

Dates Advanced on Track Meets of Pacific Coast

All Colleges in League to Take Part in Annual Competition

Cinder Stars to Strive for National Honors

The great Pacific coast conference track meet which will be held at Palo Alto on May 15, has been advanced one week to enable the southern schools to send teams to the national meets in the east which come on May 22, the original scheduled date of the conference meet. This necessitated the changing of the dates of several dual meets, in which Oregon, Washington, and O. A. C. will be participants. Several days ago in Portland, Darwin Meisner, graduate manager of University of Washington; Carl Lodell, graduate manager of O. A. C.; and Jack Benefiel, graduate manager of Oregon, ironed out the conflicts which resulted from the change.

Dates Are Changed

As a result the O. A. C. and Washington meet will be held at Seattle on May 22 instead of May 11; the Oregon-O. A. C. meet will be held at Corvallis on May 29 instead of May 15. The date of the Oregon-Washington meet at Eugene remains unchanged, May 8.

The University of Washington will send a track team east to the national intercollegiate championship meet in Chicago in June. If Proe Flannigan does as well as last year, he will also be sent east to represent Oregon, according to Benefiel. Carl Lodell was uncertain just what O. A. C. would do.

Teams to Go East

The Pacific Coast will take part in some great meets this year. California will meet Princeton, the University of Southern California will defend its national intercollegiate title in the east this year, while California, Washington and Stanford will send teams to the national collegiate meet, and Oregon probably will also be represented. Montana undoubtedly will send the great Russell Sweet, sprint star, with several other outstanding stars to the contest.

Since the formation of the conference in 1916, this is the first time that all of the colleges in the league will compete in the annual conference meet. In the past two years the dates of the national and the Pacific coast meets conflicted and the strong teams were sent to the east by the southern schools.

Publishing Students Design Book Plates

The publishing class under the instruction of Dean Eric W. Allen, of the School of Journalism, is making book plates to be cut from linoleum. Students of the class chose their own subjects. These, with the perfection in cutting, are to be taken into consideration in grading.

Proofs of the plates are to be made on the front of the publishing examination blue books for inspection along with the regular examination questions. A model, made by Wayne Leland of last year's publishing class, was used as an example of good workmanship and appropriate design.

Oregon Faculty Make Plans for 1926 Vacation

Professor Fish to Make Second trip to old Home in England

Smith, Douglass, Young, Rainey Have Positions

The closing of examinations in the spring will find many members of the University of Oregon faculty immediately scattering all over the United States.

Professor Andrew Fish, of the department of history, however, is going clear out of the United States, to England, where he was born. His father and mother live there, as well as most of his relatives.

This will be but the second visit he has made to his parents' home since he came to America, in 1915. This time, however, he will introduce Mrs. Fish to them. Later in the summer, he and Mrs. Fish plan to travel in France and Belgium until time to return to Oregon in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Fish hope to leave for England on the S. S. Berengaria, which sails from New York on the 23rd of June.

Dr. Smith Accepts Position

Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the department of geology, has accepted an offer to teach elementary and advanced courses in geology at Stanford university this summer. Dr. Smith believes that the advanced course he will teach there, which deals with the study of Pacific Coast geology, is the only course of its kind which has ever been offered on the coast.

Dr. Smith admits that his main purpose in going to Stanford is that he will have access to the famous Brainer library there, which is the most complete and best equipped on the coast.

He plans to leave here by auto with his family immediately at the close of examinations in the spring. They will spend about three days in Yosemite National Park and then go on in time to be at Stanford by the 23rd of June. Beginning on this date his work there will last eight weeks. Last year, Dr. Smith taught summer school at the University of Michigan.

Douglass to be at Stanford

Professor Earl H. Douglass, of the school of education, has also accepted a position on the teaching staff at Stanford next summer. He will teach a course in secondary education, which will keep him there for a period of 14 weeks. Mr. Douglass expects to leave with his family for Stanford immediately after examinations here in June.

This will be Professor Douglass' third summer of teaching at Stanford university.

Dr. Homer P. Rainey, of the school of education, plans to teach for 12 weeks next summer at the University of Texas. He will teach two graduate school courses in the school of education there and also do research work in school administration.

His work there will keep him busy until the first of September, so he will have but about two weeks of vacation before the fall term opens here at Oregon.

Young at Wisconsin

Dr. Rainey taught in summer school here at Oregon last year. Professor Kimball Young, of the sociology department here, has accepted an offer from the University of Wisconsin to teach in the sociology department there during the summer session.

He will teach two courses, social origins and social psychology. These courses will last 8 weeks. After that he plans to spend about a month of hunting and fishing in Canada, near Quebec, with friends.

Professor Young taught in the State Teachers' College at Greeley, Colorado, last summer.

Bogus Petition Traps 600 With Death Grant

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, March 8.—(P. I. P. A.)—More than 600 students signed their own death warrant when they signed a bogus petition circulated last Friday that ostensibly had to do with the granting of a holiday. The death warrant consisted of a demand "that we be drawn and quartered on the Wheeler steps if this request for a holiday the Monday before Charter Day is not granted" buried in the body of the petition. Only six students read the document carefully enough to detect the hoax.

University High Glee Club to Give Operetta in Auditorium Tonight

The University High School operetta, "Swords and Scissors," is ready for production, and the first performance will be given this evening in the School of Music auditorium at 8:15. The cast is composed of members of the University High Glee Club, who are under the direction of Anne Landsbury Beck.

The profits from this production will go to the athletic fund of the University High School. Due to the small student body of the campus high, it is a difficult matter to finance the athletic program which the school desires to foster. A performance of this kind, if successful financially, will lend aid to the furtherance of athletics in the high school, and it is hoped that the college students will give it their support.

The operetta promises to be one of the best productions of its kind to be given this year. "Swords and Scissors" in the nature of its composition, is the most appropriate performance for high school production on the market, according to Mrs. Beck. It is ideal for young voices and lends itself to much comedy and byplay, yet retaining beauty and romance echoing back to the time of Napoleon and his colorful court.

STATE COLLEGE OF WASHINGTON, March 9.—Failing to find a satisfactory man to be head football coach, the athletic council after corresponding with a number of prospects and having two men come to Pullman to look over the situation, decided to send four of its members to scour the country for prospects. Two will go east and two south.

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, Seattle, March 5.—A move to appoint a sophomore vigilance committee to enforce the observance of freshman traditions, in place of the present frosh committee, was quashed when the Senior Council decided to leave the enforcement of freshman rules to the first year students.

Representative to be Selected from Debaters

Oregon's representative speaker for the Pacific Forensic league extempore speaking contest at Pullman, Washington, on April 8, 9, and 10, at the annual conference of the league at Washington State college, will be chosen tomorrow.

Among the varsity and freshman debaters who have already signified their intention of competing are Herschel Brown, John Gale, Mark Taylor, and Roy Herndon. Others who have not signed up are expected to try out.

All the candidates will turn in a list of ten sub-topics connected with the general subject which is: "the tendency to place increased power and responsibility in the federal government and to lessen the power and responsibility of the various state governments." This was chosen, at the invitation of the officers of the Pacific Forensic league by Professor James N. O'Neil, of the University of Wisconsin.

From the list of ten sub-topics turned in by each contestant, will be picked the few best, and on these the men will speak Saturday morning after drawing the particular phase as a topic only a short while before. This necessitates a broad knowledge of the question and speedy organization in order to present an effective discussion on the particular topic. Extempore speaking permits no memorization in advance. The preparation is on material only. The form of delivery is decided as the discussion proceeds.

Many Taking Pipe Courses May be Fooled

The husky lads who are enrolled in courses at Obak's Parlors will take their final examinations next week. The fatalities will be heavy as usual, some may flunk entirely out. It is rumored about that there are many PIPE courses but instructors intend to fool some of the users of the mild weed by giving them a zero.

Several men have applied for honors and Lynn Jones tendered his application for membership to Iota Beta Phi, National Billiard Fraternity, which is translated into English as "I'm a Billiard Player." Scholastic achievements, general knowledge of the game and number of points the player can run up are some of the qualifications considered. According to Chuck Stockwell, the present President of the Organization, Jones will be seriously considered, but Stockwell says that Jones plays the game too rough and can't cue the ball very scientifically.

Obak's Ginger Ale Superior, Student Sends Testimonial

OBAK:—
I've tried Tanlac, Lydia Pinkham's, Castor Oil and toothpaste and even have gone to the renowned healer, Dr. Price, but I received no relief. My teeth started falling out and I got ingrown fingernails. But your marvelous ginger ale! it made a new woman of me. Now I can chop wood, wash my ears and smell flowers without fainting—and it was all due to ginger ale—God Bless you for sending it before I spent more fabulous sums on dumb doctors.

Your everlasting debtor,
