

Rapid Progress Is Reported On Canoe Fete Work

Two Cups to be Awarded
Floats Best in Humor
And Artistry

Canoe fete plans are progressing rapidly, Earl Chiles, chairman of the committee, said yesterday. Most of the houses have appointed their individual committees and already are at work on schemes. Each house is expected to have worked out some tentative idea and met with the house it will work with by now.

Rapid work by the committees is necessary, since the actual time remaining for the work on the floats is very short.

Among some of the details the committee is planning is a short entertainment, which will immediately precede the fete. The canoe fete itself will be handled on a slightly different basis than previously. This year two cups will be offered in place of just one. One prize will, as before, be offered for the most artistic float, the second for the most humorous.

In accordance with the new system of awards, there will be two sections, one the artistic and the other the humorous. The committee anticipating a rush to the humor section, has limited its number to the first five to turn in their names to Earl Chiles, telephone 660.

For this reason the houses are requested to get together as soon as possible. The committee has also seen fit to limit the height of the floats to twelve feet. This has been done to prevent mishaps and to preserve accord with the decorating scheme. The lighting committee is perfecting ideas, and plans for the setting are being worked out as well. It is the idea of the committee in charge to give the effect of the floats coming upon the stage instead of merely floating down the race.
