleanor Marvin's hard stroke makes her a dangerous opponent. Geneva Zimmer and Ruth Scott, have excellent team work; they cover their ground well and give splendid support to their partners. Juanita Dietz, also plays with good team work.

Of the junior team, Nellie Best and Margaret Pepon are outstanding players. Nellie Best has a swift two-handed return which sends the ball low over the net, and directly to the floor. Margaret Pepon has a swift serve which has been known to intimidate even experienced players. Katherine Schnell plays a dependable steady game. Eleanor Fargher and Rhona Williams play smashing but rather uneven games.

CAMPUS JOURNALISTS ACTIVE IN NEWS WORK

Eleven students enrolled in the school of journalism are doing professional work for newspapers this year. The work includes reporting, sport writing, publicity work, and society editing. Following is the list: Eddie Smith, correspondent for the Oregonian; Dick Eckman, correspondent for the Portland Journal and the Seattle Post-Intelligencer; Sam Wilderman, University sports writer for the Oregonian and Guard, and publicity man for the Associated Students; Parker Branin, correspondent for the Portland Telegram; Dick Godfrey, correspondent for the Seattle Times and reporter for the Register; Marian Lowry, society editor and proof-reader for the guard; Barbara Blythe, campus reporter for the Guard; Malcolm Epley, reporter for the Springfield News; Webster Jones, reporter for the Register; Jalmar Johnson, Reporter for the Register.

LAW EXAMS LENGTHY

Even though the fall term examinations in the law school are three hours long, and last from Monday to Friday, the students have their compensation in the fact that they are at liberty to intersperse the period with frequent intervals, when the men usually gather outside for a change of atmosphere and a few puffs of a cigarette. The examinations are conducted entirely on the honor system. The professor writes the questions on the board and departs. The students then go to any part of the building they wish to write the examination.

PINK POODLE LIKES CO-EDS; PLEDGES KAPPA DELTA PHI

"Billy" Shows Preference For Journalism School; Meets Owners After Classes

Caesar, the Kappa Sig wire-haired terrier, you will recall, is a woman-hater. He's a gruff old soul for everybody but the men. But Billy, the pink poodle of Kappa Delta Phi, is different, in disposition, as well as in color.

Billy's pinkness, of course, sets him apart from other dogs, even from other poodles; and besides, he has no special objection to the women.

Originally this particular poodle was white; and the story of how he was dyed early in the term to suit the artistic ideas of his new owners, has already been told. His wool was dyed red, after some discussion of decorating him in the University colors for Homecoming. As he is now, a blue ribbon about his neck will just about fit him for the Fourth of July. So when Homecoming came, the red which had faded to pink, was allowed to remain.

Billie has been at the Kappa

Delta Phi house since a week after the fall term opened. It is believed he either was dropped from a car going through Eugene, or that his owners have moved away, for he never shows any inclination to leave his present home, where he is happy and amiable.

The journalism school seems to be Billie's favorite and he is often seen sitting outside a classroom waiting for one of his owners. A woman was the owner of Billie, it is thought, as he likes so much to be fondled. He enjoys performing tricks, such as walking on his hind legs, or jumping through hoops. He loves to bathe and will stand in water up to his ears until his bath is finished. Otherwise he'd still be red, instead of a fading pink.

Billie's greatest joy consists in riding on the running board of an automobile. He is particular about what he eats, liking some candies, particularly chocolates, with which he is coaxed to do his stunts.

CLASS EXPERIMENTS WITH TISSUE GROWTH

Tissue Outside Body Kept Alive Ten Years

An experiment to determine the difference in growth of tissue outside the body which is grown in an ordinary culture medium of chick embryo juice and the same kind of tissue grown in a medium to which has been added thyroxin, an active agent of the thyroid gland, is being made by May Borquist, and Hope Plymate, both graduate students in the zoology department.

This problem is a continuation of work started last year on the factors influencing growth and differentiation. An improvement on last year's technique has been made by using a germ-proof box with a glass top and arm holes in the sides for sterile sleeves. This device has done away with the necessity of sterilizing everything in the room in which the work is done.

The tissue used in the experiment is from four-day old chick embryos. It is placed on slides in a culture medium where close observance of development is made by the students. Some growth has already been detected. Dr. H. B. Yocum of the biology department stated. Most of the time has been spent in forming a technique by which the tissue can be transplanted from an embryo to a slide without bringing it in contact with foreign substances.

The work is being done in a special room in the research shack next to the infirmary.

Researches made by eastern scientists show that tissue outside the body of a chick has been kept alive for a period of ten years, whereas the average life of a chicken is only two years.

BOXING SEASON LOOKS BRIGHT, SAYS COACH

Matches Will Be Held In Portland With Clubs

The outlook for a successful season is promising, says Perry Davis, boxing coach. Several veterans have returned to the campus to form a nucleus, and sufficient new material is working out, to form a well balanced team.

The veterans are Maury Collings, Guy Ferry, and Irv Pelz. Collings is a middleweight, Pelz, a welterweight, and Ferry boxes at 140 pounds. These men are boxing in their old form and, according to Davis, should win their bouts in the coming matches.

Of the new men, Jack Sharp has caught Coach Davis' eye. He is a shifty, two-handed boxer and has boxed Harry Greb in a gym bout. Tex Newby and Larry Read, welterweights, have also attracted considerable attention.

Bouts are held each day in the boxing classes. The men bang away and fast exchanges are common. Men who are showing well in the classes are Finsley, Chapman, Nelson, and Espirito, a Filipino. The latter should make the team boxing as a featherweight. Oregon does not have intercollegiate bouts but matches are held in Portland with the Multnomah, Elks, and Masonic Clubs' boxers. Coach Davis is always willing to put his mittmen on for College smokers and for exhibitions in surrounding towns.
