

Soph Women Score Highest In Field Meet

Juniors Garner Second; Freshmen Are Third Seniors Last

Nellie Johns Wins 15 Points in Three Events

Margaret Pepon Is Next With Total of 13

THE sophomore team took the lead over all other classes in the final track meet for the girls' first teams yesterday afternoon. Their score totaled 34 points, with the juniors falling seven points behind. The freshmen placed 21 scores, five of which they earned through taking the relay. The seniors were only able to hook second and third places for a total of 13 points.

The meet was held on the field immediately south of the Woman's building, the officials being members of the staff of the department of physical education for women and majors in that department.

Nellie Johns Scores High
Nellie Johns, sophomore, hurled in 15 points, the highest individual score made. She scored first in three events: the standing broad jump, the running broad jump, and the sixty-yard hurdles. Scoring was on the basis of five points for first place, three for second, and one for third.

Margaret Pepon, junior, was runner-up as an individual scorer with 13 points garnered for her class. She threw the baseball for a total of 193 feet, 3 inches, unofficially the longest heave an Oregon girl has ever made. This falls less than 30 feet short of the national women's record. The javelin throw was a contest between Pepon and Melba Hatten, also a junior. Final honors went to Hatten with the point holding the ground 80 feet, 2 inches away from the starting line. Pepon's second was 79 feet, 7.8 inches.

Hutton, Osborn, Kurtz Score 11
Melba Hatten, Harriet Osborn, sophomore, and Mahala Kurtz, freshman, each made 11 tallies for their respective teams. Osborn placed first in the basketball throw at 76 feet, 2 inches.

The hurdles brought forth the prettiest show of the afternoon, with Johns, Kurtz, and Katherine Graef, junior, all putting up a strong bid for supremacy. Johns took the event only a stride ahead of Kurtz, with her time as 0:8.24.

Ruth Scott, running for the sophomores, cut the string first in the 75-yard dash at a time of 0:9.24.

Seniors Make Time in Jumps
The seniors made all but three of their points in the jumping events, placing second in each and third in the running broad, also. Janet Wood, Alta Knips, and Elizabeth Lewis made all the points for the class. Honors for the jumps were secured from them by Johns, who jumped 7 feet, 4 inches in the standing broad and 14 feet, 11 inches in the running broad. Pepon placed first in the hop, step, and jump with a distance of 26 feet, 6 1/2 inches.

The track meets have been conducted on a different basis this year than usual. Heretofore, final teams were chosen after the general meet on Field Day. This year all teams were selected before the final meet and then entered as teams, rather than as individuals seeking a team position. A second departure from the previous method was made when preliminary meets were

Comic Snaps Feature Of Next Year's Oregona

One of the distinctive features of the 1927 Oregona will be the comic snapshots of prominent campus people, says Frances Bourhill, editor. Marion Sten is in charge of the collection of pictures, and there will be a representative in every house on the campus to get pictures from each group.

Two or three pictures will be used from each house, the only qualifications being that the pictures be funny, and that there be few people in the group pictures, as they reproduce better. Only glossy finish pictures can be used.

The collection of pictures will begin this spring, in order to procure pictures taken at this time.

Prehistoric 'Mount Multnomah' Described by Dr. Hodge in Book

Gigantic Formation Stood Where Three Sisters Now Raise Their Towering Peaks

SEVERAL million years ago when Oregon was still in the process of formation, a gigantic mountain larger and higher by far than any now in the state, stood where the Three Sisters raise their peaks more than 10,000 feet above the sea level.

This, in brief, is the story outlined by Dr. Edwin T. Hodge, professor of economic geology at the University of Oregon, in his book, "Mount Multnomah", published by the University last week.

This pre-historic mountain, Dr. Hodge further declares, existed for a million years or more only to be destroyed when an explosion which must have shaken the world blew off its top. The explosion left a crater—or caldera, as the geologists call it—more than 8 miles in diameter, this caldera can still be traced. Dr. Hodge "discovered" the mountain while making a detailed study of the Three Sisters region in the summer of 1924. He

Student Support To Be Requested By Committee

Lecturers Will Be Chosen From List if Faculty Has A. S. U. O. Aid

Financial support will be asked from the student body by the Intellectual Activities committee of the faculty at its meeting this afternoon at 5 o'clock with the executive council. The tentative selection of speakers for next year will be submitted, says Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the geology department, who is chairman of the Intellectual activities committee.

Dr. Smith will recommend at this meeting that the students give financial support to the program in case of loss. In case of gain the proceeds would go to the student body.

The following is the tentative list of names to be submitted, from which five or six lecturers will be chosen if the students co-operate with the faculty committee:

Harry Franck, vagabond traveler and author, who wrote "The Vagabond Journey Around the World".

Heywood Brown, critic and novelist.

Bertand Russel, educator, author, scientist.

Alexander Meiklejohn, former president of Amherst college, now professor of philosophy at Wisconsin.

Edward Slossen, director of Science Service.

Floyd Dell, author.

The official British Mount Everest Expedition lecture, with films taken on Mount Everest.

Lorado Taft, art critic and sculptor.

Fanny Hurst, journalist and author.

Judge Ben Lindsey, of the juvenile court of Denver.

Strawberry Social Proves Successful

The Strawberry Social held on the tennis courts last night was a success. The crowd, the profits, and the weather all played up to the date. W. A. A. sponsored the unique dance to help pay the expenses of Play Day to be held with O. A. C. this Saturday. Music furnished by the Aggravators did not go a-begging, although the three courts that had been reserved were not filled at all times. Nor did the strawberry ice cream sundaes have any difficulty in finding their way to students who had eaten a dessertless evening meal.

Dr. Warren D. Smith To Speak Friday Night

A lecture by Dr. Warren D. Smith on the "Contribution to the Geology and Economic Geography of Southeastern Oregon" in 105 Deady hall, Friday evening will follow the regular business meeting of Sigma Xi at 7:30 for the election of officers. Dr. Smith is head of the department of geology. His lecture, which will be accompanied by lantern slides, is open to the public.

Ralph Bailey Will Speak in Tri-State Meet

University of Idaho Host To Northwest School Representatives

Prize Won by Oregon Twice in Three Years

Last Year's Award Given Benoit McCroskey

OREGON'S hope of winning the last intercollegiate forensic event of the year's schedule rests with Ralph Bailey, senior in economics, who will represent the University in the annual Tri-State oratory contest, to be held at Moscow, Idaho, Saturday night, May 22.

This is the second time in three years that Bailey, four-year debater and orator, is to compete in what is considered the highest-calibre oratory contest among northwest higher educational institutions. In 1922, he was defeated by the University of Washington entrant and the University of Idaho man placed third.

Blaine Prize $100

"Heroes in the Battle of Life" is the topic which Bailey has been preparing during the past few months under the direction of J. Stanley Gray, head of the department of public speaking and varsity debate and oratory coach.

One prize of $100 is awarded the winner of first place. It is donated by E. F. Blaine of Seattle, Washington. It is in honor of this Seattle lawyer that the event is technically termed the "E. F. Blaine Northwest Oratorical Contest."

In judging the contestants, the three judges consider both content and delivery. Bailey's three copies have already been placed in the hands of Frank Wyman, debate manager of the University of Idaho, which is host this year. He has informed the Oregon public speaking department that a copy has been forwarded to each of the judges, who will have read them before hearing them presented orally.

Oregon, represented by Benoit McCroskey, sophomore in pre-law, won the Tri-State contest held at Seattle last year. Washington won first in 1924, and Claude Robinson, representing Oregon, placed second. Paul Patterson won the event in 1923.

The contest rotates each year to a different school in the triangle. Next year it will be held in Eugene with the University as host.

Women Will Contest For Archery Honors At Practice Meet

Thirty members of the archery classes will hold a practice meet today. Miss Harriet W. Thompson, professor of physical education and staff member in charge of this work, Miss Mildred Stephens, instructor in archery, and Miss Dorothy Gay, head of the sport, are the members of the committee handling the meet. Five teams, determined by their shooting percentage, are entered. This means of selection places each person in competition with others of approximately her own ability.

Although the competition is held each year, this is the first time the National Round of the National archery association has been so nearly reached. The only modification is the distance from 60 to 50 and from 50 to 40 yards. This change was made because the classes have not been able to practice the 60-yard course because of lack of space.

Lawyers and Athletes To Clash in Baseball

The worthy followers of "Sandow," "Tarzan," and "Sons of Venus" Scott, otherwise known as physical education baseball players, have challenged the law school fans to what they promise to be a wildly exciting game. The barristers have accepted the call, and today at 3:30 o'clock last year's champions of the diamond will clash with the physical eds on "Bloomer Ridge," otherwise known as Hayward field.

Hall to Take Seat First Day of Celebration

Body Outlines Program For Semi-Centennial Jubilee Week

Definite Plans Made For Alum Cooperation

Many Educators to Attend Large Banquet

THE program for the entire week of the Semi-Centennial celebration, October 18 to 23, was outlined Monday night by the general committee in conference with representatives from the Alumni association.

President Arnold Bennett Hall will be inaugurated on the first day of the celebration, Monday, October 18. One of three nationally known men will act as the installing officer. Dr. Hall will then deliver the installation address, followed by the inaugural address by the installing officer.

Monday evening distinguished educators from all parts of the United States and Canada and delegations from universities will be invited to attend a banquet.

Thursday will be given to conferences on music, art, and the laying of the corner stone of the new Fine Arts building.

Deady hall and a memorial for John Wesley Johnson, first president of the University, will be dedicated on Friday, October 22.

The committee has made the celebration a state-wide affair, which will be open to the public. The press of the state has agreed to help advertise the celebration.

At the meeting Monday night more definite plans were laid for co-operation with the Greater Oregon committee. Members of the committee will speak before the various civic, educational, and social groups in their respective towns at some time during the summer or early fall, stressing the Semi-Centennial in conjunction with Homecoming.

Press Bodies Visited

Dr. James H. Gilbert, acting dean of the college of literature, science and the arts, general chairman of the celebration, and Raymond D. Lawrence, of the school of journalism, were in Portland Saturday and arranged with representatives of the Portland papers and editors of the state to advertise the event, which, according to Dr. Gilbert, "is the greatest event in the history of the University."

Dean Eric W. Allen, of the school of journalism, chairman of the inaugural committee, and Carlton Spencer, registrar, a member of the inaugural committee, met with the general committee. Mrs. L. T. Harris, Judge E. O. Potter, and Miss Jeanette Calkins were present at the meeting as representatives of the alumni.

Freshman Picnic at Midway Friday to Be Lively Class Event

Midway will be the scene of the freshman picnic Friday from 1 p. m. until 12 p. m.

Members of the committee in charge met yesterday and formulated plans for the fun event. According to the committee, it will be "the biggest and best fun event of the entire year for the class, even rivaling the parade, library steps, and the tug of war."

Class members may take any of the street cars that will run from 1 p. m. until 5 p. m. and stay until 12 m. if they please. The committee promises a live time, lots of eat, many amusements, and a "rip roaring big dance."

The hall at Midway has a good floor, there is a park, and even if it rains, there will be plenty of room inside, according to the committee.

The committee has been asked by Audrey Jensen, vice-president of the class, in charge of the picnic, to meet in Guild hall at 4:15 today to complete the plans.

The committees named are: Audrey Jensen, chairman; Florence Somerville, Helen Johnson, and Larry Shaw, general committee; Carl Klippel, transportation; Shirley Wolman, chairman, Agnes Palmer, and Al Cousins, refreshments; Tom Montgomery, chairman, Kay Reid, Arden Ferris, Elsie Goddard, and John Wharton, entertainment; Bob Galloway, publicity.

Varsity Wins From Huskies in 10 to 9 Tilt

Eighth Inning Rally Turns Defeat into Victory For Webfooters

Washington Southpaw Knocked from Mound

Hobson Has Good Day With Seven Tries

By DICK SYRING
OVER a hundred years ago, when Napoleon was sixteen years old, he was spanked for making faces at his grandmother. Yesterday afternoon, Lefty Jones, University of Washington southpaw, received a spanking of hits in the eighth inning for no apparent reason at all, and lost the final ball game, 10 to 9, to the University of Oregon varsity nine.

Southpaw Jones pitched fairly good ball, wobbling along until the eighth inning with an apparent 6 to 5 victory. The last half of the eighth he received the surprise of his young life when the Webfooters began knocking his slants far off into the offing. At this juncture Coach "Tubby" Graves signaled him to the showers in favor of Gardner, right-hander. Gardner had a hard time retiring the side and before the third man was called out the varsity had scored six runs.

Inning Eventful

The eventful eighth inning began with Hobson at bat. He got on base through an error of Johnson, Huskie shortstop. Reinhart and Edwards both singled. Jack Bliss knocked a nice easy roller to the third baseman who was playing in towards the plate. Beckett held the ball for a second, deciding what to do and allowed Bliss to get to first. Hobson had previously scored on Edwards' bungle. With bases loaded, Adolph came to bat and came through with a nice long single. Mimnaugh, Kiminki and Baker all drove out singles, with Arnie Kiminki the last man to score.

Bill Baker, pitching for the varsity, seemed to be working in hard luck. On all occasions, with two men out, the Huskies forced in runs. Grave's men scored first in the second inning when a walk, hit and error gave them two runs. A couple of hits gave them two more in the fifth. With one man on in the sixth, Walby, Huskie catcher, knocked out a homer for two more.

Huskies Stage Rally

With the score 10 to 6 in his favor, Baker faced the Huskies at the beginning of the ninth with a determination to set them down in short order. Coach Graves began to pour in the pinch hitters only to have the ninth inning rally nipped after three men had crossed the platter.

The Oregon varsity nine looked much better than in the first contest Monday. They made 11 hits count for 10 runs and made only two errors. Jones, with two doubles, led the locals in hitting, with Adolph second with two singles. "Hobby" Hobson at second had a great day in the field, handling seven chances without a bobble. Arnie Kiminki at short looked much better than at all season, handling four assists, making five put outs and garnering two safe hits.

Double Plays Successful

The Webfoot infield succeeded in staging two double plays. In the first of the third with one down, a

Party to Be Given at Art Museum May 20

THURSDAY evening at 7:30 the Murray-Warner art museum will be the scene of an informal party of art and architecture students who will be the guests of Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Mrs. W. E. Church, and Mrs. Lucy Perkins.

The gathering will aim to get the students better acquainted with the East, its people, and what they have to offer in the line of art.

Mrs. Campbell has looked forward to such an opportunity as this for a long time and is eager for its success. Besides refreshments, there are other things which promise to make the evening very enjoyable, since Mrs. Warner has brought with her from her last trip abroad an enormous quantity of new pieces of art. Professor Walter E. Church declares that he found when last in California, that the University of Oregon was known for this museum. The attic above the museum is stacked with crates, which are still unpacked because of lack of room to display the art. Mrs. Warner's last trip abroad was devoted mostly to the collection of Japanese art and now there is one Japanese piece to every Chinese piece in the museum.

Last of Faculty Concert Series Occurs Tonight

Dr. Landsbury to Present Piano Recital in Music Auditorium

For the first time in three years, Dean John Landsbury will appear in concert before the University this evening at eight o'clock in the school of music auditorium, in an explanatory piano recital. This is the last of the series of six faculty concerts sponsored by Mu Phi Epsilon. Student admission is 35 cents, and general admission 50 cents.

Dean Landsbury will give an interpretation of each piece. The program, which is composed of classical and romantic numbers, follows: Gavotte in B Minor.....Bach Fuge in A Minor.....Bach Sonata Op. 27 No. 1.....Beethoven Allegro molto e vivace. Adagio con espressione. Allegro vivace.

Polonaise C minor.....Chopin Valse in E minor Posthumous.....Chopin Etudes Op. 10.....Chopin Number 3 in E major. Number 7 in C major. Number 12 in C major.

Concert work early claimed Dean Landsbury, but later his interests branched out and he took up the study of the problem of the adjustment of music to the University curriculum. He came here in 1914 to create the department of composition and to head the department of piano. In 1917 he was named dean of the school.

His first public recital was at the age of nine, although he began studying when he was four. He had no thought of music as a profession until about two years after graduating from high school.

After taking his first degree from Simpson college, in Iowa, he taught. He took his graduate studies at the University of Berlin, and music work under Max Bruch, Oscar Fleischer, Eisenberger, and others. After returning to Simpson, he went to Baker university at Baldwin, Kansas, to teach piano. From there he came to Oregon.

On the boat to Germany, Mr. Landsbury met one of the best-known concert singers in Germany, Frau Munchhoff, an American who spent her life in her adopted country. She gave him a letter to the pension in Berlin where he stayed at first. There he met an interesting German student, Fraulein Knuyer, who wished to know if he would like to meet Max Bruch, who lived at Friedenau, near Berlin.

Mr. Landsbury was not acquainted with the high standing of this man, who was considered the greatest German authority on composition. Consequently, when Herr Bruch asked if he would like to have him take charge of his study in Berlin, he acquiesced rather reservedly. Later, he found that he was one of six to receive the highest honor paid to a music student.

Herr Bruch gave him cards for
