One of the interesting affairs of the week-end was the bridge benefit given by Mortar Board at the Kappa Alpha Theta house Saturday afternoon.

Brown wrapping-paper decorations formed the background for the inappropiate costumes, ranging from hula-hulas to pajamas, which were worn to the dance given by undergrads of Alpha Omicron Pi for the upperclass members Friday evening.

Valentines' Day furnished the motif for the friendly hall formal Saturday evening. The ball room was tastefully decorated in Valentine colors. A large reproduction of the dance program, cleverly lighted by lamps concealed in the fireplace was one of the attractive features of the decorative scheme.

An informal event of Friday evening was the Valentine dance for which members of Sigma Beta Phi were hostesses.

Old-fashioned baskets of spring flowers and greenery, ferns, palms and other greeneries made the Alpha Phi house lovely on Friday evening when members of this house entertained with a formal supper dance.

Little Miss Meredith Ann Jenkins danced for the feature and Cy Vallentyne sang several songs during the evening.

An informal dance was given Friday by Kappa Delta Phi at their chapter house. Cupids and hearts added a Valentine atmosphere to the evening.

A musical in honor of faculty members was given Saturday evening by Pi Beta Phi at the chapter house between the hours of eight-thirty and eleven-thirty o'clock.

In the receiving line were Miss Florette Janelle, Mrs. F. W. Benson, Mrs. Delbert Oberteuffer, Mrs. Virginia Judy Esterly, Mrs. Burton Beck of Portland, and Mrs. Fletcher Linn of Portland.

Members of Psi Kappa were hosts at an informal dance Saturday evening. Valentine decorations were used. Patrons and patronesses were Captain and Mrs. F. L. Culin Jr., Captain and Mrs. McEwan.

Gold candles and baskets of flowers on the tables carried out the maroon and gold color scheme for the Delta Gamma formal dinner dance at the Eugene Hotel Saturday.

Mrs. Katherine Yerex, Dean Virginia Judy Esterly, Professor and Mrs. Frederic Dunn, Miss Amy Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rogers, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Cordz were patrons and patronesses.

Members of Phi Kappa Psi entertained Saturday morning from nine until twelve o'clock with their annual breakfast dance at the Eugene hotel. Palms were artistically arranged around the orchestra and huge sprays of acacia were used about the room, and smaller bouquets were in bud vases on the tables.

Valentines and red tulips formed the decorations for the formal supper dance given by the girls of Hendricks Hall Friday evening.

Valentines and red tulips formed the decorations for the formal supper dance given by the girls of Hendricks Hall Friday evening. About fifty-five couples were present. Patrons and patronesses for the affair were Miss Gertrude Talbot, Miss Andrea Pellion, Miss Robert Davis, William Maddox, Raymond Lawrence, and Captain J. T. Murray.

Elizabeth Anderson Fixes Wedding Date

The wedding date of Miss Elizabeth Anderson, ex-'26, and Mr. Edwin Guild, was announced as March 15, at a luncheon given in honor of Miss Anderson in Portland, Saturday afternoon.

tion which makes the underman—whose work causes this increase in production and who gets no gain from new machinery devices in terms of shorter hours—which stimulates the unrest of the laborer. Production, then, not distribution, is the great scheme of American life as the economists and capitalist sees it.

Blanshard, who this summer traveled around the world third class for $1000, insists that what the country needs is a living wage, with a set minimum, for those who work; the nearest approach to this having come from the trade union movement. Also there is a need for a whittling down, or taking away of the money that is on top. This has so far been best brought about by means of income and inheritance taxes, though not yet carried far.

Worship is an outcome of the clash between the modern machine and the laborer who enjoys none of the benefits of the increased production. A remedy for this he sees in an increase in production to such a point that all the work now done in one day can be done in four or five hours, thus giving the laborer the extra hours to educate himself and have some leisure and recreation. This is the greatest industrial dream, an ideal. The common laborer's stupidity is no fault of his own.

Blanshard said in this connection, but is fostered by his mechanical endeavors of feeding the "mile-a-minute" mechanism. Poweropia—more power for the laborer who now must dance to the music of the moneyed man—would counteract this labor present system which is fundamentally autocratic, despite American's lauding the situation as democratic.

It is unjust, the speaker exhorted, to make a man invest his life, or the better part of it, in an industry which gives him not the slightest phase of control. Labor should not be a commodity bought and sold as a bar of soap.

The laborer's citizenship in industry could be brought about, in the beginning at least, through the creation of an impartial judge to arbitrate the disputes—even in the small matter of firing a single man—between the laborers and the employers. For labor, he asserts, should and must have the prerogative of protecting itself against discharge to secure social justice.

Y.W. Group Will Hear Discussion Of Youth Movement In China

The "Youth Movement in China" will be discussed at a meeting sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. World Fellowship discussion group Thursday evening from 7:30 to 8:30 at the Bungalow.

Ben Chai, of Peking, China, a major in botany at the University, and a former student of Tsing Sua College at Peking, will discuss the importance of the student movement in China. He will also explain how recent outbreaks in that country have influenced the development of the movement there.

Ta Lee, a student in the business administration department here, who attended a preparatory school in Hosen, China, will describe students and student life in his native country. Hung Fai Chung is in charge of plans for the evening, and Jackson Lui, another Chinese student, will conduct an open forum which will take up about 15 minutes time.

This meeting was originally scheduled for February 11 but was postponed because of conflicting events. Anyone interested in the question is invited to attend.

Dr. Bates and Wife Have Reviews Printed

Two reviews in the February 6 edition of the Saturday Review, which are printed side by side, one by Ernest Sutherland Bates, former professor of philosophy and literature at the University of Oregon, and the other by his wife, Gladys Chandler Graham Bates, are attracting attention on the campus.

Dr. Bates is now living in New York doing free-lance writing and is a regular contributor to the Saturday Review. Dr. Bates' review is on "The Vatican Swindle" by Andre Guide, and Mrs. Bates writes on "Bread and Circuses," by W. E. Woodward, author of "Bunk."

"Don Juan" Added to Library Rent Shelf

"Don Juan," a play in three acts by James Elroy Flecker, recently added to the rent collection of the University library, is one which has received considerable comment. Bernard Shaw in a review says of it, "The author shows great qualities for writing for the stage, some of the highest in fact. One scene in the play is one of the best I have ever read, it is truly a stroke of genius."

Several other new books have been added to the library collection. "Soundings," by Hamilton Gibbs; and "Unchanging Quest," by Sir Phillip Gibbs; are now on the rent collection. Two new seven day books are, "My Life As An Explorer," by Sven Hedin and "Norway," by Hardy.

Crawford of Heppner To Speak for Dimond

Spencer Crawford, of the Heppner Gazette Times, will take the place of Chester Dimond, of the Newberg Graphic, on the program of the Oregon Newspaper conference Saturday morning. He will speak on the mechanical side of newspaper production.
