Elective for Freshmen and Sophomores.

Clogging.....An adaptation of primitive dance rhythms.

Yankee Doodle.....A Sophomore Section

Georgia Quartet.....Four Senior Majors

Self-Testing Activities.....Combined Freshman and Sophomore Groups

In squads arranged according to the results obtained from motor ability tests the students practice and score themselves on these various events. The individual is able to measure her ability against those of her class and is stimulated to better her score.

Indian Club Swing.....Senior Majors

This type of work is popular in many schools and recreation centers and has its usefulness to the well-rounded teacher of physical education.

Folk Dancing.....Freshman Majors

Sword Dance.....English Apparatus Work.....Junior Majors

These events represent a fairly high level of motor coordination and agility. The students learn the progression of the events and the technique of assisting one another for teaching purposes.

Games.....All Freshman Sections

Games of low organization for recreation and relaxation.

Throw and Stoop.....Zig Zag

Basketball Game.....Freshman vs Junior First Teams.

One of the many games and sports of high organization elective for Freshmen and Sophomores. Also used in intra-mural competition.

League are using the present episode as an argument for not entangling ourselves in the controversies of Europe. The truth is that if we had been there, Brazil would not have asked to represent this continent; China, who has always trusted the United States as a friend, would have been more amenable, and with those two out of the way, we could have employed our mediation on Spain and Poland, and be in a favorable way to compose the differences just as did the American delegates between Germany and France at the Algeiras Conference on Morocco in 1906. The issue, that of friendly relations between the states of the world, is one in which the United States cannot be unconcerned, and I, for one, can find no satisfaction in the fact that America, with such smug confidence in her own goodness, has chosen to wash her hands of those troubling incidents elsewhere, which by her friendly influence, she could do much to resolve.

Comments on Eugene Shops

DEAREST ANNE:

Although a stack of books are anxiously awaiting my attention I'm removing them from my sight and thinking solely of you. We're only allowed one date this week-end but I'm going to the Campa Shoppe this evening with that wonderful secret sorrow, at last. To celebrate the occasion I had a water wave at Hastings Sisters. One certainly gets her money's worth there—not only in the work but in the service they give.

With exams coming up next week one simply can't be bothered with hair falling into one's eyes, so down to the Co-ed Barber Shop we do go. It's so close—between the Co-op and the Y. W. C. A., and they give any sort of a shingle. They really are the best barbers in Eugene and you don't have to go far to get there. I was down the other day and had a shampoo followed by a hair cut and everyone complimented me upon my good appearance. It has become a regular rendezvous, so many of the girls go there.

Easter brings spring-like hats—feminine hats that are the kind men like to see women wear. Letitia Abrams certainly has the best assortment in her shop on the balcony of Wetherbee-Densmore's that I've ever seen. One especially attractive one was a large horsehair with no brim in back. It was of a shade called sunshine and bound in dog-wood velvet with a flat bow in back. Flowers were embroidered on the crown and brim of pastel colored maline.

Went into McKellop's Candy Shop today to see if the statement I heard to the effect that they filled boxes with any kind of candy, was true. It was and I took advantage of it, sending a box of the wonderful chocolates they make to Marie—she will appreciate them, I know. They're having a special on peanut pi-noche Friday and Saturday at only thirty-two cents a pound. I'm going to be down town Saturday afternoon.

Was passing by the Art and Gift Shop and my eyes fell upon the most adorable vanity boxes in the window. They contain the powder in the bottom and on the top. In another layer is lipstick, eyebrow pencil and rouge. Quite the cleverest thing I've seen for a long time. The picture of mother that I had framed there certainly turned out well. They should be commended on the good work they do.

Helen is having a birthday next week and I finally decided flowers would be the thing to send her, so I stepped into Raup's Florist Shop and ordered a corsage of pink sweet peas and Cecile Brunner roses with tiny sprays of fern and a few lilies of the valley. I know she'll be pleased because she is wild about roses and sweet peas. They telegraph orders to any place in the United States, so a wonderful Easter gift would be flowers.

One of the most fascinating places in Eugene is the Aladdin Giftware Shop—at least I think so. There are numerous antiques that carry with them a story and Mrs. Pickett and her daughter are always willing to tell you about them. I bought a Chinese print of green Chinese scenes, the other day. It will be so attractive in my room at home. They also had an assortment of Indian prints in the best colors—well blended and quite inexpensive for real Indian prints.

It is getting late, darling see you next week. Up
