

OREGON MEETS O. A. C. DEBATE TEAMS TODAY

Brown, McGuire Support Negative On The Chinese Question At Corvallis

Governor Walter M. Pierce, Dr. James H. Gilbert To Preside At The Contests

By JACK HEMPSTEAD

Oregon men meet O. A. C. today in the only intercollegiate debate of the year in which either institution will oppose another team from the state of Oregon. In forensic circles, this annual dual meet means as much as the annual football game between the men from Corvallis and the men from Eugene. The history of the debates show the results since 1915 to be exactly even, with the advantage shifting from one institution to the other from year to year.

This afternoon, upholding the negative side of the Chinese question, Oregon's men, Herschel Brown and Jack McGuire, will meet the O. A. C. affirmative, Blair Stewart and Harold Ballf at convocation in the men's gymnasium, Corvallis, at 1:00 o'clock. Governor Walter M. Pierce will preside at this debate.

Dr. James Gilbert, Chairman in Villard hall at 3:30 Benoit McCroskey and B. V. Ludington, representing Oregon on the affirmative side will oppose the visiting O. A. C. speakers, Frank DeSpain and Mark Evans, who will uphold the negative. Dr. James H. Gilbert, head of the department of economics will be the chairman of the contest here.

Facing the enjoyable prospect of an extended tour throughout the east, the Corvallis debaters are expecting to check in victories both here and in Corvallis. If they are successful, more than likely the entire team will go on the eastern trip. If not, C. B. Mitchell O. A. C. varsity debate coach, will find his speakers ineffective and a shake up of the team will result. The O. A. C. debaters today will be well prepared.

"Although the men really need more time," said J. Stanley Gray last night, "they have made wonderful progress during the four weeks they have been working on the question. Brown and McCroskey are excellent in both constructive and rebuttal argument. Ludington and McGuire will give them good support." The Oregon varsity coach was not optimistic about the results.

"While we hope to win the contest," he said, "we are much more interested in the training the men received in preparation for the debate."

Blair Stewart, O. A. C. negative speaker who will speak at Corvallis this afternoon, is a senior in commerce from Corvallis. Both he and Harold Ballf, his teammate have been on the varsity debate squad the last two years. Frank DeSpain and Mark Evans, are both experienced speakers. DeSpain was a member of the transccontinental debate team for the college last year. He is a senior in commerce. Evans, a junior in commerce from Pendleton was on the team which last year defeated the Kansas State Agricultural college at Corvallis.

Experienced Men On Team

Two experienced varsity debaters and two men in intercollegiate debate for the first time compose Oregon's teams. Both McCroskey and Brown are veterans, while Ludington and McGuire have had forensic experience other than college debating. An experienced man has been placed on each side of the question by Mr. Gray, in order to make the most effective organization.

Judges at the debate here are: Gilbert L. Hedges, attorney, Oregon City; Fred Lockley, Oregon Journal, Portland; L. S. Shumaker, professor of public speaking, Linfield College, McMinnville.

At O. A. C. they are: Dr. Carl Doney, president Willamette University; J. S. Landers, president of the Oregon State Normal school;

TRIO OF PLAYS GIVEN TONIGHT

Irish Coast Forms Setting Of "Riders to the Sea"

The final dress rehearsal was given last night at 7:15 o'clock in Guild hall, for the three one act plays, "Monday," "Aria Da Capo," and "Riders to the Sea," which are to be presented tonight at 8:30 o'clock in Guild hall. These are the first plays to be given by the drama department under the direction of Miss Florence E. Wilbur. Miss Wilbur has had a great deal of experience coaching plays, not only in national drama work, but also among high school and college students. She organized the Little Theatre Movement and produced all plays given by the women of Cornell University. She also spent much time staging and producing plays with Maurice Brown, theatrical producer, at the Golden Bough theatre, Carmel, California.

The cast for the plays has been rehearsing every day for several weeks, and under rather trying conditions. The properties and costumes have all been made by the members of the department. Everything is ready now for the grand opening, according to Edgar Buchanan, stage manager.

The cast of the plays is as follows:

"Monday," by Alfred Kreymborg, is a comedy. The characters in this one act of pantomime are: Mrs. Jones, Frances Vaughan; Mrs. Brown, Constance Roth; Mrs. Smith, Katie Buchanan; Mrs. Meek, Lucille Jeffrey; Mrs. Saub, Mary Fitch; Mrs. Weed, Margaret Ackerman; and the children, Edith Cameron and Georgie Gail Buchanan.

The cast of "Aria Da Capo," by Edna St. Vincent Millay, which are acts in a world of fantasy are: Pierrot, Arthur Coe Gray; Columbine, Florence Couch; Cothurnes, Cecil Matson; and the shepherds, Cordon and Thyriss, Edgar Buchanan and Alfons Korn. The time is the present.

The characters in "Riders to the Sea," are significant of the fishermen of the Aran Islands off the coast of Ireland. The cast includes Maurya, an old woman, Eleanor Beekwith; Bartley, her son, Cecil Matson; Cathleen, her daughter, Margaret Booth (Wednesday evening); and Jane Bodine, (Thursday evening); Nora, a younger daughter, Etha Clark (Wednesday evening); Elizabeth Talbot (Thursday evening); "keepers," Margaret Powers and Margaret Ackerman; and the old men, Douglas Perry and Edgar Buchanan.

The seat sale is going along well, especially for this time of the year, according to Dick Hoyt, ticket salesman. The box office will be open from 1 to 5 o'clock this afternoon. Reserve seats are being sold at 50 and 75 cents.

LIBRARY PRESENTED WITH ART HISTORIES

Two histories of ancient and medieval art and several handbooks on this subject, to be numbered in the Camilla Leach collection at the library, are among the 92 books recently contributed to the University library by Luella Clay Carson. A 10 volume set of the World's Best Orations and 12 volumes of John L. Stoddard Lectures, are included in this second shipment. "The Home and Haunts of Shakespeare," represented by paintings and drawings, and a leather bound copy of "Herringshaw's Encyclopedia of American Biography of the Nineteenth Century," are two of the most important books in the collection. There is also a five volume set of Paul Monroe's, "Cyclopedia of Education."

LETTERMEN FETED AT ANNUAL BANQUET

Speakers Make Favorable Comment On Work

The annual football banquet was held in the Osburn Hotel last night at which forty members of the football squad, athletic directors, and members of the press were entertained by the administrative body of the University. It was the last rally of the football team that has battered its way over many a gridiron this fall.

Dean Henry D. Sheldon was toastmaster of the occasion introduced the speakers of the evening. Constructive comment on the work of the team and the future of the University in athletics were stressed by speaker after speaker during the banquet.

There was the last talks of the old guard. Captain Bob Mautz, Bert Gooding, Jack Bliss, Ken Bailey, and Gene Shields, are leaving Oregon athletics for good but not in "spirit," as they expressed it.

Dean Walker, varsity scout, stressed the value of grades and urged the men to work in this last week and all year to remove all possibility of ineligibility by poor grades. "When the new coach comes let's all get behind him and give him our best support for a winning team next year. We want a winning team."

Prof. H. C. Howe, president of the Pacific Coast Conference spoke with much disparagement of professional football. "In my mind Red Grange, by going professional although to great value to himself, has done the intercollegiate game of football and his school more harm than any one could ever hope." I hope that Oregon men refrain from entering the professional game in the future.

Coach Billy Reinhart, made a plea for a winning team, and the casting away of the losers psychology and start preparing for a winning team next year.

Other speakers on the program who briefly spoke on various phases of the past season which they have been connected with were Karl Onthank, member of the administrative committee, Dean Bovard, who pledged the support of the school of physical education to the incoming coach; Virgil Earl, director of athletics; Walter Malcolm for the associated students; Lewis H. Johnson for the administration; Sam Wilderman, publicity director for the University, for the press.

EARL KILPATRICK TO BE SPEAKER

Address Will Be Based On Work of Red Cross

Marking the last assembly of the term, Earl Kilpatrick, dean of the Extension Division of the University, will be the speaker on Thursday at the assembly in the auditorium of the Woman's building. His topic will be "Chasing the Tornado."

Dean Kilpatrick's address will be based on the work of the American Red Cross in the reorganization and reconstruction of the devastated districts of Illinois, Missouri and Indiana, after the tornado which sweep the middle west last spring. He will also speak on experiences of the relief corps during the Pueblo flood in 1921. Dean Kilpatrick was in charge of the relief work after the tornado, and assistant director general of the work of the Red Cross during the Astoria fire in 1922-23.

To accept a position in the east with a national organization Mr. Kilpatrick has tendered his resignation as Dean of the Extension Division. His resignation will become effective on January 1, at which time he will take up the work of his new position which is similar to that which he has had considerable experience.

Mr. Kilpatrick is an Oregon alumnus, having graduated with the class of 1914. He is a member of the International Board of American Red Cross for the study of disasters, and on the Red Cross Reserve. He is considered one of Oregon's foremost speakers, having appeared before innumerable audiences in Portland and elsewhere.

DEMOLAYS TO RESERVE FULL PAGE IN OREGONA

The Councillor club, campus organization of Demolays, will reserve a full page in this year's Oregon and each member who pays one dollar will have his picture on the club page, it was decided at a special meeting of the club held at 4:15 yesterday afternoon at the Craftsman club. Campus Demolays who are interested should turn their names in to Mark Taylor, who is in charge of the Oregoniana pictures for the club, or to Burton Nelson, president.

Those in charge of a stunt the club is to try out for the vaudeville that the local chapter of the order plans to present at the McDonald theater January 27, reported that a stunt has been selected, and asked that campus members possessed of any talent along this line get in touch with the president of the club.

SURVEY PAPERS CORRECTED

The exacting and momentous labor of correcting the term papers for the survey of English literature classes is over, according to Miss Mildred Hawes, instructor in English. For some of the students, this was their first experiment in critical writing. The literature covered was that from Beowulf to the Elizabethan age, the King James Version of the Bible being a popular choice.

SPORTS STAFF SELECTS STAR DO-NUT TEAMS

Players Judged On Merits Displayed; Referee Leslie Official For All Games

Gordon Ridings, Cousin Of Famed O. A. C. Star Is Local High Point Man

First Team	Second Team
Chastin	F Nelson
Emmons	F Boyer
Ridings (c)	C Epps
Orr	G McCormick
Bally	G (c) Milligan
Referee—Earl "Spike" Leslie

For your approval Mr. Basketball Fan, is herewith presented the mythical all-star selection. "Red" Grange failed to make All-American, perhaps some equally worthy basketballer failed to break into print as a member of this all-star aggregation.

A multitude of players passed in review during the present season. Some were seen in only one game and were therefore at a disadvantage perhaps, in that they did not flash their best brand of ball. Past performance had nothing to do with this selection; players were judged solely on the ability they displayed on the floor in the current games.

Defensive Players Few

Many colorful and flashy players were seen in action. They immediately catch the eye, while the consistent and steady player is often overlooked by the fan who cheers the scorer. Real defensive men were few and far between, while there was a dearth of good forwards.

"Tuffy" Chastain all-state forward of last year lived up to expectations, played his consistent and heady game, thereby winning his position as forward.

Emmons former Eugene high school star was the most consistent long shot of the year, to this he added the ability to advance the ball, is a clever dribbler and understands the game.

Ridings was the high scorer of the year, running wild in every game except that with the Oregon Club when he was held scoreless by "Chuck" Orr. His passing and general floor work was very good and combined with the ability to lead and a fine knowledge of the game makes him an ideal captain.

ORR'S DEFENSIVE WINS GUARD BERTH

There was little difference between Orr, Milligan and McCormick. Orr grabbed off the position as guard due solely to his ability as a defensive man and fight. He is also a dangerous man under the basket and collected six of the Oregon Club's fifteen points when they played the Phi Dels.

Bally, running mate to Orr was the outstanding guard of the year. The above mentioned broke up more plays than any man seen this year. He also started a multitude of plays which ultimately resulted in baskets. To complete his qualifications one must add his ability to run the floor and an unflinching deference to officials.

These five men can pass, shoot, dribble, and check. All are fast and understand the game, as a combination they would be hard to defeat.

Difference In Teams

There is little difference between the first and second team. The team is as strong defensively as the first but is not as strong in the offensive department.

In Milligan and McCormick this quintet has two exceptionally fine guards. Epps, at center, did not find himself until the close of the season. Hummel, Phi Delt center crowded him closely for the place.

GARDENERS TRIM TREES

Trees and shrubs on the campus are being given their annual winter pruning this week by the University gardeners. Dead limbs and all those which detract from the beauty and growth of the shade trees are being cut off. A new gravel walk is being laid between "Hello Lane" and the Oregon building. New walks are built wherever there seems to be a tendency for travel.

After-Dinner Talk Not To Spoil Fun At This Big Feast

"A slick banquet," which is called for 6:30, was the way Jimmie Leake characterized the Homecoming committee banquet at the Campa Shoppe this evening.

"There will not be any speaking to distract the attention of the committee workers from the meal," said Leake; "the big idea is eat, and that is what everybody is coming for."

The meal will be entirely informal and is given to the committee in appreciation for the successful manner in which they handled their individual parts of the Homecoming celebration this year.

Invitations were sent out yesterday to all members of the committee. If any member failed to receive an invitation, he should get in touch with Mr. Leake.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM TO BE THURSDAY, 8:15

Second Of Series Given By Mu Phi Epsilon

Christmas carols and other Christmas music will feature the second concert on the Mu Phi Epsilon series next Thursday evening at 8:15, in the school of music auditorium. The program will be of a varied nature, including both vocal and instrumental numbers. The arrangement has been under the supervision of John Stark Evans, instructor of piano.

A woman's sextette composed of Mrs. T. A. Pearson, Adelaide Johnson, Mrs. Delbert Oberbauer, Mrs. H. A. Scougall, Mrs. F. J. Clark, and Mrs. C. D. Whitton will sing a group of Christmas carols. Nina Warnock will play violin carols also.

Francis Pierce will sing the "Andante Cantabile from the Fifth Symphony" by Tschaiakowsky, on the organ. The favorite Christmas songs, "Silent Night" and "Holy Night" will be rendered by Mrs. T. A. Pearson and Mrs. H. A. Scougall. The sextette, featuring Mrs. F. G. Clark as soloist, will sing "O'er Earth Listening," by Harker.

Admission to students will be 35c, and to others 50c. Season tickets may also be bought from members of the organization.

TO SPEAK IN SEATTLE

David E. Faville, associate professor of business administration, will discuss "The Problem of Teaching as Applied to Undergraduates" at the Pacific Coast Economic and Business Administration Conference to be held in Seattle on December 29 and 30. Dean E. C. Robbins, head of the school of business administration, will lead a discussion at one of these meetings.

BETHLEHEM ON CHRISTMAS EVE DESCRIBED BY MISS COLLIER

Dim outlines of unlighted buildings against a clear sky marked by bright stars and no moon. Such was the appearance of Bethlehem viewed from a neighboring shepherd's field on Christmas eve in 1923 and described by Miss Dorothy Collier, former Y. W. C. A. secretary on the campus, in an address to members of the Freshman Girls' Commission at a meeting in the Bungalow yesterday afternoon. "Bethlehem is surrounded by hills which are barren and brown during the winter season. The only trees we saw were juniper and olive. Both are very drab and added to the atmosphere of lifelessness. The little place looks like a city, but really there are few people living there. Most of these live in crude houses along the cobbled streets," Miss Collier said.

Miss Collier and the party of women accompanying her made part of their tour in an automobile driven by a Serbian boy who evidently hadn't read many traffic regulations for he was almost unaware of curves. On the radiator cap of the car there was a string of huge blue beads. When asked why he had put them there, he told them they kept the "Evil Eye"

STUDENT IDEAS ARE SOUGHT ON NEW MAGAZINE

Proposed Journal Would Include All Departments Of Interest To Campus

Committee Desires To Put Publication In Hands Of Student Body Officers

Does the University of Oregon want a campus magazine?

Can the University support a good magazine that will incorporate in it something of every department in school, snappy features and a good comic section?

What are the opinions of students in regard to such a publication?

These and many other questions face the committee, headed by Rolf Klep, which is attempting to unravel enough of these ideas to get a good working foundation on which to establish or reject a campus publication.

Mr. Klep has carried on an exhaustive research for the past month, both on the campus and by mail with other coast universities. His study of the matter has brought several very interesting facts to light.

Campus Magazine Would Pay

First, he has found that a campus magazine such as will be described later will pay, and support itself.

"My plans and those which I have talked over with my committee," said Klep, "call for a magazine following the style of 'Vanity Fair,' that is a magazine that keeps up the interest from cover to cover with something unexpected on the turning of each page. It would contain a section which could be used by every department in school. This would contain articles of interest to the various departments.

"There would be a section devoted to humor, good snappy jokes and cartoons, and a few humorous stories. There would be a literary section which would contain probably the two or three best campus short stories of the month and if there was a good essay of interest it too might be included. Outstanding books and plays could also be treated in this section.

"A clever feature section, would include an editorial page devoted to short snappy editorials by capable persons. Still another page could be given over to an Oregon hall of fame, which would include each month persons who had been very active in campus affairs. A double page spread would be given over to sport news and pictures.

Magazines Popular On Coast

"The big question now," said

away. Small children were also wearing the beads, the speaker said. On the way to Bethlehem the party passed a great many camels with loads of provisions. The owners walked beside them.

The Church of Nativity in Bethlehem is built over the place where Christ was born. Underneath the main church is a chapel and a cell where a saint spent 48 years translating the Bible. This place was especially impressive, according to Miss Collier, because of the people who came in and knelt, praying silently before the alters, and quietly went out again. A huge star shone directly over the church making it directly over the church making it feeling of awe and reverence.

"In the courtyard near the church a choir was singing carols. Never have hymns sounded so beautiful to me. A Greek patriarch was among the persons in the crowd. He invited us to go into his chapel for a blessing. Although the prayer was all in Latin it inspired us a great deal," the speaker continued.

Although five different sects worship at the spot of nativity, they all unite in recognizing Christmas time.
