

Linfield Debaters Meet Freshmen in No-decision Event

Federal Subsidy System Discussed; H. E. Rosson Acts as Chairman

Using the no-decision, cross-questioning style of debate, Roy Herndon, and Avery Thompson, freshman negative squad met J. C. Orr and Keith Bollen, freshman debaters of Linfield college in Hugh E. Rosson yesterday afternoon. Hugh E. Rosson, professor of English and law acted as chairman.

John Galey, Joseph McKeown and George Belloni as alternates, went to McMinnville as alternates to uphold their argument against the Linfield negative.

The subject, "Resolved: That the policy of federal subsidies accompanied by federal supervision be discontinued," was discussed by the debaters.

That better state government would result, reactions against centralization are increasing, and that federal subsidies have a tendency to centralize power, were the arguments advanced by the Linfield affirmatives favoring the abolition of the subsidy system.

In the periods of cross-questioning, both squads agreed to compromises of some phases of the subsidy plan.

"This type of debate," stated H. E. Rosson, chairman, "is more interesting and animated for the audience, and tends to eliminate any nervousness in the speakers."

Women Sign Up For Numerous Spring Sports

Teams Will be Selected From Among Girls Who Prove Eligible

Mary Jo Shelley, baseball coach, and Mildred Onslow, head of baseball, have arranged that each class shall have a diamond to practice on every night. Competitors must attend five out of the first seven practices. Those who put in additional practices will be given preference when the teams are chosen on April 12.

Tennis aspirants must sign up before Saturday noon, says Betty Lewis, head of tennis. E. F. Waterman will coach this sport. Ladder tournaments will begin Saturday noon, and any player may challenge another who is not more than three victories ahead of her. Two games out of three will constitute a victory, and eight matches must be played before April 19, when class teams will be chosen. Games may be played Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at eight and 11 o'clock, and from one o'clock on other days.

Hockey practices will be held Monday, Wednesday and Thursday at four o'clock under E. F. Waterman, coach, and Edna Murphy, head of hockey. Students must turn out eight times to be eligible. Everyone interested should report at Kincaid field Monday night.

Coaching practice will continue until May 5, at which time crews will be picked. Students may enroll today at the entrance to the locker room in the woman's building. There are two kinds of entries, two and four-man crews. The four-man crew is an innovation of this year, and aspirants will be given special instruction. M. J. Shelley will coach, and Helen Cantine is at the head of the sport.

Practice on four of the voluntary spring sports, baseball, rack hockey and canoeing was started last night. Tennis practice will begin Saturday. The heads of sports urge that all girls who have not signed up get in touch with the coaches of the various sports at once. No one may enroll in more than three sports during the term, and an average of a straight four is required to turn out for any sport.

Practice for track will be held Tuesday, Thursday and Friday at four o'clock under the direction of E. A. Troemel, coach, and Nellie Johns, head of track. Events included are the 25, 50, and 100 yard dash; 60 yard hurdle; running broad jump; standing broad jump; hop, step and jump; baseball far throw; basketball far throw; discus; javelin and high jump.

Monday Night Classes And 7 O'clocks Barred

There will be no classes scheduled for 7 a. m. or for Monday evenings without special permission from the administrative committee of the University.

This is an old rule but nearly every year one or two such classes are permitted.

The administrative committee has re-enacted the rule because the seven o'clock classes affect the health of the students and the Monday evening classes interfere with house meetings.
