11:00-12:00—Criticism of sculpturing.
12:00-1:30—Luncheon for faculty and guests.
1:30-2:30—Criticism of painting and drawing.
2:30-3:30—Criticism of normal arts.
3:00—Crafts; tiles, pottery, textiles, dress design.
3:30-4:00—Criticism of design, posters, etc.
4:00—Lecture by Allen Kafoury on the romance of the silk industry.
7:00—Banquet, Eugene Hotel.

TODAY is the day of the Critique Premiere, the first criticism to be held on the campus for the work of the department of art and architecture. For many years the school has held one or more Jury Days during the school year but these have been conducted under the competitive system.

This year for the first time in the history of the school a criticism will be held on the non-competitive basis. The entire school is governed on this system, being a pioneer in the scheme in the northwest.

Artists and Critics to Come

Today many of the outstanding artists and art critics of the state and of the Northwest will be on the campus to view and criticize the work of the students. In every room the class work of the entire year will be displayed while in the exhibiting room the best work of all that done in the entire school will be shown. Those who will probably be critics are: Mrs. Lucy Dodd Ramberg, Emil Jacques, Miss Esther Wuest, A. E. Doyle, W. G. Holford, M. H. Whitehouse, Harry Hartzog, W. G. Purcell, and probably others.

The day will be a colorful event in the history of the department as well as in the history of the University. Work will be on display that casual visitors to the department never knew the presence of and the colorful display of the work will be enhanced by the bright smocks which will be worn by the students of the school. Each department of the school will be identified by its own color. The students will wear their smocks the entire day although they will not wear them at the banquet.

Kafoury to Lecture

A tea for this afternoon was formerly planned but it was later decided that the lecture by Mr. Kafoury would take its place. This lecture will be given in the lecture room in the architecture building and townspeople and University people are invited to attend. Mr. Kafoury is a very cultured man and is a well-known authority on the silk industry. His lecture will be illustrated with colored slides and samples of rare pieces of silk which he has collected from every part of the world.

At the banquet tonight Dean Rebec, Mrs. Ramberg, Mr. Purcell, and several others will speak. To date over 100 have been registered for the banquet and the committee in charge prophesies a very successful affair.

Only Two Weeks Left To Claim Lost Articles

Have you lost something? Claim it now at the University post office, for there are only two more weeks of school. If you called for the article once and it was not there, call again, as numerous things ranging from pens to overcoats have been turned in lately. The post master is anxious to dispose of them.

Finances to Worry Juniors at 5 Today

The picnic is over, we must get down to "brass tacks." Strawberry sundaes are all right in their place, but it is necessary now that we consider the welfare of next year's senior class, rather than our appetites.

The last class meeting of the year will be held today at 5 o'clock in Villard hall. All members of the class are expected to attend. Financial affairs of the class will be discussed, particularly those in regard to the disposal of funds.

Hodge Reviews State Wonders In Publication

Illustrations Accompany Article; McKenzie Pass Is Described

An article entitled, "Oregon's Central Cascades," written by Edwin T. Hodge, professor of geology, was printed in the May issue of Oregon Business, the official publication of the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce. The central Cascade mountains, Mr. Hodge refers to as the top of the world, for he says, "Here the world is still young and in the making, and nature is still engaged in building high volcanic mountains."

The North Sister, Little Brother, Husband, the Sphinx, the Wife, Devil's hill, and Broken Top are the remains, Mr. Hodge explains, of Oregon's greatest prehistoric mountain, Mt. Multnomah. Within the center of this ancient caldera have been formed the Middle and South Sisters.

Mr. Hodge has recently written a book about this same mountain entitled, "Mt. Multnomah." It has already been reviewed by a large number of Oregon newspapers.

Other natural wonders described by Mr. Hodge in his article are the two glacial fields on Mount Jefferson and on the Three Sisters which differ from many others because they are located in a balmy climate. On Jefferson is the largest glacier in the state of Oregon, and in the Three Sisters area alone there are seventeen glaciers. Mr. Hodge also speaks of the McKenzie lava field through which the McKenzie highway passes, and the view which is to be had from the highway of the crater out of which the lava flow came.

Mr. Hodge names the high mountain lakes as another asset of this "Friendly Playground" which brings many tourists and visitors to enjoy its natural wonders both in summer and in winter and to take part in the swimming, canoeing, and fishing which it affords.

The article is accompanied by a number of pictures which were taken by Mr. Hodge.

Junior Women Win Hockey Game 6 to 0

The junior girls won a hockey contest 6 to 0 from the sophomores yesterday afternoon, after much slipping and sliding about a rain-soaked field. The half ended with a score 4 to 0. This game puts the juniors in line for a championship tilt with the seniors. The last year women have won all their games except for a tie with the juniors. The juniors are in the same situation, having won all their other games except the tie with the seniors. The time for playing off the tie has not been decided upon as yet.

Miss Yocum Elected Sigma Delta Pi Head

Josephine Yocum was elected president of Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honorary fraternity, at the last meeting of the year held Tuesday evening at the Y. W. C. A. bungalow. Glenn Howard was elected vice-president, LaVerne Pearson, secretary, and Kenneth Martin, treasurer.

Plans for the coming year were discussed by the group. Retiring officers are: Maxine Lamb, president, and Hulda Guild, secretary-treasurer.

Doctor Spaeth Will Deliver '26 Address

H. D. Sheldon to Preside At Commencement Exercises

Committee Arranges Graduation Program

Class of 1901 And 1916 Will Hold Reunion

Dr. J. DUNCAN SPAETH, professor of English at Princeton university, will deliver the commencement address this year for the class of '26. His exact topic has not, as yet, been announced. Dr. H. D. Sheldon, chairman of the administrative committee, will preside at the commencement exercises and will confer the degrees.

The main details for the commencement program were arranged Tuesday afternoon by the commencement committee, consisting of Dean John Straub, Dr. James H. Gilbert, Professor Frederic S. Dunn, John Stark Evans, Miss Maude Kerns, and Karl W. Onthank.

Program Completed

In general the program will be the same as last year. The commencement play, Shaw's "You Never Can Tell," will be given at the Heilig theatre in matinee and evening performances on Friday, June 11.

The program for alumni day is the same as last year except that the traditional president's reception will be modified into a University reception to alumni and the graduating class.

The special reunion classes this year are the classes of 1901 and 1916. They will have dinners on Saturday evening, to be followed by the Flower and Fern procession, the Twilight concert, and the Failing and Beckman orations, judges for which will be announced later. Dean Straub will preside at the oratory contest.

Luncheon to be Given

The graduating class, the special reunion classes, and alumni, will be represented at the University luncheon. The speakers for this have not yet been selected. F. H. Young, '14, president of the Alumni association, will preside.

Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday morning, June 13, at the First Methodist church. The University choir, consisting of the Men's and Women's Glee clubs, will sing.

Sunday evening, the commencement concert of the school of music will be given in the school of music auditorium.

Exercises Monday, June 14

Monday morning, June 14, at ten o'clock, the formal commencement exercises will be held in the Women's building. The class of 475 students will be awarded degrees. This is the largest class in the history of the University. The Ph.D. degree will be granted for the first time in geology.

John Stark Evans, professor in the school of music, will have charge of the commencement music, and Rex Underwood, professor of music, will have charge of the orchestra which contributes music to a number of the events, particularly to the commencement exercises.

R.O.T.C. Uniforms Are To be Turned in Friday

Friday will be the last day of the term for the Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

Beginning at 8 o'clock today and extending until noon Saturday, the uniforms will be received at the issue window at the barracks. Next week, uniforms will be received from 8 o'clock Monday morning until 4 o'clock Wednesday.

SENIORS ATTENTION

All seniors are urged to meet by the senior bench at 11:00 a. m. today. Class picture will be taken at this time.

Tickets for the commencement play "You Never Can Tell" will be sold at reduced prices to seniors. Get them at the Co-Op during-exam week. Seniors may obtain all the tickets they desire at the special price of 25 cents.

Rules Fixed For Ode and Song Contest

Subject of Manuscripts Will be Birthday Jubilee

Both to be Features of Fiftieth Anniversary

Deadlines For Entries Are July 10, Sept. 1

RULES for the semi-centennial ode and birthday song contest were announced by the committee in charge yesterday. The words for the song must be in by July 10 and the words for the ode are due September 1. Students and faculty members are urged to take an interest in this contest and turn in their contributions. The ode will be in honor of the University and will be a commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of that institution. The song will be used as a part of the program of the semi-centennial celebration next autumn. The rules are as follows:

Ode Ode Contest

1. All students, alumni, and members of the faculty of the University are invited to share in the contest for a suitable ode commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the University of Oregon. The chosen ode will be made a special feature of the Semi-Centennial celebration, October 18-23.

100 Lines Suggested Length

2. Any theme relative to the occasion may be used as subject matter, the metrical form being left to the judgment of the writer. A maximum length of 100 lines is suggested by the committee as desirable, though this may be slightly exceeded if necessary.

3. Manuscripts should be typewritten, and submitted under a pen name, or assumed name, in order that the decision of the judges may be made without knowledge of writer's identity. A sealed envelope, with pen name printed outside, and containing name and address of author, should be enclosed.

Contest closes September first.

Ode Will Be Printed

5. The winning ode, in addition to being read at the Semi-Centennial Jubilee, will be printed separately by the University Press. Some other distinction, not yet decided, will be awarded to the author.

6. Manuscripts should be sent to the chairman of the committee named below.

Further information may be obtained from any member of the committee.

Rules for the Birthday Song

1. Words for a song, which may be set to music and sung by the assembled company on Oregon's fiftieth birthday celebration, are also desired. Students are especially invited to participate in this contest.

2. The main requisites here are that offerings be singable, and appropriate. Three or four stanzas with refrain would be a good length.

3. The same rule as to manuscripts will be followed in both contests.

4. Song contest closes July 10.

5. Manuscripts for both contests should be sent in at the earliest possible date.

ALICE HENSON ERNST, Chairman.

W. F. G. THACHER, RALPH D. CASEY.

Next Year's Officers For Mu Phi Installed

Next year's officers of Mu Phi Epsilon, honorary music society, were installed at the Music building Sunday afternoon, May 13. They were: president, Mrs. A. E. Roberts; vice-president, Nina Warnock; recording secretary, Celeste Campbell; corresponding secretary, Olga Jackson; alumni secretary, Clare Whitton; treasurer, Grace Potter; assistant treasurer, Mary Benson; warden, Wanda Eastwood; chorister, Mrs. Prudence Clark; assistant chorister, Adelaide Johnson; historian, Mrs. Emma Scougall; chaplain, Lois Everson.

Harriett Baldwin spoke upon the "Trend of Modern Music" and Mrs. A. E. Roberts upon "Russian Music."

Council O. K.'s Report; Faculty Takes Action

Committees Appointed For Further Work

Suggestions to be Used Following Faculty Consideration

By JANE DUDLEY

Action on the student report investigating intellectual activity on the campus was taken last night at the faculty Colloquium, when various committees were appointed to investigate further the suggestions made by the students.

On the motion of Prof. H. C. Howe of the English department, acting on the suggestion of Dean Eric W. Allen of the journalism department, it was decided that the chairman appoint a committee to collect data and draft plans for the better handling of freshmen in September, which will report to the Colloquium in the fall. Prof. James D. Farnett, of the political science department, and Dean George Rebec of the graduate school were originators of the motion to put in the hands of the academic requirements committee the investigation of possible devices of securing uniform value of credit, and the consideration of the matter of the weighing of grades; also to report to the Colloquium in the fall. Dean Rebec moved besides that the administration committee to encourage special students, of which he is chairman, report on its findings, to the Colloquium as well as to the administration.

Suggestions Endorsed

Appreciation of the student suggestion that the University needs more money, more professors, and better instructors was expressed by Dean H. D. Sheldon of the school of education, and Prof. Walter Barnes of the history department, both agreeing that, with the present limited staff, action on the "freshman college" could not be taken immediately.

Discussion on the question of freshman majors, electives, and registration took up some time, resulting in the appointment of an investigating committee. Prof. H. A. R. Taylor of the psychology department presented in his report that grade points are a better measure than grade averages, and that if the first two terms of college were evaluated with a psychology test, the students unfit for university work could be determined upon.

Intellectual Life Noted

The belief that the faculty underestimates the intellectual activity on the campus was expressed by Prof. Warren D. Smith, of the geology department, in his report of his investigations along that line. Professor Smith declared that there are numerous discussion groups on the campus and many student clubs that he had attended, all of which testified to the intellectual activity of students, of which faculty members seem to be unaware.

Appreciation of the student report was expressed throughout the Colloquium and interest in the suggestions made by the students was shown in the appointing of Colloquium committees to investigate the subjects further.

Lively Name Wanted For New Publication

The name for the new campus magazine will be chosen from those submitted today from 8 till 12 o'clock. A box will be placed on the library steps for the purpose. The editorial board promises plenty of publicity and a year's subscription to the winner.

The board hopes the campus will be interested in the new publication and submit a real live wire name. "Lemon Punch" and "Webfoot" have been suggested as names.

Soldiers to Be Aided by Poppy Sale on Campus

Women's Organizations Subscribe to Drive 100 Percent

"In Flanders fields the poppies blow Between the crosses, row on row That mark our place—"

Today the University of Oregon pays tribute to the 2034 Oregon men and women who participated in the World War and especially to the 47 men who died in action and in camps and cantonments on this side of the water. Some were mentioned in the dispatches of allied generals for extraordinary heroism in battle. Some died as high officers in command of many men. Others died as privates, doing well some humble task.

Last night every woman's house on the campus went over 100 per cent in buying the silk poppies, made by soldiers in French and American hospitals. So far the only men's house to pledge their entire support is Phi Gamma Delta. Today the sale will be made a campus affair, and students can buy the poppies at the booth in front of the library from 9 to 4 o'clock. The proceeds of the sale, will go toward paying the soldiers for their labor and to help needy families of disabled war veterans, according to Bernice Rasor, chairman of the drive.

Of the 1394 men furnished to active service in the Army, the Navy and the Marine corps, more than 60 per cent rose above the rank of private and 40 per cent actually became commissioned officers.

Fifteen Oregon men were decorated or cited for exceptional bravery in action, receiving the Croix de Guerre of both France and Belgium, the Distinguished Service Cross, the Victory Cross and the

Last Formal Parade Of R.O.T.C. Passes In Regimental Review

In the last formal parade of the season, the University R.O.T.C. cadets passed in regimental review before Colonel Sinclair, Karl Onthank, Dean Sheldon, L. H. Johnson, and the cadet officers, late yesterday afternoon. Governor Pierce, who was to have reviewed the cadets, failed to arrive in time for the parade.

During the ceremony, Colonel Sinclair presented this term's student officers with their cadet commissions.

Kenneth Wadleigh, of the cadet officer staff, read a statement of appreciation of the efforts put forth by the entire R.O.T.C. personnel this year, which was signed by Colonel Sinclair and Captain Frank L. Culin, Jr.

The cadets were congratulated on their efforts in making the year's work a success and hopes were extended for the success of the corps next year.

Men Students Show Increase in Salary

Each year's report of the University Y. M. C. A. employment bureau since Mrs. Charlotte Donnelly took charge of it six years ago has shown a greater volume of business transacted and a corresponding increase in student service over the preceding year. Last year University men earned a total of $39,350, and this year the amount has increased to $41,134.

During the fall term, 129 regularly employed men earned $13,003; and odd jobs brought approximately $3,000; the winter term showed the balance earned by 119 regular jobs to be $12,486, and odd jobs, $900; and the spring term with reports not complete, shows the men in regular jobs have earned $10,763, and odd jobs about $1000.

There were 31 foreign students employed in the fall term, 28 in the winter term, and 25 in the spring term, who earned a total of about $11,000 for the entire year.

Activities Not Burden, Says Council Body

Spread of Appointments is Stressed Over Suppression

Recommendation For Frosh Lectures Made

New Card File System to Be Inaugurated

TOO much emphasis has been put upon the idea of over-organization and over duplication of student activities at the University of Oregon, according to a report made at the meeting of the student council yesterday afternoon by Ellen McClellan, chairman of a student committee to investigate the matter.

The committee, composed of the chairman, Anna DeWitt, Lowell Baker, Floyd McKelton and Paul Ager, found that in reality there is not over activity on the part of most of the student body, that there are only a few cases where one student is taking part in more activities than is thought advisable by the committee.

Duplication Infrequent

Emphasis, the committee reports, should be put upon better distribution of appointments rather than suppression of activities.

Recognized student activities in the student report are: Associated Student Activities and committees including the Executive council, and the Student council; athletics, Women's League, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Orchestra, Glee Clubs, Debate, Oregon and Emerald. Of these activities it was found that duplication in confined to certain few students, and attention was called to the fact that seniors, in the recent student questionnaire seemed to imply that they were not sorry they had spent time in student activities.

The original agitation concerning over-organization of honoraries and duplication of membership in them is recalled for, the committee reports, for, as shown by charts and by the fact that most of the time is spent in general student body activities as listed and also, that honoraries die as their value to members decreases, ten having died within the last year.

Honoraries Thought Valuable

The value of honoraries and activities is divided into two parts by the report. First, they are a means of creating campus contact that is necessary to school spirit as the campus grows larger; second, they are a stimulus to better scholarship until membership is obtained, anyway.

The report did recommend, however, that the Student council should be more stringent in granting life to newly organized groups and that such a rule should be enforced on the campus more than it has ever been before.

Further recommendation was made that a program of education for the freshmen concerning activities should be organized which should include aid in helping the freshmen in the choice of an activity in which they are interested and from which they will reap personal benefit and development.

Frosh Aid Suggested

Again, the committee suggested that freshmen should be warned against entering indiscriminately into too many activities to the detriment of other things of equal or more importance, such as studies, health, and attainment of a general cultural background. The avenues for freshmen education as suggested

Lockley Will Address Campus High Seniors

The senior class at University high school have chosen as their commencement speaker, Fred Lockley, special writer on the Oregon Journal, Portland. His subject has not been announced.

Commencement exercises will be held in the music building June 11.
